MARK TRAIL
ONE AFTERNOON WARDEN FRANKLIN CAUGHT ME AND MY DOGS IN THE LOCUST THICKET...
...WHEN HE CHASED ME HE FELL AND ONE OF MY DOGS ATTACKED HIM...
THE DOG DIDN'T ACTUALLY KILL HIM...I THINK FRANKLIN DIED OF A HEART ATTACK... I WAS SCARED AND I ERASED MY DOG'S TRACKS SO THE BLAME WOULD BE PUT ON ANDY!
I DID SOME POACHING, YOUR HONOR, BUT I'D NEVER HAVE HURT WARDEN FRANKLIN!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Abundant opportunity, advantageous avenues for your innate skill and capability. Don't spoil your chance for advancement by being too smug or opinionated. Listen!

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Diplomacy and firmness should implement each other. This can be a gainful, constructive period, and especially for all who use well their innate capability and know-how.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Heed Scorpio-your influences similar now. Family affairs can be pleasant, cooperation with proper outside interests gainful. Seek, strive, and January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Get after essential tasks first and you should find your program clicking satisfactorily, gains at end of day, week. Don't worry if returns aren't showy, benefits are there.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—New interests of value likely, and you can count on returns for earnest and intelligent effort. Industry, trades, manufacturing, engineering, medicine all useful lines newly sponsored.

YOU BORN TODAY are staunch, dependable, highly talented, capable with strong leanings toward the artistic or scientific fields. Can lead ably or work with and for others earnestly, conscientiously. Ingenious at planning ahead and intuitive for strategy, tactics. Courteous; make able instructor, teacher. Retentive memory, agreeable personality, capable of gathering much knowledge and can apply it usefully, gainfully if living true to your finer characteristics. Prayer, good companions always an aid. Birthdate: Sam'l Pepys, Eng. diarist; Handel, famed Eng. composer; Victor Fleming, Motion picture director.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop started to reed the paper after dinner, and ma said, There was a very intristing lecture at the Current Events and Bridge Club this afternoon. That's why I'm sitting here without having terned on the television set, she said.

Your train of thought is very intrigging, but I dont quite follow it, pop said, and ma said, That's because you haven't heard the subject of the lecture yet. This professer from the University talked about how social conversation is rapidly joining letter writing amung the lost arts, and how television is the most gilty contributing facter, she said.

By gollies he's got a point there, pop said, and ma said, Well, I dont see any reason why we should be slaves to the trend of the times, William. So put down your paper and we'll have a good old fashion talk, she said.

It's down, pop said, and ma said, What shall we talk about?

Let's discuss the crime of the century, pop said, and ma said, How do you meen, William?

We'll talk about the merder of the art of conversation by television, pop said, and ma said, What a clever idea, William. And while we're on the subject I want to tell you about the impossibly far fetched play they had on the Drug Hour yesterday, she said.

Yee gods, you're slipping alreddy, pop said, and ma said, Of all the abserdly rediculiss plots. It seems this salesgerl in a 5 and 10 cent store was the unconscious airess to 7 million dollers left to her by a multy millionair because she once shared a peenut butter sanwitch during her luntch hour, ma said.

I'm reeding my paper again, pop said.

Which he was, and ma terned on the teevee as usual.

BOAC has alrea applied for permission to buy American Douglas DC-7C planes and is awaiting a decision.

VEILS OFF FOR PHOTOS

CAPETOWN, South Africa (AP) The spiritual leader of Capetown's Malay community agreed Monday to permit Moslem women to remove their veils to be photographed for the national population register, now being compiled. But he said he hoped the photographers would be women. About a quarter of Capetown's Malay women wear the veil.

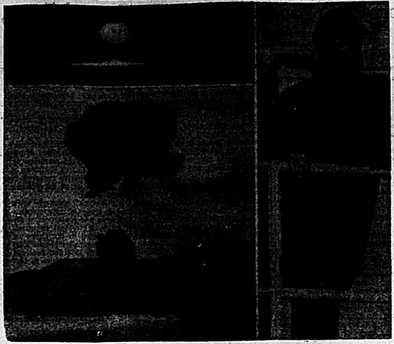
BABY ATOM BOMB TESTED BY U.S.



Taken seconds after a U.S bomber from the Kirtland Air Force base in New Mexico had dropped a small atom bomb on the Nevada desert, these photos show, top left, a fireball flashing through low-hanging clouds resembling a miniature sunrise, and, bottom, the nuclear cloud forming from the fireball while the stem is falling. The cloud was soon dispersed by a 90-mile-an-hour wind which swept Yucca Flat as the Atomic Energy commisison launched its 1955 series of nuclear weapons tests. These pictures were taken from 9,000-foot Angel's Peak, 55 miles from the proving ground. At right, Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the AEC, wearing protective goggles, watches the nuclear detonation from control balcony overlooking Yucca Flat. (Central Press Canadian).

NEW AUTOMATIC FOR BRITISH ARMY

The Sterling sub-machine gun has been adopted by the British army as a supplementary weapon to the Begian FN rifle. Top, 12-year-old Sea Cadet Barry Spraggon holds the gun to illustrate its ease in handling even for a small boy. Above the gun is stripped, showing magazine and bayonet attachment. The new gun fires approximately 575 rounds a minute and is reported to be acurate as a killing weapon up to 200 yards. It weighs six pounds. (Central Press Canadian).

THREE-WHEELED AUTO ON DISPLAY

This revolutionary new three-wheeled tri-car is on display at the Universal Travel and Auto sports show in New York. The little three-passenger car has many unusual features. It's powered with an 88-cubic-inch two-cylinder aircraft engine and the body consists of fibrous glass impregnated with polylite, which is a synthetic resin. The 30-horsepower vehicle weighs only 1,200 pounds and has a top speed of 65 miles per hour. It sells for slightly less than a thousand dollars. (Central Press Canadian).

FIREWORKS KILL 12

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Twelve persons were killed Monday in a fireworks explosion. Nine of the victims were children under 10 years of age.

BEAUTY QUEEN AT 94

HOLYOKE, Mass. (AP)—A 94-year-old woman Monday was named beauty queen of the Golden Age Club of the Holyoke Young Women's Christian Association. The selection was made by the Holyoke Hair Dressers and Cosmetologists Association. Mrs. Mary Wing was presented a large cake and a corsage and was given a special beauty treatment.

Po'io Vaccine Will Be Tried In Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has committed up to $375,000 of national health grant funds for trials of Salk polio vaccine in Canada this year. The amount is to be matched by the provinces.

Health Minister Martin gave this information in a return tabled Monday in the Commons for Dr. W. H. McMillan (L—Welland) who asked what the health department is doing to ensure supplies of the preventive vaccine for use by the provinces. The return said sufficient supplies will be available.

The United States carried out Salk vaccine trials among 500,000 American children last year. Results are not expected until late March. Similar trials were conducted in Alberta and in Halifax. Half the children were given the vaccine, the other half a neutral solution for comparison purposes.

The Salk vaccine for Canadian use was manufactured by the Connaught medical research laboratories in Toronto, which also produced about 90 per cent of the polio virus used in the U.S. vaccine. The laboratories now are retesting the vaccine for safety before its release to the provinces.

Present plans are for each province to receive a proportionate share of the vaccine. Provincial health departments are to arrange their own trials.

Design Work On Atomic Power Plant to Start

OTTAWA (CP)—Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., has earmarked $1,403,500 during the next year for design work on a small experimental atomic power plant to produce electricity.

This was disclosed in the capital budget of the crown company tabled Monday in the Commons by Trade Minister Howe, who reports to Parliament for AECL.

The government's decision to start work on a pilot plant to produce electricity by atomic power was announced in AECL's annual report last month. It said designing of the reactor will start this spring "with a view to the completion of construction early in 1958."

The government hopes industry will take an active part in construction of the plant. Industry will be expected to bear part of the cost but the bulk of the money is to come from the government.

Negotiations At Chrysler Reach Critical Stage

WINDSOR (CP) — Negotiations at the Chrysler Corporation of Canada entered the critical stage today, under the threat of a strike of 7,500 production workers set for Wednesday morning.

In spite of the strict silence maintained by both company and union, a union spokesman admitted the talks had reached the stage where "they could go either way," but he declined to say what if any progress had been made in past negotiations.

Both negotiating teams were scheduled to meet at 8 a. m. EST today, before the union delegates left to address the stewards of the Chrysler unit of Local 195, United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL).

George Burt, Canadian director of the UAW, said the negotiators will meet with the governing body of the Chrysler union to discuss the situation with them.

AFTER LUNCH

He said company and union had arranged to come together again after lunch to continue discussions. All the negotiations to date have been held in company offices in one of the plants.

The workers, whose average wage is now $1.71 an hour, are asking for a 15-cent hourly wage boost, company-paid medical and hospital plans and more paid holidays.

Non-monetary demands include revision of seniority clauses, changed procedures in job transfer and job posting practices, inauguration of a new apprenticeship program and a reduced probationary period for new employees.

No company offer has officially been made public, but it was reported the membership meeting 10 days ago rejected a company proposal offering three cents an hour wage increase plus what a union official described as "several very trivial items."

EGGLETON MISSION BAND

The regular monthly meeting of Eggleton Mission Band was held Friday afternoon at the school house.

The president Norma Woodcox, presided over a program prepared by Shirley Prest, and Sharon Reide. Miss Marlene Armstrong presided at the piano.

The worship period was conducted by Bob Clarke reading the Scripture, 23rd Psalm.

Each member answered the roll call by repeating first two commandments. Lois Danford took up the offering.

A trio by Norma Woodcox, Joyce Madill and Annamae Clarke "Do You Know?" was greatly appreciated.

Archie Madill and Norma Woodcox were appointed to prepare the program for the March meeting.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy gave the 2nd and 3rd chapter "A Friend for the Village" and "The New Church", from the study book "The Fig Tree Village."

Paul Bridges gave a reading "Glynnis Meets Mr. Groundhog."

Refreshments were served by the lunch conveners, Sharon Ride and Marilyn Stapley.

CROKINOLE PARTY

On Friday evening, a successful crokinole party and box social sponsored by Eggleton W.A. was held at the school house.

After a number of games of greatlyaaelstfi.. crokinole prizes were awarded as follows: ladies' high, Mrs. George Jervis; low, Miss Marlene Madill; men's high, Tom Bridges; low, Miss Marilyn Reid (playing as a man).

Mr. Maurice Clancy acted as auctioneer for sale of the boxes which were all attractively decorated.

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmer so that they feel more comfortable. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug counter.

Try to Determine Cause of Blast At Long Branch

TORONTO (CP) — Investigators of the Ontario fire marshal's office probed the ruins of a suburban Long Branch restaurant today seeking the cause of a devastating explosion that injured eight persons, one severely.

Masonry and heavy timbers were scattered for hundreds of yards in the aftermath of the blast which levelled the Silver Star restaurant at 30th street, and Lake Shore road. Pieces of furniture tossed on to the rooftops of nearby buildings and more than a dozen store windows were broken or cracked.

There was no official word as to the cause of the explosion but firemen said it was probably gas which apparently backed up in the restaurant's stove. The building was heated by a coal furnace.

WERE ASLEEP

The Antonio Pylypiw family, owners of the restaurant, were asleep in an apartment above the restaurant were hurled from their beds into the debris below.

Long Branch chief constable Robert Smythe estimated damage at $250,000.

Taken to hospital were Antonio Pylypiw, 34, his wife, Rita, 31, and their children, David, 7, Mary, 5, and Tommy, 3, and a relative, Mrs. Katherine Miller, 67.

David, who suffered a fractured skull, was the most seriously injured. Hospital authorities described his condition as fair. Conditions of the others were reported satisfactory.

SET DATE FOR HEARING

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The federal court Monday scheduled a hearing March 10 in the divorce suit filed last week by Porfirio Rubirosa against Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton. A lawyer for the Dominican playboy-diplomat said Miss Hutton failed to advise the court of her address as required by law if she intended to contest the suit. Rubirosa and Miss Hutton were married in New York Dec. 30, 1953.

CAMPBELLFORD

Council Increases Assessment And Sets Rate at 36.5 Mills

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford Town Council set the mill rate here on Thursday night at 36.5 mills for public school supporters and 36.3 for separate school ratepayers.

Comparisons have been difficult to ascertain since this year's levy is based on the new equalized assessment figures while the 1954 levy was made on the old assessment. The old assessment, however, is still to be used for high school purposes.

The 1954 rate was 70 mills. On this rate, the corporation based a total budget of $130,000 on the general levy. The total budget being raised on the general levy this year is $125,600, a decrease of $4,400 equal to 1.5 mills on the new assessment.

The new equalized assessment for total rate payable property is $3,504,500. The old assessment for total rateable property was $1,771,150.

During the special meeting at which the mill rate was set, Roy Loucks of the Northumberland High School Area Board, brought in a requisition for $18,380, which was the amount previously upheld by council as being correct. This amount will be raised using the old equalized assessment as basis for the levy. The board had originally requested a grant of $27,041.

DEMANDS INCREASE

Last year the board was granted $11,000. Altogether, demands of the board throughout the north east Northumberland area have increased about $20,000, with salaries and transportations accounting for an increase of approximately $14,000.

Campbellford originally was asked to contribute 47.2 per cent of the total budget set by the board, which this year is around $57,000. They will, however, contribute about 30 per cent, under present arrangements.

A breakdown of the mill rate is as follows:

Total public school expenses, including debenture — 87.2 mills.

St. Mary's Separate School — 8.52 mills; High School area Board — 5.98 mills; Debentures, not including schools — 3.61 mills; Country rate — 4 mills; public library — .81 mills; Campbellford Memorial Hospital, maintenance only — 1.3 mills; relief and charity — .75 mills; general town rate — 10.74 mills.

Total municipal expenditures will be in the neighborhood of a quarter million dollars this year. Of this amount, an estimated $125,600 will be raised on the general levy. Grants from various sources will total about $106,600, of which approximately $79,000 will be educational grants. General revenue is expected to contribute $2,700.

During the meeting, the mayor and members of council expressed appreciation to clerk-treasurer Eldon M. Ibey for the manner in which the correct proportion of the high school Board grant was ascertained, and also for the efficient manner in which the budget was prepared. They feel it was mainly due to his efforts, that a saving of close to $10,000 was realized on the school board grant.

Pair to Face Forgery Charges

WINNIPEG (CP)—Gerald Lloyd Medland, 23, and Mrs. Evelyn Lindal, 23, arrived in Winnipeg from the United States unescorted and of their own free will Monday night to face charges of forgery, uttering and theft of a cheque for $27,786.

Bail was set at $3,000 for each.

Magistrate Fred E. Law read a charge of theft from an employer to Mrs. Lindal, while a charge of forgery and uttering was read to Medland.

The charges arose out of the alleged theft of a cheque for $27,786 from a prominent Winnipeg law firm Jan. 31 where Mrs. Lindal worked.

Medland and Mrs. Lindal were arrested at Fort Worth, Texas, and then released from jail on their own recognizance. They returned to Winnipeg in Medland's car.

10,000 Scouts Will Gather For World Jamboree

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP)—A camp site used by General Isaac Brock in the War of 1812 will ring this summer with the shouts of 10,000 young invaders from many lands.

A 10-day gathering of Boy Scouts from 57 nations is to be opened here Aug. 18.

It will be the eighth such meeting, or jamboree as it is known among scouts, to be held since the movement was founded in Britain nearly 50 years ago and the first to be held on this continent.

Named "New Horizons," the jamboree will cover one square mile of rolling parkland with old Fort George as a backdrop.

About 2,000 boys from Britain and Scandinavia have chartered a Norwegian ship to travel to the meet. Scouts from India will be away from home five months.

14 OR MORE

Canadian participants will number 3,500. They all will hold the first-class badge and be 14 years of age or more.

The fee for each scout will be $30. He will receive 31 meals, trips to Niagara Falls and other points, accident and sickness insurance and medical care during his stay.

The jamboree will be held in 10 camps and the boys will cook over open campfires. Each national group will bring its own camping equipment.

Provisions for the jamboree will include 20 tons of meat, 150,000 loaves of bread. 140,000 quarts of milk, 250 tons of potatoes, 40,000 pies, 45,000 hot dogs, 176,000 jars of jams and marmalade, 10,000 bottles of pickles and 400,000 pieces of cake.

Canadian postal officials have announced a stamp is to be issued in August to mark the jamboree.

CHECK SHIP WITH TV

LE HAVRE, France (Reuters)—Experts are studying plans to equip the French liner Liberte with a combination of radar and television which will greatly simplify the operation of bringing the ship into port. Ship's officers will watch the Liberte sliding into her berth on a large TV screen.

Whooping Cranes Lose Another Round With Man and Nature

By DION HENDERSON

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP)—The whooping cranes have lost another round in their contest with man and nature.

Three of the 24 surviving whoopers who beat their way from the Texas gulf coast toward the Arctic last spring failed to return to the wintering grounds. And for the first time since 1937 when the Arkansas national wildlife refuge was set up in Texas to protect them, no young birds were in the remnant flock.

Federal officials have just given up hope of finding the three missing birds, whose loss is a major blow to hopes of bringing back the bugle-voiced giants whose seven-foot wings carry them along at heights beyond range of the eye—sometimes.

WELL KNOWN

It is the times they don't that hurt. Millions of hunters know the big white cranes with the red-crowned heads and black-tipped wing feathers. But only three needed to make mistakes last fall, if that is what happened.

Julian A. Howard, manager of Akansas, a 47,000-acre refuge some 75 miles north of Corpus Christi, says that no trace of the missing trio can be found there.

He adds, "tremendous interest has been exhibited by state game departments, audubon societies, conservation groups and individuals throughout the flyway, and we are sure that if these three birds were lingering somewhere along the way they would have been discovered by now."

Making certain the trio was not at Akansas was a project in itself. Extremely wary and suspicious, the birds are watched from platforms atop 20-foot poles, where observers with binoculars can see to the area covered by the next tower. When teams are in the field, contact is maintained by radio so there is no duplication.

The drop in the flock count returns the Arkansas population to the 1952 level, close to the low point of the last decade. There were only 18 whoopers on or near the refuge in the winter of 1938-39, and despite the first protective efforts the number sagged to the record low of 15 in 1941-42.

Then the buildup began, until 34 birds were counted in 1949-50. During that period, the flock brought back an average of four young birds each year from the mysterious summer nesting grounds somewhere in Canada's Northwest Territories.

The whoopers never were very numerous, Howard says, because each family needs a considerable area for its operations. At Arkansas, the pairs take over nearly a square mile each, and defend it bitterly.

Their original travels ranged from the Arctic coast to central Mexico, and from Utah to South Carolina. However, Arkansas has had the only wintering birds for many years. In Canada, only one of the nesting sites has been located, and that only a year or so ago, near Wood Buffalo National Park in the Northwest Territories.

The flight pattern of these recent years has been constant, taking the birds across Texas, central Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota and northwesterly across Saskatchewan. The spring flight north starts in mid-April, the return in October—just about the time of waterfowl hunting seasons, when most of the known losses have occurred.

Queen's Prof., Research Expert, Dies in Montreal

KINGSTON (CP) — Dr. G. B. Reed, 66, a professor at Queen's University for 40 years and one of Canada's best-known medical research scientists, died today in Montreal.

Dr. Reed suffered a stroke in Montreal a week ago while on a business trip.

The doctor retired last year as head of the department of bacteriology, faculty of medicine at the university. He was chairman of the Dominion fisheries research board and a member of the defence research board.

His medical research work included study of tuberculosis, gas gangrene and rinderpest, a disease of cattle in tropical countries. He was apointed to the Order of the British Empire for his work on gas gangrene in 1942 and received the U. S. Medal with palm in 1947 for work on rinderpest.

He was elected head of the royal society of Canada in 1952.

Dr. Reed is survived by his widow and one brother, Rev. Clinton Reed of Lindsay, Ont.

Zhukov Declares U.S. Monopolists Preparing War

First Speech Is Delivered By Eisenhower's 'Friend'

MOSCOW (AP)—Marshal Georgi Zhukov, Russia's new defence minister, today accused "United States monopolists" of "preparing openly a new war" against Russia, Red China and their allies. He made the charge in an order of the day for Soviet Army and Navy Day.

Zhukov, wartime friend of President Eisenhower, said the American "monopolists" head "aggressive forces in imperialist countries" who are "setting up political groups and military blocs and exerting every effort to resurrect German militarism."

He declared that today's Russian Army and Navy Day celebration is being held in an "atmosphere of successful struggle for fulfilment and over-fulfilment of the fifth five-year plan, further powerful development of heavy industry as the basis of the upsurge of all branches of the national economy, and of the consolidation of the might of the Soviet state and the growth and well being of our people."

IN LINE

His emphasis on heavy industry was in line with recent speeches by other leading government officials and newspaper editorials.

Zhukov set the pace for the Army and Navy Day celebration in a speech to notables of the Communist party, government and armed forces Tuesday night at the Bolshoi theatre. It was his first speech since assuming the defence ministry and was studied closely by Western observers for its bearing on future Soviet military policy.

Among those attending were Premier Nikolai Bulganin; the Communist party chief, Nikita Khrushchev; and Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky, chief of the Soviet general staff.

Zhukov charged "aggressive circles in the United States" with "carrying out active preparations for war and preaching it from every pulpit." In contrast, "the Soviet people is a peace-loving people, but it knows its strength. . . It is not threatening anybody with it. However, if aggressors should attack our country and force the Soviet people to take up arms, then let them blame themselves."

MARSHAL'S COMMENT

Sokolovsky, writing in the government newspaper Izvestia, says the U.S., Britain and other Western countries would like to restore capitalism in Russia and other Communist countries.

"Having adopted a course for preparation of a new world war and above all a war against countries of the Socialist camp, United States imperialists and their partners invariably reject all peaceful proposals by the Soviet government and carry on an impudent policy of provocations and threats."

Sokolovsky declares that the strength of the Soviet armed forces, equipped with all sorts of modern weapons, is growing every year. He stresses the surprise element in war, increased by modern weapons of huge destructive power.

Belleville OPP Officer Charged With Extortion

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial police Constable Frank A. Pennylegion, 24, was arrested Tuesday on a charge of attempted extortion of $100 from a Toronto woman.

The Ontario provincial police immediately announced suspension of Pennylegion, who has served for two years with the force. He was attached to the Belleville unit and also has served at Kingston.

Police said Shirley England, 25, told them she met Pennylegion in a Jarvis street cocktail bar and he asked her "how much it was worth to me not to be locked up."

Mrs. England said she told him it was worth $100 but didn't have that much money with her.

She said she arranged a meeting place for later to pay the money and then called police.

Pennylegion is single and lives in Belleville.

British Army Will Gear Itself To Atomic Age

LONDON (AP) — The British Army today announced plans to transform itself into a more flexible force geared to use nuclear weapons and able to avoid destruction by an enemy's atomic and hydrogen bombs.

High officers foresaw that in a future major war all army equipment will have to be either self-contained, with its crew protected by armor, or capable of being dug in easily and quickly. They denied that nuclear weapons made land forces obsolete.

War Secretary Antony Head introduced a white paper in Parliament with the army estimates for the fiscal year beginning April 1. Like the navy estimates brought in Tuesday it forecast sweeping changes in military planning.

MULTIPLE DUTIES

The statement stressed that the army must not only organize itself under conditions of the nuclear age but must also adapt itself to fighting guerrillas in jungles and mountains.

Britain's over-all defence strategy also calls for the army to take a big hand in bolstering civil defence in the event of nuclear bombardment.

Expenditures for the coming fiscal year were estimated at £484,000,100 exclusive of American defence assistance. This represents a decrease of £77,000,000 from current expenditures.

Head's statement, reflecting the general staff's thinking, said the atomic age requires the army to undergo sweeping changes.

AIMS CLEAR

"The aims are clear: To organize, equip and train the army so that it can make full use of the vastly greater firepower nuclear weapons are putting into its hands, and avoid destruction by the enemy's nuclear weapons. . . ."

Like the navy, the army looks to the introduction of guided missiles to increase greatly its striking power. Britain has conceded that the United States has a lead in this field, and there have been reports from Washington that Britain would like to buy some of the American types. Research on these weapons is being pushed here.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: A new storm developed south of the Great Lakes Tuesday night causing cloud across southern Ontario along with rain and snow south of the lower lakes. As this storm moves northeastward into Quebec snow is looked for in southeastern Ontario and in the Niagara region this morning but elsewhere in the south slow clearing is indicated. Variable cloudiness and a few widely scattered snowflurries are reported from northern Ontario with little change expected today and Thursday.

FOUR FIND WAR OVER

PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (Reuters)—Four Japanese soldiers who did not know the war was over have been found hiding in the bush of Dutch New Guinea. They are to be flown to Wewak Thursday on the first leg of their return home. Japanese sources have often claimed some of their soldiers may still be in the New Guinea jungles but the local authorities had said previously this was impossible.

Cutting in to Dance With Queen, Americans in London Enjoy Party

LONDON (Reuters) — Members of London's American colony cut in on each other to dance with the Queen at a party in the United States ambassador's residence here Tuesday night.

The Queen, who was guest of honor at a housewarming party given by the ambassador, danced frequently, often with the Duke of Edinburgh.

Proof that the royal couple had a good time came at 3 a. m., when they finally left, three hours after their originally scheduled departure time.

Prime Minister Churchill watched from the sidelines. Queen Mother Elizabeth was also present.

The big moment was the arrival of the royal party, the Queen dressed in a powder-blue gown with a white net overskirt, her diamond-studded tiara flashing under the ballroom lights.

MEMBER ASKS GUIDANCE FOR MUNICIPALITIES

Wants Committee To Study Problems

TORONTO (CP) — Guidance to municipalities that are out-growing their boundaries was urged in the Ontario legislature Tuesday by John P. Robarts, Progressive Conservative member for London.

Mr. Robarts asked that a select committee of the legislature be set up to study municipal problems and determine the best solution.

"Annexation as it has been handled in the past is dead," said Mr. Robarts, in the throne speech debate. "The problem is not restricted to London. there are other municipalities in the province which are moving rapidly toward the same situation as Toronto."

He said the seed of a new arrangement lies perhaps in the bill providing metropolitan government for Toronto and 13 outlying municipalities.

"These municipalities are watching with interest the development of Toronto under a metropolitan form of government. We have many problems and we wonder if the solution to many of them does not lie in some new form of metropolitan organization."

CORRECTS REPORT

Referring to reports of legislature committees on highway safety and highways department and contract irregularities, he suggested a staggered plan for issuing licences. His proposal would have vehicle and operators' permits running out at different times of the year.

At the start of the session Education Minister Dunlop corrected a report regarding teachers' pensions. He said pensions of all teachers who retired before April 1, 1954, will be increased. Cheques will be sent to them retroactive to that date. It had previously been reported that those who retired before April 1, 1949, would be adjusted.

Albert Wren, Liberal - Labor member for Kenora, commended the government for plans to extend voting and liquor privileges in the province.

There were some Indians who looked on voting privileges with suspicion, he said.

Mr. Wren supported a government proposal to expand public works and highways construction as a means of developing the province. He said the projects are not an answer to unemployment.

Mr. Wren said he favored a form of compulsory arbitration in labor disputes but after a 30-day cooling-out period from the time a conciliation board makes its report.

Other speakers included J. S. Dempsey, Progressive Conservative member for Renfrew South, and H. S. Fishleigh, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Woodbine.

Mr. Dempsey, speaking on a government proposal to study toll roads, said he was against such a system; that the province's highway system is among the finest.

The report of the committee on the central registry of automobile liens was to be tabled today by Robert MacAulay (PC — Toronto Riverdale), committee chairman.

Blizzard Dies

REGINA (CP)—A blizzard that swept into Saskatchewan from Alberta had almost blown itself out today after slowing highway and air traffic over half the province.

Poor visibility forced a Saskatoon government air ambulance to make a forced landing near Balgonie, 15 miles east of here, with a severely-ill child aboard.

The sick child, nine-months-old Donald Cherbpuschut, finished the trip to hospital in an ambulance. He suffered complications following scarlet fever.

Temperatures were falling rapidly at most points with a low of 20 to 25 below expected overnight.

Opposition Groups Want Better Veterans' Allowances

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition parties in the Commons are unanimous in wanting the government to broaden its plans for increasing allowances to burned-out veterans.

All three opposition groups expressed criticism Tuesday night as Veterans Affairs Minister Lapointe announced the scale of increases offered by the government under the War Veterans' Allowances Act.

The bill he introduced provides a 20-per-cent boost in payments to needy veterans and widows and orphans of veterans. The maximum monthly payment to single veterans would be raised to $60 from $50 a month and for married vets to $108 from $90.

Criticism centred on the amount of additional earnings allowed before the payments are reduced.

The measure would increase permissible ceilings on over-all income to $840 from $720 for single veterans and to $1,440 from $1,200 for those married.

Opposition members promptly noted that the higher ceiling would permit single veterans no more than the extra $10 a month they now can earn in outside income without affecting their allowances. Married vets could earn $12 a month extra instead of $10.

Lt.-Col. Lapointe said the changes will mean an additional outlay of between $9,225,000 and $9,500,000 a year.

"It will raise appreciably the standard of living of many veterans," he said.

But Lt.-Col. Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary North) termed it "a very niggling effort."

The allowances were started some 20 years ago with the stated aim of helping "burned-out" veterans of active duty, so called because it was considered that trench warfare reduced the length of their wage-earning life by 10 years.

Allowances now are paid to some 40,000 veterans, widows and orphans.

Speeches were brief as the bill was introduced. Nine Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit members spoke during an hour's period and served notice they will try later to get higher permissive-income ceilings written into the bill.

Many referred to repeated requests of the Canadian Legion that income ceilings be set at $1,000 for single and $2,000 for married veterans. The legion also asked that monthly payments be $60 for single and $120 for married veterans.

Lt.-Col. Gordon Churchill (PC—Winnipeg South Centre) said the government is trying to wait out the lives of First World War veterans.

"They'll have died before long."

Security and Progress Goals In Southeast Asia Are Set

BANGKOK (AP)—Eight powers today set goals of military security and economic progress for Southeast Asia, then took up the task of hammering the principles of the Manila pact into a bulwark against communism.

Under the soaring golden roof of Thailand's royal Ananda Samakom Palace, the 150 delegates moved into closed session after opening addresses by the visiting foreign ministers.

Their immediate task is to organize a permanent council and secretariat and set up military, economic and anti-subversive committees to carry out decisions of the council. The pact members are the United States, Britain, New Zealand, Australia, France, the Philippines, Thailand and Pakistan.

The scope was stated by Thailand's Premier Pibulsonggram. Speaking from under the royal nine-tiered umbrella in the glittering throne room, the slight, greying premier welcomed the delegates.

The Manila pact, he said, provides "for comprehensive measures of defence and prevention. This is fortunate, for not only military security measures are contemplated, but also measures for fostering freedom and culture, for promoting higher living standards, economic progress and social well-being of the people of the area."

He also stressed the urgency of the task:

"So far as international peace and security are concerned, the situation in our treaty area, as at no other time in history, requires greater watchfulness and preparedness.

"For, while the danger of armed aggression really exists, there also is manifest an acute threat of infiltration and subversion which forms a more insidious mode of aggression."

"Our main work here in Bangkok," said Britain's Sir Anthony Eden, "will be the essentially practical task of setting up the machinery needed to make our co-operation effective."

Number of Jobless in Canada Reaches New Post-War Peak

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment in Canada has reached a post-war high.

The government today estimated 362,000 persons were out of work and looking for jobs at Jan. 22, compared with the previous peak of 318,000 in March of 1954.

At the same time, the labor department said 569,582 persons were registered for work with its national employment service at Jan. 20. This was just under the March peak of 569,898, and the figure has since risen.

Despite the increase in the number out of work, which lies somewhere between the figures of the two departments, the number working showed little change from January, 1954. The labor force has increased during the year.

The number at work fell between December and January.

In the week ended Jan. 22, the bureau estimated, 4,470,000 persons worked at least 35 hours and another 379,000 worked less than that. The comparable figures for early December were 4,614,000 and 448,000, while in January of last year they were 4,465,000 and 358,000.

Meanwhile, the labor force at Jan. 22 stood at 5,345,000, about 100,000 up from a year earlier.

In sizing up causes of rising unemployment, the labor department and the statistics bureau in a joint statement said farm work fell a little more than seasonably in the six-week period while non-farm employment declined by about the usual amount for this time of year.

During January, employment was higher than at the same 1954 period in logging, pulp and paper, trade and services. It declined seasonally in construction and some manufacturing industries, and ore than normally in the farm and transportation industries.

The government said Ontario had about the usual fall of employment. It was fairly well distributed between farm and non-farm activities, though farm employment was higher and non-farm employment lower than a year ago.

Chiang's Forces Carry Air Attack Into Sixth Day

TAIPEI, Formosa (Reuters) — Nationalist China today carried her aerial counter-offensive north of Formosa into its sixth day, following reports here that Chinese Communists are massing for an invasion of Nanchi island.

Nanchi, which now is Chiang Kai-shek's northern bastion screening Formosa 120 miles to its south, was raided Tuesday by two waves of Soviet-type planes.

Court Action Against Two St. Boniface Firms

WINNIPEG (CP)—Court action against two St. Boniface firms and some of their directors on charges under the Income Tax Act will be initiated "within the next few weeks," A. E. Hoskin, Winnipeg lawyer appointed to represent the department of national revenue, said Tuesday.

The charges, involving tax evasion and making false returns amounting to approximately $1,500,000 ,involve the St. Boniface Hide and Wool Co. and St. Boniface Abattoir Ltd.

Mr. Hoskin said he is still awaiting word from Ottawa on the most suitable time to launch the proceedings.

CHRYSLER STRIKE AVERTED 2 HOURS BEFORE DEADLINE

Workers Get Boost, Some Fringe Benefits

WINDSOR (CP)—A strike at the Chrysler Corporation of Canada plants here was averted today just two hours before 7,500 production workers were scheduled to leave their jobs.

Union officials early today announced acceptance of an agreement reached with company after almost 17 hours negotiating Tuesday. The agreement must still be ratified by a membership meeting of the Chrysler employees.

The strike was scheduled to start at 6 a.m. EST today. At 4:01 a.m. George Burt, Canadian director of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) announced that the governing body of the Chrysler union had unanimously accepted the proposed settlement, and will recommend it to a general membership meeting of the Chrysler workers next Sunday.

No time for the membership meeting has been set yet.

The new Chrysler settlement gives the workers more financial gains than the union won in the recent agreement signed to end the 109-day strike at the Ford Motor Company of Canada.

A company spokesman said the total cost of the new contract will be 10.68 cents an hour. The Ford settlement cost the company 9.55 cents an hour, according to union figures.

The agreement gives the Chrysler workers a four-cent hourly wage boost, effective as soon as the agreement is signed, bringing the workers' average wage to $1.75 an hour.

The company also conceded two extra paid holidays, bringing the total to eight a year; company-paid Windsor medical and blue cross health plans; increased weekly sick benefits to $32 from $30; $4,000 company-paid life insurance for veteran employees, instead of $3,600.

The union had originally asked for 30 cents an hour wage boost, but this demand was reduced to 15 cents several months ago.

In the non-monetary demands, the union won revision of seniority clauses to a plant-wide basis instead of department-wide; a new skilled trades apprenticeship program; corporation-wide job posting; and changes in job transfer practices.

Negotiations had been going on since last March. The old contract expired in June.

The union executive set the strike deadline six days ago, after being given the authority to call a strike if necessary at a poorly-attended membership meeting 11 days ago.

Talks With Chou Would Not Help Churchill Says

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill today rejected Labor suggestions that he invite Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai to London to discuss the Formosa situation or go to Peiping himself.

Churchill told the House of Commons the Red Chinese "failed to take advantage of the excellent opportunity of making their views known when they rejected, it seemed rather scornfully, the invitation to attend the proceedings of the Security Council."

'In the prevailing circumstances," the 80-year-old statesman added, 'I doubt if the visits suggested would be fruitful or even helpful'.

Fear Books by Bunyan and Rabelais Might Be Classed as 'Horror Comics'

LONDON (Reuters)—A bill punishing people who print, publish or sell horror-comic books in Britain was given approval in principle by the House of Commons Tuesday night. It provides penalties of up to four months in jail or fines up to £100.

Some members of both parties questioned its application to other publications.

Former Labor home secretary James Chuter Ede said some portions of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress" could be "dangerously near the point covered by the bill" and Conservative Ronald Bell asked how Boccaccio's 14th century classic, The Decameron, and Rabelais' works would fare under the bill if they were written today.

The bill requires further detailed debate by the House of Commons and passage by it and the House of Lords before becoming law.

Canada adopted in 1949 a Criminal Code amendment which provides a maximum penalty of two years' imprisonment for anyone found guilty of publishing, selling or possessing crime comic books.

Russian Research Station Drifted In Canadian Area

Soviet Pamphlet Reveals Scientists Near North Pole

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of Russians working on the polar ice cap was operating in Canadian far-north waters last fall, it was learned today.

The Russians have established two permanent research stations on polar drift ice.

One station, known as 'North Pole III," was established at 86 degrees north, 176 degrees west, and its last known position—in September, 1954 — was 80 degrees north, 54 degrees west.

This means the drift station at one time was working in territory which Canada claims. The area is near the North Pole.

REVEALED IN PAMPHLET

The information is contained in a pamphlet published by the Russian Arctic Research Institute concerning Soviet explorations in the central Arctic.

The pamphlet recently came into Canadian hands. A competent official here said there is no reason to doubt the information contained in the booklet.

The same authority said it is probable that the Russians working on the drift station will also be operating in Canadian territory again.

However, no ulterior motive by the Russians is suspected at the moment, an informant said.

SEEK NORTHERN ROUTE

The Soviets for years have been engaged in systematic research in the Arctic to find a northern sea route.

The Russian scientists were working in Canada's far north about the same time the Canadian navy patrol vessel Labrador was making its famed voyage through the Northwest Passage.

The Canadian ship, however, was working far south of the Russian research station.

The Soviet stations are equipped with planes, helicopters and trucks. The scientists wear special clothing and live in tents and mobile huts.

The pamphlet did not give the number of men working on the drift stations. Sources here estimate the number at about 30 on each station.

SAY DISCOVERED FIRST

The Russians claim to have been the first—in 1946—to have discovered floating ice islands in the Arctic ocean.

One ice island in the Arctic was discovered by Sqdn. Ldr. Keith Greenaway of the RCAF.

The pamphlet said the ice islands are carried into the central Arctic from the Canadian Arctic archipelago now known as the Queen Elizabeth islands.

The Russian research groups therefore have been landed on the ice on the Canadian and American side of the Arctic. The stations have drifted generally toward the North Pole. So far, it is definite that only one has crossed Canadian territory.

One informant here said Canada is at least 10 years behind the Russians—and probably more—in Arctic research.

BURMA, RUSSIA DEAL

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Premier U Nu told a rally Tuesday at Bhamo, in northern Burma, that Soviet Russia will buy 200,000 tons of Burmese rice soon and supply Burma with industrial equipment. The premier said Communist China had helped Burma by making a similar purchase of rice. He also referred to the United States and Britain, which he said had helped his country "very liberally."

PARIS. (Reuters) — The French National Assembly tonight voted Edgar Faure into office as premier, according to an unofficial count.

Too Suspicious Of Russian Trade Overtures

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government is too suspicious of Russian trade overtures, Harold Winch said Tuesday in the Commons.

The anti-Communist CCF member for Vancouver East, former British Columbia CCF leader, protested the government's rejection of a Vancouver firm's application for a permit to export Canadian-built ships to Russia.

'Our shipyards are going to fold unless we can get contracts for shipbuilding from outside Canada" Mr. Winch said.

John Dickey, parliamentary assistant to Trade Minister Howe, said Canada has followed the same practices as the United Kingdom, the United States and several other countries in specifying what types of vessels may go to Russia.

In the case of the East-West Export-Import Co. of Vancouver—the firm to which Mr. Winch referred—there was "every indication that this was not a bona fide application to which we could look for any substantial business."

The company had asked for a permit for a big cargo ship with a speed of 17 to 18 knots. If it wanted to ask for trawlers or fishing vessels it would receive co-operation.

(The general rule on the export of Canadian-built ships is that Iron Curtain countries cannot get vessels which could be converted to war purposes.)

Mr. Winch said Canada had great shipyard capacity and thousands of unemployed, skilled shipyard workers.

'No one in this House has a greater antagonism to communism than I, but if we have an offer of trade, let us deal with it and not immediately say it's propaganda."

Property damage to two vehicles amounting to approximately $300 resulted on Station Street, Tuesday noon when a car driven by Robert K. Tufts, 6 Brown St., collided with a parked car. Tufts was westbound when his car collided with the rear of a parked auto. Damage to the Tufts' auto amounted to about $250, and to the parked car about $50.

Crown Counsel Says Monopoly Did Exist

VANCOUVER (CP) — Crown counsel Gordon S. Wismer contended before Mr. Justice A. M. Manson in Supreme Court here Tuesday a monopoly in the distribution of coarse paper existed in B.C.

Mr. Wismer was reviewing evidence at the close of the trial of Crown Zellerbach (Canada) Ltd., and Bartram Paper Products Ltd., charged with conspiring to lessen competition in the manufacture and sale of coarse paper.

Eight other firms pleaded guilty to the charge.

C. Guild, counsel for Crown Zellerbach, said he would not present argument but Darell Braidwood said he would argue the case for Bartram Paper.

Mild Days, Cool Nights, Absence Of Rain Lessen Flood Danger

With the recent mild weather beginning to take its toll in rotting the ice of the Moira River, speculation as to the possibility of a flood this year is being heard from local businessmen.

Whether or not there will be a flood lies entirely in the lap of old man weather, but according to city engineer Charles Mott mild days, cool nights and absence of rain, is a perfect combination to wear away the ice without it piling up against the railway bridge at the mouth of the river.

"There is a strong current running, a channel has opened up north of the lower bridge and two channels have opened up below the bridge," the engineer noted.

Frazil ice beneath the ice field at the river mouth has apparently disappeared with result that the current is getting away and ice in the lower stretches of the river has dropped. Ice fragments clinging to the piers of the lower bridge indicated the ice has dropped at least three feet.

The entire ice field in the lower river has cracked with the lowering of the water level and has split into large cakes.

But warm days and cool nights are expected to keep the ice in position until it rots away. That is, unless there comes a heavy rain and shoves the ice into the lower section of the river.

Silver Cross Awarded To Belleville Cub

The Silver Cross, second Boy Scout highest award for gallantry, has been bestowed upon a heroic Belleville Cub in recognition of his bravery in rescuing two companions from drowning.

His Excellency, the Governor General, who is Chief Scout for Canada, approved the award with 33 others recently in Ottawa.

The Belleville Cub is Tommy Seymour, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Seymour, who formerly lived at 117 Humewood Drive. The family recently moved to Kingston.

Tommy was swimming with two chums, Fred Spice, 13, and brother Harry, 11, near Rossmore last June. The Spice brothers got into difficulty while attempting to swim from a dock to a diving raft at a cottage east of the bay bridge. Tommy dived to their aid and rescued both boys.

Harry Spice was unconscious when rescued and Mrs. J. H. Miller, Hillside Drive, Toronto, visiting at a neighboring cottage, applied artificial respiration and revived the boy. Mrs. Miller previously had dived into the water and assisted in putting the drowning boy in a boat.

Tommy was a member of the 9th Belleville Cub Pack at the time and previously received a badge marking him as the best Cub in the pack.

Among the other awards was that of the Gilt Cross for gallantry given to John Kenneth Ray, 14, of Stirling.

Kiwanis Club Helped Start VON in City

This is VON week, period set aside for furthering recognition of the Victorian Order of Nurses, the volunteer home - visiting organization across Canada.

Tribute yesterday was paid to the VON by local Kiwanis at the club's weekly meeting. However, the bouquets were not all one-way flights for Belleville Kiwanis were responsible for most of the primary organization of the VON here and helped it through its period of birth pains. Today the VON uses the club centre on Dundas as a location point and headquarters.

"This probably is the greatest project the club ever took over," past-president Taylor K. Franklin told the members.

CLUB STEPPED IN

In 1924, when the club was only one year old, the VON came to Belleville. At first it had difficulty in getting under way until the club stepped in. Under the then president, the late P. C. MacLaurin, the club assisted the organization, at that time counting a nursing staff of 1, supplying it with an automobile. Mr. MacLaurin himself even guaranteed the nurse's salary for the first year. However, it was not found necessary for the VON to take advantage of the offer.

When the Kiwanis took over their present centre on Dundas, the VON was moved from city hall offices and installed in rent-free premises in the building.

"Altogether, I feel it is one of the projects all down through the years of which we should be very proud," Mr. Franklin said.

The VON in Belleville had "done wonderfully well," he said, but "without the backing of Kiwanis I am afraid it would not have been the successful organization it is today."

Euphonium solos were rendered following the luncheon by Lorne Dixon, Belleville, accompanied by Lt. David Greer, Peterborough Salvation Army corps. Chairman for the meeting was vice-president Al Drysdale.

Obituary

HOWARD HENRY YOUNG
(Trent Road)

Owner-operator of the Bay of Quinte Tourist Court on No. 2 Highway, west of Belleville, Howard Henry Young died Tuesday evening en route to Belleville hospital. He had suffered a heart attack at his home and was dead on arrival at hospital. He was in his 47th year.

Born in Montreal, son of Mr. E. D. Young and the late Mary Young, he had lived in the Belleville district for the past year. Prior to coming to Belleville he had lived at 11 Langmuir Crescent, Toronto. He was a member of Christ Church.

Surviving besides his wife, the former Dorothy E. Florence, are two children, Peter, age 13, and Wendy, age 10.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. MABEL HAGEN

The funeral of Mrs. Mabel Hagen was held Tuesday, Feb. 22, from the Pinkston Funeral Home. Rev. Everett Smith conducted the service.

Bearers were Angus Langabeer, Allen McCreary, Ray Latchford, Bruce Edwards, Edward Enright and Joseph Genereaux.

Interment took place in Belleville cemetery.

Foremen's Club Members Hear Consultant

Industrial time studies will solve many problems of workers, foremen and management in their combined effort to increase efficiency and production, said Allan Herrgen, management consultant from Montreal, in an address to the Quinte District Foremen's Club at the YMCA Tuesday evening.

Mr. Herrgen outlined the chief complaints time-study men make about foremen's dealings with time-study.

These included: (1) failure of foremen to follow prescribed methods; (2) lack of normal effort; (3) failure to notify time-study men of process changes; (4) failure to train workers in keeping with established methods; (5) failure to appreciate the good points of time-study.

Foremen's complaints about time-study and its application, as outlined by Mr. Herrgen, included: (1) inconsistency in establishing process times; (2) standards that are too rigid; (3) failure to make clear proper work methods; (4) allowances that are unrealistic; (5) setting work standards on the performance of the best, and most skilled workers.

Mr. Herrgen concluded by noting that mutual understanding of each other's problems and co-operation in attempts at their solution would facilitate the establishment of profitable industrial methods on a sound basis of time-study analyses.

Roof of Senate Chamber Leaks, Some Damage

OTTAWA (CP) — The copper-sheathed roof of the richly ornamented Senate chamber developed a temporary leak Tuesday but its historic murals and deep-piled red carpet escaped damage.

Water from melting ice and snow —some five feet has fallen on Ottawa this winter—forced its way through the roof and left a small stain on the grey stonework high on the chamber's east wall.

E. J. Jennings, chief of the Senate's char staff, said the leaking was stopped in 15 minutes by removing the ice and snow from the roof.

The leak affected only one five-foot section of the wall and a few buckets were placed on a stone ledge high above the floor to catch the water. As a precaution, a huge mural hanging beneath the ledge was covered with a tarpaulin.

Mr. Jennings said the leak was not unusual. There had been a number of recent leaks in the big building, though none in the Senate chamber itself. He said the Senate roof was covered with new copper about five years ago.

The Senate was not in session when the leak occurred.

Hastings County TB Association To Hold Survey

The Hastings County Tuberculosis Association, through its Chest X-ray Survey Council, will conduct a free county-wide X-ray program in May.

Temporary clinics will be established in larger centres, while two mobile X-ray units will visit smaller settlements in the county. It is the council's aim to survey every person living in the county.

General chairman of the Chest X-ray Survey Council is E. P. Bernstein. Other officers of the county executive are: secretary, Mrs. W. J. Gault; speakers' chairman, K. G. M. Ross; supply chairman, B. E. Yanover; canvass chairman, Mrs. W. McMurray; industrial chairman, J. F. Gill; schools, L. A. Kells; clinics, N. Hallam, and publicity, T. E. Schwab.

The county will be subdivided into districts. Each district will have its local executive patterned on the county executive. Similar executives will be formed in each community within the districts.

The survey is being financed by the Hastings County TB Association with funds raised through the sale of Christmas seals.

A door-to-door census of the county will be carried out prior to the establishment of clinics.

The survey in Hastings County is part of a provincial survey.

Grey Deposits Falling from Sky Are Cotton Fibre

HORSEHEADS, N. Y. (AP)—A grey, cob-webby substance that fell out of the sky here and spread over an area half-a-mile square was identified Tuesday after tests as heavily-damaged cotton fibre.

Dr. Charles B. Rutenber, professor of chemistry at Elmira College, said the condition of the fibre indicated it was waste material or had been damaged in some sort of explosion.

The fibre fell over a residential area of this south-central New York village and draped over houses, trees and bushes.

Rutenber said the substance was radioactive but not dangerously so, and that this was not surprising in view of atomic tests now under way.

Groups Planning Travelling Art Display in April

Community programs branch officials of the Department of Education and representatives of recreational groups throughout East Central Ontario are planning a travelling art display, which will officially open in Belleville, late in April.

Decision to organize the exhibition followed a recent meeting at Port Hope of interested persons from 14 centres in the area.

Committee responsible for management of the display consists of people from Peterborough to Belleville. They are: R. Richardson and D. G. Stuart, Port Hope; J. E. Monro, Peterborough; Wendell Brewster, Oshawa and Mrs. D. Cain, Belleville.

In the display each community will have a local exhibit from which a quota of pictures will be chosen for entry in the travelling display. At present, there now are 19 towns and cities entering the exhibits.

Contacts, for all interested in entering the exhibitions, named throughout the area, are:

Miss Mary Moult, Belleville, (representing Madoc), Mrs. H. R. Gibson, Belleville, Miss D. Purdon Bowmanville, Mrs. Chas. Pilon, Peterborough, Mrs. F. A. Burgar, Cobourg, Mrs. H. J. Taylor, Campbellford, Mrs. J. Benedict, Port Hope, Miss J. Lambert, Oshawa, Mrs. W. Grant, Warkworth, Mr. Chas. Fenton, Colborne, Mr. A. S. Oliver, Trenton, Mrs. L. K. Smith, Kingston, Mr. A. W. Smith, Bancroft, Mr. Norman Sisco, Haliburton, Mr. Harley Clarke, Picton.

Veterans Paying Too Much For Houses Claim

OTTAWA (CP)—Two CCF and Liberal members suggested in the Commons Tuesday the government is charging war veterans too much for houses.

Works Minister Winters replied the veterans get the houses at cost and below market price.

The members complained on behalf of veterans at Hamilton, Peterborough, an Cranbrook, B.C., where houses rented to veterans by the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation are being sold, with the veterans given the option of buying their homes.

It is part of a program of selling off about 12,000 homes built originally for veterans.

QUOTES PRICES

Joseph W. Noseworthy (CCF—York South) said that in Hamilton and Peterborough homes built at an estimated cost of $8,700 or $6,800 are being offered for $8,700, with $1,000 knocked off the price if the veteran tenant-purchaser stays in the home for five years.

He said he has heard complaints that $8,700 is at least $2,000 more than the houses are worth.

"This country is not in such a dire state that the government, to make a profit, must exploit the desire of veterans to own their own home," he said.

James A. Byrne (L—Kootenay East) said that in a similar arrangement at Cranbrook, houses are selling between $7,000 and $8,000.

His opinion was that the prices are too high, and he had heard opinions that they are between $500 and $1,000 above actual value.

Mr. Winters said Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. is selling 12,000 houses to veterans at cost, that it is not attempting to make any profit.

CMHC and the veterans' affairs department were co-operating to provide houses for veterans and approached the problem in a 'most sympathetic manner."

There were 326 houses available at Peterborough, of which 20 had been sold; 17 at Hamilton of which 10 had been sold. The average price at Peterborough was $7,483 and at Hamilton $7,562. This was less than the normal market price in those areas.

Rotary Club Derived Name From Method of Meeting

By HAROLD F. MOTT
(Past President, Belleville Rotary)

Editor's note:—(This is the first in a series of articles presented by the Rotary Club of Belleville to commemorate the Golden Anniversary of the founding of Rotary.)

Are you aware that a group of your neighbors has established contact with like-minded people in 90 foreign countries? The local unit of this international association is the Belleville Rotary Club.

This year the Rotary Clubs of the world will celebrate the Golden Anniversary of the club's founding. What is the story behind the formation and growth of this fellowship?

Fifty years ago, four men met in a Chicago office. They came together at the suggestion of Paul Harris, a young lawyer, who felt that men of different trades and professions should become acquainted.

At first, the new club met in rotation at the stores and offices of members. This practice, soon abandoned in favor of regular meetings at the same hotel or restaurant, explains the name — "Rotary."

SOON INTERNATIONAL

Very quickly, Rotary became international. With less than two score clubs in existence, one was formed in Winnipeg, Canada. The very next year saw the establishment of clubs in Dublin and Belfast, Ireland, and in London, England. Thereafter, Rotary spread rapidly over the globe, through the Old World to the Far East, from the tip of Latin America to the North Cape and to Australia.

The international pattern of Rotary's expansion throws light on its character. Rotary is not exclusive. It has no secrets, no mysterious rites to arouse suspicion. Men of all nationalities, religions and cultures are invited to join.

In consequence, Rotary clubs flourish in countries where bitter feelings of racial or political antagonism have existed. Neighbors, whose differences had maintained a wall of silent hate between them, find themselves enjoying a cheerful fellowship together at the weekly meetings of Rotary clubs. And the fruits of their acquaintance are soon apparent in the community at large as understanding improves and mutual co-operation develops.

CONVICTION GREW

Such experiences were the background for a conviction that grew with the spread of Rotary across the world. If association in Rotary can have these consequences in local communities, why cannot a similar contribution be made in the wider community that is the world? The answer to this question came at the first of the annual Rotary international conventions to be held outside the U.S.A., at Edinburgh, in 1921.

Rotarians from 25 countries, gathered in the Scottish capital, declared their determination "to encourage and foster . . . the advancement of international understanding, good will and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service."

As members of that world fellowship, Rotarians in Belleville support this declaration which has become part of the object of Rotary. We are most grateful for the opportunity accorded by the Ontario Intelligencer during the period of our Golden Anniversary to suggest some of the ways in which international understanding and good will can be fostered and the prospects for peace between nations advanced.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Some western oils made fair gains on the stock market today in moderate early afternoon trade.

Home Oil climbed 60 cents to $9.50, Merrill Pete 35 to $9.40, Calgary and Edmonton 25 to $16.

Elsewhere movements were mostly small and irregular up to 1 p. m. EST. Consolidated Denison jumped 45 cents to a 1955 high of $4:30 in uraniums. Willroy climbed 17 cents to $2.37 in Manitouwadge issues and Geco gained 25 to $13.

Industrials were mixed, with refining oils and motors gaining narrowly and steels and liquors easier. Aluminium was ahead $1.25 to $82 at 1 p. m. and Toronto General Trust $1 but General Motors dropped $1.

Woman Awarded Silver Acorn For First Time

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. R. Retallack of Vancouver has been awarded scouting's Silver Acorn. She is the first woman ever to receive the award.

Mrs. Retallack received the award in recognition of 25 years service with the Scout movement. She is district Cubmaster for training in the greater Vancouver district.

Boy Scout headquarters announced Tuesday that Governor-General Massey, who is Chief Scout for Canada, has approved the awards to Mrs. Retallack and 33 others.

A silver cross for gallantry was awarded Tommy Seymour, 10-year-old Brockville, Ont., Cub, for rescuing two boys from the Bay of Quinte last June.

OTHER AWARDS

The Silver Cross also was awarded to:

Michael Maloney, 12, of Port Colborne, Ont., who rescued Michael Roach, 11, of Port Colborne from Lake Erie after he had fallen through thin ice while skating.

The Gilt Cross for gallantry went to: John Kenneth Ray, 14, Stirling, Ont.; Robert Rees, 12, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Two Belleville Men Creep Over Melting Ice to Save Trenton Man

TRENTON, (Special.) — Two Belleville men yesterday crept over melting ice on the Trent River to save a father of three children from drowning.

Today, Peter Morgan, 38, Ferry street, here, owes his life to Clifford Fair, R.R. 3, Belleville and Jack Goyer, Front street, who hauled him from under the ice, covering a swift current in the river, with a tree branch.

Morgan was short-cutting across the river when he fell through the melting ice, about 40 feet from the shore. He battled his way out of the water but fell through a second time into a rapid current in the river and was trapped under the ice.

Fair, a carpenter, and Goyer, who operates a boating business in Belleville, were working on a boathouse near the scene. Both crept out across the ice and pushed a tree branch to the trapped man, hauling him to safety.

Motor Vehicles Central Registry Is Recommended

TORONTO (CP) — Establishment of a central registry of motor vehicles and provision of certificates of title of ownership were recommended today in the Ontario legislature.

The report of the legislature committee on central registry of documents of title and certificates of ownership was tabled in the House by Robert MacAulay, chairman.

It said there is a "pressing" need in Ontario for an effective licensing and registry system for motor vehicles.

"The present system of registering title documents and documents of pledge in relation to motor vehicles in the county court offices throughout the province affords insufficient protection to persons dealing in motor vehicles and is an inadequate method of providing anti-theft protection."

WANT ACTION

The committee recommended that legislation providing for the central registry system be enacted during the present session of the legislature. It would cover passenger cars, commercial vehicles, buses, trailers and motorcycles.

'It is premature to enact legislation in respect to a central registry system for the registration of title documents for any other chattels other than motor vehicles," the report said.

The combined system would be operated and maintained by the department of highways in Toronto. An additional staff of about 40 persons would be needed.

The committee also recommended that there should be a positive deadline each year for the renewal of registration and issuing of licences; issuing of ownership licences and operators' permits should be staggered, a uniform fee should be charged for registration of passenger cars.

Under the recommended central registry system, the department of highways would issue a document for each vehicle. The document would be called a certificate of title, in effect a deed to the vehicle. All loans, mortgages or claims against it, the owner's name and a full description of the vehicle would be shown. Records would be kept at the central office.

"The result will be that no person will lend money on a vehicle unless the person who asks for the loan can produce the certificate of title; no one will buy the vehicle unless the owner can produce the document."

The report said the system would be self-supporting. Each time a certificate was issued or revised a charge of $1 to $2 could be made.

Blame TCA Pilot For Plane Crash Near Malton

OTTAWA (CP)—A board of inquiry has blamed the chief pilot's "negligence" for the Dec. 17 crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines Super-Constellation plane near Toronto.

The huge plane carrying 23 persons plunged into farm country 11 miles from Malton airport while attempting an instrument landing in thick weather after a flight from Florida. No one was killed.

The board of inquiry report tabled in the Commons Tuesday by Transport Minister Marler, laid the blame on the aircraft's captain, T. N. D. Ramsay of Montreal, at the controls when the crash occurred. It commended chief officer Gary Anderson of Gananoque, Ont., for trying to correct his captain's approach technique.

"The board of inquiry finds that this accident was caused by negligence on the part of Captain T.N.D. Ramsay," said the report. TCA officials in Montreal said Capt. Ramsey was put under automatic suspension following the crash. His case has not yet been reviewed by TCA officials.

It said Capt. Ramsay, at the controls for the landing, broke regulations by descending below minimum altitudes prescribed for different portions of the glide approach to the airfield.

The report said the captain showed "poor airmanship" in executing his approach pattern in that he made inadequate allowance for strong prevailing wind and failed to utilize his aircraft direction finding receiver to "home" on the airport's outer marker.

IGNORED WARNING

"The captain," it added, "failed to carry out an approved instrument landing letdown and, insofar as the position and the altitude of the aircraft were concerned, he ignored the indications of the ADF needle tuned to the marker, the ILS glide path needle and the altimeter."

He had ignored a warning from his first officer that he had descended below regulation height. He had been under the impression he was very much closer to the airport than he actually was.

As the result of the crash, the board recommended that TCA and other operators should check more closely their pilots' procedures in conducting instrument landing approaches.

It also said it considers strongly that the present standard procedure for communication between pilot and co-pilot is unacceptable for emergencies. There should be a method of intercommunication "less subject to inattention and misunderstanding."

Airline operators also should try to get a better method of defining the responsibility of the first officer to his captain when the safety of a flight is threatened. At present, first officers were hesitant to do anything that might be taken as criticism of the captain's performance.

In this case, the board said, had the first officer quickly assumed control of the aircraft, it was quite possible the crash would have been averted. However, this would have been a drastic step.

DRAMA FESTIVAL GREAT SUCCESS

The Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival held in Belleville last week was a distinct success.

Artistically there was little that could be asked of amateur theatrical groups that was not provided. The choice of plays was excellent; the standard of production was uniformally high; the acting, while weak in interpretation in some cases, was good, spirited and entertaining. Costumes were gay and sets, for the most part, exciting and pleasing to the eye.

Not the least of the festival's attractions were the incisive, clear and instructive adjudications of Mr. Andre Van Gyseghem. His personal charm and his generous and sympathetic assistance to the festival's performers were welcomed by all participating groups.

Much credit for the success of the festival must go to the hard work of the festival committee under the general chairmanship of F. C. "Court" Miller. His task was to co-ordinate the many committees necessary for the production of the festival and entertainment of the players. It is to his credit that festival week in Belleville will be one of the high points in the life of this community this year.

It is to be hoped that Belleville playgoers benefited as much from the festival as Belleville's performers. The infusion of new ideas, the establishment of new standards of appreciation, and education into the finer points of production, staging and acting are a festival legacy that will insure even greater pleasure for local playgoers in the future.

The festival also served the very useful purpose of bringing together, in friendly competion, the best amateur theatrical groups in Eastern Ontario. Bellevillians had the opportunity to enjoy their talent and they, in turn, had the pleasure of making new friendships, or of renewing acquaintanceships in this city. Mutual good will and a closer bond of kinship between Belleville and her sister communities of Peterborough, Ottawa and Hull are assets of which all can be proud.

Those responsible for enhancing the already proud traditions of the Eastern Ontario Regional Drama Festival during its stay in Belleville last week are deserving of great praise and commendation.

THIS IS V.O.N. WEEK TOO

This is a week which has to serve double duty.

Besides being "Brotherhood Week" it is also "V.O.N. Week."

We can think of no more appropriate pairing.

The Victorian Order of Nurses now has branches in 117 Canadian communities. Wherever it is established, residents have good cause to bless the organization and its nurses, who make close to one million visits annually to Canadian homes.

By providing home nursing care, the Victorian Order of Nurses fills an ever-present need. The nature of this need may have changed somewhat since the year 1897, when the Order was founded, but the extent of the need has grown, rather than declined. Today many more patients are treated in hospitals than was the case in 1897, but the home is still the best place for many an ailing person. The change in home life, however, has made it more difficult to care for these people by their own firesides than it was in days when few women were employed in factory or office. The blue-clad V.O.N. uniform is welcomed in many a home today because its cheerful, efficient wearer means the difference between home and institutional care for some patient in no real need of hospital treatment. Home nursing care for the aged, the injured, those suffering from chronic illness and for maternity cases is made available by the V.O.N. to all, without regard to color, race, creed or financial circumstances. Fees for V.O.N. visits are based on actual cost and, where the need is shown, the fee is reduced or waived.

Belleville is indeed fortunate to be among the 117 Canadian communities which enjoy this service.

THE WELFARE COUNCIL ACTS

The Canadian Welfare Council has announced that it is prepared to call a conference of federal and provincial governments to consider government responsibilities for unemployed persons not covered by unemployment insurance.

All Canadians owe the Welfare Council a vote of thanks.

No other action could have pointed up so dramatically the manner in which federal and provincial governments have been evading this vital issue.

Jobless people not covered by unemployment insurance, as those whose personal welfare is at stake, and municipal taxpayers, as those who have been shouldering the bulk of the burden of caring for the needs of those unfortunate unemployed and uninsured persons, in particular, owe the Welfare Council a double round of applause.

Humorists might add their special tribute. There is something wryly funny about an organization like the Welfare Council calling a conference between the federal and provincial governments. In the international scene it could be matched by a world disarmament conference called by the Red Cross.

Alas, from any indication that the provincial and federal governments have given to date, there is scant reason to expect any greater response to the Welfare Council's appeal to them than there would be from an appeal by the Red Cross to the nations of the world.

ASH WEDNESDAY

Now Lent returns. Men turn away
From the joys the selfish flesh desires
And try to give, by night and day,
The care the soul within requires.

The flesh in raiment fine would dress
And pleasure make its only goal,
But that's the pride of selfishness
Which does not glorify the soul.

When Satan tempted: "Into bread
Turn now by your command this stone."
The Master, who had fasted, said:
"Man shall not live by bread alone."

Now Lent begins. From world delights
The flesh would tempt us to provide,
For forty days and forty nights,
As once did He, we turn aside.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 23rd., 1935

Mr. Franklin Lang of the Bank of Montreal staff in Peterborough was home to spend the weekend.

Miss Grace Kennedy spent the weekend in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Coppin of Oshawa spent the weekend here with relatives.

The Rev. Dr. James Semple, pastor of Bridge Street United Church, preached anniversary sermons on Sunday to his former congregation in Smiths Falls.

Mr. Everett Bell, Coleman Street, is spending a few days in Perth.

Mrs. Ida Goodmurphy, Cedar Street, has returned home after spending six weeks with her mother and sisters in Toronto.

30 YEARS AGO

February 23rd., 1925

Danger of a flood from the Moira River looked a possibility this afternoon until the rain slackened. Some cellars along Front Street are flooded. A breakup at this time is most unusual; generally it is a month later that the Moira goes on the war path. Colder weather may tie up the threat of an early breakup for some weeks.

The Belle Theatre was comfortably filled Sunday evening when a sacred concert was given under the auspices of the V. O. N. The proceeds amounted to $95. The kindness of Mr. J. C. McCarthy in placing the theatre at the disposal of the V. O. N. in which to hold the concert was much appreciated.

The following item from our file copy at this time in 1895 will recall to older citizens memories of pleasant times spent at the open air skating rink on the hospital lot at the northeast corner of Victoria Avenue and Church Street: Mr. Alex LaPalm has arranged to hold a dress carnival at the open air rink on the hospital lot next Tuesday evening. Ticket holders (junior) ten cents and senior ticket holders fifteen cents; non-ticket holders twenty-five cents.

40 YEARS AGO

February 23rd., 1915

Mr. George Moon and Mr. Frank Ryan of Trenton were in town today.

Dr. John Green, who is well known here, is visiting relatives in the city. Dr. Green has been the surgeon on the C. P. R. liner Empress of India and has had some exciting experiences while at sea in this time of war.

Mayor Panter was at his office in the city hall this morning after being absent for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Murray of Montreal are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Scantlebury, College Hill.

Mr. George Kerr spent yesterday in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Cook will leave tomorrow to spend some time in the Old Country.

Mr. Charles M. Reid of the Ritchie Company has returned home after a business trip to New York City.

From our file copy at this time in 1895: A gold cure club has been organized in Napanee.

50 YEARS AGO

February 23rd., 1905

Dr. and Mrs. Leonard of Napanee spent yesterday here with Mr. and Mrs. S. Detlor.

Dr. Newton and Mr. A. A. Richardson of Deseronto were in town today.

Mr. J. H. Porte of Picton is a guest at the home of Dr. O. A. Marshall, Bridge Street east.

Mr. John Martin of Chicago, Ill., son of the late Charles Martin of this city, is visiting friends here after several years absence.

Mr. T. Holgate of Napanee was in town today.

Mr. Frank Pearce of Marmora was a visitor in town today.

Mr. F. McGee of Stirling was in town today.

Mr. L. R. Terwilligar of this city, is spending a few days at the head office of the Patterson Company in Brantford.

Saskatoons Not Tasty

(Winnipeg Free Press)

There are outlanders who have eaten Saskatoon pie (and lived) and who have expressed a considered opinion that it tasted like a mixture of wet sawdust and old axle grease.

The answer may lie in the fact that Saskatchewan is hardly a fruit-growing province. To fill this lack, thee nativees must take what nature offers; and, in greatest abundance. nature offers the Saskatoon bush.

One (and possibly the only) merit of this small blue berry is, of course, that if late spring frosts and early spring birds don't get there first, the Saskatoons may be had for the work involved in picking them.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The next few weeks are sheer agony to one fairly large section of our community. They are the trout fishermen. For most of us, these last few bedraggled weeks of winter pass quickly enough. We can almost hear them passing. We hear it in the dripping eaves, the splash of traffic, the higher music of children in the streets. We can smell it passing. Any day now, the rank odor of earth will waft in through the more-often-opened windows.

But the trout fisherman has a sense of fate. His sport teaches him that. Fly fishing has a lot of mystery in it, and fate is suspected of having a hand. So, for these next few weeks, the trout fisherman walks, lives, thinks warily. Something tells him that he is going to be sent on a six-week business trip the week before the season opens. A business trip to, say, the Mid-West where they have only mudcats in the Mississippi. Something in his wife's attitude hints that she is going to have another outbreak of the tantrums, like she had last fall, and will insist on going on a long motor trip the very week the trout fishing begins.

The older trout fishermen will be found, the next few weeks, often sitting staring into space with a cautious expression. They are listening to their hearts, which might develop a flutter . . .

Their agony is only exaggerated by their mooning, every night, over their trout fly boxes and their lines and rods, getting them endlessly ready, as they have been doing since last December.

There is, however, one escape. They can, for the price of a dozen trout flies, buy Roderick Haig-Brown's "The Fisherman's Winter." This greatest of Canadian, indeed of North American, sporting writers took a trip to Chile in the dead of winter to fish with the fly for rainbow, steelhead, brown and other famous fish that have been planted in the South American Pacific slope. It is a wonderful escape-book for us bewintered anglers. It takes the agony out to know that somewhere, somebody is doing it, right now.

Frankfurter Vs. Hot Dog

(Christian Science Monitor)

It's here!

This is what we've been promised, what we've been waiting for, looking forward to. We've been sniffing the air and wondering when we'd catch the first hint of it. Now we know this is it!

Spring? Certainly not. Spring comes later. THIS is National Frankfurter and Sauerkraut Week! Even if you haven't heard it was coming, you should have guessed it. Can't you catch the aroma and envision those plump, delectable "franks" bobbing around in the bubbling kettle? Can't you detect the incomparable fragrance of sauerkraut emanating from kitchens throughout the land?

There's just one disturbing note in the frankfurter festivities and sauerkraut celebration. How will the hot dogs feel? Hot dogs for generations have been an all-American institution. They have become internationally famous. They have dominated the menu at picnics, lured passersby at beaches, parks, and circuses. Though they may once have belonged to the frankfurt family, they have achieved fame in their own right. They are as Americans as corn on the cob. Must they now revert to their European ancestry and become frankfurters again?

While we celebrate National Frankfurter and Sauerkraut Week with unbounded enthusiasm, we want it strictly understood that such observance implies no disloyalty to the all-American hot dog. Let it not be thought that a frankfurter can nose him out of his established place in our affections.

With that point clear, we turn happily back to our sauerkraut as we recall the joys of National Egg Week, just past, National Molasses Week, National Honey Week, National Apple Week, National Cherry Week, National Dairy Week, etc. Won't it be a wonderful year?

Engineers Grow Scarce

(Northern Miner)

A suspicion we have nursed for a long time was confirmed at a meeting of the Professional Engineers Association of Ontario. There, Mr. P.H. Robbins, executive director of the national body in the U.S., revealed some astounding figures in his address to the annual luncheon. He reported an alarming drop in enrolments in science and mathematics at the high school level and said that less than four per cent of high school graduates are qualified to take engineering courses.

A reflection of this trend is shown in the drop in engineer graduates from 50,000 in 1950 to less than 20,000 last year. Fortunately, it is felt that the 1954 figure may represent the lowest point in the cycle. But in the meantime the country suffers from a shortage of engineers and we look with dismay at the tremendous increase which is reported in the number or engineers being produced behind the iron curtain.

We do not know how closely Canadian figures may parallel those of our southern neighbor but it is altogether likely that the trend in this, as in so many other things, is much the same. Some of our progressive chickens are undoubtedly coming home to roost. The over-emphasis on social graces and extra-curricular activities ranging all the way from learning how to drive a car to the development of quartets harmonizing boogie-woogie, can be done only at the expense of the three R's.

In recent years, it seems, there has been a growing tendency to reduce pupils to the lowest common denominator. Much more concern is felt, much more effort is expended on the poor student than on the brilliant one. Keen, young minds are allowed to drift and dawdle, poor work habits are developed, and our greatest national asset—the bright minds of our youngsters—is dissipated just as surely as if it had been flushed down a drain.

We live in a world that is hugely more complex than it was even a few short years ago. Young people starting out on their own have to be prepared to grapple with problems that would have completely baffled their fathers. Unless their minds are prepared to cope with the intricacies of modern civilization we are in danger of being overwhelmed by the fruits of our own scientific endeavors. The challenge to our educational authorities is inescapable and our duty to the youth of the nation is plain. They must be given every opportunity and encouragement to develop their God-given talents. If we fail to give the young the training they must have, our fabulous industrial machine will be in danger of grinding to a halt and all our vaunted technological advances will have come to naught.

Lincoln Is a Symbol

(New York Times)

On Lincoln's birthday it is so natural that we should think of him as completely American. He belongs to us. The cherished tradition of his reading by firelight, of his splitting of rails, of his simplicity and even rusticity, is by now deeply imbedded in more than folklore. It is part of our emotional tradition and heritage. This is our Lincoln.

There is another Lincoln. He belongs not merely to America but to all the world. Lincoln is not merely a name, not merely a personage in history, not merely the subject of biography and controversy. Lincoln is a symbol, and a symbol for all of aspiring mankind.

Wherever men have looked to greater freedom and dignity for a human being, wherever they have sought to find a new liberty, a true emancipation, the name of Lincoln has been invoked. This has been startlingly apparent in recent years, when so many differing peoples, especially in Asia, have emerged from a dependent to an independent status. In every case it is Lincoln whose influence has been felt, whose words have been quoted.

Perhaps the most dramatic example of this lies in the celebrated declaration of the "Three Principles" of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, which are a virtual paraphrase of the conclusion of the Gettysburg Address. Hardly less significant is that great Article in the Philippine Constitution that declares that "sovereignty resides in the people and all authority emanates from them." That, also, is Lincoln.

It is perhaps revealing that the American who should be most honored should not be the revolutionary, George Washington, but the Emaincipator, Abraham Lincoln. The reason lies in the fact that Washington represented great political and leadership qualities. Lincoln represented great human qualities.

This is the Lincoln symbol, as valid in deep Africa and the Asian jungle as it is in Springfield. It is the symbol of the great emancipation. There are many slaveries to be overcome. There is slavery to fear, to ignorance, to disease, to poverty, to hunger, to cruelty, to the awful unknown. But man can be set free. The Lincoln symbol belongs to all the world. We need not be enslaved. Our liberty and dignity can be made secure so long as we follow the light that has been enkindled.

Takes Duck For a Swim

(Manchester, Eng., Guardian)

As we were sitting recently on the Ile St. Louis, the second anr prettier island in Paris, our attention was diverten by a sight peculiar even for that strange and beautiful city.

An odd figure appeared at the water's edge. The newcomer, rotund, in typical French beret, was carrying under his arm a duck. The Frenchman bent over the river, with infinite care deposited the duck there and, quietly leaning back on his heels, watched his duck swimming out to the main currents. From the man's hand to the duck's neck ran a loose lead. The duck had come down for an afternoon swim as normally as you would expect to see the dog taken round the block for its walk.

Then, after half an hour, the Frenchman tugged firmly at the duck's lead. He waited patiently for the obedient return to land, motioned the duck to wag its tail dry, then picked it up and—wrapping it carefully in a cape—put it back under his arm and returned across the bridge.

Why Goose Was Happy

(Burlington (NC) Times-News)

Driving to town one morning. a farmer and his wife passed a lake. The wife, conscious of their frequent quarrels and spats, said, "Pa, look over yonder at the goose and gander a-gliding along the water so nice and peaceful. Wouldn't it be wonderful if people could live so peaceable?"

Long married pa drove on in silence.

Just beefore sunset, the couple passed the same lake on their way home. There. silhouetted by the setting sun, were a goose and gander gliding along the water.

"Pa", said the wife, "look at the goose and gander, still real peaceable. Wouldn't it be wonderful if people could live like that?"

"Ma", said the farmer. "if you look a little closer, you'll notice that ain't the same gander!"

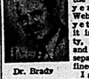
DOCTOR-CAUSED HEART DISEASE

Iatrogenic is the word for something produced by or caused by the doctor. The word has been used in medical literature in the past few years but N. Webster has not yet recognized it in its entirety, tho iatro- and -genic are separately defined.



Dr. Brady

Iatrogenic heart disease has been freely discussed in recent medical journals and books. In Canadian Medical Association Journal (45:1, '41) Dr. J. A. Oille said that almost 60% of patients who consult heart specialists (cardiologist is the $150 word for it) suffer from an exaggerated or wholly unnecessary anxiety about their hearts, arising from suggestion and not based on reason.

Now, wait, neurotics. I'm just quoting what Dr. Oille said about it. If you want to go around with your heart in your mouth, don't worry about what I say — probably none of your relatives, friends, employers or associates will take my teachings as seriously as they do the conventional weak heart obsession.

Without breaking faith with Hippocrates I quote also what Drs. H. B. Weinberg (Annals of Internal Medicine, Jan. '53) and M. Friedman (Functional Cardiovascular Disease, Williams & Wilkins, '47) say about doctor-caused heart trouble:

> The manifestations of iatrogenic heart disease are generally produced by anxiety or worry. They include palpitation, breathlessness, fatigability and pain in the region of the heart. Apprehension, dizziness, fainting, cold clammy hands and feet, spells of very rapid heart beat.

If an avowed quack may contribute a word here, I'll say it is remarkable how rapidly the rapid heartbeat (tachycardia) becomes normal if the sufferer's attention is diverted — say by a telephone call from a friend eager to impart good news, or a funny story — if anyone dares to tell a funny story in such circumstance.

As Dr. Weinberg carefully points out, in iatrogenic heart disease the heart is normal, although innocent murmurs, minor electro-cardiographic variations, some alterations in blood pressure and disturbances of rhythm occur.

On television the other evening appeared a man who had "died and then came back to life". The man said that in the course of an operation his heart had stopped, so the surgeon had quickly made an opening, inserted his hand and massaged the heart until it resumed beating. What had caused his death, the man explained, was "cardiac arrest."

Arrest is a $1.80 word for stop. After all, it wouldn't sound impressive to say the man's heart had stopped beating.

Cardiac means of or pertaining to the heart. Some gullible customers think the doctor knows what ails them if he opines their heart trouble is a cardiac condition.

A doctor who mumbles about a "slight murmur" usually doesn't know what, if anything, ails the patient. If the doctor mentions the word "murmur" the least he can do is to explain to the patient or the patient's guardian precisely what he thinks is the matter. If the doctor says "murmur" and "just take it easy" and nothing more, tell him I say that's a violation of the Hippocratic oath.

POVERTY AND WEALTH

When are we poor?

Several of my readers have written recently about this matter of being poor. Most of us, no doubt, would say we are poor a great deal of the time—especially right after Christmas, after we have the bad news regarding income tax, or after we have married off a daughter. But poverty is a relative matter and the word itself has a relative meaning.

A man with a yearly income of $100,000 who spends $101,000 s poor; a man who makes $50 a week and manages to live on $49 is not poor. We know many people worth millions of dollars—yet they are poor; for they have no happiness. They seek after happiness continually by keeping on the "go" all the time, or drinking as much liquor as they can gulp down—and they end up suffering physically from frequent hangovers and spiritually from frustrations and a troubled conscience. Some of the richest people we know are living on small annuities or pensions. It is amazing how far a dollar goes if the spender has the right attitude toward himself, his fellows, his financial circumstances, and his God.

Poverty and riches are both relative matters. Furthermore, they are spiritual matters rather than financial. Poverty and wealth consist in what we are rather than in what we have.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RELAX. BE YOUR BEST!

One of the greatest wrestlers I have ever seen work was interviewed after one of his contests and asked the secret of his marvelous physical development, and the perfect condition in which he always seemed to be. His reply was that he was always relaxed when he wasn't in action.

I have studied other athletes and note that the greatest are usually relaxed and not tense. When you are relaxed you are at your best. It's then rest time, and to get the most from it all tension must immediately be dropped—all worry, too, for this one of the prime instigators of tension.

Much has been written about the fact that Edison, Napoleon, and others seem to have required so little sleep. They got their sleep all right, but took it in short periods. They all learned the value of relaxation. No one can work at full speed all the time.

So many say that they "try so hard" to relax, but somehow can't. To such I would say: Don't try—just relax! Edison would lie down and in a matter of minutes would be asleep, so perfectly had he trained himself to relax. Learning to relax is sure to add many happy years to your life—you are always at your best when you do.

Joseph Kennedy, in his fine book entitled "Relax and Love," had this to say: "Relaxation is not something you do; it is something you Don't do. Doing requires effort, and effort makes tension. You relax when you stop doing, when you stop making efforts."

What makes prayer so effective is that we are mostly relaxed when we pray. We excursion from ourselves and seek after God. We forget about ourselves while adventuring in the realm of the spirit. Then it is that we relax and are at our best.

Few Housewives Fooled by Stripes Says Meat Packer

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ontario meat packer says few housewives are fooled by the red stripes on transparent bacon wrappings.

N. C. Schneider (L — Waterloo North) said in the Commons Tuesday that bacon processors are willing to stop using that kind of packaging provided every other processor does.

"Some smart aleck started this practice several years ago and all the packers were forced to follow suit. . . I doubt whether there are many ladies who are misled by the red lines on the package."

Mr. Schneider spoke during debate on a bill by Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) to outlaw that kind of bacon wrappers because they make bacon appear leaner than it is.

AWAITS OUTCOME

Debate on the bill was adjourned. Mr. Fulton said he will not force the legislation further until he sees the outcome of a recent government directive to meat packers to stop the practice.

Mr. Schneider said processors have valuable stocks of the special wrappings. It would take about four months to clear those stocks and then the practice would be ended.

He said that although there is much talk about red-striped bacon wrappers, nothing is said about green oranges being colored, kippers being packaged in orange transparent wrappings, peaches being covered by red netting or Winnipeg goldeye fish being dyed.

HITS PRICE SPREAD

Charles Yuill (SC — Jasper-Edson), a retail butcher at Barrhead, Alta., said use of red-striped bacon wrappings "is perhaps one of the smallest sins of which the packing trade has been guilty."

There was too great a spread between the market price of hogs and wholesale meat prices. No one should have to pay $1 a pound and more for ham from a hog sold for 32 cents a pound.

"I certainly oppose with all the power I possess this system of racketeering so far as price spreads are concerned."

Minister Says Reports Have Been Probed

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal authorities have investigated reports that United States gangsters are operating in Montreal suburbs, Immigration Minister Pickersgill said Tuesday.

He told William Hamilton (PC—Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace) in the Commons that the investigation includes the question of whether they violated the immigration act by entering Canada illegally.

He was asked by Mr. Hamilton about a Montreal report that police there confirmed U.S. "thugs" have entered Canada illegally. Mr. Hamilton asked whether they could not be dealt with.

Mr. Pickersgill replied that "somewhat similar" reports had been brought to the attention of the immigration department and the RCMP.

An investigation had been under way for some time to see whether federal statutes—including the Immigration Act — were being violated. He said nothing about how far the investigation had proceeded.

The police chiefs of the four towns named denied that a crime syndicate is operating within their boundaries.

"Ridiculous to the fullest extent and a lie," said Dorval police chief A. R. Noel.

"If any gangster sticks his nose in our balliwick he won't last long," added chief Roland Sigouin of L'Abord a Plouffe.

Police director Frank Pitre of Lachine said: "If gangsters were operating here we would know all about them in short order."

Camille Hetu, head of the Ville St. Laurent police department, said: "Everybody knows what everybody else is doing in this town and I personally have never heard of the operation of organized crime here."

Thugs in Montreal Suburbs Those Driven Out of City

MONTREAL (CP) — Pacifique (Pax) Plante, deputy director of Montreal police, said Tuesday 20 or 25 American gangsters and their "hangers on" are active in the suburbs of Ville St. Laurent, L'Abord a Plouffe and Dorval.

He said the gangsters, including "four or five big operators," moved to the suburbs after being driven out of Montreal by the police department's recent clean-up drive against gambling.

Plante was commenting on a Montreal datelined story in the Toronto Telegram which said that "big-time United States gangsters, not one a legal immigrant," are setting up shop in the suburbs of Montreal. The newspaper said the gangsters have failed in their initial attempt to make Montreal the underworld capital of North America.

The gangsters were reported to have come here three or four years ago as a result of pressure in the United States following the Kefauver probe.

Their activities were said to have ended suddenly in Montreal early this year as a result of morality squad raids on gambling premises.

Plante said Montreal police are keeping an eye on the gangster's activities, said to hinge around informal meetings in a Decarie boulevard roadhouse, "just in case they try to get back."

Police in Dorval, Ville St. Laurent and L'Abord A Plouffe denied the existence of gambling or vice operations in their communities.

But Plante and a spokesman for the RCMP said the gangsters are still in this area.

ENTERED ILLEGALLY

Most of them are believed to have entered Canada illegally, bypassing normal immigration channels.

Police records in another country automatically bar a criminal from entering Canada.

The RCMP spokesman said his officers are being advised by Montreal police on the gangster's activities. But since narcotics are not involved, the RCMP regard it as a matter for local police.

Montreal police said reports indicated that the syndicate had also been engaged in prostitution on a small scale as well as big-time gambling.

An immigration department official said the department is unaware of any Americans in this area who had entered the country illegally.

Hilaire Beauregard, director of provincial police in the Montreal area, said he has no complaints from suburban areas other than the "flying barbottes"—dice games that shift operations from one place to another to avoid raids—and some "big poker games."

NO COMPLAINTS

Director Beauregard was asked about a report that the key man in gangster operations here was Frank Costello, big-time U. S. gang boss now serving a prison term.

Director Beauregard said that about a year ago a New York detective told him some of Costello's men were supposed to be in the Montreal area "to organize unions." He said nothing had developed from this report and there had been no complaints reaching his department.

CAMPBELLFORD

Ground Observers Corps Hears Talk On Corps Duties

CAMPBELLFORD — About 25 members of the RCAF ground observers corps met at the home of Chris Newman on Oliver Rd. on Thursday evening.

F/O L. Faulkner of No. 54 Detachment in Peterborough gave a lecture on the duties of the corps, and described the process used in reporting and plotting the movement of aircraft during practice exercises. The corps, along with the radar screen, which now protects Canada and the United States from aerial attack, has been active in the district since last summer.

F/O Faulkner answered a number of questions for the group, and two films were shown. One film, "One plane, one bomb, one city", showed the dropping of the atomic bomb during the Second World War.

Additional members are urgently needed to assist in the operation of observation posts in the Campbellford area, and A. C. Newman, chief observes of the Campbellford post, signed up several new members at the meeting.

Mrs. A. C. Newman, assisted by some of the wives of the corps members, served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Fairs Ask Right to Sell Advance Tickets on Draws

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Association of Exhibitions Tuesday asked that the Criminal Code be amended to legalize draws for prizes conducted through advance sales of admission tickets to fairs.

The association also said there should be no change in the law which permits games of chance on the midways at agricultural fairs and exhibitions.

The representations were made in a brief to the Commons-Senate committee studying whether the code's sections on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries should be amended.

The brief said many exhibitions and fairs have an advance sale of numbered general admission tickets. Draws for cars and television sets were made on the final night of the fair.

Some member fairs and exhibitions had dropped selling advance tickets as a result of a ruling by British Columbia's attorney-general that sale of such tickets outside the fair grounds is not permissible under the code.

"The proceeds from the sale of these tickets acts as very real form of insurance against adverse weather conditions at the time of the exhibition," the brief said.

The association recommended the code be amended to clarify the misunderstanding caused by B.C. and that the fairs be permitted to conduct such advance ticket sales.

A brief containing similar proposals was presented to the committee by the Pacific National Exhibition.

The Association of Exhibitions described games of chance at fairs as "an integral part of not only the small county fair but also of the large exhibition." The public expected to find these games on the midways. A ban would hurt attendance.

WE HAVE SO MUCH TO PROTECT

The Parachutist from Lachute

A good example of the many fine men who serve this country in the Army is Company Sergeant-Major P. A. Lynch. Originally from Lachute, P.Q. he is now a parachutist in the famed Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. He is just one of the many men who helps to train and mould the keen, alert soldiers who form Canada's mobile striking force . . . men who are making an outstanding contribution to furthering our way of life.

"Hit the Silk!"

A terse shout and paratroopers are off on their mission. Within minutes they are on the ground organized and ready for action.

The speed of modern airpower combined with the courage and training of Canada's paratroopers means added safety for us all. It means that we can rush troops to any part of the huge territory which is ours — ours to enjoy and project.

Behind this ability to move defence forces quickly and effectively is a long line of planning and organization. Men, machines, weapons . . . a great live-wire team — men of the Infantry, Engineers, Service Corps, Medical Corps, Artillery, Signals and Ordnance Corps — dedicated to one aim, to protect Canada and our great heritage of freedom.

The Army continues to need good men — men to train as paratroopers and tradesmen. There is need for doctors, dentists, and all the other skills and professions of civilian life. In the Army they will find excellent careers with good pay, pensions, opportunities for advancement and, above all, a chance to play a part in protecting this country and our free way of life.

To be eligible you must be 17 to 40 years of age, skilled tradesmen to 45. When applying bring birth certificate or other proof of age.

Apply right away — For full information write or visit the Army Recruiting Centre nearest your home.

Weddings

DANFORD—CONLEY

Yellow and white chrysanthemums and ferns adorned the picture window of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Conley, of Wellington, Ontario, on Saturday, February 5th at 2.00 p.m., for the marriage of their daughter, Phyllis Eileen Conley, to Kenneth Murray Danford, of Consecon, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Danford. The Rev. A. Poulter officiated.

Mrs. Jack McNeil provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Shirley La Moore, Trenton, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," and "Because".

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Kenneth G. Conley, the bride was radiant in her waltz-length bridal gown of white nylon net over taffeta with molded bodice and lace jacket. She wore a waist-length veil of tulle illusion with halo headdress and carried a bouquet of red roses and white stephanotis.

Miss Jean Maskell, of Oshawa, attended the bride, attired in waltz-length red velvet fashioned on princess lines with matching headdress, and carrying a bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Mr. McCrae Danford, of Consecon, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and the ushers, Mr. Morley Conley and Mr. Wilmot Conley, of Wellington, brothers of the bride.

At the reception, which was held at the bride's home, the bride's mother wore a street-length gown of rust color, with corsage of bronze 'mums. She was assisted in receiving the guests by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in a street-length gown of rust color, with corsage of white 'mums.

Those who served at the reception included: Miss Doreen Harvey, Kingston; Mrs. Mac Greer, Wellington; Miss Eunice Thomlison, Ivanhoe; Miss Shirley Foster, Northport; Miss Beverley Herrington, Consecon; Mrs. Bill Covert, Oshawa and Mrs. Don Root, also of Oshawa.

For travelling to New York City, the bride chose a green knitted suit, grey muskrat jacket, and winter white hat. Mr. and Mrs. Danford are residing in Oshawa.

Guests were present from Consecon, Oshawa, Picton, Orillia, Bloomfield, Belleville, Trenton, Ivanhoe and Northport.

DORAN—DERUSHA

St. Edmund's Roman Catholic Church, Stoco, was the scene of a pretty winter wedding on Saturday, February 19, at 10.00 a.m., when Rev. Charles Baker united in marriage Rita Bridget Amelia Derusha, of Stoco, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Derusha, to Bernard Thomas Doran, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Doran, of Stoco. The altar was beautifully adorned with lovely flowers by Mrs. Pat Whalen. Master Paul Healy, and Master David Courneyea were altar boys.

The wedding music was rendered by Miss Clara Mulroney, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. Gerald Tracey, as he sang "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother", and "Ave Maria."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in an ankle-length wedding gown of white nylon lace over satin, featuring a molded, strapless bodice with lace bolero having long sheath-like sleeves ending in "V" points over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a seed pearl encrusted tiara, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses mingled with fern and tied with white lacelon ribbon.

Mrs. George Storms, of Belleville, sister of the bride, as matron of honor was gowned in blue ankle-length rayon sheer, embroidered in floral and leaf design over satin with matching floral headdress. She carried a semi-cascade of pink carnations mingled with adiatum fern and tied with pink lacelon ribbon.

Mr. Gene Doran, of Stoco, brother of the bridegroom, acted as groomsman, and the ushers were: Mr. Jack Healy, of Belleville, and Mr. William Doran, of Stoco.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner was served to thirty guests at the Stoco Lake Hotel, which was decorated with pink and white streamers and bells. The bride's mother, attired in mulberry crepe with navy accessories and corsage of white 'mums, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore navy crepe with navy accessories and corsage of white 'mums.

The bride's table, which was appropriately appointed for the occasion, was centred by a three-tier wedding cake made by Mrs. Matthews, Belleville, an 80-year-old friend of the bride. The toast to the bride was proposed by Father Baker.

Following the dinner, a reception and buffet luncheon was served to approximately 50 to 60 guests at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

For the wedding trip to Montreal, the bride travelled in a navy suit with wine topcoat, winter white accessories, and corsage of white carnations. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Doran will reside at 104 Colbeck, Toronto.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom, a black leather prayer book; to her attendant, a pearl rosary; the bridegroom's gift to his bride, a white prayer book; to his groomsman, a billfold; and to the ushers, initialled white scarves.

Guests were present from Ottawa, Toronto, Belleville and Tweed.

Club Activities

(Sunbeam M.B.)

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The Sunbeam Mission Band held its February meeting at Quinte View School on Friday afternoon with the president, Ronald Ferguson, presiding.

The Member's Purpose opened the meeting followed by the reading of Psalm I in unison. All joined in singing, "When He Cometh" followed by prayer by the leader. The offering was taken by the treasurer and dedicated. "Jesus Loves Me" was sung by grades 4-6.

The minutes of January meeting and the roll call were read by the secretary Karl Arthur.

A chorus, "The Little Snowflake", was given by grades 1-2-3 accompanied by Mrs. Campbell. Missionary stories Pushpalatta, a little girl of India; Quanawu, an Eskimo boy of Canada; Rita of Africa; Sherry Konishi, a Canadian Japanese; and Toshi a Japanese boy; were read by Audrey Bowers, Wayne Copeland, Gail Goldie, Iva Drouillard, and Duncan Goldie.

The newest missionaries in Rhodesia, Africa were mentioned by the leader and their route from Canada traced on the map of the world.

After reviewing Chapter I, "A Friend for the Village" from "Fig Tree Village" was given by the leader.

St. Margaret's Guild Hears Talk On C.A.S. Work

The regular meeting of St. Margaret's Guild was held on Monday evening in the church, with Miss Lois Rollins, vice-president, in the chair.

Following the regular business matters, Lenten cards were distributed by the treasurer, Mrs. F. Bradley and a quantity of wool, to be knitted into bazaar items, was given out to members by Mrs. F. Platt.

Mrs. Robert Bailey outlined plans made by her committee for March programs.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Arthur Watson introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. John Fry, a guild member and social worker on the staff of the local Children's Aid Society, who spoke about the work of the society.

Mrs. Fry first outlined the six basic requirements of children taken into foster homes, and then she enlarged on each of these, illustrating her talk with excerpts from actual case histories. She paid sincere tribute to the efforts of foster parents without whose help the work of the society would be impossible.

Mrs. Fry also touched briefly on the methods employed by the C.A.S. regarding the adoption of children.

There followed a lively question and answer period and guild members were greatly enlightened on the activities of one of the community's most important social welfare agencies.

The evening closed with refreshments served by the hostesses, Mrs. A. Watson and Mrs. J. Ritchie.

Mrs. J. Hornsby Presides at St. John Nursing Division Tea

The annual tea of St. John Nursing Division was held in the Officers' Mess, Picton Armouries, last Wednesday. In spite of the bad weather there was a large crowd in attendance.

Mrs. Nesbitt McKibbon, superintendent, Mrs. Garfield Mayne and Mrs. K. I. Mitchell, welcomed the guests; Miss Catherine Dennison received the fees; and Mrs. Frank O'Sullivan escorted the ladies to their seats.

Mrs. Gordon Nourse was in charge of the ladies serving: Mrs. C. Greatrix, Mrs. Amos Hicks, Mrs. G. Goodwin, Mrs. D. Peters, Mrs. Viola Byers, Mrs. T. Beasley, Mrs. W. Wensley, Mrs. E. Hawkins and Mrs. Tolley.

The tea table was attractively arranged with tulips, narcissus and roses, and lighted tapers in silver candelabra. Mrs. M. Parks, Mrs. J. D. Baxter, Mrs. F. J. Whiteley and Mrs. J. G. Hornsby, formerly of Belleville, poured the tea.

Replenishing plates were, Mrs. J. Hawker, Mrs. K. Ferguson, Mrs. Trimble, and Mrs. Marion Byers. Mrs. M. Sharpe, Mrs. James Blackhurst and Mrs. E. Thorne replenished the teapots. Mrs. Hineman made the tea.

Entertaining during the afternoon were Mrs. J. D. Baxter, Mrs. Ken Carson, Mrs. I. Martin, Mrs. K. I. Mitchell, Mrs. Gerald Allison, Mrs. R. Hadden, Mrs. W. McArthur and Mrs. B. Hughes. There was also a Dutch treat group.

Much credit is due Mrs. K. I. Mitchell, Mrs. K. Ferguson and Mrs. E. Hawkins, who convened the tea.

Films Enjoyed By Cannifton, Corbyville W.I.

The February meeting of the Cannifton and Corbyville Women's Institute was held in the Thurlow town hall, with the president, Mrs. George Shorey, presiding.

It was suggested that a needy family in the vicinity be given assistance.

A number of ladies from the Foxboro and Quinte Institutes were welcomed.

The meeting was turned over to the leader, Mrs. Doug Windsor, who welcomed the guest speaker, Dr. G. A. Stewart.

Dr. Stewart showed pictures of his trip through the Canadian Rockies and Vancouver, also parts of the northern United States, which were most interesting and colorful.

Mrs. Shorey thanked Dr. Stewart and Mrs. D. Windsor presented him with a gift of appreciation.

Mrs. E. Sandercock of Quinte Institute and Mrs. Shorey of Foxboro Institute, thanked Cannifton and Corbyville for inviting them to see the films and they also tendered thanks to Dr. Stewart.

After the meeting closed the hostess, Mrs. G. Post and her helpers served refreshments which were enjoyed by all.

Evening Branch W.A. Entertains Afternoon Branch

On Monday evening members of the Afternoon Branch of the W.A. of Christ Church were guests of the Evening Branch for their meeting in the Parish Hall.

After Mrs. A. Cooper, president, had extended a welcome, the prayer service was conducted by Mrs. C. Fuzzen who dealt with the study book "Thirst of India" in a splendid manner.

Later, the groups were joined by the Contact club for a short but interesting missionary film, on "India."

Mrs. D. Stewart expressed appreciation for the pleasant evening and the tea hostesses, Mrs. O. Ragsdale, Mrs. H. Hill, Mrs. S. Bull and Miss Alice Rogers served refreshments.

The Rev. E. Smith closed with prayer.

AIR MARSHAL RETIRES

LONDON (Reuters) — Air Marshal Sir Clifford Sanderson, RAF Far East commander-in-chief from 1952 until last Novmber, has retired, the official London Gazette says.

Women's Activities

IVANHOE W.M.S.

The regular meeting of Ivanhoe W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Wood on Thursday last with 14 members present.

Business was discussed showing three quilts were sold. Some used clothing was handed in.

Mrs. Don Reid took charge of the meeting. Mrs. Prest gave a reading, followed by a reading by Mrs. Don McFadden. Mrs. Don Read gave "It is More Blessed to Give Than to Receive." Mrs. Hogerwaard read the Scripture. Mrs. George Wood favored with an accordion solo "God Gives The Rain." Mrs. Tweedy gave a reading and Mrs. Keith Bray a chapter on the study book.

The hostess served refreshments and a social half hour was spent.

PLAINFIELD W.M.S.

The February meeting of Plainfield W.M.S., was held at the home of Mrs. Harry McCreary, the hostess being Mrs. L. Brennan. The meeting was opened by Mrs. Fred Hall, the Worship service was in charge of Mrs. Clarence Marshall, the theme being "The Church Universal in India."

Mrs. Marshall also read "In a Chapel Garden" at Evanston; two passages of Scripture from the New Testament followed by a discussion of same. Mrs. Will Sills sang a solo which was much appreciated and Mrs. Clarence Hall offered prayer.

Roll call was answered by 16 members paying fees. It was decided to have a quilting and dinner at the home of Mrs. Grant Kerr on Tuesday and the World Day of Prayer service at the home of Mrs. Wesley Bradshaw, on the 25th of this month. A card of thanks from the family of the late Mrs. Merry was read.

Mrs. Brennan was group leader for the day and opened the program with a poem. Mrs. Jack Skelly read "A Modern Saddle Bag Preacher", written by Douglas Ross, student minster at Knob Lake, Labrador, for the past two years. Mrs. L. Brennan gave a chapter of the study book "The Growing Together of the Church in India", and also sang a solo which was much enjoyed.

Mrs. Will Sills read a letter from Miss Ferne Gerrie, missionary at Akola, India.

Mrs. Fred Hall closed the meeting and refreshments were served by the hostess and her helpers.

The attendance was 16 adults, and two children with collection amounting to $3.65.

Army, Navy, Air Force L.A. Holds Meeting

The Army, Navy and Airforce Veterans of Canada Ladies' Auxiliary Unit 49, held its general meeting in the club rooms, Front Street, Monday night, with President McKenna in the chair.

The meeting was opened with the usual two minutes silence.

One new member was initiated.

The treasurer's report was given and reports of other committees.

Unfinished business brought many discussions.

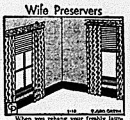
COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN

President McKenna appointed her chairmen of various committees as follows: Entertainment—Mrs. E. Lundberg; Sick—Mrs. A. Browning; Publicity—B. Buckley; Auditors—Mrs. M. Taylor and Mrs. M. Holland.

Mrs. M. McKenna was chosen as delegate to attend Provincial Command meeting in Kitchener on Saturday, February 26.

After a social hour, refreshments were served.

Wife Preservers



When you rehang your freshly laundered curtains, try rotating them and they will last longer, as different amounts of sunlight come in through different windows. The same curtains hung at the same windows are apt to show wear more quickly, while the rotation procedure equalizes the strain on the material.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THE EVER-PRESENT QUESTION: SHOULD ONE SEND A WEDDING PRESENT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I am secretary to the Vice President of al well-known concern, and my employer, a widower, is to be married in a month or so. It is to be a large wedding at a hotel, and I am to be invited. My funds are limited, and I wonder whether the proper thing is for me to give the bride and groom a wedding gift? Your advice, please.

2. As my employer occupies this position, would it be in order for a collection to be made from the employees, and a joint gift purchased? Some of the employees and their wives, but not all, are being invited to the wedding and will undoubtedly buy gifts. In view of this fact, would it be out-of-order to make a collection from the employees? — A.

1. It is never a 'must' to send a wedding present. However, when one receives such a gracious invitation to the wedding and reception, one usually feels and inclination to make this gesture of sending-a-wedding-present. Important to remember is that a present definitely needn't be expensive . . . today there are so many, many items that are good-looking and or extremely useful and comparatively inexpensive, that, to choose an appropriate wedding gift, one needs a bright and aware point of view and an imagination-on-tiptoe, even more than a deep purse.

2. Since the employees who are being invaited are to buy gifts, and since some employees aren't to be invited, I shouldn't think it would be fair to collect contributions from either group.

PROBLEMS OF THE ASH-BLONDE

COSMETICS

Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

The ash-blonde is frequently heard bemoaning her 'twixt-and-between coloring. Neither a golden blonde nor a brunette, she doesn't know just what her beauty classification is—especially if she has brown eyes. But why fret? Many of her type are among the lovelies of this world.

All she has to do is to arrange her hair beautifully, according to the prevailing mode. It isn't the color that means so much as the quality of the hair, its captivating lustre. If she would cultivate a suggestion of gold there are color rinses to be had that are safe. Not like the old peroxide treatments that left the shafts brittle and depleted.

Vigorous, daily brushing is wonderful for hair-health. It imparts a appearance of freshness and gloss that makes any color appealing and attractive.

Usually the ash blonde has a fair complexion of fine texture. Powder should match, or be slightly darker. Of rouge and lipstick she must be wary, join up with the conservatives. True reds or orange-reds in both of these make up-items are more flattering than blue reds which are likely to make her skin look sallow.

The colors of the clothes she wears must be carefully selected Black is her best bet. Navy blue combines pleasingly with her hair coloring and contrasts affectively with her skin. Violet and orchid shades are friendly, giving her complexion creamy overtones.

Faint-colored eye lashes may distress her, but she will find first aid in dark brown mascara which is exceptionally flattering.

I Remember Mother's Cream Cake

By Mary Moore

Doting aunts are especially wonderful people.

I was racking my brain to try to work in a graduation party for Marianne while I was trying to get work enough done to go to a conference in Montreal, when r-r-r-ring goes the phone and Aunt Peady says "Everybody is coming to our house for a Roast-Beef - and - Yorkshire - Pudding Graduation Dinner on Sunday. One-thousandth of a second elapsed between the invitation and the acceptance "You talked me into it Sis." "Oh sure I know—you really need the work but you'll be big about this and let me do it."

It isn't the roast beef nor the Yorkshire pudding nor the medley of frozen baby limas and kernel corn nor yet the salad with avocado that I'm going to describe. It is the old-fashioned cream cake Peady served. It brought back such vivid memories of Sunday night dinners when we were very young that I want to try to pass on this treasured idea of my mother's to you. It is only an idea, for a recipe for the cake isn't necessary in these days of packaged mixes. So, besides being delicious it may be a quickie if you so choose.

EMEM'S MOTHER'S SUNDAY CREAM CAKE

Mother (Mama to me) served this with her choicest whole canned peaches.

The Cake Part (this is a 1-egg layer cake): Sift cake flour and measure 2 cups and sift it with 4 teaspoons baking powder and 1-4 teaspoon salt three times. Cream 1-4 cup butter (or shortening) until very light and cream into it 1 cup sugar until both are very airy. Beat 1 egg into them until very well mixed. Add the flour mixture alternately with 3-4 cup milk to which you have added 1 teaspoon vanilla, adding one-third of each at a time and mixing with a folding motion between additions. Do not overmix. Line two layer-cake tins with round of waxed paper on bottom and butter it and the sides. Pour in batter evenly. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 25 minutes (cake separates from sides of pan about 1-32 inch when done). Let stand in pans one minute, then turn out on rack to cool. When cold spread between layers

The Filling— In top of double boiler combine 1-2 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons flour and 1-8 teaspoon salt. When mixed stir in 2 egg yolks and 1 1-2 cups milk and place over boiling water and stir until thick. Remove from heat and cool. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla. When cold spread between layers of cake.

Now when layers are together spread top and sides with unsweetened whipped cream. Trim with crescents of sliced peaches or slices of maraschino cherries. Do not make the mistake of sweetening the cream—and if you want to be really lavish with it use 1-2 pint and whip just until stiff.

I can remember this whipping being my job—I did it with a wire whip on a platter out in the "summer kitchen" and can remember freezing my hands in winter because "cold air made it whip better." It did too.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS ROMANCE?

A worried father whose daughter is heartbroken over a romance apparently gone wrong, is anxious to know what he can do to make things right again for her.

The story he tells is this:

"Just about a year ago, my daughter, who is 27, and a man whose initials are B.M. were seeing a great deal of each other. They got along wonderfully and seemed made for each other.

"Then all of a sudden it happened. My girl and B.M. had a date, and about 1 o'clock that night my girl came home crying. She said that B.M. had said goodbye, telling her he was not good enough for her.

"I had a talk with B.M. to try and find out what the trouble was. He said that he liked my girl, but for her own good he was staying away from her. Some months later I found out about him. He was sick, and was trying to hide it. He had a good job, but quit it. I have tried to talk to him about all this, but I can find out nothing from him. He did say that he was sorry and ashamed, and that he still liked my daughter.

"I thought my girl would get over all this. She has a good job and works every day, but the rest of the time she stays at home and will not go any place. My wife and I have talked to her and tried to help her, but it does no good, and every time we talk about B.M., she starts crying and goes all to pieces.

"To my way of thinking, it takes a wonderful man to leave a person he likes as much as B.M. liked my girl, and my problem is how to get these two together again."

However much this kind and affectionate father would like to see his daughter happy again, I doubt if he himself will be able to get Yar in his efforts to bring the two together. Advice coming from a third person is not, as a rule, listened to; in fact, any two people who are at odds with each other, for whatever reason, have a tendency to resent an outsider taking a hand in their affairs.

I cannot help wondering, either, if it would be entirely wise thing to try and get this romance back on its track, for it may be there is very good reason for the young man's attitude. What sort of "sickness" does he have, for instance? He told the father that he is "sorry and ashamed." Does this mean that he has contracted a disease through which the girl might be harmed if she were to marry him? Is the father really in a position to judge whether it would be wise or foolish for his daughter to marry the chap?

Moreover, is it quite certain that the young man is really in love with his daughter, and that it is only because of this illness, whatever it may be, that he has finally broken up with her? As I have often said before, many a young man has used the "I'm not good enough for you" routine as an excuse for calling off a romance which he has decidded he does not want to pursue any more.

The real problem at the moment, as I see it, is how to get the girl out of her unhealthy state of mind and into interests outside herself. If this could be done, it would not only gradually bring her back to normality again, but it might, eventually, bring the young man back, too, if he really loves her and it is really wise for him to marry her.

So, instead of trying to persuade B.M. to return, I suggest that these parents try to enlist the help of some of the girl's friends in drawing her out of the depression into which she has fallen. Certainly she must have friends who care about her, and are concerned about her welfare. If they would come to see her, and make a real effort to get her to join them in their various activities, in time she would very likely yield to their persuasion, and little by little become interested in life again.

Somehow, it seems to me, that this should be the approach to the problem at this time, and I think it would be more effective in the long run, and from all points of view, than anything else the father could do.

Women's Institute

(Bethel-Zion W.I.)

BETHEL-ZION — The February meeting of Bethel-Zion Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Ralph Sills with an attendance of 13 members, one visitor and three children.

The president, Mrs Morden Brough, opened the meeting.

A nominating committee of Mrs. C. Cronkright, Mrs. Clarence Ketcheson and Miss Helen Tummon was nominated to bring in the new slate of officers for the coming year. It was decided to give the Bethel-Zion hockey team a $25. donation.

Mrs. Roscoe Robson read a poem, "My Garden in Winter", The Motto, "The Life of St. Valentine" was given by Mrs. Clifford Ketcheson. Mrs. Cecil Ketcheson sent a box of fancy candy, which was passed around and sampled.

At this point, Mrs. Brough introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Violet Elliott, the district president who gave an interesting paper on, "Our Women's Institutes, and Our Homes."

Mrs. Beatty, on behalf of the Institute presented Mrs. Elliott with a lovely cup and saucer.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

STIRLING

Soil, Crop Improvement Assoc. Completes 1954 Reports

STIRLING — The Hastings County Soil and Crop Improvement Association has completed its report of 1954 under the direction of the Hastings branch of The Ontario Department of Agriculture, Stirling, Ontario.

Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, as secretary - treasurer, has released the slate of officers for 1955 as follows:—

OFFICERS AND DIRECTORS

Past president, Ridley Wallbridge, Belleville, No. 3; President, Fred Campbell, Foxboro; 1st vice - president, Allen Ketcheson, Madoc, No. 1; 2nd vice-president, Basil Kuglin, Foxboro; secretary-treasurer, A. O. Dalrymple, Stirling.

DIRECTORS:—

Harold Detlor, Stirling, No. 4; Douglas Ketcheson, Foxboro; Douglas Pyear, Frankford, No. 3; Clifford Ketcheson, Halloway; Bruce Martin, Corbyville; Charles Treverton, Plainfield; Fred Robinson, Corbyville; Joe E. Walsh, Shannonville; Harold Walsh, Corbyville; Lorne Hagerman, Harold; Glenn Heath, Stirling, No. 1; Ivan Sarles, Harold, No. 1; Geo. Wood, Ivanhoe, No. 1; Thomas Kellty, Thomasburg, No. 2; Clifford Mitz, Ivanhoe, No. 1; Lindsay Sills, West Huntingdon; Frank Foster, Tweed, No. 2; Bernard J. Hunt, Tweed, No. 2; Donald Martin, Tweed, No. 2; Irwin McCoy, Marmora, No. 1; John McGreggor, Marmora, No. 1; Carl Bird, Marmora, No. 1; William J. Stewart, Madoc; Bruce Robinson, Madoc, No. 1; Philo Harris, Madoc, No. 2; Gordon Davis, Greenview; Jack McAlpine, Maynooth; Perry Faul, The Ridge.

While it was impossible to give accurate yields (as it had to be done by estimates), however, the reports have been summarized and do provide valuable information.

The co-operative regional tests of soybeans in the county were carried out at two farms—Carman Huffman, Corbyville, and Philo and Harold Harris, Madoc. The varieties were Acme, Mandarin K.A.S.; Mandarin, Ottawa; Comet, Flambeau; Capital and Hardome.

GOOD POSSIBILITIES

Soybeans have good possibilities as a cash crop in the county, but they must be sown on a field that is clean of weeds, and with a reasonable high fertility. The plots at Madoc were sown the end of May and harvested on the 20th of October. "Hurricane Hazel" did a bit of damage in shelling beans.

Mr. Harry Coulter, county weed inspector, supervised the spraying of a field of chicory at Marysville, and the results were quite satisfactory.

Weeds were also sprayed in sweet corn at the Carter farm at Thomasburg.

Regional tests of silage corn were made in co-operation with the Kemptville Agricultural school and their staff under the direction of Mr. Parks who secured the yields. The plots were on the farms of Ridley Wallbridge, Belleville, and Carman Huffman, Corbyville. The early silage corn of hybrid varieties were Dekalb 240, Dekalb 65, Funks G 176, Funks G 10, Pride K 300, Pride B 38A, Pioneer 382, Pfister 56, Pfister 44. The late varieties were Pioneer 349, Dekalb 404A, Pride D 66, Funks G 30A, Funk G 77A, Pfister 270, and Pfister 244.

GRAIN CORN TEST

The regional test of grain corn was located at the farm of Mr. Basil Kuglin, Foxboro, on spring ploughed clay loam soil. The plots yielded from a low of 50 to a high of 75 bushel per acre.

The Warwick Seed Company provided over two bushel of seed for the tests and the grain was planted by Ridley Wallbridge, Douglas Ketcheson, Lloyd Shepherd, Peter Bowlby, Earl Badgley and Garnet Sarles.

Plots of varieties of Winter Wheat were located on the farms of Allen Ketcheson, Madoc, and Basil Kuglin, Foxboro. The varieties used were Genesee, Dawbul, Cornell, Rideau and Dawson's Golden Chaff.

It was the consensus of opinion that winter hardiness will have to be improved before varieties of Winter Barley can be profitably grown in Hastings County.

Plots of Oats were located on the farms of Messrs. William and Harold Detlor, Stirling, and Mr. Allen Ketcheson, Madoc. The varieties were Beaver, Ajax, Abegweit, Lanark, Clinton, Rodney and Roxton.

BARLEY PLOTS

Plots of Barley were located on the farm of Mr. Ridley Wallbridge, Belleville, and the varieties included Montcalm, O.A.C. No. 21, Brant and Fort and they were planted about May 20th, 1954.

It has been the feeling for some time that more information should be available on various grass and clover mixtures for lowland areas, so with this thought in mind, the following mixtures were placed on the farm of Mr. Phillip Carr, Stirling, varieties included Empire Birdsfoot Trefoil, Climax Timothy, Brown Grass, Reed Canary Grass, Ladino Clover, Brown Top, Alsike, Timothy, N.Z. Wild White, Orchard Grass, Meadow Fescue, White Dutch. It is hoped in 1955 to gather more information on the growth and suitability of these mixtures.

Mr. Allen Ketcheson tried out a plot of Perennial Rye, and the farm of Mr. Burrell Bateman, Madoc, was used for a project on soil fertility. There was a distinct difference in grain growth on the plot where 4-24-12 fertilizer was applied.

The Hastings' Soil and Crop Improvement Association has over a period of years, been in co-operation with the Crops Branch of the Department of Agriculture in connection with the problem of leafy spurg on a farm near Stirling. Mr. Ken Fallis, fieldman for the Crops Branch, has suggested a spray mixture which will probably control this weed.

CORN LAND TOUR

A Corn-land tour was arranged in October between Prince Edward and Hastings counties. Mr. Douglas Parks discussed the varieties.

Twilight meetings were held in July at three farms and were of benefit to those who availed themselves of the opportunity to attend.

This association supported the 4H and Junior Farmer Seed Judging competition and purchased a lovely tray as first prize. Ted Burnside, Madoc, was high contestant in a field of 59 entrants. The association gave some support in paying freight costs on grain or potatoes in order to assist the 4H clubs.

In 1954, there were 38 members in the potato clubs, and 32 in the grain clubs.

At the annual meeting held in Stirling community hall, Mr. J. B. Nelson, associate director of the Farm Economics Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, was the discussion leader.

During the year a complimentary directors' luncheon is held, and exhibitors are encouraged to enter their seed at the Central Ontario Spring show.

DRAINAGE

A special "Drainage Day" was held in August, at the farm of Ridley Wallbridge, under the direction of Mr. Frank Parish and his staff.

The Hastings county council provides a grant of $125 and the Ontario Department of Agriculture provides $250 for land use.

SOIL TESTS

The Kemptville Agricultural School, Soils Department, has conducted a helpful and interesting test of various samples of soil in the eastern counties of Ontario and this is an aid to the farmer.

In 1955, it is hoped to eradicate more weeds and with the co-operation of everyone this is no doubt but what the year ahead will be even more successful than the one just concluded.

CHRYSLER STRIKE

In commenting on the agreement Mr. Burt said he was "very happy" with its terms.

"I feel very good about it," he said. "I'm very pleased we were able to come to agreement without a strike, particularly in view of the long strike we've just finished at the Ford of Canada plants."

Another union official said the new contract would set a pattern for other UAW locals to follow.

"We've won several points that no other company has given its workers," he said. "I think this agreement is probably the best in Canada right now."

The agreement was reached in an atmosphere of tense, drawn-out waiting.

The stewards and committeemen of the Chrysler unit of UAW's Local 195 waited in the union hall for 14 hours for notification from the union negotiators as to whether the strike was on or off.

If the Chrysler plant had been closed by a strike, the action could have wrecked the corporation's plans to regain a leading position in the "Big Three" automobile production race.

The company has recently spent an estimated $50,000,000 to expand its production facilities, and 2,000 extra workers were hired two months ago to step up production of new cars and trucks.

The three plants are now turning out about 2,100 cars every week.

CANADA OBSERVES V.O.N. WEEK, FEB. 20-26

The attendance of a V.O.N. Nurse in the home after the arrival of a new baby can make life much easier for the mother and family. The Victorian Order of Nurses will provide instruction and demonstration on the proper care and handling of the baby.

In 1954 The Belleville V.O.N. made 1,218 visits to mothers and babies.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber (Mother of 5)

Peace, it's wonderful, especially for your little one before and after meals. A bit of relaxation for baby at these times will do a lot to keep baby relaxed about eating. Does as much for digestion as disposition—(yours too!)

Parental P. S. Remind yourself to substitute "grin" for "grim" while feeding baby. Attitudes are contagious, and extra spoonfuls are often made more acceptable by a smile.

Relief—it's wonderful, especially for teething babies. Gerber's Teething Biscuits are smooth - surfaced and extra-firm to bring soothing relief to baby's tender gums . . . provide plenty of biting satisfaction as well. Package-wrapped in aluminum foil to preserve freshness—individually wrapped in cellophane.

Cue for wooing shy ones. Some of the most successful visiting adults I know, make friends with shy year-olds by "delaying action." Paying no attention to the little one at the outset, often arouses curiosity and causes the lad or lass to come to you. Once interest has been indicated, you can usually further the friendship with a chain of jingly keys, a bright-colored hankie or most anything you may have in your pocket or purse.

Another Cue for wooing small-fry—THE GERBER BABY DOLL, a $3.75 value for only $2.00 and 12 Gerber's Baby Food labels—12 in. high with all the charm of the original Gerber Baby. Completely safe, with vinyl plastic head, rubber body, movable arms and legs. Comes with diaper, bib, nurser, Gerber's Cereal play boxes, cereal dish and spoon. Mail to Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods Limited, Box 68, Toronto 18 Canada. Offer good only in Canada. Expires Dec. 31, 1955.

Madoc Twp. Council

ELDORADO—Township council met on Monday for the February meeting with all members present. Minutes of the former meeting were read and approved.

A resolution was received from the County prohibiting the use of dogs to hunt deer in the 12 northern townships in the county. The council does not concur in this resolution but suggested that the Department be urged to raise the bounty on wolves, which is the real reason for the depletion of the deer population. A resolution was received from the township of Crowland as follows:

Increase unemployment insurance benefits by 50 per cent;

Extend the scope of the Act to cover all unemployed persons;

Remove present time limits on benefits so as to provide benefits during the full period of unemployment.

The council does not concur in parts 1 and 3 but does concur in part 2.

Hagerman - Franks — that the Salvation Army (Tweed Branch) be given a grant of $25.00. Cd.

Franks - Ketcheson — That the township road superintendent's Statement of expenditures of $2,026.34 for January be approved. — Cd.

Pigden - Hagerman — that the Council go into committee as a whole on by-laws with the Reeve in the chair. — Cd.

A by-law was introduced, read a second and third time and finally passed appropriating $24,000 for road purposes for 1955 subject to the approval of the Department of Highways. Council resumed.

Hagerman — Franks— That the following accounts be paid: E. T. Naylor $8, Treasurer's Bond Municipal World $18, subscriptions, Moira River Conservation Authority $315., H.E.P.C. $405 and $6.07 accounts, Frank Palmer $33.39, re E. Lessard, Robt. O'Riordon $34.20 re H. Baker, Eva Moore $15.00 — Cd.

Pigden - Ketcheson — that Council advertise for tenders to crush 6,000 cubic yards of gravel for 1955.—Cd.

Franks - Hagerman — that council adjourn to meet on Monday, March 7th, at 1 p.m.—Cd.

RAWDON

Federated Women's Institutes Adopt Ceylon Gift Plan Project

RAWDON — The Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario have taken as their project for 1955 a gift plan for Ceylon, under the leadership of their president, Mrs. Gordon McPhatter. It is hoped to raise over $5,000 to provide equipment for four villages.

The next triennial conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World convenes in Ceylon in 1956 and the Canadian delegates will be able to have a first-hand view of the equipment contributed by the Women's Institutes of Ontario.

The A.C.W.W. headquarters at London, England, gives a vivid picture of the work in Ceylon, and says in part:

"Twenty-five years ago a group of far-seeing, public-spirited women met in Colombo, and founded the "Lanka Mahila Samiti," the Women's Institutes of Ceylon.

Very few western women can realize the magnitude of their task. They had to fight illiteracy, disease and poverty in villages so remote that they had no roads. They had to set up craft schools, so that their members could earn enough money to have enough leisure to learn other things. They had to build up an organization that every woman, no matter how poor or illiterate could join, an organization that would give a woman pride in herself, her community and her country.

COLOMBO SCHOOL

These leaders set up a school near Colombo. Here they taught girls from the village, giving them a good basic training in handicrafts, agriculture, health, which included sanitation, nutrition, maternity and child welfare, first aid, and lastly home management. Some of these girls later became salaried rural workers. The majority, however, work on a voluntary basis and give their services willingly in order that their own village may be a better place to live.

The organization has 850 villages and a membership of 50,000, but there is still much to be accomplished. Six hundred girls have completed their training at the Kaduwela school. The value of their work is immeasurable. Five years ago a remote village in the north central province asked to be affiliated with the W. I. organization. One of these girls went directly to that village to give them help of some kind. There was no road to that particular village, so she travelled on foot through a forest invested with wild beasts and dodged a herd of elephants as she travelled. The village was primitive, the huts were dirty, sanitation unknown, and the women had never been beyond their cluster of mud huts. Today the village is flourishing, the women are earning good money from their handicrafts, and they have built a community hut.

EQUIPMENT SUPPLIES

It is to villages like this that the members of Ontario Women's Institutes have been asked to contribute their money in order to purchase films, projectors, sewing machines, stoves and various other household equipment.

In April, 1954, the various groups in Ceylon provided a headquarters in Colombo. Here, there is room for the staff, a shop where handicrafts can be displayed and sold and a cafeteria, where any member coming to town can have a meal and meet her friends.

The villages provided most of the funds for this venture and A.C.W.W. says: "Some members went without a mid-day meal so that a few bricks could be added to the building. Many women sold their handicrafts or garden produce to buy tiles." Thus, brick by brick, built on acts of love and kindness, this building stands as an embodiment of faith and courage triumphant.

This lovely building is indeed a great achievement and a fitting memorial to the work of those who have pioneered in Ceylon for the past 25 years. True "The Lanka Mahila Samiti" has a record of which any organization might well be proud.

When Lord Salisbury dedicated the new building last April he said in part, "So long as this Institute movement shall last, democracy will not die in Ceylon."

Lady Coomaraswany and Lady De Soya, both of Ceylon, visited Canada in 1953 and early this year Lady Coomaraswany is going to Thailand by special invitation from the ambassador in Burma. She is to talk of the work of the A.C.W.W. and of her own Institute work all over Ceylon.

DONATIONS ACCEPTED

While it will not be necessary for women of Institute organizations in Ontario to give up a mid-day meal in order to help this project for Ceylon, still Mrs. McPhatter does urge that each Institute help this worthy cause by giving a donation, large or small, to buy equipment for this plucky little country that has done so much to help herself.

Institute members all over Ontario are also being asked to contribute 25 cents per member this year in order to build up a fund that will enable four provincial delegates to visit Ceylon in 1956 at a cost of $2,000 each for travel and necessary expense. The A.C.W.W. have had to limit the delegation to the 1956 convention due to the lack of accommodation.

Vial Contains Salt Made From 'Heavy Water'

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Chemical analysis of a vial of mysterious powder belonging to prospector Angus MacDonald of Beardmore has indicated it is "a salt made from heavy water and more or less in the dormant stage," a source close to the RCMP investigation said Tuesday.

The source said the RCMP has turned up a second vial in the possession of a British Columbia army veteran.

MacDonald turned over the vial to police in Port Arthur and started a flurry of official and unofficial investigation. He told police he got it from the Dutch underground during the Second World War.

The vial still is believed to be in the radium vault at Port Arthur General Hospital although hospital authorities have asked the National Research Council at Ottawa to take it over.

MAY BE USEFUL

The analysis indicated that the salt may be worth only about $25 for its radioactive properties but might be invaluable in aiding scientists in heavy water experiments.

The Germans during the Second World War relied heavily on heavy water in their attempts to make atomic bombs.

The RCMP officers in charge of the case here have refused to say anything about the matter except that it is "under consideration."

Marmora

MARMORA—Mrs. W.R. Aunger returned home on Saturday from a two week's visit with her sister Mrs. Stanley Finch, in Rawdon Township, when she also attended the funeral of the late Mr. S. Finch.

Mr. Charles Leach, of Toronto, renewed acquaintances here over the week-end.

A successful rummage sale and bake sale was held in the Sanderson store on Friday and Saturday afternoons with proceeds going towards the cost of the new swings on the Public School grounds.

Here's news for people who suffer needlessly from constipation

You've probably tried lots of laxatives. But do you know about Kellogg's All-Bran? It's the original natural laxative cereal pioneered by W. K. Kellogg nearly 40 years ago. All-Bran is a delicious dish that promotes comfortable elimination.

Relief from Constipation

The greatest advantage of All-Bran is that it corrects the cause of irregularity due to insufficient bulk. Chemical or drug-type laxatives, on the other hand, are intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage. All-Bran, is made from the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel and supplies natural food bulk. Just eat daily a one ounce serving for breakfast and drink plenty of water. It will improve your "Intestinal Tone" so necessary to comfortable regularity.

Satisfaction Guaranteed or Double Your Money Back

All-Bran is a wholesome, good tasting cereal that has helped millions. We'll prove to you that Kellogg's All-Bran will give you gentle, effective relief from constipation within 10 days or give you double your money back. But be sure you get Kellogg's, the one and only All-Bran. Kellogg's, London, Ontario.

Pretty Czech Skater Fled Because She Wanted Liberty, 'One Thing I Could Not Have'

HOME AT LAST

Dr. Otto Strasser, a prominent member of Hitler's Nazi party until he founded a revolutionary group that clashed with Der Fuehrer, is shown leaving London for his return to Germany. Strasser had been in exile for 22 years. He went to England from Canada, but was kept in a detention cell at the airport until put aboard the airliner for home. (Central Press Canadian).

LINZ, Austria (Reuters)—Miroslava Nachodska, 29-year-old Czech girl skater who disappeared from the Czech skating team in Vienna after competing in world championships there last week, told a press conference here today that she fled "because I wanted the one thing I could not have, personal freedom."

Pretty Miroslava, who came in 18th in a field of 22 in the women's world championships, made her final decision to flee less than 24 hours before she was due to return to Prague Sunday.

She said she managed to get away from other members of the team and the "political supervisor" who was watching them in a crowded street about noon Saturday while they were on a last-minute shopping tour.

CABBIE HELPS

She told the press conference in a hotel here how she got back to her hotel in the British sector of Vienna, picked up her bags and rushed in a taxi to the United States embassy.

The driver noted her Czech accent and her excitement and drove her instead to the American escapee centre reception office, where she applied for asylum.

She now is being cared for by the U. S. escapee program in the American zone of Austria.

Miroslava said: "In Czechoslovakia today I personally might be considered to have had everything one could hope for. Like few others in the country I was well paid, could travel, and could sometimes even buy things abroad.

LIKE ABIRD

"I was nationally known. I had everything but freedom and security.

"I felt like a bird in a cage, with freedom to move about in the cage but not beyond."

The pretty skater said "lack of political reliability" affected her even as an athlete. At home she had to watch every word she said, and did not dare wear slacks "for fear they would say I was wearing West-style clothes."

"Anybody could report me, anyone who might have a real or imagined reason for disliking me."

Because she was "unreliable," she said, she had been prevented from performing in the West since 1947. She was only allowed to come to Vienna because she had outclassed all other Czech skaters.

MET CANADIANS

During the contest she met Canadian figure-skater Carol Jean Pachl, who came originally from Prague. She saw Miss Pachl and her father Saturday morning just before they left, but she was still undecided then whether to make a break for freedom and how to do it.

Miss Pachl, who placed sixth in this year's tournament, came to Canada with her parents in 1948 after her father's factory was nationalized by the Reds. She has since lived in Montreal.

But two hours after she saw the Pachls, when the team was out shopping under the watchful eye of their woman "political supervisor," she saw her chance and asked permission to visit another store to buy some lipstick. Then she rushed back to her hotel, got her luggage and jumped into the taxi.

Asked about her future plans, she said she hopes to go to the U. S. or Canada where she could carry on with her career as a skater, "but be free to move about as I please and know that nothing but my skating ability will determine my standing."

Ray Bauer of Waterloo told Kitchener newspaper men Tuesday how he met Miss Nachodska in Prague in 1949 when he was in Europe with the Sudbury Wolves. He said she told him then that she planned to flee to the West, and asked him to get in touch with several of her Czech friends exiled in Canada.

Air Collision Warning Device Is Said Needed

OTTAWA (CP) — Development of a collision warning device for aircraft is recommended in the report of a board that investigated the midair crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane and an RCAF trainer last April 9 over Moose Jaw, Sask.

The report on Canada's worst plane accident, which killed 37 persons, was tabled in the Commons Tuesday by Transport Minister Marler. It was submitted to the transport department last June 24.

The board suggested the transport department try to adapt some wartime or post-war proximity warning device, though it did not think radar would be economically practicable at this time.

For conditions of good visibility, the board said, flashing lights or special paint might be used to catch pilots' attention.

SOME IMPLEMENTED

The board also recommended a series of regulations for maintaining planes at various levels dependent on their flight direction and visibility conditions. These have been largely implemented by the transport department.

Mr. Marler said other recommendations are under consideration.

One of these is that elementary flying training be conducted clear of airways and that flying training establishments be located at points some distance from the airways.

The Moose Jaw crash occurred when a Harvard trainer from a nearby flying school cut across the flight path of the airliner.

The report blamed the crash on two factors:

Failure on the part of the pilots of both aircraft to maintain a proper lookout, though the responsibility for keeping out of the way was on the RCAF machine.

VIEW BLOCKED

The fact that the climbing Harvard flew through altitudes normally used by aircraft flying the east-west airway.

The board also said there were indications the TCA plane's window post hid the Harvard from view.

In this connection, it recommended a study to determine the pilot's field of vision in all Candian civil aircraft.

It also recommended that all air lines make it mandatory that pilots remain at the controls and maintain a proper lookout within a radius of 25 nautical miles from an airport.

However, it said this recommendation does not reflect any conclusion that either of TCA's pilots was absent from the flight deck at the time of the accident.

TUGBOAT SINKS

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—The 50-foot tugboat, Eccles II, sank at her moorings Tuesday at nearby Port Dalhousie after breaking ice in the harbor. Officials said the tug, owned by Port Weller Drydock Limited, sprang a bow leak. She will be towed to drydock for repairs. It was the third time in 13 years that the tug has sunk.

No Information On Thailand Says Pearson

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday the international truce supervisory commission in Laos has investigated reports that the Communists are threatening neighboring Thailand from northern Laos. Canada, India and Poland are members of the three-nation commission.

Mr. Pearson informed a questioner that Thailand for many months has been concerned about a threat to its border and the possibility had been discussed of broaching the matter in the United Nations.

The situation in the Thailand-Laos area was "unsettled" but Canada had no specific information to confirm that Communist forces were massing on the Thailand border.

KISSING THE BRIDE

Ottawa Fears Rideau River May Go on Rampage in Spring

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa residents along the Rideau river are hoping for sunny days and cool nights this spring.

Given those weather conditions, a special flood control committee told board of control Tuesday, and the unusually-heavy, 71-inch snowfall this winter over much of the area drained by the river can melt without "any serious results."

"However, a sudden prolonged mild spell or a warm rain could produce a flow capable of serious flooding."

Mayor Charlotte Whitton, during consideration of flood - control measures, suggested the possibility of invoking martial law if necessary to move residents from flood-threatened sections.

The river curves along Ottawa's south side, then flows north between the city and suburban Eastview, emptying into the Ottawa river. Its banks are lowest adjacent to south-side housing developments and along the Eastview shore.

Controller George Nelms, reporting for the committee, said gauges have been set up along the river to record its rate of flow. When the flow became dangerously high, residents in threatened sections would be warned to flee.

Should they fail to heed the warning until it would be "almost certain death" for firemen and police to attempt rescues, said Miss Whitton, "I would use my powers to declare an emergency and call in the military."

The committee said conditions "never were riper" for flooding in Ottawa's history. The capital's worst flood was in 1901. The committee offered an indication of what could be expected should possible floods this year be worse.

It produced a map showing an area under water in 1901 that would cover a third of what is now suburban Eastview and a good piece of Ottawa's southern outskirts.

Fears Imports Of Milk Powder From Australia

OTTAWA (CP) — A Canadian dairy authority Tuesday expressed fear that low-priced surplus milk powder from Australia and New Zealand may be imported into Canada, threatening the future of Canadian producers.

James Jenkins, president of the Ontario Concentrated Milk Producers Association, said in a prepared address Australia's milk powder production was so large that plants there were closing. The United Kingdom market was "glutted" with the surplus.

There was nothing to prevent imports of milk powder from Australia and New Zealand coming into Canada and therefore low-priced production from these countries was a "constant threat" to Canadian producers, he said.

Mr. Jenkins' address was prepared for delivery at the association's annual meeting. However, because of illness he was unable to attend and the speech was read by S. George Lowry, vice-president.

In his address, Mr. Jenkins observed that the Canadian government recently allowed New Zealand to ship 2,250,000 pounds of her cheese into Canada. He quoted Agriculture Minister Gardiner as saying this import was not of sufficient volume to hurt Canadian industry.

"It won't do it any good," said Mr. Jenkins. "Our industry should be protected against the import of any diary products as long as there is an adequate supply in Canada."

Govt. Does Not Dislike Word Royal Says P.M.

OTTAWA (CP) — It would be "nonsense" to suggest that the government dislikes the word "royal," Prime Minister St. Laurent said Tuesday.

He was asked by Hon. George Drew, Opposition leader, about a New York Times report that the Canadian Pacific Railway wanted to name a new train "Royal Canadian" but that the government had objected and the plan was dropped.

Mr. St. Laurent said he hadn't heard about the report but that he would look into it. The report "surprised" him because it would be "nonsense" to say the government disliked the word "royal."

Canada had a monarchical constitution and he had always said that this was the best kind of constitution for the Canadian people. Royal consent must be obtained for use of the word "royal." The Queen was not only the Queen of the United Kingdom but the Queen of Canada.

REPUBLICANISM FOREIGN

Any suggestion of any republican feeling, Mr. St. Laurent said, is foreign to him and to any member of the Commons. There was loud applause.

Mr. Drew agreed with Mr. St. Laurent's sentiments but said it still would be desirable to have a statement as soon as possible on the exact point he had raised.

It was the first question put by Mr. Drew this session. He returned to the Commons last week after recuperating from an attack of meningitis last fall.

CCF Leader Coldwell asked whether the word "royal" should not be confined to government organizations. Otherwise, the government might be bombarded with requests for its use. Mr. St. Laurent said it is usually so confined but there are a few exceptions, such as the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

Long Process of Consolidation Lies Ahead of AFL and CIO Once Agreement Nailed Down

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long process of consolidation lies ahead of the AFL and CIO, once their merger agreement is nailed down.

Behind the merger deal signed by leaders of the labor groups in Miami, Fla., two weeks ago was their feeling they had stopped making any big gains and that only by blending forces could unions progress in dealing with employers, organizing new members and achieving political aims.

These leaders don't intend to stop with the merging of their federations into one 15,000,000-member organization. They plan to help "weak sister" unions by "encouraging" them to join, either by mergers or working agreements with other unions in the same or similar industries.

SMALL SPRING MERGER

One such merger of separate CIO unions was already in the works before the AFL-CIO pact. The 100,000-member Oil Workers Union and the 85,000 - member Chemical Workers Union plan to complete a merger this spring and then tee off on new organizing campaigns in the chemical and plastics industries.

Similarly, the once-bitterly-rival AFL and CIO Textile Workers unions held a preliminary merger meeting some months ago.

Thus far there has been remarkably little opposition from union leaders to the AFL-CIO merger agreement. The CIO executive board is expected to go through the formality of approval at a meeting here Thursday.

The next step involves drawing up a constitution for the giant new federation and its ratification by separate AFL and CIO conventions, then by a joint convention. Leaders say all this will be accomplished by autumn.

RAILMEN INTERESTED

Several of the big independent unions, notably the brotherhoods of Railroad Trainmen and Firemen-Enginemen, have indicated interest in joining the proposed new federation. John L. Lewis has withheld comment, but even if the 75-year-old chief of the independent United Mine Workers Union is reluctant, it is believed his union basically is interested in joining.

While the merger agreement calls for top jobs in the new federation to go to present AFL leaders, it specifies that organizing activities will be directed by the present leaders of the CIO. The union chiefs are talking ambitiously of seeking millions of new members.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

W.A. Sponsors Successful 'At Home'

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mrs. Frank Sandercock, Mrs. James Sandercock and Mrs. Donald Sandercock were co-hostesses for an "At Home" for the members and friends of White's Woman's Association on Thursday evening, with about 65 in attendance.

The president, Mrs. Casey Ketcheson, called the gathering to order. Mrs. W. A. Jeffrey was pianist.

The potluck supper for March 17th was discussed. The program conveners are already working on the program. Two donations of $1 were received.

The program convener, Mrs. A. Hockaday, called on Mr. Middleton to act as chairman for the program which opened with a recitation of "Welcome," by Miss Barbara Sandercock, with Mrs. Verna Waldron as accompanist.

The Misses Marilyn Jones and Joan Rush of Aiken's district, favored with a piano duet which was much enjoyed.

The Misses Nancy and Suzanne Hockaday contributed a vocal duet, "The Doggie in the Window," which was well received. Miss Betty Sandercock recited "Valentine." Mr. Middleton added some witty sayings.

Mrs. Hunt and Mrs. Hockaday invited all to a penny sale which included home cooking, candy, toilet articles and miscellaneous items. There were many contributions, so the majority received one article and a few received two and three.

There were also other articles, such as socks and aprons for sale and it was felt that the evening was a success, both financially and socially.

Refreshments were served and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the hostesses.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Mr. and Mrs. James Palmer, Beth, Mary and Michael were Sunday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Woodley, of Belleville.

Mrs. C. Rush spent last Wednesday with Mrs. Donald Rush, of Wesley.

Last Monday afternoon a Valentine party was held at Quinte View School.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young were Saturday afternoon callers of Mr. and Mrs. William Linn.

MOUNTAIN VIEW

Neighbors, Relatives Honor Young Couple

MOUNTAIN VIEW.—On Saturday evening around fifty neighbors, friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Joyce (nee Lucille Jerom), gathered in the church basement to honor the newly married couple with a miscellaneous shower.

A short program was held, consisting of community singing with Yvonne Poste presiding at the piano; several vocal numbers by Janice an dHilda Joyce and a piano solo by Betty Ellen Sprague.

The bride and bridegroom were asked to take chairs at the front and an address was read by Yvonne Poste. George Sprague and Lawrence Poste then carried in a gaily decorated basket of gifts, which was filled many times.

After the gifts had been unwrapped and duly admired, the bride and bridegroom thanked everyone and invited them to their home in Malton.

Mr. Seymour Hamilton then read an address and presented them with a lovely white leather bound Bible from Mountain View Sunday school.

The ladies of the community served refreshments and a happy social hour was enjoyed.

Deseronto

DESERONTO — Mrs. George Soal entertained the members of the Ladies' Euchre Club at its regular meeting. Prizes for high score were won by Mrs. J. Gartland, and Mrs. C. M. Luffman; consolation by Mrs. Harry Bender and travelling by Mrs. C. McKenna.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

HOBBY CLUB

The Deseronto Hobby Club held its regular weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. William Crabbe, with 16 members and one visitor present, and Mrs. R. K. Jackson presiding.

Various projects and booths for the Hobby fair were discussed and agreed upon.

The members are hoping to be able to announce definite plans regarding this event in the near future.

Mrs. Ross Sexsmith gave two interesting and informative readings, "Memories of a Meandering Minister" by John Fisher, and "The Heart of a Peacock", by Emily Carr.

Mrs. William Schell conducted a most instructive contest which enabled the members to brush up many forgotten geography lessons.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. William Schell when Mrs. Sandy Harvey and Mrs. H. Transue will be in charge of the program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by her committee, Mrs. Russell Boyce, Mrs. R. K. Jackson and Mrs. Sandy Harvey.

Canadiens Want No Part Of Leafs In League Semi-Finals, Says Irvin

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

NEARING THE END!

The Memos scored a 7-4 victory over the Brockville Magedomas but not before the down-easters had tossed a second-period scare into them. The Memos had a four-goal lead going into the second heat, but the "Madgies" reared back with three straight in ten minutes to come within striking distance. The Bouchermen hit their stride again in the third chapter and outscored the homesters 3-1 to clinch the victory and a share of third place with the Whitby Dunlops.

The Memos and Whitby each have two games left with our side playing host to the second-place Kingston Goodyears here Friday night and trekking to Clinton Saturday for the schedule wind-up. The Dunlops entertain Peterborough tomorrow night and clash with Cornwall at home on Saturday night. Kingston has two games left. They meet Brockville tonight and are here Friday.

Mathematically the Memos have a chance to reach second place if they defeat Kingston and Clinton, Kingston loses one of their two tilts, and Whitby drops one of their games. It is anybody's battle yet for the last three playoff spots, as Cornwall can scarcely be ousted from top spot.

BATTLE OF THE BLUES

There's a story going around police and firemen hockey circles, that the boys have reached a rivalry point where they are not speaking with one another.

It started, the story goes, when scouts of the opposing forces, who were wandering far afield in a search for talent, accidentally bumped into one another. The limbs of the law charge the smoke-eaters are drafting Trenton talent, while "Warpy's Wallopers" say the gendarmes have sent feelers out as far as Peterborough.

The firemen charge, too, that the coppers are playing with blackjacks secreted in their uniforms while the police counter with the assertion that the "smokies" have certain lengths of hose hidden in their sweaters.

In the meantime both teams are practicing hard for the big battle scheduled for Memorial Arena, March 1, when the squads tangle in their fourth annual ice-battle in aid of the Crippled Children's Fund of the Belleville Shrine Club. "Private Eyes" of both teams are hovering in the vicinity during the practice hours trying to get pre-views of the opposition's strength.

One police scout reported that a large, buxom lady was on hand at one practice and when someone yelled "Warpy" she nearly jumped out of her bustle. Besides "she" had forgotten to shave.

Blinky "Pelissero of the Yard" stated they found a fireman spy under one of the benches in their dressing room the other night. His plea was he was there to enforce the no-smoking rule.

Seriously, it should be an exciting game as rivalry is keen between the teams and both squads will go all out for victory. The tickets are only a quarter each, so how about buying one the first time you are downtown.

• • •

SHOULD BE GOOD

And speaking of rivalry this grudge battle between Belleville's Eddie Schamerhorn and Trenton's Roy Deshane, which takes place at the big boxing show in the Trenton RCAF sports hangar February 28, looms up as being a bitterly fought scrap. Both boys are training hard and both camps are freely predicting victory. It should be a toe-to-toe humdinger of a slugging match and boxing fans should not pass it up.

Don Wallace, who headlines the card with Gunner Eddie Durelle, of the RCA, Picton, won a smashing victory over Willie Barbois, Monday night, and the gunner, a brother of Yvon Durelle, will have his hands full in the topliner. It, too, should prove a hard-fought battle and one that fully deserves topflight billing.

Meanwhile, Sergeant Hub Smith, matchmaker of the show, has lined up several other attractive bouts that sees the cream of Ontario boxing crop in action. Corporal Don Spears, a Kingston army fighter, who recently won his bout in the Newsboys' Boxing Show in Toronto, appears in a five rounder, and the corporal, a hard-hitting, aggressive type, should add plenty of color to an already colorful card.

Then, of course, there is the "Battle of the B's," a right jolly old brawl that will see Mayor John Both of Belleville, and Mayor Ross Burtt, of Trenton, square off in the ring. Reports have it this should be quite a "go," with the town fans offering odds on their "champion." Careful, fellas, this Belleville chief magistrate packs quite a wallop.

Noted for Playoff Strength Quips Wily Habitants' Coach; Feels Toronto Has Advantage

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins are just about as important to Dick Irvin as his Montreal Canadiens, the National Hockey League team he coaches.

It may sound a little screwy, but Irvin is sort of banking on Bruins hitting a winning streak to help Canadiens in their bid for a Stanley Cup victory this season.

The 62-year-old coach wants Canadiens to nail down first place in the league race. That's natural. But, he doesn't want Canadiens to meet Toronto Maple Leafs in the Stanley Cup semi-finals. That's natural, too, says Irvin, because Leafs are notorious for this playoff strength.

Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings now are tied for first place with the playoffs only a month away. Leafs are third, 14 points behind the leaders and only three ahead of the fourth-place Bruins.

AFRAID OF LEAFS

If Bruins overtake Leafs and Canadiens end up first, Boston and Montreal meet in the semi-finals. That would put Toronto against the Wings in the other set. There are other possible combinations but Irvin wouldn't like them.

This is how he feels about Leafs: "Toronto is the only team in the league which has been playing playoff hockey right since the start of the season.

"The Leafs aren't worried about whether their play is interesting or dull. They know that when the playoffs come, all the clubs play defensively. That's what they (Leafs) do right through the season.

"Therefore, they will have an advantage."

JUST TALK?

Irvin's statements, however, may have been another one of his psychology moves. If Leafs get swelled heads from his complimentary remarks, Canadiens might be aided considerably in the Leaf-Canadien game at Montreal Thursday.

The last - place Chicago Black Hawks, who have never finished first in the NHL, meet Boston Bruins in St. Paul, Minn., tonight. If Hawks lose, they will be mathematically eliminated from the playoffs, for the eighth time in the last nine years.

A Boston win would hoist the fourth - place Bruins within one point of the slumping Maple Leafs.

Leafs could avert this by defeating the fifth-place Rangers at New York in tonight's other game.

The Boston-Chicago engagement will be St. Paul's first NHL game. Net proceeds will be turned over to the U.S. Olympic hockey team fund.

'Saskys Favored For Schoolboy Curling Crown

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY (CP)—Under the cool, steady guidance of Bayne Secord, Saskatchewan has become the favorite as the Dominion school bonspiel enters the fifth round today.

Saskatchewan with four wins faces Northern Ontario, New Brunswick and Manitoba today. Each rink plays three matches.

Other matches in the fifth round: Prince Edward Island vs Alberta, Manitoba vs Ontario, Nova Scotia vs Quebec and New Brunswick vs British Columbia.

The sixth round: British Columbia vs Quebec; Ontario vs Northern Ontario; Manitoba vs Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia vs Alberta.

Seventh round: Northern Ontario vs British Columbia; New Brunswick vs Nova Scotia; Alberta vs Ontario; Quebec vs Prince Edward Island.

ALMOST GIANT KILLER

Tuesday Saskatchewan received unexpected opposition from Nova Scotia who almost turned giant killer before going down 6-4 in the third round.

Ontario, undefeated after three rounds, lost out 9-8 to the Saskatoon rink in an exciting extra-end game in the fourth.

Prince Edward Island and Alberta after losing matches on Monday bounced back into contention with double victories Tuesday.

The island rink handed Northern Ontario their first loss in the third round with a 7-6 extra-end win, and then defeated British Columbia 10-7 in the fourth round.

SCORED SIX END

Alberta defeated Manitoba 9-6 in the third and posted a stunning 16-3 victory over Quebec in the fourth. The Ronnie Munro-skipped curlers from Red Deer high landed the biggest end of the bonspiel when they scored six on the ninth in their match with Quebec.

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick won their first games in the fourth round. Nova Scotia defeated Manitoba 9-7 and left the Manitoba rink marooned in the cellar with four losses.

New Brunswick, after trailing Northern Ontario for eight ends, exploded with a four on the ninth end and one on the 10th to win 9-7

LED AT FIRST

Northern Ontario was leading P.E.I. 7-3 after seven but the islanders scored singles on the eighth and ninth and then a nice shot by skip Barry MacDonald gave P.E.I. two in the final end to tie the score. In the extra end MacDonald's stone coasted nicely in past a Noranda guard, took out the shot and stayed for the winning point.

Ontario was five up before British Columbia scored a single in the fifth end. The Sarnia rink clicked for four three and two ends.

Northern Ontario has a 2-2 record, the same as Quebec, while British Columbia, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick each have one win against three losses.

Teepees Take Junior League Title But Only on Goals-Average Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

First place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League was settled Tuesday night but it took some adding and dividing to do it.

St. Catharines TeePees, highest scoring team in the league, won the title but it was only because of their scoring power. They lost to the sixth-place Galt Black Hawks 7-6 in Galt and in the process increased their season's goals-for total to 260.

Guelph Biltmores, who defeated the last-place Kitchener - Waterloo Canucks 6-5, in Kitchener tied Teeps for first-place in points but they couldn't match the high scoring production. In the goals-for, goals-against average they had to settle for second place on the strength of 211 goals for the season.

Third place in the league won't be decided until tonight in the final scheduled game of the year. Toronto Marlboros, one point up on the St. Michael's College Majors, meet the Majors in Toronto.

Although Kitchener finished last in the eight-team league, it was a Canuck player who turned in one of the most spectacular performances of the 1954-55 season.

Bob White scored three goals on three consecutive shots. They came within four minutes and 45 seconds of the second period.

Brian Webber had put the Bilts ahead 1-0 in the first period before White broke out at 1:50 of the second. He scored again at 5:58 and 6:35.

Guelph's Ron Howell also scored three goals, two in the second and one in the third period. His two goals were squeezed into 47 seconds, both while Kitchener was shorthanded.

Tom McCarthy and Bob Forham were the other Bilts marksmen. Angus Carrol and Whitey Youngsberg counted the other Canuck goals.

TeePees blew a 3-0 first period lead and from there on they were unable to hold down the unpredictable Hawks. They were up 6-4 with five minutes remaining in the game before they collapsed under Galt's steady power. The victory gave Hawks the sixth and last playoff spot.

Bob Beckett scored two of Galt's goals in the last five minutes of the game, including the winning counter at 18:51. Myon Stankiewicz, with two, Hec Lalande, John Sleaver and Gus Ronson were the other Hawk scorers.

Ed Hoekstra led the St. Catharines marksmen with two goals. Elmer Vasko, Mitch Plata, Ches Warchol and Ab McDonald rounded out the total.

DONATE $100,000

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP)—An initial donation of $100,000 by Boys, Inc., the charitable organization founded by Texans Clint Murchison and Sid Richardson to use horse-racing profits for the benefit of youths, was announced Tuesday. The donation to the Boys' Club of San Diego, the announcement said, was being advanced personally by Murchison and Richardson in the name of Boys, Inc.

Boys, Inc., owns 90 per cent of the Del Mar Turf Club, first track acquired by the Texans to advance their charitable plan.

Memos Defeat Brockville 7-4; Share Third Place With Whitby Dunlops

Score Three Goals in Third To Clinch Important Victory; Can Finish in Second Place

BROCKVILLE — (Special) — Belleville Memos climbed into a third place tie with Whitby Dunlops as a result of a 7-4 victory over Brockville Magedomas here last night.

Both Belleville and Whitby have two more games to play in the Eastern Ontario senior "B" hockey league schedule before playoffs. Brockville out of the running, has three games remaining.

Pressed hard by the eager Magedomas in the second period, Memos added to their one goal advantage in the third to clinch the game with three goals answered by only one Brockville effort. That third period was a real rouser and the hosts kept the nearly 320 fans hoping until the last two minutes when two clinching goals were scored.

It looked at the start of the game as though the Magedomas were going to idle along, not having any particular object in playing. That first period was a simple game of spoiling opponents' passing attacks with neither squad ambitious enough to make many threatening forays into foreign territory.

SOFT SHOOTING

There were only 16 shots on goal in the whole period and most of them would have had trouble denting a kleenex, shooting from the crease. The invaders managed to break into a 2-0 lead in the first period however. Both goals were scored in the last half of the frame.

Dugan fired a shot at the goal from the blue line but it was off course and Bettiol, pouring himself in on the net, slipped, going down the puck hit his skate and dribbled in past Chagron. The second Belleville goal was well deserved.

MacDonald was on the business end of a Goyer - Davey Jones attack. The passing effort beat both Hal Rockburn and Ray Trainor on the Brockville defence and Charron was drawn partly out of his cage.

The visitors scored the first two second period goals too, but the hosts retaliated with three of their own in the last half, to come within an ace of knotting it up.

Erwin Duncan shot around Hec Legris for the third Memos marker and the puck grazed under Charron into the centre of the net. Wade's counter a minute later at 8.54 was a screen shot and the Brockville netminder didn't see the puck until it was behind him. At this point the invaders were leading 4-0. Ray Trainor retaliated for the first Brockville goal at the midway mark of the centre period when he scored all alone from the blue line with a long low drive. Parisi had just returned to his cage after going after a Nobby Clarke breakaway seconds earlier. Marcel Legris scored two minutes later for the host's second when he slammed home a puck which had already been kicked out twice by Parisi.

The same Legris spun around Macy with two minutes to go in the middle frame and brought the Magedomas to within easy striking distance of the Memos.

Phil Charron blocked three rapid shots by MacDonald and Macy before Davey Jones finally clicked with a high close-in shot over the goalies left knee pads. With help from Trainor and Rockburn, Hunt scored the hosts' last marker of the night at 14.45, moving the double blue back to within a goal of the Memos again.

Dugan chalked up another for the winners at 18.41 by beating Hec Legris to the goal and slipping the rubber into a tiny crack in the left corner of the net. A minute later, with only seconds remaining, DeGray shot from five feet out into the centre of the net between the goalie's legs.

Brockville — goal, Charron; defence, Trainor and Rockburn; centre, Dagenais; wings, Gibson, M. Legris; subs, Davidson, Richardson, Clarke, Prevost, Hunt, Scott, H. Legris, Thompson.

Belleville — goal, Parisi; defence, Wilson, Macey; centre, Ed. Duncan; wings, Er. Duncan, DeGray; subs, Wade, Muckler, Goyer, MacDonald, D. Jones, Bettiol, P. Jones, Dugan, Day, Barclay.

Officials — Hap Shouldice and Stan Pratt.

Bulldogs Nip Indians 6-5 In Opener

WINDSOR (CP) — Jim Peters' second goal with only 19 seconds remaining gave Windsor Bulldogs a 6-5 victory over Stratford Indians in the opening game of their best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior A semi-final playoffs.

A crowd of 3,678 fans saw the game.

The goal climaxed an amazing collapse by Bulldogs who roared to a 4-0 lead in the first period and led 5-0 in the second before the Indians connected for three goals in less than three minutes.

Peters' winning marker came while Stratford was a man short. Frank Bathgate, Ted O'Connor, George Gee and Jack Armstrong scored the other Windsor goals.

The Indians put on the pressure in the final period on goals by Mickey Roth, his second, at 1:20 and the tying marker by Herve DeJordy at 8:57. Lou Bendo and Ron Ingram also counted for Stratford.

GRAND NATIONAL SCRATCH

LONDON (AP)—Flagrant Mac, an 11-year-old jumper owned by Lord Grinthorpe, Tuesday was scratched from the March 26 Grand National Steeplechase, reducing entries to 50. Final acceptors will be named March 8. The field is expected to shrink to 30.

Poor Crowds Blamed For Rider Deficit

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders Tuesday blamed poor attendance for their deficit of $17,309 on Big Four football operations in 1954. Attendance at seven home games was 65,900.

The club's biggest deficit since the Second World War was announced following the annual general meeting. David N. Gill was re-elected president for a second term.

Gill said Tuesday the low attendance reflected Riders' poor showing on the field. They won only two of 14 league games to finish in the league cellar.

"We're hopeful of getting the attendance up this year by having a better team," Gill said.

NEEDED TV

The club's financial statemeznts showed gross revenue of $292,805, made up of receipts from league and exhibition games, a share of gates in playoff games and $78,500 for television rights. Expenditures totalled $310,115.

Gill said the financial situation would have been "disastrous" had there been no income from CBC-NBC television sources. There is nothing definite yet on the sale of TV rights to Big Four games for 1955, although the CBC-NBC option expires March 1.

Players' salaries totalled $163,259 and coaches' salaries $17,513 for a total of $180,772. Rental of Lansdowne Park cost $20,210 and the Ontario hospitals tax $22,871.

The bill for general administration was $11,006 while players' equipment cost $9,195.

100-Pound Fan Gets Lapful Of Wrestler

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Having a 220-pound wrestler tossed from the ring on to her lap hasn't discouraged Dorothy Fairchild, 30.

Wrestler Billy McDaniels was tossed from the ring Monday night by burly Pat Flannigan. McDaniels landed on top of Miss Fairchild, sending the 100-pound fan to hospital with minor injuries.

Released from hospital Tuesday her first question was: "Who's wrestling next Monday night?" (It's McDaniels and Flannigan again.)

'Penties' Have Tougher Road Than Lyndhursts Last Year

DUESSELDORF, Germany (CP) Penticton Vs, striving to regain the world hockey title for Canada in the round-robin tournament opening Friday, face a rougher road than did Toronto East York, who lost it to Russia last year.

At Stockholm in 1954, East York breezed through five games without getting their hair mussed, beating Germany 8-1, Finland 20-2, Norway 8-0, Switzerland 8-1 and Sweden 8-1 before tackling Czechoslovakia and Russia in their last two assignments.

They got past the Czechs 5-2 before Moscow Dynamos upset them 7-2 on the last day of the tournament to take the title.

But this year's schedule looks a little different. When the tournament opens Friday, Penticton will be up against the United States, which didn't send a team to Stockholm but rates as one of this year's top contenders.

CZECHS NEXT

The next day it will be the Czech team which held the Vs to a 3-3 tie at Prague last week. Poland and Finland provide the opposition for the next two days, followed by a bye in the schedule. It will be Switzerland March 2, followed by Sweden, which is rated among the better entries.

Penticton is drawn against the Germans March 4, gets another day off March 5 and faces Russia March 6, the closing day of the tournament.

The Russians, presenting virtually the same lineup that won at Stockholm, should have an easy opening-day assignment in Finland but draw the troublesome Swedes, the only team to gain a tie against them last year, on Saturday.

On Sunday they meet the Czechs, possibly slowed down by their game against Canada the day before. The Russians get a day's rest before meeting the U.S. March 2, and, like Penticton, get another breather before the two teams meet on the closing day.

BETTER BREAK

While the Americans have to play Russia and Czechoslovakia on successive days, the Swedes get a better break from the schedule, having an interval of at least one day between matches against their top-rated opponents.

The Canadians returned from Prague Tuesday night, their confidence unimpaired by their tie against the Czech entry. Playing coach Grant (Knobby) Warwick said the Vs can be expected to play better hockey when the chips are down.

He praised veteran Vladimir Zabrodsky, the Czech captain who teamed with Wimbledon tennis champion Jaroslav Drobny, now an exile, to bring the Czechs the 1948 title at the expense of Sudbury Wolves, and Jiri Hanzl, the Czech goalkeeper. But he felt his club could handle the Czechs in a second meeting.

UNDISTURBED

The Canadians were unruffled by newspaper charges of rough play, notably a Prague dispatch captioned "thuggery on ice" in Tuesday's Communist London Daily Worker.

The Vs spent some time before they left Canada in accustoming themselves to European rules, which frown upon bodychecking near the boards but are less severe on holding and other types of interference. Canadian officials hope the familiarization course will cut down on the team's difficulties with tournament referees.

In London, W.B. (Baldy) George, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Tuesday night he thinks hockey-wise Canadians are sophisticated enough to take Communist accounts of alleged rough play by Penticton with a grain of salt.

"I think the story is very much exaggerated," said George, referring to the Daily Worker story.

The reporter, Armour Milne, said "in 30 years of reporting I have rarely seen such incredibly vicious and unruly behaviour, even in ice hockey, the admitted problem child of sport."

The 350-word story was written in propaganda vein throughout, with no attempt to name individual players and no mention of scorers.

George conferred Tuesday with J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, boss of British hockey and an influential figure in Europe. The CAHA president leaves for Duesseldorf by air today.

Western Team Will Play In Russia

VANCOUVER (CP)—Directors of the Western Hockey League Tuesday gave their approval to a proposed exhibition series between a WHL representative and Russian teams in Moscow next spring.

The invitation was extended to WHL president Al Leader through Erwin Swangard, Vancouver Sun sports editor, now in Germany with Penticton Vs for the world hockey championships.

The proposals came as a result of a luncheon meeting between Swangard and Pavel Korotkov, president of the Soviet Russian ice hockey section.

"All the clubs are interested," Leader said. "Some are particularly interested."

WILL HAVE ARENA

Korotkov suggested that a WHL team make the trip in March or early April of 1956, staying about 10 days and playing "several" matches in Moscow which will have a new artificial ice arena by that time.

He said a Canadian professional team would attract "more than 75,000 in Dynamo Stadium and for such a thing, money is no object to us."

Korotkov also expressed disappointment in what he termed a breach of faith by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association in not sending Penticton Vs to Moscow this year.

LONG SHOT TAKES IT

MIAMI, Fla. (CP)—The heavily favored Canadiana, owned by E.P. Taylor of Toronto, ran out of speed at the eighth pole and finished fifth Tuesday in the second division of the $15,000 Columbiana Handicap at Hialeah Park. Guayana, a 30-to-1 shot, was the winner. Guayana paid a juicy $59.00 to win.

Russ Team Said Stronger Than 1954, Admit Canadians Are More Powerful

By STERLING SLAPPEY

KREFELD, Germany (AP)—Pavel Korotkov, the leader of all hockey played in Russia, said Tuesday that the Soviet team entered in the world championships starting Friday is stronger than last year's team which defeated Canada for the title.

Korotkov also conceded that the Canadians are "infinitely stronger."

The Russian, speaking in a friendly manner during an interview, said he expects the championships to be decided among five countries—Russia, Canada, the United States, Sweden and Czechoslovakia. "They are the strongest and have equal chances," he said.

It was pointed out that in the opinion of many people including some Americans that the United States team is not strong enough to be classed alongside the Canadians, Russians and Swedes. Korotkov brushed aside such a suggestion.

"We do not underrate the Americans," he said, "not in ice hockey nor in any other sports. They are good players and they will be with the very best."

Korotkov saw the Canadians play two practice games in Berlin last week, winning both easily.

"I also have seen the American team coach, Al Yourkewicz, play in the past. I consider him a fine, strong defensive player and I did not find him to be a dirty player."

"I do not think he teaches dirty tactics to the Americans."

Korotkov's opinion of Yourkewicz was given quickly after he was asked if he knew the Moscow magazine Soviet Sports printed an article last week saying Yourkewicz was a "hooligan and a rowdy player" who teaches his team dirty tricks."

Korotkov has triple duties during the championships. He is the leader of the big Russian delegation, vice-president of the International Ice Hockey Federation and president of the Ice Hockey Federation of the U.S.S.R.

He said 19 players, many of them members of Moscow's Dynamo team, made the trip but that two youngsters will not play.

"Of the 17 actives, 15 were with us in Stockholm last year at the championships. We consider our team a veteran team but we do not think it is made up of old men."

The ages are between 20 and 32.

The Russians pulled out a surprise on the Canadians last year by often sending in only one forward after missing a goal shot. The remainder of the team headed back across the blue line to stop the onrushing Canadian offence.

"This year we will try many other tactics," Korotkov said. "We will also try to get the Ice Hockey Federation to honor Moscow with the 1957 championships."

Lions 'Lair' Will Be Ready

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions were guaranteed Thursday they will have a playing field for the opening of the Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

Aldermen, at a special meeting of city council, voted to underwrite the $56,000 estimated as necessary to rebuild the field in Empire Stadium. Work was ordered begun immediately to have the grounds in shape by August.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You need not look through the backs of the cards your partner is holding. He can give you a fairly clear view of what they are by the bids he uses in particular spots.

Your opening is one heart with the south hand shown here:

♠ Q J
♥ A J 8 5 3
♦ K J
♣ A 7 6 2

Suppose your north partner comes back with an immediate reply of four hearts. What is he trying to tell you? What is he expecting you to do about it? What should you do about it?

The fact that he did not first mention a new suit says he has not a biddable suit in either of the other three suits. The fact that he assisted your suit shows he has adequate support for it.

The fact that he jumped shows that his tricks are enough for a game with what your opening promised. But notice that his jump was to four instead of three; a double-jump instead of one-jump.

The double-jump is a denial of two sure tricks. Therefore, the trick taking ability of his hand may depend on ruffing instead of big cards. So, what could partner be holding?

Most likely he has four or more hearts in support of your suit and shortages in one or more side suits. He is asking you not to rely on his taking many side suit tricks with high cards.

He could have an ace and some kings or queens or both. But he does not encourage you to think so. Although he promises enough for a game he asks you not to get slambilious about it.

Such a jump does not deny slam possibility. It simply gives no encouragement to slam hopes. So, unless the opener has considerably more, there is a warning that slam should be avoided.

You have not much more than your opening promised. Partner has you in game already. You have not been encouraged to try for a slam. Let well enough alone. Pass and be happy about it.

GIVEN FOUR YEARS

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Allen Thornton, 25, of the Toronto suburb of Long Branch Tuesday was sentenced to a four-year penitentiary term for his part in an $8,300 smash-and-grab raid on a jewelry store here last November.

Minister Wants Help in Framing CNR Questions

OTTAWA (CP)—Transport Minister Marler, a newcomer to the Commons this year, Tuesday invited two veterans of the House to discuss with him how they could frame questions which could be answered by the CNR.

The invitation was extended to Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) and to John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) when they rose to debate replies given Monday to queries about layoffs of CNR employees.

Mr. Marler said Monday he could not reply to the detailed questions about the number of men laid off or put on pensions through the CNR's 42 divisions. The CNR did not keep that kind of information tabulated and it would require a large staff to compile the information.

Mr. Knowles said Tuesday that Mr. Marler's predecessor, Hon. Lionel Chevrier, now president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, told the House last year that 1,500 CNR shop workers had been laid off.

Mr. Marler, elected to the Commons in a by-election Nov. 8 last in Montreal St. Antoine-Westmount, replied that the questions asked of him concerned section men and this information is more difficult to obtain.

Huge Open-Air Barbecue Held For Princess

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Dressed in a native Jamaican costume, Princess Margaret ate charcoal-broiled steak at a huge open-air barbecue Tuesday night in Mandeville, 55 miles through the mountains from this Jamaican capital.

The Princess, here on a tour of the British West Indies, sat on a platform built on a small slope overlooking a grassy field dotted with tables. With her on the platform were officials of a Jamaican aluminum company, who gave the barbecue.

The princess wore a black blouse and a white skirt embroidered with Jamaican figures.

The royal party returned to Kingston on a one-car diesel trolley, freshly painted for the special trip.

Excessive Credits on TV Reduce Entertainment Time

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—It's good to give credit where credit is due, but is television overdoing it?

Most viewers concede the sponsor's right to his three minutes of commercials per half hour at night in return for paying for the show. Most like to know the names of principals in the cast and perhaps the producer, director and writer.

But many wonder if it's necessary to curtail the entertainment still further to give time to list credits for almost everyone who got past the stage doorkeeper.

A spot check indicates some shows are letting excessive credits cut unduly into entertainment time, listing people whose functions on the show mean nothing to the viewer. But some go to the other extreme and brush off credits to the point the viewer is unable to learn the names of cast members, producers, directors and writers he'd like to know because of exceptional performance.

Timing of various shows reveals that credits take up to a minute and a half on some, and occasionally are crowded out entirely on others. TV films, following the example of the movies, are inclined to give the most credits but, as in the movies, often list six or eight in a single frame shown so fast you can't read all the names. Live shows more often range from one extreme to the other.

Some credits are given as a matter of interest to viewers, such as the cast, producer, director and author. Some are demanded by TV unions—scenic designers and technical directors, for example. Credits often are given to stores for gowns worn by the feminine star, which means the gowns were provided free with the credits as the payoff.

NBC has taken note of the problem of excessive credit listings in a special memo to production personnel. And Thomas A. McAvity, network vice-president in charge of TV says:

"Before the television air credit problem swells to the point where it obliterates the entertainment portion of the program, it is of critical importance to establish a set of rules which can be readily understood and uniformly applied throughout NBC. While we are fully aware of the value of the credits to the individual, we must not permit them to reduce the effectiveness of our programs."

Even so, McAvity's rules list nine categories in which credits can be given.

Gordon Duff, producer of television Playhouse, says he attempts to limit credits on his shows to those making unusual contributions.

"We want them to mean something," he says.

Anthony Quinn Has New Appreciation of Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Anthony Quinn is back after a couple of years of making films abroad and he has a new appreciation of Hollywood.

Says the Oscar winner: "In Europe, they make pictures to live. Here we live to make pictures."

Quinn returned for a difficult role in "The Brass Ring," but he doesn't seem to mind the hard work.

"The 9-to-6 routine is stimulating," he said. "I had almost forgotten how seriously we take our work here. It's good.

"The method of making pictures in Italy is alluring. You show up on the set around noon and work at a leisurely pace until 8 in the evening. Then you go to some lovely outdoor cafe and have a fine time. It hardly seems like work at all.

"But I like our way better. Here you feel as though you're doing something important. Over there, they seem to make movies only as a way to earn a living."

Where American films fail, Quinn feels, is in attempting an assembly line production of too much product. But he thinks that this is becoming a thing of the past "now that the creators are taking over."

He referred to the growing tendency for top directors, producers and stars to set up their own units with virtual autonomy. Quinn himself is establishing his own production company.

"During all my career I have kept buying story properties," he said. "People thought I was crazy, but I knew the time would come when I would be able to do the things I wanted to do. Now I have about 16 properties, many of them the offbeat kind of things that actors relish."

Declares Traffic Growth Outpaces Road Building

TORONTO (CP) — An Ottawa consulting engineer says vehicle production and traffic are running far ahead of high construction in Ontario despite large expenditures.

J. H. Irvine was one of several speakers Tuesday at the annual convention of the Ontario Good Roads Association who voiced dissatisfaction with highways planning, financing and safety in Ontario and other parts of Canada.

Mr. Irvine said it is vital that the huge burden of taxation for a highways program be spread equitably among taxpayers. The present distribution of costs is not fair, he said.

J. P. Carriere, chief engineer of the harbors and rivers branch, department of public works, told the convention that highways are too often poorly planned:

INVEST, NOT EXPEND

"Like bridges, dams, buildings or other structures, roads built without complete detailed planning are normally doomed to functional and structural failure," he said.

On the question of highway cost distribution, he said:

"Whatever system is recommended or applied, the citizens will accept it so much more gracefully if they are assured beforehand that their money will be invested and not simply expended on roads."

T. J. Mahony, managing director of the association, said the federal government collects more in excise, sales and other traffic taxes in one year than the total cost of highways.

Mr. Mahony said taxpayers have changed their attitudes toward toll roads.

NOW FAVORED

"Two years ago, any suggestion that toll roads should become part of our provincial highway system was strongly opposed but since then, the tremendous success and the favor with which toll roads have been received in the United States, has effected a most remarkable change."

AT THE CAPITOL — Judy Holliday and Jack Lemmon satirize the Mambo in Columbia Pictures' "Phffft,", opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre for its first district showing, with Jack Carson and Kim Novak also starred. A comedy of romance on the rocks, "Phffft" was penned by George Axelrod, author of "The Seven Year Itch.". On the same program MGM's spectacular western "The Devil's Doorway", starring Robert Taylor.

AT THE BELLE — Jane Powell and Howard Keel, join their singing voices for the first time in MGM's new CinemaScope musical in color, "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers", showing today for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

Don't Miss "Romeo and Juliet" Says W. Fawcett, McCarthy Theatre Manager

Personal recommendation of a film from someone with as many years' experience in the entertainment world as Odeon Manager, W. Fawcett . . . should be well worth noting — particularly when it is in such enthusiastic terms.

Said Mr. Fawcett . . . "Never in my years as a theatre manager have I known a film to compare with it. The glorious colour, striking Italian scenery and landscapes, wonderful music and breathtaking action really do provide a feast for the eye and ear to satisfy even the most critical.

"Arrangements were made for managers of every theatre showing "Romeo and Juliet" to attend special advance screenings. Now I know why. "It really defies description . . . It has to be seen to be appreciated."

"Romeo and Juliet" opens at the McCarthy on Monday.

Filmed in Technicolor, much of it actually in the streets of Verona, it has an exciting newcomer — 19-year-old Susan Shentall, and handsome young Laurence Harvey in the title roles. Also in the cast are Flora Robson, Norman Wooland and Mervyn Johns.

The film was made by the J. Arthur Rank Organization in conjunction with an Italian group and was directed by Milan - born Renato Castellani who is noted for his strikingly unconventional work.

Although the program will run 3 times daily in the normal way, Mr. Fawcett strongly advises patrons to see "Romeo and Juliet" from the beginning. Performances start at 2 p.m., 6.30 and 9.10 p.m.

BOSTON (AP)—A small rattle was blamed today for the death of 10-month-old Robin Mulkern. A doctor said a rattler the size of a smoking pipe bowl lodged in the child's throat.

APPROVE PLANT

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto council Tuesday approved building a $28,000,000 sewage disposal plant on the Humber valley golf course, just west of Toronto. Residents of the area have opposed the project, claiming it might reduce the value of their homes.

INCREASE ACREAGE

CHATHAM (CP) — The Ontario Burley Tobacco Marketing Association Tuesday sanctioned a 10-per-cent increase in 1955 acreage. Secretary Roy V. O'Neill said the estimated burley requirement for this year is 6,000,000 pounds and the allotted acreage 5,314.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for

THURSDAY, FEB. 24, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Put forth your best effort, alert and timely, to deserve your share of good things possible today. You can really make headway plus in one substantial way or another. Eyes front.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Beside heart interests, personal investments and future planning are on the upgrade, should attract attention. Be not hurried, take time to analyze and receive greater gains, pleasure.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Use unemotional intuition and good practical sense, your reward will be certainly worth while. Romance, marriage all rate fresh benefits now. Watch news, some more favorable.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Aim high but know about what you are aiming at. Exactness, hitting nail on the head won't help unless the nail is going in right direction. Makes one think, eh?

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Don't slight small gains, possibilities, could be fore-runner of things bigger. Do your share to help others as well as self, if you expect like co-operation. And we all do at some time.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Personal and business affairs relatively favored, profit by sharing this excellent day's influences. Sturdy effort, willingness to see others' ideas will put you forward the faster, better.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Auspicious aspects, could lead to unexpected favors and benefits all along the way if you don't let little hinderances deter your will to achieve or your knack to bypass obstacles.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You may enjoy your obligations, at same time dispense them efficiently if you are sincere, your true self. Have an eye for the bigger, only if better, things, not neglecting little ones.

November 23 to December 24 (Sagittarius) — Not too many complexities to hinder progress. Day well worth an early start and continued, earnest endeavor. Difficult tasks may be your boon now. You have the sturdiness to achieve.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Manufacturing, renovating, drawing up future contracts, the expression in some new way of your talens all highly favored now. Mind the details and your approach and answers.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Unusual headway to be made in construction, repair work, mining, electronics, enginneering, general science, building. A good job will reap just reward; you can please the fastidious.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Whatever your trade, business or other type of work, show your best, and with liberal amount of good humor and philosophy to carry you over the rough spots. Time out for reviewing, relaxing.

YOU BORN TODAY: Next few weeks offer much for you kindly, industrious folks. Stimulating outlook will only be worth what you put into it in your intelligent, sensible way. Hold no briefs or regrets about others' success, concentrate on improving your own. With due confidence you can attain. Watch economic reconstruction, business trends. Avoid restlessness, melancholy; develop your versatility. You are innately diplomatic and can put forth able concise effort. Birthdate of: Charles V. Holy Roman Emperor, King of Spain; Marjorie Main, actress; Victor Moore, actor.

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop's berthday is getting closer, and I said to him, Hay pop, what do you want me to get you for your berthday?

Can I have anything I want? pop said, and I said, Sure, pop, anything up to 20 cents, thats how much I've saved for it.

I'll leeve it to your own judgement, that will be good enough for me, pop said, and I said, Then oh boy, pop, I know exactly. From now on you'll be able to eat 3 helpings of liver and onions and still feel comfortable, I said.

Yee gods, are they selling new stummicks for 20 cents? pop said, and I said, No sir, you can keep on using your own. I'm going to get you a little bottle of Digesto tablets. I herd the man on the radio, and you can eat whatever you feel like, and as much as you want, I said.

It's a wonderful idea and has all the qualifications of gracious giving, but I dont think I can accept it, it wouldn't be fair to you, pop said, and I said, Sure it would, pop, I dont like liver and onions specially, so you dont need to worry about not leeving enough for me.

Maybe so, but I'd be tempted to eat so much that my next berthday you'd feel morally obliged to buy me a larger belt, and that runs into money, pop said. I've got a little idea of my own. I've never lost my taist for old fashion sourballs. In fact that's one of the things that keep me young. You can get me a little box of them, or even a big bag of them, and we can suck on them tgether while we talk over old times, he said.

Being a swell idea that might not of sounded so practical if I had thought of it myself.

Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Curtis spent Saturday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers and Arnold.

Mr. and Mrs. Anson Moon, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lohnes and family were Friday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bush and family and father, Mr. Arthur Bush.

There is so much sickness in this neighborhood that the Harder School closed on Friday till Monday morning, as there were only 12 pupils present out of 35.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis attended the "At Home" put on by Whites Church at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock on Thursday evening.

All are glad to hear that Mrs. G. C. Stickle is able to be back at her home again. She has been ill at her daughter's home in Frankford, at Mrs. H. Terry's.

Mrs. Hounsome, teacher at Harder's School, was called to Manitoba recently to her husband's bedside as he had an appendix operation. Mr. Hounsome just recently had been transferred to Manitoba, where they will be taking up residence in June.

The McMaster family of York Rd. Trenton, spent the Sunday supper hour with Mr. and Mrs. E. Bush and father, Mr. A. Bush.

Mrs. Ernest Kennedy of Toronto were weekend guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stickle.

Carmel

CARMEL—The community was shocked to receive word Sunday afternoon of the sudden death of Rev. L.S. Throop at Cannifton, sincere sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Patterson and family, Tweed; Mr. and Mrs. D. Williams and family, Belleville, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Patterson.

Mrs. W. Hounsome has returned to her home after spending several days with her husband at Winnipeg, Manitoba, where he underwent an operation. Glad to report he is now recovering.

Mrs. H. Dafoe attended the funeral Friday at Belleville of Mr. W. Dafoe.

The regular meeting of Carmel W.I. was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. S. Homans with a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs G. Downing and family, Kilmar, Que., spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. A. Boldrick and Mrs. J. Reynolds.

IN THE BASKET

Bill McFarlane, a secretary of the Peterborough YMCA, shows how he keeps the boys' section clean at the gymnasium. He has installed a waste basket on a basketball stand where the hoop usually goes. Now the boys vie for a chance to practice their shots by snaring papers off the floor. It keeps the floors clean and the boys are happy to do it. (CP Photo).

'Lil Mo' Quits Tennis For Married Life

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Tennis lost out Tuesday night to Cupid as Maureen Connolly suddenly gave up her court comeback plans in favor of a June marriage.

The blonde, brown-eyed miss, who at 20 has captured most of the world's tennis crowns and still holds some of them, picked the month of brides for culmination of her engagement to Norman Brinker, 23. They had been engaged since November, 1953. But marriage plans had been indefinitely postponed.

The announcement surprised even close friends who had watched the determined girl's preparation for a return to her meteoric tennis career, which was interrupted by a horse riding injury to her right leg last July.

"I just don't enjoy tennis any more," said Miss Connolly. "I've lost that old spark, the drive one must sustain to go through a long season's campaign like I have for several years. If I don't have that keen interest for tennis, a tour would be no good."

MIGHT TRY LATER

Miss Connolly said that after she was settled in domestic life she might try a comeback aimed at regaining her national championship, and possibly a short tour of Europe.

"But as for tennis in my future, I look forward towards the teaching end," she said. She said she would enjoy passing on her experience to other hopefuls.

Until Tuesday night's surprise announcement, Miss Connolly's dominating ambition had appeared to be the regaining of the U.S. women's crown. She won that coveted title when she was only 16 and held it for three straight years. The riding accident prevented defence of it last September and it was won by Doris Hart of Florida.

Gordie Howe In Bad Slump

DETROIT (AP)—With only four goals in his last 17 games, Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings is in one of the worst slumps of his National Hockey League career.

And nobody has the faintest idea what his trouble is. Even Howe can't explain it. General manager Jack Adams of the Red Wings says it's only a matter of tough luck.

"He's having a run of tough luck—nothing more," Adams said Tuesday. "His shots have been hitting the goal posts, and everything he does seems to turn out wrong. I guess we'll just have to wait until his luck changes, that's all."

Howe has no explanation.

"I feel good, both mentally and physically," said the 26-year-old forward, who has been compared with hockey's all-time greats. "I just can't figure out what's wrong."

Some fans say that in recent games he has been only a skating shell of the player who won the NHL scoring title each of the last four years.

TRABERT WINS

NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Trabert conquered his Davis Cup teammate, Hamilton Richardson, for the U.S. indoor tennis championship Tuesday in a bitter three-hour struggle which left both players near exhaustion. The scores were 11-13, 7-5, 9-7, 6-3. Despite the closeness of the sets, it was a dull match which bored an overflow crowd of 3,000.

Trent Valley Hockey League

MARMORA — In their TVL playoffs game with Marmora on the latter's rink on Monday, the unexpected once more happened as Campbellford, having the worst for the first 2 periods, pulled the game out of the fire in the third to triumph by 9-7. The homesters scored four goals without response in the initial period. K. Trumble first scored on Darrah's assist, W. Brown beat Nelson unassisted. Paranuik and then Brown added others on assists by Leonard.

Dooher opened Campbellford's score as the period opened with Lee giving the assist. W. Brown then scored for the homesters on K. Trumble's pass but Eady replied without assistance and netted again on Herrington's assist after Brown got a fourth goal on Maynes' assist.

The third period opened with Eady and Herrington assisting each other to score for Campbellford as a Marmora man was filling in a penalty. The game took a change for the worse as far as Marmora was concerned from this point. Eady garnered his 4th goal on Fields' assist but Marmora again led by the odd goal as Darrah beat Nelson on K. Trumble's assist.

In the last four minutes of the game Herrington got three goals to raise his contribution to four. Free gave him the assist on the first of these, Wilson, Eady on the next, and then with the home goalie pulled it just required a well aimed shot at the open goal in the last half minute to make the game safe. The teams shared eight penalties evenly and a good crowd was present.

Teams—

Campbellford — goal, Nelson; defence, Fields, Pace; centre Payne; wings, Stevenson, Free; alternates, Eady, Herrington, Wilson, Kemp, Dooher, Lee, Louth.

Marmora — goal, Killian; defence, Leonard, Darrah; centre, Maynes; wings, Paranuik, K. Trumble; alternates, Nayler, Doyle, Mantle, Blute, Gazley, W. Brown, C. Trumble, Moloney.

Referees — W. McFaul, D. Bone

Kingston Minor Teams Sweep Series, In Opening Period OMHA Playdowns

Superior scoring power and too much experience proved the deciding factors at the Memorial Arena last night when Kingston's bantams, midgets and juveniles made a clean sweep of their O.M.H.A. playdown games with the Belleville aggregations. The visiting bantams chalked up a 6-2 victory, the midgets roared to a 10.4 decision while the juveniles blanked the Belleville sextet 8-0. These were the first games in a home-and-home, goals-to-count series with the return battles in Kingston on Saturday.

BANTAM—

Kingston took a 2-0 lead in the initial period and added another pair in the middle session before the local kids hit the scoresheet, the teams splitting four goals in the final twenty minutes.

O'Donnell opened the scoring at 11.59, tipping in a goalmouth pass by Jarvis and Reg. Mulholland made it 2-0 before the period's end. Bristlin and Mulholland tallied in the second period using speed and excellent passing as their main assets.

Bud Aylesworth and Doug Senior fired their third period goals. Earl "Sunny" MacDonald notched the locals initial goal at 2.30, taking Boulter's blueline pass and going in on a clean breakaway while John Brennan closed the scoring at 13.36 on a beautiful goal with Boulter and MacDonald drawing assists.

Kingston picked up five of the six minor penalties, one of them costing a goal.

BANTAM TEAMS—

Kingston — Spencer, Myles, Cunningham, Senior, Mulholland, Shea, Aylesworth, Lees, O'Donnell, Gibson, Jarvis, Faulkner, Bristlin, Hawland.

Belleville — Soden, Stoneburg, Deacon, Champaign, Boulter, Hook, Masters, Dugan, Brennan, Pointer, Musgrove, Ethier, Moore.

Referees — Stan Scrutton and Tim Williams.

SUMMARY

First period—
1. Kingston—O'Donnell (Jarvis) 11.59
2. Kingston—Mulholland (Senior) 17.50

Penalty: Myles.

7. Kingston—Senior 11.04
8. Belleville—Brennan (Boulter, MacDonald) ... 13.36

Penalties: Shea, Hawland, Aylesworth.

MIDGET—

The visitors took advantage of shaky play by MacFarlane in the Belleville nets to build up a 4-1 lead in the first period and they carried a 6-2 edge into the third session. Four goals were answered by a pair from Belleville in the last period.

Thurlby sparked the winner's attack with two goals and two assists while Decker tallied twice. Bill Foster participated in all four Belleville markers, scoring one and assisting on two others while Bob Wannamaker netted two goals and an assist. Gord St. Louis scored the other goal and drew one assist.

Belleville's first period goal came from a scramble in front of the net with Wannamaker tipping it in and the same player notched his second on a good passing play in the middle session. Gord St. Louis scored on a screened drive early in the third and Foster blasted a beauty in the far corner to end the Belleville scoring at 14.50. Ab Wright looked good on the Belleville defence, working hard all night.

Kingston had six minor penalties and Shamess drew the only misconduct of the night in the 3rd period while Brian Mulvihill's boys gathered four minors.

MIDGET TEAMS

Kingston — Appleton, Pappa, Garey, Stephenson, Kish, Aylesworth, Strong, Faulkner, Thurlby, Shamess, Roy, Chamberlain, Pettitt, Decker.

Belleville — MacFarlane, St. Louis, Foster, Pollard, Wright, Latchford, Wannamaker, Spafford, Rowbotham, Elliott, Coe, Musgrove, Campbell.

14. Kingston (Thurlby) ... 18.14

Penalties: Shamess (misconduct), Pappa, Strong, Thurlby, Wannamaker.

JUVENILE

The Quinte lads put up a real battle in this fixture and held the more experienced Kingston boys to a 3-0 lead at the end of the second period. Many of the visiting players have seen junior and intermediate action in the Thousand Island League, but the terrific play of Charles Kingston in the Belleville nets, stopped them cold on more than one occasion.

Sanderson was the big gun for the Limestone City crew with the three-goal hat trick and one assist, while Hampton, Murphy, Howland, Wilson and Mackintosh each tallied one goal and Hegarty picked up a trio of assists. Jack Gill was the pick of the Belleville team, although the complete team looked good and were simply beaten by a better group on the night's play.

Sanderson's second goal was a well-arranged play as he took a pass from Hegarty, cut across the net and flicked it over the goalie's extended leg to complete the effort. Hampton's counter was a screened shot and Murphy's came on a goalmouth pass and a quick backhander, Kingston not having a chance on either of them. Gazeley gained a well-earned shutout in the Kingston nets, although he had an easy night compared to the local custodian.

The visitors were assessed with six minor sentences to Belleville's four.

Juvenile teams:

Kingston— Gazeley, Hampton, Hegarty, Sanderson, Gibson, Wilson, Wheeler, Mackintosh, Howland, Judd, Murphy, Coyle, Walton, Lynch.

Belleville — Kingston, Fraser, Irwin, Gill, Garrison, St. Denis, Culloden, Rowbotham, Cornell, Little, Hagerman, Thomas, Ferguson and Yull.

The referees—Williams and Walton.

SUMMARY

First Period
Kingston—Sanderson (Gibson, Hegarty) 2.00
Kingston—Sanderson (Hegarty) 4.55
Penalties—Murphy, Sanderson, Gibson, Gill.

Second Period
Kingston—Hampton (Sanderson) 10.03
Penalties—Rowbotham, St. Dennis, Murphy.

Third Period
Kingston—Murphy (Hegarty) 1.15
Kingston—Howland (Judd) 1.41

Gavilan Meets Constance Tonight

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Kid Gavilan, fighting to regain the welterweight championship returns to his own division tonight to meet Hector Constance of Trinidad in Miami Beach Auditorium.

Gavilan was not impressive when he scored a split decision over Ernie Durando, Feb. 4 in New York in his first fight since he lost the title to Johnny Saxton Oct. 20 in Philadelphia.

Gavilan will be trying for his 100th ring victory in the nationally-televised fight starting at 10 p.m. (EST). He has been established a 2-1 favorite.

Constance, 24, is the ninth-ranking welterweight contender, with 23 victories, five defeats and eight draws.

First Place For Shawinigan In Quebec Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Shawinigan Falls Cataracts virtually clinched first place in the Quebec Hockey League Tuesday when they downed Chicoutimi Sagueneens 5-3. In the other Tuesday fixture, Montreal Royals overwhelmed Quebec 8-1 and moved into sole possession of second place over the Aces.

The Cataracts have played 51 games and lead the five-team loop with 65 points. Montreal has 57 points in 54 games. The Aces have 55 but have four games in hand over the Royals.

The fourth - place Sagueneens have played 49 games and trail Quebec by 10 points. Valleyfield Braves, with 37 points in 51 games, round out the league.

Willie Mays Future Great Says Stanky

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Eddie Stanky thinks Willie Mays is on the way to become one of the all-time greats of baseball but he does not believe New York Giants' brilliant centrefielder ever will hit .400.

"The next .400 hitter," St. Louis Cardinals' manager said in an interview, "will be a lefthanded batter. Just wait and see."

"A lefthanded hitter not only has the natural advantages of being able to get away faster from the plate and being nearer to first base, but he is helped by the contours of the ball parks. Practically all major league parks are built or have been altered to favor the southpaw swinger. Besides, there are many more righthanded pitchers than lefthanders."

SAVOIE CLOWNS, LOSES

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Rocky Randell, young Tampa lightweight, won a split decision Tuesday night over Armand Savoie, Canadian veteran, mostly because Savoie didn't settle down to business until it was too late.

While Savoie was clowning around as if in an exhibition for five rounds Randell was piling up points without doing any serious damage. Savoie staggered his young foe four times in the eighth, but Randell hung on to get the nod.

Randell weighed 138½, a pound more than the Canadian.

Dr. Selye Knows More Than Anybody Else About Stress

SECOND OF TWO STORIES

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—When Hans Selye declared war on stress, he knew the enemy lived within himself, so he tried not to be distressed about it.

He had an advantage: He knew more than anybody else in the world about stress.

Today, 19 years later, Dr. Selye is the picture of a man not afflicted by stress. The pipe-puffing scientist, chatting with gentle humor, looks more like a poet than a man who works a 12-hour day and has lectured in 10 languages from Moscow to Buenos Aires.

"Stress is funny, as well as fatal" says the Austro-Canadian who propounded a new medical theory.

HARD TO DEFINE

"One of my chief troubles is defining stress. It really can't be defined. It's like life.

"A hopeful swain tries to kiss his lady love. If he succeeds, we can assume there is a certain amount of stress present. If he doesn't succeed, he may become angry—and again we have stress.

"But if our young man is wise, the stress need not be serious. After all, a swain should expect a shock, one way or the other, and be prepared. Life is like that, isn't it?"

But stress is no laughing matter to Selye, 48, who has headed the University of Montreal's institute of experimental medicine and surgery since it was opened in 1945.

He says stress may well be the greatest killer of modern times, the "hidden enemy" which strikes under the guise of heart disease, kidney trouble, insanity, blindness or a host of other ills.

GLANDULAR REACTION

Selye holds that stress causes chemical imbalance in the body, by triggering a glandular "alarm reaction" which can fatally damage vital organs nless corrected.

Under pressure, certain glands squirt substances which can be as damaging as a fire-alarm sprinkler system when there is no fire, the scientist says.

Dr. Morris Fishbein of Chicago, medical author and editor, described Selye as a worthy candidate for the Nobel prize, since "most research workers credit him with the main exploratory work in endocrinology."

His work was described by the Western Journal of Surgery, Obstetrics and Gynaecology as "the most important theory of medicine since Pasteur elaborated the germ theory of disease."

ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERY

Selye says he was looking for something else when he discovered in 1936 that stress in rats produced evidence of ulcers, heart disease and arthritis.

Hans Hugo Bruno Selye, of a family that has produced four generations of doctors, was born in Vienna and studied at Prague, Paris and Rome before going to Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore in 1931. He came to McGill University here the following year.

By the time he took over as director of University of Montreal's experimental institute, Selye's reputation was established on a world-wide basis. His theory, for instance, received impetus when it was found that Londoners under the stress of Second World War bombing, developed a staggering number of cases of "air raid ulcers."

Selye married a French-Canadian girl—he already had become a Canadian citizen—and now has four children.

BOOKS WIDELY KNOWN

A prolific writer, his works include 550 technical books and papers in addition to nearly 200 by his students. His works have been translated into six languages.

Dr. Selye has been honored by medical associations in Italy, Britain, the United States and Canada. He is a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the New York Academy of Science and the Royal Society of Canada. In 1947, he was appointed an expert consultant to the surgeon-general of the United States Army.

He is a member or honorary member of 38 medical societies in 11 countries, including Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, France and Russia.

One of his less enthusiastic press notices came from Moscow, where he was described as a "rag-peddler." Pravda roasted the doctor for swapping an extra pair of pants for an old tapestry while he attended the 200th anniversary of the Russian Academy of Science as a Canadian representative in 1945.

The professor feels he got that blast chiefly because he wasn't too punctual at the meetings.

"It was mostly a case of people just talking generally about research being a good thing," he says. "So I'm afraid I just wandered around and chatted with this one and that one."

Named City Manager

WATERLOO (CP)—R. G. Given, Waterloo clerk-treasurer, resigned Monday night to become city clerk and manager at Woodstock.

Mr. Given served 11 years as clerk-treasurer and purchasing agent. He asked that his resignation be effective April 15.

Canadian Sailors Facing Charges In English Court

HAVANT, Eng. (Reuters)—Two Canadian sailors Monday were ordered to trial, accused of assaulting an English taxi driver near Portsmouth Feb. 2.

At a preliminary hearing here, Ronald A. Barnier, 22, of Halifax, and Donald Van Sickle, 21, of Thamesville, Ont., pleaded not guilty of assault with intent to rob.

During the hearing, the youths, who are stationed at HMS Dolphin at Portsmouth, heard taxi-driver Albert Biles of Portsmouth testify that the pair cursed him in a dark and lonely spot, beat him, shoved his head in the mud, and tried to get his wallet.

The court refused bail. The defendants were ordered to be tried at the next regular quarter sessions.

Need Bigger Subsidies

TORONTO (CP)—J. H. Irwin, ttawa consulting engineer, Tuesday told delegates to the 53rd annual meeting of the Ontario Good Roads Association that the government must understand the need for large highway subsidies for cities and towns.

Mr. Irwin gave the opening address to the two-day convention.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name *Preparation H. The price is only $1.19 a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember — if not entirely satisfied — your money will be refunded promptly.

13 Persons Missing In Canadian Arctic, 7 In RCMP Plane

Fear Wolves Have Attacked Dog Team of Fur Traders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An RCAF Lancaster from the Rockcliffe base and a Winnipeg RCAF Dakota searched all night without success for signs of an RCMP plane with seven persons aboard, missing since Tuesday in Manitoba's rugged north country.

The planes searched until 6 a. m. CST for the missing ski-equipped Otter. Officials were hopeful that passengers aboard the missing plane would light flares or a fire to attract the search planes.

There was still no word from six others missing in scattered parts of the Canadian Arctic. Four were believed in no danger, and two were overdue on a trip by dog sled but might return safely at any time.

The RCMP craft left Churchill about 10 a. m. Tuesday bound for Ennadai lake, 250 miles away. The plane failed to reach its destination and no radio signals were heard.

RADIO USELESS

A spokesman said the Otter' radio and emergency radio would probably be useless in that area because of the high mineralization.

Weather officials said it would be cold and clear for today's search. The overnight low was 49 below. Searchers can expect about 11 hours of sunlight in the area.

Six Dakotas, including four from Winnipeg, and one from Edmonton and Trenton, plus the Lancaster and an Otter, are now searching the white terrain.

A para-rescue team is with the search group.

One of the passengers was James Houston, a Toronto-born artist who came to know the Eskimos so well that the resources department hired him to continue his self-imposed task of developing an Eskimo handicrafts industry.

The others were RCMP Sgt. A.N. Beaumont of Winnipeg, the pilot; Cpl. R. L. Fletcher, Holmfield, Man., co-pilot; special constable G. E. Bartlett, Churchill, engineer; an Eskimo woman and boy, names not known, and an unidentified man believed to be a transport department official.

Between Ennadai and Churchill are the Barren Lands, snowswept and treeless and without landmarks; monotonous in summer and terrifying in winter. Forty-five below was the forecast overnight low temperature.

From Goose Bay, Labrador, came a report that two Hudson's Bay Company employees were two weeks overdue on a trip by dog sled on Baffin island, an ice-choked mass bordered by Quebec on the south and Greenland on the east.

IDENTIFY TWO

They were identified as Donald Baird, 22, of St. John's, Nfld., and Oootooke, an Eskimo HBC employee. They set out from Cape Dorset Jan. 15 with 11 dogs and were scheduled to reach Frobisher Bay, 250 miles away, Feb. 7.

Eskimos living on Baffin said a wolf pack might have attacked the dogs. Two Dakota aircraft have launched a search and a ground team has been sent out.

A second Beaver plane was forced down in the Arctic coast Sunday. While its four occupants were still stranded today, little fear was felt for their safety.

They were sighted later by an RCAF Flying Boxcar near Cambridge Bay, N.W.T., more than 1,000 miles north of Edmonton. The four appeared uninjured and the plane undamaged. Food was dropped. But they have not yet been brought out.

FINED FOR RIOT

EDMONTON (CP)—Thirteen convicts who took part in the Fort Saskatchewan jail riot, Jan. 19 pleaded guilty to wilful damage charges Wednesday and were fined.

FORMS GOVERNMENT

Edgar Faure (above), a Radical Socialist, is the new premier of France.

Faure's Cabinet Down to Work After Approval

PARIS (AP) — Faced with mass of accumulated big problems, ministers in Premier Edgar Faure's new government plunged today into the task of learning their jobs quickly in advance of urgent decisions.

The national assembly ended a 19-day governmental crisis Wednesday night by approving 309 to 210, Faure's bid to head France's 21st post-liberation government.

But only four of the 20 ministers picked by Faure for his Conservative-toned cabinet served in the previous government of Pierre Mendes-France. And two of the four have different jobs.

Faure held the foreign office in the closing days of Mendes-France's term after previously serving as finance minister. He must check out Antoine Pinay, the new foreign affairs chief, on pending international questions.

Once the cabinet really gets its hand in, these are the most urgent problems it will face:

1. A budget only partially approved, with the military budget not even submitted.
2. The Paris treaties to free and rearm West Germany have been ratified by the Assembly but still must be approved by the Council of the Republic, upper house of parliament.
3. Negotiations with Tunisia over internal autonomy.
4. Wage increases for workers.
5. Tax law revision.

Observers say Faure's large majority in the assembly vote does not necessarily indicate his government will have a long life. Mouvement Republicain Populaire, a key party in the coalition, will have to be humored if it is to remain in line.

Surprised M.P.'s Run So Well

TORONTO (CP) — Members of Parliament apparently run faster than senators.

That's what Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, Canada's civil defence co-ordinator, told metropolitan Toronto civil defence officials Wednesday. A test in civil defence evacuation of the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa showed that MPs got out in 4.5 minutes, one minute faster than members of the Senate.

However, he said both groups fooled the military experts, who had calculated that it would take 13 minutes to complete evacuation.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The leading edge of a large mass of Arctic air crossed Lake Superior early this morning and at its present speed it is expected to reach southwestern Ontario tonight or early Friday. This cold front will bring snowflurries, northerly winds and a noticeable drop in temperatures.

ALL CIVILIANS ARE TAKEN OFF NANCHISHAN

Seen as Sign Island To Surrender to Reds

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China said today all civilians have been withdrawn from tiny Nanchishan, a Red-threatened island outpost 140 miles north of Formosa.

The withdrawal seems an almost certain prelude to a military evacuation. The island is reported garrisoned by some 5,000 regulars and guerrillas.

The action follows by less than three weeks the Nationalist evacuation of the Tachen islands, 200 miles north of Formosa.

Army commanders had been pressing for a finish fight at Nanchishan, but the general staff overruled them because there was no possible hope of United States support in its defence.

The island is outside the Formosa strait and, in the U. S. view, not essential to the defence of Formosa and the Pescadores, which President Eisenhower has promised to guard.

Marilyn Bell Likely to Star In CNE Show

TORONTO (CP) — Marilyn Bell may star in the 1955 Canadian National Exhibition's grandstand show.

Jack Arthur, producer of the CNE's feature attraction, said Wednesday he has offered a contract to the 17-year-old Toronto girl who made headlines last September when she swam Lake Ontario.

Arthur said he is also negotiating with television's Ed Sullivan and his sponsor, the Ford Motor Company, to act as master-of-ceremonies for the two weeks—Aug. 26-Sept. 10—the show will run.

If Marilyn accepts, she'll do the thing she does best—swim.

She will perform in a giant swimming pool the CNE intends to erect in front of the 22,000-seat grandstand.

Eisenhower's Messages Found In Waste Basket

WASHINGTON (AP)—A wastebasket holds the solution to the mystery of what has been happening to Speaker Sam Rayburn's advance copies of messages President Eisenhower has been sending to the House of Representatives.

They've been going to the basket instead of to the Speaker because of a breakdown in Democratic party communication lines. And that discovery, after a little diligent digging by reporters, may have averted a potential rift between the United States government's legislative and executive branches.

It's a good bet that from now on Rayburn will receive copies of the messages in advance of their official delivery.

An assistant to the House Democratic leader confirmed that bundles of messages have arrived, but said they were left undistributed because there were no instructions concerning their disposal. Rayburn's copy apparently was among those thus consigned to a wastebasket.

Fighting Mad Feline Turns Windsor Home Into Shambles, Two Bitten

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A fighting mad feline, described by one police officer as "the biggest cat I've ever seen in my life," walked unannounced into a Sandwich east home Wednesday, scratched and bit one man, took refuge behind a water heater and resisted the efforts of police and the Humane Society to dislodge it.

The efforts of a veterinarian, plus some anaesthetic, finally removed the cat from the home of Victor Sereda, 18. But before man triumphed over feline, Mr. Sereda had been viciously bitten and scratched and his home had been turned into a shambles.

Mr. Sereda was watching television in his living room when in walked the cat, according to police. It leaped upon the man, clawing and scratching and accompanying the attack with vicious howls and screams.

Before he could recover from his surprise, Mr. Sereda had been bitten on the chin and left thumb and angry scratches scored both arms.

Abolition of Corporal, Capital Punishment Is Urged by Sask.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Saskatchewan government today recommended abolition of capital and corporal punishment in Canada.

Saskatchewan is the first province to present its views to the joint Commons-Senate committee studying whether Criminal Code sections on hanging and whipping of law offenders should be amended. All provinces were invited to make submissions.

The prairie government said in a 3,500-word brief that "abolition of corporal and of capital punishment will be in the best interests of Canada."

Saskatchewan's brief made no mention of lotteries, which the parliamentary committee also is studying. It said:

"The countries of the civilized world . . . are in substantial agreement that punishment of the offender per se, as an indication of society's vengeful feelings, is indefensible and must give place to systems of individualized justice whose aim is the effective protection of society by means of correcting the offender."

The verdict of history was that crime seemed to flourish most widely in times and places where punishment was most rigorous.

The brief was presented by J. V. Fornataro, Saskatchewan director of corrections. It said capital punishment appeared historically to have no effective deterrent effect. In Britain, the number of crimes punishable by death was reduced over a period of many years but there was no corresponding increase in the rate of crime.

In the United States, six states which abolished capital punishment were among the 10 with the lowest homicide rates.

It added that whipping was ineffective as a form of punishment.

Debate on Paris Pacts Begun By West Germany's Parliament

BONN (AP)—Overriding a Socialist motion for postponement, the lower house of the West German Parliament today opened a crucial three-day debate on the Paris treaties to arm 500,000 germans.

Most observers agree with government predictions that the pacts will win final approval despite the opposition of many West Germans.

Armed anti-riot police today guarded the parliament buildings against possible demonstrations as the Bundestag brushed aside the opposition Socialist move on a show of hands.

Introducing the motion, Carlo Schmid, Socialist deputy chairman, said ratification of the treaties would wreck any chance of reuniting divided Germany. He said the Socialists are more convinced than ever that Russian readiness to settle the German problem should again be tested by the Western powers at the conference table.

Christian Democrat Kurt Kiesinger replied that the only way to reunification is through ratification. West Germany had to achieve security before it could restore freedom and security to the 18,000,000 Germans in the Soviet zone.

All four parties in Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's ruling coalition voted solidly against the Socialist motion.

As the session began diplomatic and press galleries in the chamber were packed. Reporters present included correspondents from various Soviet-zone newspapers and radio stations and a representative of Moscow's Pravda.

Officers armed with pistols, carbines and nightsticks stood guard around the modernistic parliament building on the banks of the Rhine. Water cannon were parked at strategic street corners.

The Soviet zone radio has been blaring calls to West Germans to riot against the treaties. In Bavaria, the Trade Union Federation ordered street demonstrations against rearmament.

Despite the agressive campaign by Communists, Socialists and trade unionists, Adenauer was reported confident of victory.

'V' Jet Bombers Of RAF Barrier To Hydrogen War

LONDON (AP)—The Churchill government said today British and American air forces, packing an overwhelming nuclear punch, are the main deterrents to a hydrogen war.

Lord de L'Isle and Dudley, the air minister, said the RAF is building its "V" jet bomber force — Victors, Valiants and Vulcans — to "a state of high efficiency and preparedness."

"Thus, the Royal Air Force together with the United States Air Force will provide the main deterrent to aggression, since it is primarily by the threat of overwhelming nuclear striking power that an aggressor will be deterred," the air minister said.

The minister outlined Britain's atomic age air plans in a white paper presented to Parliament on air appropriations for the coming fiscal year. The white paper was the third in the defence series.

ESTIMATES UP

The "V" bombers will begin to come into service during the next 12 months, today's white paper said, and meanwhile the Canberra medium bomber force is "at its full strength."

The emphasis placed on the air force under Britain's new defence concepts is reflected in the increased money being appropriated to build up its atom - bomber force. The estimates of the other two services dropped but the air appropriation jumped from £491,640,000 last year to £513,900,000.

RCAF Will Provide Escort for Princess

HALIFAX (CP)—The air force said today it will provide an escort of Lancasters for the plane carrying Princess Margaret home to London from Bermuda March 2

Lancasters of the maritime command will fly out of Gander, Nfld., to accompany the royal airliner to a point in mid-Atlantic.

Police Called To Quell Riot In Toronto Church

TORONTO (CP)—Flaring tempers between new-Canadian Greeks and members of the Greek Orthodox Church brought police to quell riots in St. George church here Wednesday night.

Disagreement over church policies was blamed for the row.

It resulted in the formation of the Canadian Greek Federation, an organization of new Canadians from Greece who said they rebelled at church actions which "shunted off" Greek people newly arrived in Canada.

Police said they quickly restored order after the two-hour meeting broke up when opposing groups began hurling taunts and insults at each other.

Butter Surplus Will Remain Big

OTTAWA (CP)—The government may enter the new butter production year next spring with a record 50,000,000-pound butter surplus despite heavy response to its offer of price-reduced butter to Canadian institutions. Last year it held about 30,000,000 pounds.

Federal officials estimated Wednesday that about 990 hospitals, orphanages and other institutions have applied for the reduction amounting to 21 cents a pound but conceded that at the most the plan may increase sales possibly by 1,000,000 or 1,500,000 pounds.

The government supports the butter market by offering to buy all surplus at 58 cents a pound wholesale, holding the stocks for winter disposal at 61 cents a pound in carload lots.

HIGHER FAMILY ALLOWANCES NOT LIKELY THIS YEAR

Martin Denies Charge Made by CCF Member

OTTAWA—(CP)—CCF member Hazen Argue has charged the government with callousness in not increasing family allowance payments to match inflation.

The statement, made by the member for Assiniboia Wednesday during a half-day Commons debate on family allowances, was denied by Health Minister Martin.

No one in Parliament is callous about human misery, the minister said. Family allowances were the biggest item in the government's social security program and social security had to be paid for out of the hard-earned income of the people.

Mr. Argue was presenting a resolution asking for higher family allowances.

MENTIONS INFLATION

He said the government had allowed the benefits to wither away by permitting inflation to run wild. They should be restored to the equivalent of their 1945 value.

The allowances, paid for children up to the age of 16, range between $5 and $8 a month depending on age.

Mr. Argue's resolution, similar to one he has presented for the last four years, did not reach a vote. Debate was adjourned and the proposal is unlikely to be debated again this session.

CCF MEMBER DIFFERS

Liberal and CCF members carried most of the debate and one CCF member, Ross Thatcher, Moose Jaw-Lake Centre, said he could not support Mr. Argue's resolution.

Mr. Thatcher, who has differed from his party's official policy several times in the past, said allowances could not be boosted without increasing taxes. He added, however, that he supports the principle of allowances.

The proposal, he said, would cost an additional $200,000,000 a year. It would have to wait for a reduction in defence spending.

Mr. Argue said higher allowances would provide children with improvements in food, clothing, housing, schooling and medical care.

Mr. Martin replied that allowances were set up to accomplish that purpose and had succeeded. Surveys by 12 universities showed allowance payments were spent by parents on clothing, food, savings and insurance, education, medical care and recreation, in that order.

Federal expenditures on health and welfare accounted for almost 25 per cent of the government's budget, and family allowances took 29 per cent of those expenditures.

If the government had adopted Mr. Argue's first request four years ago to increase allowances, it would have been impossible to set up old age security, disabled persons' allowances and help for the blind.

Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William), said he opposes higher allowances at this time on three grounds: The need is not outstanding; parents have not asked for it, and other social legislation, such as a national health insurance plan, is needed first.

ROCKY RETURNS

MONTREAL (CP)—Maj.-Gen. J. (Rocky) Rockingham, general officer commanding the 1st Canadian Infantry Division, arrived here Wednesday night by plane from London via New York and a short time later boarded a train for Saint John, N.B.

Ships Aground, Cattle Starving In Fields Due to British Gales

LONDON (Reuters) — British lifeboats today took 24 crew members off the American freighter Meta D., which ran aground off the south coast in thick fog Tuesday.

The captain and 13 men stayed with the 7,212-ton vessel in hopes of refloating her. The rest were taken ashore in blinding snow and sleet which still swept most of the British Isles today.

Elsewhere on the south and east coasts gales drove other vessels to shelter.

About 13 ships sheltered in the great Yarmouth Roads off Norfolk from fierce North sea storms.

The French trawler St. Pierre Eglise, aground in the area since Feb. 13, was reported sinking in the sand.

Snowplows rescued 100 persons stranded overnight in three buses on the bleak Yorkshire moors. The travellers were all safe.

Thousands of starving sheep and cattle are still awaiting relief in snowbound north Scotland. Planes and helicopters today continued mercy flights, dropping food to isolated villagers and fodder for their animals.

On the moors of Devonshire and Cornwall, hit by the worst weather in seven years, villagers dug themselves out from the drifts formed during the night around their homes.

Starving herds of wild ponies, covered in icicles, are raiding farms and gardens looking for food.

About 40 main roads were blocked today throughout the country. But temperatures were rising slightly, bringing hopes of a general improvement before the weekend.

Montreal Police Seize $185,000 In Sweep Tickets

Three Men Are Arrested For Nation-Wide Sales

MONTREAL (CP) — Three men arrested in connection with a nation-wide distribution of sweepstake tickets will be arraigned today, police said.

They were picked up by morality squad officers in separate raids Tuesday and Wednesday. More than $185,000 worth of tickets and stubs were seized.

Police said "many thousands" of dollars worth of bookkeeping records, adding, stapling and stencil machines and office files were also confiscated.

OTHERS WARNED

One of the three arrested was the kingpin of the Montreal distribution of Irish sweepstake tickets, police said.

Despite every precaution to ensure security, they said, subsequent raids Wednesday night showed the suspects had been forewarned and destroyed everything pertaining to lottery and sweepstake sales.

The complete Montreal stock for the forthcoming Irish Derby in May were seized. Tickets included both Irish and Army and Navy sweepstakes.

More than 7,000 Irish sweepstake stubs and about 37,000 official Army and Navy receipts were confiscated.

NAMES FOUND

The seizure also included 23 books containing the names of agents across Canada, 5,000 envelopes addressed to distributors and 550 fictitious names and addresses used to receive the sales stubs and money from agents, police said.

The ring operated by expressing packages containing tickets and stubs to fictitious addresses, they said. The packages then were picked up by the salesmen at the express office.

Seven Killed In Plane Crash

WINDSOR, Mo. (AP) — A four-engined air force tanker plane on a refuelling training mission caught fire shortly after takeoff Wednesday night, plunged earthward and exploded, killing at least seven of 11 men aboard.

Two men parachuted to safety and two were reported missing.

The plane, which took off from the Sedalia air force base, crashed on a farm about six miles northwest of this central Missouri town.

Radar Units Collect $6,000

TORONTO (CP)—Radar is convincing Ontario motorists that speed doesn't pay.

Two radar speed-timing units, bought by the Ontario Provincial Police last year for $2,600, resulted in 514 speeding convictions and fines totalling $6,000 in 1954.

In January of this year there were 143 prosecutions, all convicted. Only one motorist contested th charge against him. He lost.

Signs in plain view on highways warn motorists a half mile before they reach a radar check point.

Say Evacuation Is Only Answer To Atomic Attack

TORONTO (CP) — Nuclear warfare information released last week by the United States government prompted two Canadian army generals Wednesday to urge a speed up of civil defence preparations.

Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, civil defence co - ordinator, and Maj.-Gen. George Hatton met with the metropolitan Toronto civil defence committee. They said evacuation of the area is the only answer to an atomic attack at present.

"It is a bitter pill that evacuation is our only course, but that must be the direction civil defence should follow in planning," Gen. Worthington said.

A team of specialists on civil defence would be made available to the Toronto area to assist in organizing a fast-moving defence corps.

The metropolitan defence committee plans to set aside $100.000 in the 1955 budget for civil defence. Provincial and federal government contributions account for 75 per cent of this total.

CITY & DISTRICT NEWS

THREE CROWS SEEN EAST OF THE CITY

Spring flew in this morning from the sunny south on shiny, black wings.

Mrs. H. George, who lives north of No. 2 highway about two miles east of the city, reported seeing three crows this morning.

"They are the first crows I have seen this year," she said.

They are also the first crows reported to the Ontario Intelligencer to have been seen in this area this year.

The crows were sighted just before 9.00 a.m. They were flying north towards a small woods about half a mile north of the highway.

Icicles Seen Hanging From Bushes in Florida

Icicles hanging from the bushes on the front lawn are something to be expected in Ontario in January but in so-called sunny Florida it is something else again.

But just that happened in Florida this year in January, according to Mr. Gene Hitchon, 116 Catherine Street, who with his wife and son David, just returned from a month's vacation in the south.

Mr. Hitchon noted that this has been the "coolest" winter for the past ten years with one incident in connection with the cool weather making many of the papers.

It seems one Florida resident went to bed one night and forgot to turn off his lawn sprinkler. When he got up the next morning bushes on his lawn were a maze of icicles.

"People came from all over the district to see the icicles," Mr. Hitchon said, "that is something which just doesn't happen in Florida.

Dental Assoc. Journal Editor Approves Water Fluoridation

Dentists in the Quinte area last night had pertinent facts of fluoridation heavily underlined to them when Dr. Wesley J. Dunn, Toronto dentist and editor of the Canadian Dental Association Journal, addressed the third annual seminar of the Ontario Dental Association in the Queen's Hotel.

Members of the profession were present from Toronto, Kingston, Stirling, Trenton, Belleville, Madoc, Marmora, Tweed, Brighton.

Dr. Dunn prefaced his remarks by commenting that fluoridation is not a controversial subject on a scientific level but that the controversy does exist on a political and emotional plane and "that I deplore."

Supporting his statement, Dr. Dunn quoted a long list of dental, medical and health bodies, both in Canada and the United States, which already have endorsed fluoridation of community water supplies as a deterrent to tooth decay. The list also included the International Dental Federation.

"If this endorsation is evidence of scientific disagreement, then should we ever disagree," he said.

CAN REDUCE DECAY

By endorsing fluoridation these bodies hold that it is possible to reduce by about two-thirds, tooth decay in children born and raised in areas where drinking water contains fluoride in the proper proportions. Proper proportion is about one part fluoride per million parts of water. An overdose of fluoride results in a condition known as fluorosis.

In essence, Dr. Dunn promulgated his stand on fluoridation on six points:

(1) Most natural water supplies and many different foods contain fluorine. The most significant source of fluorine in relation to human consumption is water.

(2) There is, approximately, a 60 per cent reduction in dental decay where a desirable amount of fluorine exists in drinking water, whether naturally or through scientific supplement.

(3) No evidence exists of detrimental effects on health where water is fluoridated in the proper proportions. (Vital statistics of common major diseases, maternal and new born death rates confirm the safety of fluoridation.)

(4) Most of the fluoride is excreted by the body while a minimal proportion, far below the fluorosis threshold, is stored in the bones and teeth.

(5) Most health organizations of recognized scientific standing have endorsed the efficacy and safety of fluoridation.

(6) Scientific studies offer an "impressive" body of evidence that fluoridation in communal water supplies is a public health measure which has an ample margin of safety.

In effect, fluoridation hardens the teeth that are developing. However, this hardening is not the same as hardening of bones or arteries, "as some opponents charge" Dr. Dunn said.

"Statistics in Ontario indicate that more than half the two-year-olds will have at least one tooth attacked by dental decay," he said. By the age of five, the average child will have nearly seven cavities.

"Cost to the community of the chemical itself has been estimated on an annual per capita figure of six to eight cents," he said. This does not include installation of machinery and labor which, however, he assumed would be light.

"It is difficult to see how some local councils propound that the cost of fluoride is a deterring factor in its initiation," said Dr. Dunn.

Regarding lethal effects of the measure, he pointed out it would be necessary to drink 8,000 glasses of water in succession before a fatal effect resulted. It would take at least 500 years to effect a discernible change in the bone structure of a person consuming properly fluoridated water.

BASED ON NEGATIVE EVIDENCE

"A main problem in the health field is that conclusions must almost of necessity be based on negative evidence," Dr. Dunn said.

"Except in the case of pure mathematics the scientists can say nothing with absolute impunity."

"All the scientific worker can do is to accumulate an overwhelming body of probable facts. There is no one public health measure in use in this country today in which all research possibilities have been exhausted and doubtless, as time goes on, finer details will become known about fluoridation which will even more greatly enhance its value," he said.

"This does not mean, however, that the time has not come when fluoridation can be undertaken with assurance of its safety and benefits."

Dr. Dunn also scored local councils who declined to introduce fluoridation to their communities, despite unanimous recommendations from their boards of health, because of what may be called political expediency."

"Unfortunately the fear of consequences at the ballot box in so many instances takes precedence over the welfare of the citizens as a whole."

"Also," he said, "he was disturbed by activities of some radio and press reporters who are utilizing this public health procedure for personal aggrandizement and notoriety."

"It is my sincere hope that they will develop a sufficient social consciousness to realize that they are playing with the health of our children."

Among those present were Alderman Bram Humphreys and public utilities commissioner, Harry Rollins.

Cub Pack Holds Father, Son Banquet

The 10th Belleville Cub Pack held its annual 'Father and Son' banquet Saturday evening, in the church parlor. Forty-three Cubs, fathers and guests sat down to a delicious meal served by the Cubs' Mothers' Auxiliary, convened by Mrs. H. Outingdyke.

The Cubs under the direction of Akela, Tony Lepore, and assistant, Jim Scriven, gave a short display of Cub work. First Stars were presented to Gary Woodley, Ronald Armstrong and Gerry Forward. David McMurray was awarded the First Aid badge and John Smith the collector's badge.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker, Mr. Phil Allcorn, assistant district commissioner of Cubs, was introduced by the chairman of the group committee, Howard Armstrong. Mr. Allcorn gave a challenging address, levelled first to the Cubs and then to the fathers. He stressed the obligations of the boys in their promise and the cooperation which was necessary from the fathers.

The guest speaker was thanked by Dr. G. H. Craig. David McMurray expressed the thanks of the Cubs to the fathers to which Harold Outingdyke responded.

The Cubs then formed their pack circle for the grand howl and vesper song, after which the Rev. S. E. Larman pronounced the closing prayer.

Traffic Problems at New Quinte Secondary School Matter of Concern to Board

Traffic problems in connection with the arrival and departure of students at the Quinte Secondary School on College street are a matter of concern for members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board who would like to see several projects carried out for the safety of students.

Suggestions which would improve conditions at the school include a possible traffic light at the corner of North Front and College streets, widening of College street, and underpass or overpass across the C.N.R. double track at the end of Frank or Coleman streets, and a sidewalk to the school on the south side of College street from North Front street.

All of the above matters came up for discussion at this week's regular meeting of the high school board with all suggestions being referred to the sites and accommodation committee for further consideration.

The February meeting of the high school board called for double time on the part of members, who met a week ago and then adourned until this week when all business was not completed.

A week ago a special committee of board members, J. J. Trudeau, A. C. Campbell, George Wishart and H. C. Seldon was appointed to go into the matter of rental charge for the auditorium at the Quinte Secondary School and also to review the present rates for the B. C. I. auditorium. Jack McArthur was named to replace Enos David on the fire insurance committee.

MAY MOVE CAFETERIA

The special cafeteria committee will consider the possibility of improving the cafeteria facilities at B.C.I. The cafeteria facilities ent is on the third floor of the building and the possibility of moving it to an unused basement room will be considered. A. C. Drysdale was named to the cafeteria committee in place of Dr. William Baldwin.

Effective immediately meals at the B.C.I. cafeteria will be reduced in price by five cents to bring the cost more in line with meals at the Quinte Secondary school. The matter of renting the cafeteria at the Quinte school for banquets and other gatherings was referred to the special committee.

The board passed a motion from the books of the former board of education that the retiring age for high school employees, including teaching staff members, to be 62 years. However, teachers may be continued on a yearly basis after 62 years at the discretion of the board.

BUY NEW PROJECTOR

Authorization was given for the purchase of a carbon arc movie projector for B.C.I. The new projector will give better reproduction of movies shown at the school.

Wallace Bell of the Northern Electric, was named chairman of the advisory vocational committee. G. A. Bradford of the Bakelite Company was named to the committee to take the place of Al. Drysdale.

Advisory vocational committee members named to liaison duty were as follows: Milton Burtt, shops; G. A. Bradford, commercial, J. Anderson, agriculture, and Mrs. R. Morden, home economics.

The report of the academic inspectors for both the B.C.I. and Quinte Secondary School was received, the report indicating school work was progressing satisfactorily.

Use of a ground floor room at Quinte school was granted to the Handicapped and Disabled club members for meetings once per month. The ground floor room will make it more convenient for club members.

Staff Members Honor Wm. Philp On Retirement

Members of the editorial, composing room, job printing and office staffs of The Ontario Intelligencer honored William Philp, Yeomans Street, last night on the completion of 37 years with the paper. Charles Hardwick, composing room foreman; Evan Barlow, William O'Brien, Cecil Ling, William Bailey, Ron Kavaner and Claude D. Tice visited the home and presented Mr. Philp with a lazy boy rocker and Mrs. Philp with an electric coffee percolator.

It was a happy occasion for the staff to visit the home and enjoy a social hour with one who had contributed ability, friendship to his employees and service to his employers. Mrs. Philp was an excellent hostess and although surprised, before the party left the home delicious refreshments were served.

Bygone years were recalled when Mr. Philp was a hurler with the old Park Nine, a baseball team that cut a wide swath in district circles for many years. The party also viewed the many fine wood carvings done by the honored guest as a hobby and the splendid trees of lemons and oranges growing lustily in the home and each of them bearing fruit at the present time. The three budgies in their separate cages were not forgotten, although they had been put to bed when the party arrived.

Mr. Tice read an appropriate address to Mr. Philp, which extolled his many fine qualities while a member of the staff and the regret of his illness that has forced him to retire from active work. Messrs. Tice, Hardwick and Barlow, the three older members of the staff, also expressed their personal regrets on his retirement. At this point a beautiful chair was presented to Mr. Philp and a coffee percolator to Mrs. Philp.

Taken completely by surprise Mr. Philp expressed his thanks for the thoughtfulness of the staff of remembering him and his good wife and that he would many times think of the old times as he sat in his easy chair.

Pictures were then taken of the happy event by Mr. Ling.

IN MEMORIAM

RAMSEY. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Hazel Ramsey, who passed away February 24th, 1954.

She has taken her last journey
In God's beautiful ship called "Rest."
Away from this world of sorrow
To a home of eternal rest.
Words cannot say how we loved her
Deep in our hearts there is a pain
God alone knows how much we miss her
As we wander along life's way.
But a voice seems gently calling.
Dear ones, be good and true.
At the end of life's journey
I'll be watching and waiting for you.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Jean and son Jack.

Region Director Visits Y's Men

Wilfred Roberts, Regional director from Guelph visited the Y's Men's Club at a special meeting Saturday evening. About thirty members gathered to greet the International representative for Ontario. His address was very thought provoking and left each member with more ideas on how he could be a better Y's Man, thus accomplishing more for the Club, the Community and himself.

Later a number of members accompanied their guest to the home of President Robbie Clarke and enjoyed a social evining.

District Governor Hyde introduced the guest to the Club, and Larry Buck expressed the thanks of the Club for his timely message.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market, after indecisive forenoon trading, moved mildly downward in early afternoon.

Lower-priced uraniums countered the trend with some fair gains. Industrials held a mixed position but refining oils were weak.

Off $1 or more at 1 p. m. EST were Consolidated Paper, Anglo Canadian Pulp and Paper, and International Utilities. Ford A climbed $1 and Imperial Life $2.

International Nickel, off $1.25 to $62.76, led base metals down. Preston East Dome dropped 20 cents to $9 in golds but Sullivan added 20 to $6.20.

Calgary and Edmonton, off 75 cents to $15.25, led western oils down.

Uraniums featured Consolidated Denison up 20 to $4.40 and Lorado ahead 20 to $4.

British Bombers To Visit Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Eight RAF Canberra jet bombers will fly to Canada this summer to take part in exercises with the RCAF's air defence command, the air force announced today.

The twin-engine bombers will fly to Goose Bay, Labrador, in July and from there will carry out simulated attacks on Canadian targets.

The RCAF said the high-altitude, high-speed and long-range characteristics of the Canberras make them particularly suitable for the role of invader. The RCAF has no similar plane for the job.

The mock attacks will be carried out during a two-week air defence exercise in which RCAF regular and reserve forces will participate. The Canberras will simulate attacks singly and in full force.

Usual Attendance At Christ Church Club Doubled

At the regular weekly meeting of the Christ church men's club, Tuesday night, the usual attendance was doubled. The men met at the church and then attended in a group the Pancake supper at St. George's hall. Upon returning to Christ church a short business meeting was held after which the guest speaker of the evening, the Rev. A. S. McConnell of Trenton, was introduced by Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan.

Canon McConnell spoke on the Anglican Brotherhood of Churchmen, an organization within the Anglican church, which has as its foundation the Diocese of Huron. From a small beginning it has spread to the diocese of Niagara and to parts of the Diocese of Ontario. Although not as yet officially recognized by the whole Church of England in Canada, it is expected that at the General Synod in Edmonton in September, the matter will be brought up and will obtain a Dominion-wide status.

Some time was given to the five aims of the Brotherhood and the speaker described how these had welded together a large segment of the church where it is active.

Mr. McConnell answered questions from the group who showed a lively interest.

Colored slides were then shown by the speaker of a recent trip to Europe, especially the British Isles, Holland and France where he had spent four years as a padre in the last war.

E. E. Palmer thanked Canon McConnell for his talk on behalf of the club and the meeting then closed with refreshments.

Princess Sails From Bermuda For Bahamas

PORT ANTONIO, Jamaica (AP) Tanned by the Caribbean sun and hailed by her hosts as a royal success, Princess Margaret today reached the end of her visit to Jamaica.

She sailed this morning aboard the royal yacht Britannia for the Bahamas, her last stop before flying home next Wednesday. She began her tour of British possessions in the Caribbean area 3½ weeks ago.

The Princess spent Wednesday night at the exclusive Sansas estates near here, after shooting the rapids of the Rio Grande river on a bamboo raft.

After the river trip Margaret attended a festive beach party. Among the guests were Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for U. S. president in 1952 who is vacationing in Jamaica, and playwright Noel Coward.

STROLLS ON BEACH

The princess, wearing a strapless yellow cotton frock, listened to drum music and folk singing in the romantic setting of Frenchman's cove and strolled along the palm-studded beach with two young aides to Governor Sir Hugh Foot, and police superintendent John Holley.

Stevenson remarked with a smile "she must have enjoyed getting away from us old folks for a while."

Stevenson said that as he sat at the dinner table with the princess "we joked about British and American slang."

GOOD BUY

LONDON (AP)—Actress Hazel Lawrence says a "squirrel" coat she bought at a January fur sale for £20 has turned out to be Russian ermine worth more than £1,000. The store owner said the coat was confused with a squirrel model by an inexperienced clerk.

Reuben D'Aigle After Losing Hollinger Mine, Ungava Iron Properties, Can Still Smile

The world's most confirmed optimist is Reuben D'Aigle. After losing both Hollinger Mine and Ungava iron ore properties, he can still smile.

With Hollinger Mine Mr. D'Aigle was three days late. In Ungava he was 40 years too early. This unfortunate timing cost him two of the world's greatest mineral properties.

"I have my experience and my hopes for the future," he says.

Mr. D'Aigle is a brother of Mrs. Ernest Duffy, 264 Victoria Ave.

The man who earned the title, "the world's hardest luck prospector," was born in Chipman, N.B., "about 80 years ago" said Mrs. Duffy this morning. He is the second of four sons of Reuben D'Aigle. Mrs. Duffy is his only sister.

Mr. D'Aigle was only 18 when he joined the rush to the Klondike at the turn of the century. He remained in the Yukon for eight years and when he came out at the tender age of 26 he was reputedly worth a million dollars. Legal entanglements and court battles right to the Supreme Court of Canada took great bites from his stake.

Gold fever took him to Northern Ontario before 1910 and what happened at Hollinger is now mining history.

Mr. D'Aigle actually sank a pit on the site of what later became Hollinger Mine.

"He felt that he had a good prospect there," said Mr. Duffy this morning. "But when the silver boom started in Cobalt he joined the rush. He had no intentions of abandoning his claims at Hollinger. But on the way back his dogs got sick and he was delayed three days.

"When he arrived at the site of his pit his claim had lapsed and been taken over by others."

TOOK SEVERE LACING

D'Aigle's pit became one of North America's greatest gold finds within days. The gold boom touched off another round of legal skirmishes for D'Aigle, whose pocketbook took a severe lacing in a losing fight.

Most men would have traded their pick ax for a clerk's pencil at this point but not D'Aiigle.

In 1914 he started the first of 20 annual pilgrimages to the Labrador-Ungava area via Seven Islands.

On his first visit he met an old Indian, who told him that gold nuggets were lying, like curios, on the counter of a trading post in the interior. D'Aigle found the trading post and the solid gold nuggets but he never found the Indian, who originally discovered them.

During the next 20 years he roamed over thousands of square miles of Ungava and Labrador in a vain hunt for the mother lode.

During his search D'Aigle came upon the fabulous iron deposits at Knob Lake that today are household words throughout the world.

The Quebec government anxious to promote development of mineral possibilities in the province asked D'Aigle for an estimate of the extent of the iron fields. His estimate of "millions upon millions of tons" was greeted with skepticism at the time. Today, proven reserves in Ungava total 400 million tons.

Despite their disbelief, D'Aigle persuaded the Quebec government to lease him mining rights to $2,200 square miles of rich iron territory. Yearly dues of $7,000 started mounting as D'Aigle tried vainly to interest Canadian, American, German and English iron and steel interests in the development of Ungava iron.

Americans looked at Mesabi's seemingly inexhaustible supply of cheap ore and laughed. Canadians didn't have the money and thought the job too tough.

RESOURCES DRAINED AWAY

Finally the claims reverted to the Quebec government as lease payments, time and trouble drained away D'Aigle's resources.

Today, a $300,000,000 syndicate of American and Canadian mining and steel interests is sending Ungava iron down a 357-mile-long railway from Knob Lake to a new deep water port at Sept. Isles, where it is shipped to the hungry blast furnaces of eastern United States steel mills. Within three years it is expected that 10,000,000 tons of rich iron ore a year will be flowing from Ungava.

D'Aigle has long since accepted the harsh judgment of a fate, which seemed to time his discoveries with a broken watch.

He retired to his Scarboro home about 10 years ago after making one last flight into the prospector's paradise of northern Ontario.

One of his three sons is a geologist. A second is a stationary engineer and the third, a university student, drowned while working during his summer holidays as a wireless operator on the steamer Kingston. Of his two daughters, one is living at home, and the other is the wife of a Toronto doctor.

As D'Aigle recalls one of Canada's most turbulent prospecting careers there is only one question, which still troubles him. Where did that Indian find those gold nuggets he saw on the counter of a small store in Ungava?

TOKYO (AP)—A Masonic lodge which will include in its membership some of the most prominent men in Japan, will be organized March 1, it was announced today. Rituals will be conducted in the Japanese language.

Labor Leaders Call for Action To Aid Jobless

OTTAWA (CP)—With unemployment at a post-war high, Canada's two top labor leaders are calling for government moves to provide more jobs.

Claude Jodoin, who heads the 580,000-member Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, wants a federal-provincial conference on ways of providing employment. He also says federal public works projects should be stepped up.

A. R. Mosher, chief of the 375,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, says the federal government should "stop talking hopefully" and give top priority to planning full employment and improving unemployment insurance benefits.

AFTER FIGURES RELEASED

The congress presidents issued demands for action after the government Wednesday released figures showing unemployment in late January, about two months away from the normal low point of seasonal work in March, already is higher than the previous postwar record of March, 1954.

The government's bureau of statistics estimated that at Jan. 22 last 36,000 persons were out of work and looking for jobs. The former high was 318,000 last March.

Two Men, Possessing Stolen Bonds, Arrested in City

Intuition on the part of two city patrol officers led to the arrest early today of two Toronto men who had in their possession several thousand dollars' worth of bonds and stock certificates stolen from a strong box in the home of a Kingston doctor.

Police arrested Tony Renda, 33, and George Roy Amodeo, 20, both of Toronto, who are being returned to Kingston for questioning in connection with the entering of the home of Dr. Ernest B. Sparks, Stewart St., Kingston, who with his family is holidaying in Florida.

The two men also had in their possession a loaded .38 calibre revolver stolen when a Toronto house was entered last December.

Police Constables Jack Kent and Dave Richardson were patrolling on Front Street when they spotted two roughly dressed men in a car. They followed the car to South Front St. and in the vicinity of Acme Farmers Dairy stopped the vehicle to check on the driver and the passenger.

Renda, said by local police to be well known in the Toronto underworld, was recognized by Constable Kent. The pair was searched by officers, who found the loaded revolver and the valuable documents.

The men were brought to the police station for further investigation and were booked on vagrancy charges. This morning Police Inspector C. Claire Hayes found the documents were from Kingston and contacting Kingston police determined they had been stolen from the residence of Dr. Sparks.

Inspector Hayes said the men were also wanted by Toronto police in connection with a December house-breaking.

REGRETS STRIKES EARLY

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Mrs. Rena Matthews Wallace filed suit for divorce in district court Wednesday, charging her husband of less than 15 minutes with incompatibility. Her petition alleged her mate, Robert Arthur Wallace, deserted her within 15 minutes after they were married Feb. 16. She said she was a "good and dutiful wife" during those 15 minutes and gave the defendant no grounds for deserting her.

WORSHIP IN FACTORIES

LYNN, Mass. (AP)—Protestant services were scheduled today in two big plants of the General Electric Co. in a unique move that brings religion to a place of work. Roman Catholic masses were offered Wednesday at the GE works to usher in Lent. An estimated 4,000 attended masses during the lunch hour. During the Lenten season, Catholic services will be on Wednesdays and Protestant sevices Thursdays.

BUSINESS EDITOR WAXES INDIGNANT

Bill Fletcher, business editor of the Vancouver Sun, recently waxed indignant about the plight of a young French-Canadian couple in Vancouver.

They moved to the West Coast from Montreal last September. In five months the husband had only 21 days' work and earned $150. When he saw Fletcher he had 23 cents in his pocket, no job and no prospect of a job. He owed a doctor $107 and a hospital $106.40 as the result of an appendectomy for his wife. Through the charity of a friend, he and his wife had a roof over their heads. But they had nothing else.

"It seems their particular case cannot be fitted into our social assistance program," says Fletcher. "You take a couple of names; length of residence in B.C.; the color of their eyes; how much money they don't have; the number of days Leopold has or hasn't worked; the number of his unemployment insurance book. You put all this information into a wonderful machine—bought by the taxpayers — and labelled 'Social Assistance;' you pull a handle and—what happens? Leopold and Eva end up back on the street."

Mr. Fletcher has some sarcastic words to say about the social service administrator for North Vancouver, to whom this young couple appealed and with whom Mr. Fletcher attempted to intercede. Basically, though, situations like this are not the fault of individual officials. Mr. Fletcher came much closer to putting his finger on the flaw when he observed that "if somebody doesn't conform to the social assistance pattern he's out in the cold while Victoria and Ottawa turn their backs and blithely disclaim responsibility."

The "divide and rule" axiom of the autocrats has been reworded by the twentieth century bureaucrats so that it now reads "share responsibility in order to shirk it."

Remarking on the fact that, as the result of a friend's charity, this young husband at least has shelter, Mr. Fletcher observes that "at that he may be luckier than a lot of unemployed."

He is right. This is not a unique situation. That is what makes it so alarming.

There is a simple remedy. All we have to do is to think of ourselves as Canadians, for a change, instead of classifying ourselves as residents of this big city or that small hamlet. The municipality can be responsible for its sewers, the province for its highways, because sewers and highways do not move around, but Canada's people are the responsibility of Canada. If we have any national pride, we are as deeply concerned about a starving fisherman in a bleak Newfoundland hamlet or a sick lumberman in a Pacific Coast logging camp as we would be if they were our next door neighbors.

To provide social assistance on a national scale would mean centralization? Well, now, isn't that too bad. What a shock to discover that to be a nation we have got to act like one.

THE PRICE OF THINGS

James Downs Jr., president of the Real Estate Research Corporation of Chicago, says that Canadian and U.S. consumers are no longer interested in the price of things but only care about how long it takes to pay for an article on the instalment plan.

This statement should be accepted with reservation. It is almost certainly true about real estate, the field in which Mr. Downs is most vitally interested. We are not so certain that it also holds true in all other fields.

The real reason why few home-buyers are interested in the price of a house is because few of them have the price. The only way in which they can afford to buy a home is on the instalment plan. "They never know what interest rates they're paying and couldn't care less," says Mr. Downs. If this statement is true, this ignorance and disinterest is deplorable. But, in one sense, once the amount of the down payment and of the instalments is known, the amount of time which will be required to pay off the mortgage is, in effect, a measure of the interest rate.

This attitude towards purchases is defensible in the realm of real estate, but the same does not hold true when the consumer goes shopping for a variety of other articles. Therefore if Mr. Downs is correct in saying that consumers today are no longer interested in the price of things the situation is disturbing. There is a place for instalment buying, but it should not be carried to extremes, to the point where every dollar of a week's income is pledged in advance as a payment on this or that article. The easiest way to remedy this situation is to induce the consumer to take an interest in interest rates—and to discover how much his haste to enjoy ownership is costing him. Such a revived interest in the price of things might temporarily reduce demand for some articles—but in the end it would make it possible for consumers to purchase more, because they would be avoiding the heavy drain on their family budgets represented by interest charges on instalment purchases.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Febrpary 24th, 1935

George Pepper of this city drove his one cylinder machine into third place in the 200 mile motorcycle road race at Camp Foster, Florida. Of the 6" starters in the race only 20 were in at the finish.

The band concert given in the Capitol Theatre by the Belleville Municipal Band was largely attended and much enjoyed. A fair sum was realized to go towards the purchase of new instruments for the band. Besides the well rendered band selections, special instrumental selections were rendered by Messrs. Branscombe, Wardle and Greene. Assisting artists were Frank Hitchon who sang the "Wanderers' Song", and Clare Patterson singing "The Open Road". A musical number by Bruce Sills was much enjoyed. Miss L. Ridley was the competent accompanist.

Muscovite Labors Long

(New York World Telegram)

From the Department of Labor comes a comparative report on costs in the Communist mecca of Moscow as against that citadel of capitalism, New York City.

By a check of Soviet publications, the department found that Ivan must toil up to 2,600 percent longer than the average New Yorker to buy certain commodities. The comrade must work 47 days for enough rubles to buy a wool suit. The American worker can buy a comparable suit after working only three days.

The Muscovite labors 22 times longer for a shirt. 10 times for socks, 12 times for shoes, nine times for cotton dresses, 14 times for an overcoat, and three times for a bottle of his own vodka. Ah, the proletarian paradise of the Daily Worker! Ah, the new order! Ah, nuts!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Recently, the Packsack mentioned the fact that these new tiny one-generation homes that are springing up in patches of hundreds all over the suburbs of city and town had no space for dependent older folk. They are designed for young parents and a couple of children. Any grandmas or grandpas who may be left over have to go someplace else. The modern home discourages the lineal idea of home.

A reader sends in another interesting comment on the new bungalows. They have no verandahs or porches. You come out the front door bang into the open. And the little children of the toddler stage for whom, for generations past, verandah, with one of those temporary telescopic gates across the steps, has been their first experience of open-air freedom, are now either prisoners of play pens or are kept in the house, yowling and howling, unless their mothers take them out for a walk.

But a play pen is a fair weather device. Rain or shine, winter or summer, the infant starting to walk, right up until it is three and more years of age, could be put on the verandah for some of the most interesting hours of its day, full of passing people, delivery wagons, dogs, a hundred divertissments. Only on fine days can a play pen substitute for a verandah. A play pen is a cage. A verandah is a vast expanse of terra incognita, with a roof over it.

But with the growth of the communities of ministers' homes there is spreading the idea of the nursery school: and as soon as a child grows too big for a play pen, and too big, too, for the little verandahless home and a harried mother deeply involved in all her labor-saving devices, off it is trotted each morning to some nice old-fashioned, nine-roomed house with a verandah and a fenced-in yard such as are to be found around the new housing developments. And there a small squad of ladies, devoted to the problem of caring for nursery-aged children, entertain it with the elementary activities of human society and also make a little money.

The little modern houses are determined to stay pretty and not too bothered.

Reds Dislike Flying Saucers

(Hamilton Spectator)

So much has been said and written about flying saucers that we feel bashful about mentioning the subject again, and would not do so had not our attention been attracted the other day to an item in a hand-out from the West German Government in Bonn. This reports that the Communist governments of East Berlin, Czechosovakia, Poland and Hungary have condemned flying saucers as an aspect of "ideological subversion."

Apparently, the reports of these flying apparitions are part of a deep-laid plan by the Western nations to "paralyze the will of the working people." For the most part the Western nations have refused to flatter the Russian national ego by crediting their scientists with having independently discovered anything so revolutionary as a flying saucer. Instead, the people of Mars have received the credit.

On the other hand, masses of people on the other side of the Iron Curtain have enthusiastically believed in the flying saucers and have credited the West with having discovered something that has defied the Russians to copy. The Communist governments have dubbed these accounts of strange-shaped objects seen in the sky as a form of psychosis that has affected the mass of the people. Serious-minded party underlings have been busy denying the existence of flying saucers following investigations by the secret police who discovered that they were propaganda balloons from the West. Many Czechs, Poles and Hungarians have found out long ago that there is secret satisfaction to be had in believing the opposite of what the Communists say. Hence, in spite of repeated official denials that flying saucers are "subversive enemy propaganda," thousands behind the Iron Curtain slyly insist in believing that they come from the West and that they are secret, tangible ad dangerous.

The situation is not without a touch of grim humor.

Will Codify Clothing Sizes

(New York Herald-Tribune)

Women's clothing sizes have long been such a puzzle to most men, and to some women, too that it is no surprise that the United States Government is about to take in the situation. The Department of Commerce has announced a system of codification whereby a size 36, for instance, would always be the same—a thoroughly reasonable objective.

It used to be a saying of the G.I.'s, and possibly also of the Wacs, that all Army clothes came in two sizes—too large and too small. Obviously the Commerce Department is trying to guard against this eventuality in civilian life, for its proposed schedule of sizes encompasses no fewer than 113 different graduations. No logical person is likely to object to such a system.

The trouble is, though, that, as every husband knows, women don't invariably buy clothes logically. Sizes which mean one thing in dresses may mean something else in sweaters or skirts. Such terms as juniors and misses are in wide use, but no one has ever stated clearly when a junior becomes a miss—or is it the other way around? Similarly, women shorter than average are classified in a half-size category which really seems a little se[illegible]e.

Obviously there is much to be done, and the Commerce Department is entering this mysterious realm with commendable courage and determination. If the plan succeeds, when a women look at a size tag in the future, she will do it with new confidence, rationality and understanding. Men, of course, will continue looking at the price tag, and with the same emotions as previously.

Pipe Smoking Is Serious

(Minneapolis Tribune)

A cigarette, once lit, will consume itself. It is not thus with the tobacco in a pipe. The fires must be restored to life at frequent intervals, and this requires an ample supply of matches.

Then there is the whole matter of what to stoke with—what magical blend of Turkish, domestic, plain, aromatic, etc., etc. The alchemist of old has his counterpart in the latter day pipe smoker mingling Churchill 54 with Old Fruitcake and just a touch of Algerian Snark.

Pipe smoking, in short, may wean a man from cigarettes, but it is not something to be undertaken lightly. It's a serious business.

Movie Errors Please Experts

(The Times Of London)

It is not with an unqualified respect that we think of experts. Experts have been called in, experts are being flown out, experts are studying...Yes, yes: that is all very well; what do they do the rest of the time? Beady-eyed and ubiquitous, they pop out from behind the wainscot like mice at a whiff of the right kind of cheese. Swine-fever, tidal-waves, by-elections, &c., and kindred phenomena—no matter how loud, or faint, or unexpected the clarion-call, experts are there to answer it. If St. Paul's Cathedral developed a list to port, if anybody in Lutterworth went bald overnight, if a horse began to sing or a hare got drunk, the experts would be on the job in no time.

The BBC's parlor-games have accustomed us to the idea of an intellectual fire brigade ready to solve all problems and put all controversies in perspective; its members are commonly referred to as "the experts". Yet we are not invariably convinced by their findings, or impressed by the methods which they use to reach them. We take, on the whole, a dim view of experts.

There is, however, one kind of expert whose range is so limited, and whose appearances in the role are so rare and afford him so much innocent enjoyment, that it is difficult to think harshly of him. He is the man who, at the theatre or the cinema, notices some technical inexactitude in the entertainment which is being presented. It is almost always of a minor and sometimes of a microscopic kind, yet for him it—or perhaps his cleverness in spotting it—bulks large. It is not what most of us would call a howler, like equipping Bohemia with a sea coast or Ancient Rome with clocks. His eye for inaccuracies and anachronisms is that of a specialist.

As, across shell-torn Californian sands, Mr. Erroll Flynn leads the Highland Division into action at El Alamein, it is the fact that the men have not got camouflage nets on their helmets that the expert calls attention. "You would have thought," he complains, "that they would have take the trouble to get a thing like that right." But secretly he is delighted that they did not.

It may be his first and his last appearance as an expert. But somewhere in every auditorium others like him are to be found. Why is that Pict wearing a leopard-skin? What makes the Detective-Inspector think that he can catch the night train to Scotland at this late hour? With which pack of foxhounds has the heroine been hunting in September? How could Julius Caesar's charger have been furnished with stirrups? On points like these the experts pounce like lepidopterists on rare and inconspicuous moths.

Long after they have forgotten the plot and the players, the cherished solecisms linger in their minds, assuming in retrospect a disproportionate importance so that the merits of the play or film are blotted out and only the mistake is remembered. It is as well for the entertainment industry that these experts seldom, very seldom, take up criticism as a profession, for it would hardly be fair if a dramatist's reputation hung on a sword-knot, or the fortunes of a film on the cut of a galleon's jib.

Is Expert At Surviving

(Montreal Gazette)

Only one American correspondent was permitted to attend and report the funeral of Stalin. He was Eddy Gilmore of the Associated Press.

Later he reported what he had seen and heard in greater detail, this passage:

"The speaking began. Malenkov, Beria and Molotov. The first spoke in a firm, clear, well-modulated voice.

"Beria spoke in a well-controlled voice. A business-like tone.

"Then Molotov."

This story of 1953 has new meaning. Molotov is now the only one of the three orators at Stalin's funeral who has not fallen from grace and power. Beria was shot. Malenkov has withdrawn in a cloud of self accusation.

It is all rather like what happened at the funeral of Lenin in 1924. There were seven pall bearers. Only two, Stalin and Kalinin, died of supposedly natural causes. The remaining four died violently. Kamenev, Zinoviev and Bukharin were executed, and Tomsky killed himself during the purge trials. Of the seven at Lenin's funeral there is only one survivor. Oddly enough, he is Molotov, the one thriving orator from Stalin's funeral.

"Molotov's ability to survive state funerals has become his outstanding characteristic.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

OXYGEN DEFICIT AND C V D

Some readers may remember that I cited the statement of a recognized medical authority, that digitalis enables the damaged heart "to do more work with the same expenditure of energy," and called it absurd. I begged physicists, physicians or physiologists who do not consider the statement absurd to tell me about it. So far, only the inevitable sophomores have sent me essays.

Dr. Brady

I have thought about it a good deal, and about deep breathing. After all, the purpose of both the circulation and respiration is to deliver oxygen to cells, tissues, organs. I have on accasion observed that you can't hoist yourself with your own boot straps and you can't breathe more deeply than you ordinarily breathe for more than a few minutes. Breathing, like the beating of the heart and the motor and secretory action of the alimentary tract, is automatically (autonomically) regulated. You may attempt to regulate or control these vital functions by will power or by the use of drugs, but you will succeed only in showing your ignorance.

Voluntarily breathe more deeply than ordinarily for a minute or two or for 3 minutes if you can do so that long, and your breathing for the next minute or two or three will be shallow enough to put you right back where you were before.

C. V. D. means cardiovascular degeneration, heart-artery wearing out, slow heart muscle failure, myocarditis, arteriosclerosis, angina pectoris, coronary occlusion or thrombosis, apoplexy.

Anoxia, oxygen deficit, insufficient supply of oxygen to cells and tissues, subnormal oxygenation is the essential cause of C. V. D. in whichever way may be manifest.

Some of my thinking about this has been disturbing, I must admit. It has reached a pretty how-de-do, indeed. Here I am, advocating the practice of B.B., when along comes a doddering old geezer who tells you it is futile to try to hoist yourself with your own bootstraps, and on closer scrutiny he turns out to be the veritable Ol' Doc Brady who writes this column.

I still practise B.B., however, and I regard it as especially good for any one with C. V. D.

Even if you have not yet developed C. V. D., daily practice of B.B. will improve your circulation by getting stagnant blood out of the great splanchnic pool, the vast network of small blood vessels in the abdomen which are capable of holding a quarter of the entire volume of blood out of action, so to speak.

Incidentally, B.B. is not the same as ordinary deep breathing. It is physiological. Ordinary deep breathing is not.

NATURE OF MIRACLES

What is a miracle?

We read of miracles in the Bible. Some were nature miracles such as our Lord's stilling the storm, walking upon the water, and feeding the five thousands. Others were healing miracles. It would be difficult for anyone to maintain that he is a Christian believer and yet deny miracles.

People have tried to explain miracles in many ways. One explanation is that we know only a few natural laws but when natural laws of which we are now ignorant begin to operate, or even when the natural laws we know begin to operate in unusual combinations, things of a miraculous nature occur. According to this definition, a miracle therefore is just the working of natural laws in ways with which we are presently unfamiliar.

The more spiritual explanation of miracle is that there is a vast difference between the physical and the spiritual realms. Such being the case, when the perfection of the spiritual realm touches the imperfection of the physical realm, then disease, infirmity, emotional disturbance, and the bondage of evil impulses are overwhelmed. The perfection of the spirit touches the imperfections of the flesh and brings health, poise, and that spiritual emancipation which is best described by the Biblical word "salvation."

And, of course, the greatest of all miracles is the spiritual miracle of salvation.

OUTDOOR POEMS

Of all the outdoor manifestations of Nature I look upon the tree as one of man's greatest gifts from Nature's God. I have often wondered why so many varieties and species. In the tropics and semi-tropics are the beautiful palms and coconut trees, so graceful and intricately formed. And then in many parts of the southland are to be seen the great live oaks with their decorations of Spanish moss.

There are literally hundreds of varieties of trees, and every one a masterpiece of creation—the oaks, maples, birches, pines, hickory, black walnut, tulip, and chestnut as those with which we are most familiar. But each in its own way is an outdoor poem!

I have noted that one of the first things that is done when a new community is started is to set out trees. They are man's great outdoor friends and companions. When you go into a section of any country that has had many years of growth, the most outstanding feature is its age-old trees. There is something comforting and inviting about any tree in full bloom. And when it is a fruit tree its Springtime blossoms are like an invitation to a wedding!

There is a woman in Peoria, Ill., who has made a hobby of trees and has organized what she calls "The Tally Tree Club" and she has invited those interested to plant a historic tree in her grove. A very wonderful idea, it seems to me. The name of many a noted person, and many a cause, has been memorialized by a tree.

How many a seat in the out-of-doors has been placed under a great tree, its shadows in the heat of Summer cooling all about it. It was under a tree, while resting, that the theory of gravitation was discovered, and it was under a tree that Richard Jefferies wrote that beautiful book "The Story of My Heart." Genuine poetry is not confined to mere words. You see it in all outdoor Nature.

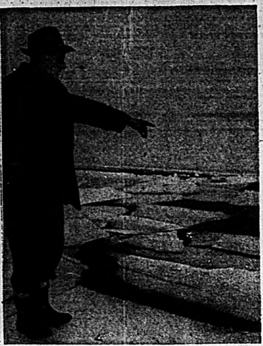
PULLED TO BOTTOM OF QUINTE BAY



Walter Lewis of Picton, Ont., points to the big hole made in the ice when his car plunged to the bottom of the Bay of Quinte, carrying him 60 feet below the surface. His foot was caught in the door of the car and it touched bottom before he could free himself. Rising to the surface he found he was under ice, but he managed to get enough air by floating on his back with his face pressed against the ice. He then pushed his way to the hole made by the car's plunge and crawled out exhausted. (Central Press Canadian).

Hastings County Farm Forum

The five forums met on Monday night, (Brookdale, Foxboro, Hazzard's, Melrose and River Valley), and all agreed that price supports should be designed to protect the farmer against disastrous drops in prices.

Brookdale and Hazzard's say they should not be high enough to encourage over-production. Hazzard's also adds, "Floor prices should be reviewed and kept in line with costs." River Valley says "farmers are desirous of a middle price that does not fluctuate too much either way so they can make plans the same as any other business concern—a steady price keeps an even flow of products."

Melrose also says, "Each commodity group should have its own marketing agency so in case of disaster it would be in a position to cope with it and take immediate action."

PRICE DANGER

"There is a danger if the support prices are higher than world prices we may be without a market unless we institute the two price system—high domestic and lower export prices. Melrose thinks support prices should be on a parity price with industry—thus they would only be periodical and not burdensome.

Brookdale adds, "Our standard of living is higher than in any other country and as labor commands such high wages let them pay a price that makes a living wage for the producer."

Foxboro, Hazzard's and Melrose all say an effective price support program will increase barriers to international trade.

River Valley says, "Yes, you can have an effective price support program—What's a few dollars spent on agriculture support prices compared to millions spent on defence, education and protection to industry?"

Brookdale states it this way—"Before a price support program could be effective it would have to be sufficiently high to give the producer a fair amount of security and therefore might be higher than world prices so a tariff would have to be set up."

ANNOUNCEMENT

Hastings County Farm Forum committee will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hollinger, Foxboro, on Saturday evening, February 26, to make plans for the spring round-up. Please send two directors or other interested persons from your forum.

Chairman, Mr. B. Hollinger; vice-chairman, Mr. S. Nicholson; press reporter, Mrs. M. Sine; secretary, Alma Moorcroft.

STIRLING

Cubs, Scouts, Commemorate Founder's Day

STIRLING.—On Sunday morning 90 Cubs, Scouts, Guides and Brownies under the direction of 11 leaders gathered at Stirling public school and paraded to St. Paul's United church for their "Founders' Day Church Service".

The auditorium was filled to capacity with parents and friends. The first Scripture was read by Barbara Woodbeck, and the second Scripture by Carl Pitman. The pastor, the Rev. A. Packman, gave the address on the theme, "Think It Over".

St. Paul's choir rendered an anthem and Mr. Grant Richardson contributed a vocal solo.

Forty-five parents were in attendance Monday evening, at Stirling public school for the special "Parents' Night". The leaders and Cubs staged an interesting program covering the full four year Cub training from ages eight to 12 years. This was a revelation to many people who do not realize all that scouting implies. The boys staged three games. Rev. W. G. Fletcher of Rawdon circuit, told the group an interesting story.

BADGES AWARDED

Badges were awarded as follows: Artist and Collective Badge—Bobby Donohoe; Artist Badges to Dennis Armstrong, and Keunle Keuning; Collective Badge—Peter Bosiak.

The meeting closed with a special camp fire service and following refreshments Mr. Fletcher pronounced the benediction.

The leaders in charge were, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Irish, Mrs. Ken Ray and Mrs. Burton Woodbeck.

Owing to an outbreak of mumps in the village several Cubs were ill at home.

Co-Chairmen Planning Board For New Hospital Resign

PICTON — The annual meeting of Prince Edward County Hospital board, Tuesday night ended in fireworks which resulted in the co-chairmen of the planning board for a proposed new hospital tender their resignation yesterday. They are Donald Baxter, ex-MPP of Bloomfield and Reeve James Cleminson, Wellington.

For the past two years, plans have been discussed for a new hospital here. All but $75,000. of the amount required has been raised. Recently, negotiations were opened with the Federal government for special aid in view of the use of the hospital by families of army personnel. The negotiators desired to have until the end of March to see what could be done about raising the $75,000.

A motion was made by W. G. McLean and L. B. Calnan asking members to approve delay in building plans until March 30 when final financial standing would be known.

An amendment was moved by Mrs. E. J. Williams and Mrs. W. C. Hicks, that the Hospital Board proceed at once with the building. This was carried 22-4.

Mr. Cleminson immediately offered his resignation, claiming such action a vote on non-confidence in the planning board which had been named by the Hospital Board two years ago to proceed with plans and fund raising for the new hospital. Mr. Baxter was absent but sent a letter asking a delay until further negotiations could be carried out.

Yesterday, Baxter and Cleminson issued a statement in which they said: Our policy from the beginning of the campaign has been to not proceed with construction until the necessary funds are available. In view of the motion passed at the annual meeting instructing immediate construction of the hospital before we have the necessary money in hand, we feel that we can not continue as co-chairmen because we are not prepared to undertake construction of a half - million dollar building until we know where the money is coming from, bearing in mind that an additional $100,000. is still required to complete same. We feel that the motion passed was one of non-confidence in the planning board and its committee authorized to negotiate with Ottawa."

The Hospital Board has not yet accepted the resignations of the co-chairmen.

Those who urged immediate steps be taken to start construction expressed the feeling that there would be a flood of donations once the project was under way.

Miss A. Arnold, superintendent, in her annual report stated that last year the hospital here operated at 127 percent of capacity, which means that all the 28 beds plus 7 beds were in constant use. The facilities of equipment, staff and doctors was taxed to capacity to meet the ever-growing demand for hospitalization. Patients admitted totalled 1,396, an increase of 142 over the previous year.

There were 452 births, 495 operations, 840 lab. procedures, 1,561 x-rays, 163 out patients, 61,527 meals served.

Weddings

SULLIVAN—WARTMAN

Motoring to Florida on their wedding trip are Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Sullivan. The bride is the former Miss Gloria Alma Wartman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wartman of Pelham, N.Y., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wartman of Bloomfield, Ontario. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Sullivan of Yonkers, N.Y.

They were married in the Church of the Redeemer, Pelham, with the Rev. Frederick J. Vincent, pastor, officiating. A reception for the guests followed at Holiday Inn, Scarsdale.

The bride was escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor-length gown of imported silk shantung with inserts of Italian lace in the bodice and skirt, which terminated in a chapel train. Her veil of lace and French illusion was arranged from a Juliet cap of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of glamelias.

Mrs. Vincent Pagliaroli of Pelham, was matron of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Joan LaVoie, of Pelham, and Marilyn Hocking of New Rochelle. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Patricia Rose of Larchmont.

Mr. Donald Carpenter of Mount Vernon, was best man. Ushers were Mr. Jesse Smith of Mount Vernon and Mr. Pagliaroli.

DOIG—BRUYEA

On Saturday, February 19, at 11.00 a.m., St. Michael's rectory was the scene of a quiet, but pretty wedding when the Very Reverend Dean Garvin united in marriage, Catherine Loretta Bruyea, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Bruyea, to Kenneth Frederick Doig, of London, Ontario, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Doig, of Woodstock.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a street-length gown of iridescent rosewood taffeta, close fitting hat of bronze metallic straw, and matching accessories, with corsage of apple blossom pink carnations.

Miss Lillian Anne Bruyea, of London, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, was attractively attired in periwinkle blue taffeta with dusty rose accessories and corsage of pink feathered carnations.

Mr. Fraser Doig, of Toronto, attended his brother.

The reception and wedding breakfast was held at the New Queen's Hotel, Belleville, where the bride's mother, wearing tan taffeta, brown accessories and corsage of bronze Talisman roses and daisies, received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Graham Lowes, who wore teal blue taffeta with matching accessories and corsage of pink feathered carnations.

For the wedding trip to Syracuse, New York, the bride chose a blue wool suit, off-white topcoat, with bronze accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Doig will reside in London, Ontario, upon their return.

Guests were present from Woodstock, London, Hamilton, Campbellford, Napanee and Wooler.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Henry Mollison are pictured signing the register following their marriage in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville. Mrs. Mollison is the former Miss Barbara Joan Girling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Girling, Belleville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mollison, also of Belleville. (Photo by McCormick Studio, Belleville.)

MOLLISON—GIRLING

Tall white standards of yellow and bronze 'mums, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting in Victoria Avenue Baptist church, Belleville, on Saturday, February 5, at 2.30 p.m., when Barbara Jean Girling, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Girling, became the bride of Claude Henry Mollison, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mollison. The Rev. L. Keith Daniel, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mr. William Connor, church organist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Marjorie Hales, who rendered before the ceremony, "O Promise Me," and "I'll Walk Beside You," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely gown of nylon tulle, satin and Chantilly lace, fashioned with fitted Chantilly lace bodice buttoned down the front, having long sleeves ending in lily-points over the hand, and a nylon net yoke with tiny, Peter Pan collar. The full floor-length skirt of nylon net over satin was enhanced by a short lace peplum and centre panel of Chantilly lace. She wore a matching Chantilly lace Juliet cap edged with ruffles of nylon tulle, and fingertip veil of tulle. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses, mingled with white hyacinth bells bows of Talisman ribbon and chartreuse nylon net.

Miss Annette Young of Goderich Ontario as maid of honor was attired in panaglase taffeta in chartreuse green in floor-length, with fitted sleeveless bodice, having a "V" neckline. She wore elbow-length gloves of matching material, and matching banded bows headdress, and carried a cascade nosegay of yellow 'mums, Talisman roses with Talisman streamers and loops of chartreuse nylon net.

Miss Barbara Stewart of Belleville, as senior bridesmaid, and Miss Brenda Harvey, of Belleville, as junior bridesmaid, wore gowns made on similar lines to that of the maid of honor, the former in burnt almond panaglase taffeta, and the latter in gold colored panaglase taffeta. They wore matching banded bows as headdresses, and carried cascade nosegays of similar flowers to that of the maid of honor.

Mr. John Mollison, of Montreal, attended his brother, and the ushers were, Mr. John Nisbett and Mr. Lorne Dixon, both of Belleville.

The wedding recepton was held in the church parlors, where the bride's mother, wearing plum colored crepe, with navy and white accessories, and pink rose corsage, received the guests. The bridegroom's mother, attired in navy crepe with navy and white accessories and red rose corsage, assisted.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Mollison left by motor for New York City, the bride wearing a Frisco green boucle suit, black and white accessories, grey fur topcoat, and corsage of Talisman roses. Mr. and Mrs. Mollison are residing in Belleville.

Guests were present from Montreal, Napanee, Peterborough, and Goderich.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at two miscellaneous showers: one given by Miss Margaret Hagerman, and one by Miss Pansy Sampson, both of Belleville. The bride was also honored by a trousseau tea given by her mother, Mrs. Bert Girling, at her home, 20 Lewis Street.

Women's Institute

WALLBRIDGE W.I.

The monthly meeting of the Wallbridge W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Fisher with a fair attendance.

The meeting opened in the usual manner with the first vice-president, Mrs. Harold Phillips, in the chair.

Correspondence was read and the business dealt with. Achievement Day for the Homemakers' Club is to be held in Stirling community hall on February 26th.

Mrs. Ted Evans gave a reading on the new system of making out the report card for public schools and Current Events was given by Mrs. Frank Harris.

Mrs. Ross explained about the work of the Girls' Club. Mrs. Hudson Ketcheson told how the girls should choose the colors for their wardrobe and Miss Frances Tucker displayed a chart on her wardrobe which showed an outfit for every occasion.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the hostess. Refreshments were served by the hostess and committee in charge.

UNIONDALE W.I.

The February meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Faul, 5th concession of Sidney, with 21 members and three visitors. The meeting opened in the usual manner with Mrs. Milton Grills taking the place of secretary-treasurer in the absence of Mrs. Frank Roney.

A 'thank-you' card was read from Gordon Striker; a letter from Mrs. MacPhatter thanking Uniondale for their support in the Korean project which has now been completed. A new project for helping villages in Ceylon by equipping them with modern conveniences for which Uniondale sends $15 for their share. Also 25 cents a member will be put aside for sending a delegate to A.C.W.W. to Ceylon in 1956, (this being from all Institutes).

The Junior Farmer banquet was settled for by George Frost former Junior Farmer president.

Mrs. Morley Sine gave an outline of the Farm Forum bus trip which she had attended. Their trip consisted of going through General Motors, Oshawa; Parliament Buildings, Toronto and the Ice Follies at Maple Leaf Gardens. Mrs. Sine also gave the highlights of the Home and Country, on which in April she will prepare a quiz.

Mrs. Bert Bush was the convener for the meeting, her topic being "Uranium". She outlined the finding of uranium, the riches that were developed by individuals, who set up grocery and supply stores. The future of uranium is prosperous in that by 1962 all uranium can be sold to the United States. Port Hope has the only uranium plant in Canada where it can be refined.

APRON DEMONSTRATION

Demonstrations of a handy and cheap apron by Mrs. Ross Dafoe, and lacing that can take the place of ribbon in a wool sweater by Mrs. George Burkitt.

The March meeting will be held at Meadowdale School, 4th concession of Sidney, this being a social evening and the lunch committee will be ladies of January and March meetings.

Committee for election of officers consists of Mrs. M. Sine, Mrs. B. Bush and Mrs. K. Faul.

Airy 'Long-Stemmed' Look In Vogue for Spring Fashions

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tall girls will hit the fashion jackpot this spring with the airy "long-stemmed" look in vogue.

The Dior H-line with long torso, slim skirt and lithe lines has taken over the market, a Canadian Press coast-to-coast survey revealed.

Most popular color is blue in all shades. Pastels are next in favor.

TIGHT TRIM

With the new dress lines working in her favor the tall woman can look thin and interesting. But she must pay the price of tighter corseting.

This spring girdles and bras are taboo. The sheath foundation garment encasing the body from bust to hip is a must to preserve long lines.

Despite fashion forecasts, Canadian women remain rugged individualists in their clothes buying.

The Maritimes still like fuller lines and Princess styles are very popular there although the H-line is in evidence. In Quebec and Ontario the longer look has been in vogue for a season and is no great innovation. Its variations are what make women buy. Out west women are still casual dressers. They will buy the H-line but they love full skirts and strong colors. They will not be pushed into pastels by fashion experts.

BLUE FOR SPRING

Fredericton women like navy blue for spring. Favorite neckline is portrait style with a huge wide collar. Some wear a lady-like V-neckline but extremes are not tolerated.

Halifax, the fashion centre of Nova Scotia, says women's stores are already doing a booming spring trade.

Cottons have regained their popularity and in the blouse field are replacing nylon. Haligonians prefer tailored suits which this year are more dressy, fitted and come in a wide range of pastel shades.

Newfoundland has allowed a modified Dior line to steal into its shops but the old standard fuller skirts and dresses are still selling. Newfoundland shops are stocking red suits and coats, a perennial favorite.

H-LINE FABRICS

Montreal apparently has been completely taken over by the H-line. The style, with its gentle appearance, rounded bust line and sloped shoulders is shown off best in light fabrics, silks, chiffons, and cotton-nylon mixes. Hydrangea colors from pink through to lavender are as highly favored as blue.

In shoes, heels are lower and slimmer, and cut down to just a strap or two on top. Shoes come in all shades to match spring outfits. Patent leather and kid sell best.

Window shopping to find a Toronto fashion trend is a bewildering experience. Several lines are shown. The H-line predominates with many nubby tweed suits shown with long jackets and low, large pockets. The 'costume look" of a year ago is still hanging on. It includes a printed Princess line dress with a faille or taffeta duster coat, lined with matching print.

WESTERN STYLE

Regina reveals a more daring approach to style. Strong colors and boy coats, either belted or straight, are very much in vogue. Princess line dresses are shown along with the H-line. Hats are cloche and casual.

Spring for Winnipeg women is accessory time. A late season forces them to wear winter coats well into March but the fashion-conscious will replace a dark-toned winter hat with a jaunty spring number. Hats are small, worn right on top of the head, and decorated with flowers and outlandish fruit clusters.

Winnipeg women also get variety from shoes in the spring. They have a night-day preference. Small pumps are most popular for daytime, but the small strapless clinging pump is worn in the evening.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

NOT GOOD SHOWER-GIVING TASTE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle this question once and for all? I say it is not right for any relative whatsoever to give a shower for a member of the family. My friend thinks I am wrong. She thinks it is right for aunts and cousins to give showers, but not the immediate family. Please explain in detail. —S.

I wish this important question could be settled "once and for all"! But I know this is impossible for there are too, too many "gimme gals," both brides-to-be and their relatives, who apparently are willing to do anything, whether it's good taste or bad taste, so long as it gathers in the loot.

The rule, based on good taste, is that bridal showers should be given only by a close friend or a group of friends of the bride-to-be. Very often it is given by the maid or matron of honor, if she isn't a sister or other relative of the bride-to-be. Very often, too, it is given by a group of attendants, the honor attendant and bridesmaids. Sometimes the bride's co-workers give her a shower, or the members of a club or organization to which she belongs.

It is considered improper, entirely inappropriate for the members of the family of the bride-to-be or of the groom-to-be etc. give a bridal shower. This means members of the immediate family . . . the mother, a sister . . . and also close relatives like aunts and cousins. The important point is that obviously it just isn't good taste to ask for presents for a daughter, a sister, a niece, a cousin!

One more point: it's too-too-true that when the bride's mother or the bride's Sister Sue or her Aunt Jane or her Cousin Kate take it upon themselves to plan a shower for the bride, it's because the bride hasn't friends devoted enough to give a shower and so a relative feels she has to give a shower to scrape together some presents that would otherwise not be forthcoming. This certainly points up an unattractive fact!

BRIDE'S BIBLE MARKER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Instead of carrying a bridal bouquet, I am planning to carry my precious white Bible, which my fiance gave me, with my engagement ring, when we became engaged. In the Bible I will have several markers of white ribbon with a few small white flowers attached to each marker. I have never been to a wedding where the bride carried a Bible instead of a bouquet, and I am wondering what is the proper thing to do when I leave to change to my traveling-suit. Should I provide myself with a bouquet to throw to my attendants? — Reader

No, this is not necessary, or customary. You may properly omit this part of going-away procedure, or you may do what brides usually do . . . have considerably more small flowers on one of the markers and throw this flowered marker to your attendants. This, of course, has the same significance as the bridal bouquet.

BEAUTY'S VOICE IS SWEET AND LOW

HELLO
HELLO
HELLO
HELLO
HELLO
2-24

Calm women, poised women, women who accept life as it comes without needless worry, are the ones who have pleasing voices, as a rule. The high strung, nervous girls are the shouters and shriekers. The reason is clear enough. They are tense and tension affects the vocal chords, producing high, sharp tones.

Many women talk too fast. They should learn to space their words, to enunciate clearly. Loveliness should be heard as well as seen. The shrill voiced woman seems to forget that people have ears as well as eyes. She spends time, labor and money on appearance, but it will mean little or nothing to the beholder if her voice is rasping and unpleasant.

The quickest and surest way to improve a speaking voice that lacks quality and charm is to take instructions from a vocal teacher. But if that is impossible, much can be accomplished alone.

Start by becoming more and more voice conscious. When you hear a pleasing voice over the radio, try speaking along the same pitch level, at about the same tempo, using the same inflections. You may discover that you have much more imitative power than you realize.

Keep the volume down and the pitch low. Endeavor to cultivate a free, lovely, resonant tone. Avoid affectations, and beware of over-emphasis. Phrases such as "wonderful," or "perfectly darling" used constantly and with force become tiresome to the listener.

Let your voice express your feelings with dignity and charm. Endeavor to keep it richly vibrant and expressive, but always natural. Put warmth into your greetings. There are many ways of saying "hello." The way the word is said has many meanings. It can express pleasure, annoyance, or just plain boredom—and evoke reactions accordingly.

Mid-Winter Nutritution Check-Up

By Mary Moore

Now is the time of year when you girls have to turn on your full power—power to generate good health when natural elements are working against you to keep energy at a low amperage.

Good nutrition is a powerful resistor to disease—the most powerful resistor to disease.

(I hope I don't get my metaphors mixed and shock you! This reminds me of a crack Bev.'s fiancee John made about a girl who wore too much costume jewelry and particularly large earrings: "If you plugged her in she's light up.")

Serve each member 1 orange per day raw, freshly peeled in sections, since exposure to air allows vitamin loss and insist on oranges being eaten as soon as peeled.

Provide only 100 per cent whole wheat bread; 1 tablespoon fresh wheat germ per day (eat it any way you like—in or on your cereal or from a tablespoon followed by a big drink of water); 8 8-oz. glasses of water per day; at least one pint of milk.

Four ounces high quality protein per day (meat, fish, fowl); liver once per week, 1 egg per day; cheese at least twice per week;

One yellow and one green vegtable per day and 1 salad; at least two fresh fruits per day.

Check up on yourself to see if your daily menu routine includes all of these dietary necessities, besides the wonderful baking you do.

For good measure increase the number of vegetables you serve and to encourage you I will give you some ways to serve them that you may have forgotten to use lately.

BRAISED CELERY

On some markets you can buy bundles of outer celery stalks for 5 or 10 cents. Even if you cannot you can use the outer stalks of big heads for this. Cut outer celery stalks into 3 or 4-inch length. (Be generous with them—prepare 36 or 40 lengths as it cooks down considerably.) Gently saute them in three tablespoons butter in heavy frying-pan until delicately browned and a little bit tender—stirring occasionally. Add 3-4 cup mild meat stock (I used left over stock from boiling duck bones) or 3-4 cup hot water and 1 bouillon cube. Cook gently until barely tender and liquid is reduced to 1-4 cup. This will serve 6—and when serving spoon the liquid remaining over each serving.

DOUBLE BOILER OR BAKED SHREDDED CARROTS

Shred 3 cups (well-packed) raw carrots. Make 1 1-2 cups thin white sauce by melting 1 1-2 tablespoons butter in top of double boiler and stirring in 1 1-2 tablespoons flour until blended then stirring in 1 1-2 cups milk until thick. Season with 1-2 teaspoon salt, and if desired, 1-4 teaspoon monosodium glutamate. Now do either one of two things: (1) add raw shredded carrots—about 3 cups, cover and cook, stirring occasionally until carrots are tender—about 20 to 25 minutes or (2) turn into buttered baking dish, add raw carrots, mix, cover top with 3-4 cup buttered fine crumbs and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes.

NOTE TO AUTOMATIC OVEN OWNERS:

Way of baking carrots as just outlined should be added to your recipe file to be used with meats that only require 350 deg. Fahr. and 30 minutes cooking. My! Am I not the officious, efficient one today.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

I THINK YOU WERE INTRODUCED TO THE WRONG MAN

Dear Miss Fairfax:

About six months ago, I was introduced to a man at a party, and at the end of the evening he asked me for a date the next night. One date led to another, and almost before we knew it, we felt that we were deeply in love. I am 21 and he is 36.

Recently, I heard that all the time he has been going with me, he has been married, and I asked him why he had never told me. He said that he hasn't been in love with his wife for a long time, but that he wouldn't divorce her until he met someone else he wanted to marry. He says that now that he has met me, he is ready to divorce his wife if I will promise to marry him.

I feel that I love him too much to give him up, and yet the fact that he would take me out so much, and allow me to fall in love with him, without telling me he was married, makes me wonder if he is the right kind of man.

What do you think? — Teresa W.

Dear Teresa:

I find it very hard to believe that any man who would allow a girl to fall in love with him under a false impression can be trusted. If he was willing to mislead you on this important point right in the beginning, how do you know that he is not misleading you now, when he tells you that he doesn't love his wife and would divorce her and marry you if you agreed?

I would be very cautious in making this man any promises, but, if you feel that you really are in love with him, you might tell him you will not be ready to talk about marriage until he can come to you a free man. If you make this very definite, and hold to it, you will soon find out how sincere he is about the whole thing, or whether he may not just be hoping to persuade you into an affair.

HOLDING HANDS IN PUBLIC ISN'T IN GOOD TASTE

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently, my mother and I had a discussion on whether or not it is considered good manners to hold hands while walking with a boy. My mother thinks it cheapens a girl's character to do this, but I personally think there is no harm in doing so.

We would like your opinion as to which of us you think is right.

— G.L.

Dear G.L.:

I certainly don't think that to walk along holding hands with a boy would have a bad effect on a girl's character. I think it is more a question of good taste, as you yourself suggest.

There are things that are perfectly all right to do in public, and things that it is not considered in good taste to do. If you think about it a little. I'm sure you can recognize which are which.

My opinion on holding hands with a boy in public lies between your own opinion and that of your mother. That is, there is no "character" consideration involved, but it's in better taste not to do it.

Does that answer your question?

Annual 'Thinking Day Service' Held by Guides and Brownies

On Sunday afternoon the Parish house of Christ Church was filled to capacity when 250 Girl Guides and Brownies of Belleville held their annual Thinking Day Service, celebrating the joint birthdays of the Founder, Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell, and Lady Baden-Powell, World Chief Guide.

The service opened when eight color parties marched to the front of the hall where the colors were received by Captain Samuels, 7th Belleville Company and Captain Horwood, 5th Belleville Company. "God Save the Queen" followed. The Brownie Prayer was repeated in unison and the hymn "For the Beauty of the Earth" was sung. Guide Donna Matthews read the 23rd Psalm.

THINKING DAY

District Commissioner, Mrs. R. D. Arnott, welcomed the girls and pointed out that this was one of the few occasions throughout the year when all Companies and Packs are able to meet together and that today Guides and Brownies all over the world were thinking of each other. Mrs. Arnott stressed that there are over three million Guides and Brownies, and regardless of race, color or creed, they all made the same promise when they were enrolled. She then asked all those present to stand and repeat this promise together.

A short pageant entitled, "Fires Burning", presented by the 3rd Belleville Guide Company under the direction of Captain Dorothy Stewart, traced Guiding from its inception in 1910 to the present day, both in Canada and in many other lands.

The offering was accepted by the Commissioner, Mrs. Arnott, on behalf of the World Friendship Fund.

GUIDING IN GREECE

Brown Owl Moult, of the 1st Belleville Brownies introduced Mrs. D. G. Diamantides who spoke to the girls of her association with the Girl Guide Movement in Salonica, Greece. Guiding started in Greece in 1934 in Athens and by 1937 had spread to most of the larger cities. Mrs. Diamantides was one of the first Guides in her native Salonica to be trained for leadership. The Second World War interrupted Guiding in Greece, but not the spirit of Guiding.

The Guides and Rangers of Greece took their Good Turn seriously, said Mrs. Diamantides. In addition to the ordinary forms of helping others, these Guides took turns visiting and helping in the various institutions such as hospitals, Boys' homes and orphanages. Mrs. Diamantides' own Company helped the Boys' Home, and each Christmas and Easter provided gifts of toys and clothing for everyone.

One Ranger Company helped out at the Infants Home. As well as knitting and making layettes, the girls took turns feeding the babies at mealtimes and taking them out for their daily airing. Another Company "adopted" an orphan baby boy and held a Christening service for him. Their Captain was his sponsor and when asked the baby's name, the whole Company rose and answered in unison "Nick Odegos" which means "Nick Guide" in Greek.

GUIDE MOTTO

Mrs. Diamantides told of the Thinking Day Services which were held in her city. All Guides formed a huge horseshoe with one girl from each Company carrying a flag from another country and wearing that country's Guide uniform. One by one they would piece their flags in the centre of the horseshoe and repeat the motto of the Guides of that country in its native tongue. As a fitting climax, Mrs. Diamantides placed a small Greek flag on the table before her and repeated her Guide motto in Greek.

Captain Horwood thanked Mrs. Diamantides, and following the hymn "All Things Bright and Beautiful" and the Guide prayer, the color parties received their colors and retired.

Mrs. John Withers was pianist for the service.

Soroptimists Hold Dinner Meeting

At the monthly dinner meeting of Soroptimist International of Belleville held at Lattimer's Town Room on Monday evening, Alderman Effie McCabe was guest speaker. Introduced by Mrs. Tillie Maker—Mrs. McCabe stressed the importance of women in civic affairs and the many opportunities for women to better the way of living. She urged that more people should attend council meetings and better acquaint themselves with the workings of the city council.

Helen Keeler thanked the speaker.

Another highlight of the evening was the initiation of a new sister member, Mrs. Ena Corke. President Laura McLauchlin conducted this colorful and impressive ceremony, assisted by Mrs. Sally Caton and Mrs. Lezietta Stirland.

In welcoming Mrs. Corke into the club, the president pointed out that she was now one of 30,000 members belonging to Soroptimist International clubs scattered throughout the world.

Following the dinner, a short business session took place and tickets for the forthcoming $100 draw were distributed to the members.

Wooler

WOOLER — Sympathy goes out to Mrs. Robt. Read in the death of her brother, Mr. Kerr, who was found dead in his home near Campbellford. He suffered a heart attack.

The regular dinner of the WA was held in the Church parlors on Thursday, with Mrs. Mac Anderson and Mrs. Jim Putnam's groups serving. The meeting was held in the afternoon and a quilt was quilted.

Mrs. Percy Gooding spent a few days in Toronto last week.

Mr. Doug Dorland and Mr. H. Smith returned home after spending six weeks in the north country drawing logs from the lumber camp.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Dorland spent a couple of days in Peterborough, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubble.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett McColl and two sons of Bancroft, were tea hour guests of his father, Mr. Will McColl, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. McMaster, Ross and Miss Annie Richards spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. George Vanvolkenburg, of Havelock.

Mr. and Mrs. Vandorburg, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Putnam, were tea hour guests on Sunday of Mrs. H. Gainsforth.

Mr. Max Haggarty arrived home on Sunday by plane from Florida where he visited his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Nesbitt Haggarty who are spending some time there.

Misses Ann and Judy Redcliffe are confined to their beds with bad colds.

Glad to report Mrs. Leo McColly returned home from Trenton hospital and is improving.

Mrs. J. C. Herrington returned home on Tuesday after spending a week in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hubble, of Peterborough called on Mrs. G. R. Putnam, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Putnam spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Ray Howe, at Thomasburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Davie, of Bancroft, spent Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Scott's home.

Mrs. Marshal returned to Brighton after spendinga couple of weeks with Mrs. Arthur Dorland.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Haggarty are spending a week in Toronto attending the roads' convention.

The body of Miss Lea Wessels, who passed away on Sunday morning in Rochester, N.Y., was brought to Trenton. The burial was at the Friend's Cemetery on Tuesday forenoon. Sympathy goes out to her two aunts, Mrs. M. Easterly and Mrs. Jack Goodfellow, of Wooler.

Central Registry For Motor Cars May Be Set Up

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Porter says legislation providing for a central registry of motor vehicles and ownership titles will be presented at the present session of the legislature.

Mr. Porter said Wednesday he favors the main recommendations of the committee set up a year ago to study the matter.

The committee's report was tabled in the legislature by Robert MacAulay, chairman (PC — Toronto Riverdale).

It recommended that a central registry be set up for all documents and titles respecting motor vehicles.

Mr. Porter said the government has asked that the committee's recommendations be drafted into legislation which will be presented at this session if possible.

Mr. Porter said he does not expect the legislation will be passed this year. However, drafted into a bill, it would ge interested parties such as automobile dealers, and finance companies an opportunity to study it.

The annual report of the civil service commission of Ontario was tabled by Provincial Secretary W. M. Nickle. The report said the turnover in staff for the year ended March 31, 1954, was low when compared to similar jurisdictions and industry.

The turnover for the year was 6.7 per cent. The main cause was married women who left the service.

The debate on the speech from the throne continues today and the committee on private bills holds its first meeting.

WHISTLES BRING SMILE FROM PRINCESS

Caribbean winds play with the light dress worn by Princess Margaret as she winds up her stay in Jamaica. She has received enthusiastic acclaim throughout the West Indies, but at home her dresses have been criticized by the British press. Wolf whistles of Kingston, Jamaica, students brought only a laugh from the princess. (Central Press Canadian).

Senate Starts Second Attempt To Widen Grounds for Divorce

OTTAWA (CP)—The second attempt in Parliament since 1938 to widen the grounds for divorce in Canada has been launched in the Senate.

Senator Walter Aseltine, 68-year-old lawyer and family man, said in the Senate Wednesday that Canada's divorce machinery is "away behind the times" when compared with that of other countries. The time had come to do something about it.

The Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative said thousands of incompatible couples still are legally bound together because the only ground for divorce in all provinces except Nova Scotia is adultery. Cruelty is an additional ground in Nova Scotia.

The former chairman of the Senate divorce committee, on which he has served for 21 years, spoke in support of his bill to bring Canadian divorce machinery in line with the present English law.

He said he realizes a number of senators are absolutely opposed to divorce but asked them to remember that Canada does permit it.

Senator Aseltine's bill would:

1. Widen grounds for divorce by adding desertion for three years, cruelty and insanity.

2. Provide that except in cases of adultery or circumstances of hardship no divorce proceedings could be started until three years after marriage.

3. Give the wife the right to launch a divorce proceeding against her husband if he were guilty of rape, sodomy or bestiality.

The measure is almost an exact replica of a bill which gained Senate approval after two weeks of debate in 1938 only to be killed in the Commons.

Observers expect an equally-exhaustive Senate debate on the new measure.

Senator Aseltine, weathering numerous interruptions, particularly from Quebec senators, stressed that the new law would apply only to those provinces with divorce courts—all except Quebec and Newfoundland. It would not disturb the practice of Quebec and Newfoundland divorce petitions being considered by Parliament.

He was advised, he said, that the new grounds, if endorsed, would not apply to divorce petitions placed before Parliament. But he added that although adultery is always the ground in the Quebec and Newfoundland petitions, Parliament has the power to grant divorce "on any grounds or no grounds."

Senator Aseltine said he understands there are some 20,000 deserted spouses in Canada. Addition of three new grounds for divorce would "be of considerable benefit to the poorer classes" while the three-year prohibition would halt "hasty marriages and hasty divorces."

Desertion would provide a ground easily proved and "there would be no necessity for one party to commit adultery or to bring about false evidence that adultery had been committed."

Churchill's Request of Nfld. During War Has Become One Of Province's Economic Pillars

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—What Prime Minister Churchill asked Newfoundlanders to accept with "sacrifices . . . for the cause we all have at heart" has become one of the province's economic pillars. For the rest of the world it's a lesson in international relations.

In 1941 United States bases were established in Newfoundland under 99-year leases. At the time they were criticized as the first impingement on sovereign rights, but accepted as "a sacrifice for freedom."

During the 14 years that have elapsed American military personnel and Newfoundland civilians worked and lived side by side without a public quarrel.

IMPORTANT INDUSTRY

Instead of being regarded as military installations, the bases are looked upon as an important industry, giving steady employment to nearly 4,000 Canadians, two-thirds of them Newfoundlanders.

Last year alone, the Northeast Air Command, which controls all U.S. bases in Newfoundland, Labrador and Greenland, spent $30,578,296 in Canada, 90 per cent of it in Newfoundland.

It is not known how many American servicemen are in Newfoundland and officials decline to release figures. There were enough here last year, however, to donate $52,000 to charitable campaigns. Some $14,000 of this was raised by airmen in St. John's.

On the sporting scene Americans are playing a prominent part. The biggest upset during their 14-year stay came last summer when a team of oarsmen from Pepperell base, near the capital, took the rowing championship from Newfoundland crews at the annual regatta day.

PRAISED FOR FEAT

Although this was the first time the title ever left local oarsmen, St. John's crews were loud in their praise of the new champs, and the winning Americans publicly thanked regatta members for letting them compete.

American teams are also entered in hockey, baseball and basketball leagues.

At the community level co-operation between Americans and Newfoundlanders appears to be growing stronger over the years. Recently officers from the Harmon air base, on the province's west coast, got together with residents of nearby Stephenville to form the Stephenville community relations council.

The council was organized to foster town improvements, but Northeast Air Command headquarters says it will also show "the USAF is interested in the community, for the base is part of that community."

POPULAR IN ST. JOHN'S

In St. John's, residents and U.S. military personnel have always cooperated in community work. Civic, church and service clubs are often peppered with American uniforms, and military clubs at the base are frequently addressed by Newfoundlanders. Three Americans attend each meeting of St. John's Rotary Club.

There has seldom been friction between military personnel and residents, and most servicemen say they like living in Newfoundland. Some have even stayed here after being discharged.

But Newfoundland is losing some of its girls. Last year 115 local girls married U.S. airmen, about 35 more than in 1953. Nearly all of these make their homes in the United States.

It's only a guess how much money the United States government has spent in Newfoundland since the bases were established.

Last year's total of $30,578,296 was about $2,000,000 more than in 1953. In 1951, the expenditure was $14,000,000, nearly $5,000,000 more than was spent in 1950. No other figures are available.

The $17,267,400 earned by Canadian civilians at United States bases here last year, is more than half the total earned by workers of the pulp and paper industry, Newfoundland's largest.

Two Farmers Fined

BRANTFORD (CP)—Two farmers were fined Wednesday for shooting each other in the leg during an argument.

Leslie Bocsi, Brantford township tobacco farmer was fined $500 when convicted of inflicting grievous bodily harm on Frank Paterak a sharegrower on his farm, with a .2-calibre rifle.

Paterak was then fined $250 on a similar count because he grabbed Bocsi's gun and shot him in the leg in return.

Nova Scotia PC Assails Regime's Lack of Program

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Opposition Leader Robert L. Stanfield criticized the Nova Scotia government's education and industrial development policies Wednesday and called for a vote of nonconfidence in the government.

The vote will be taken later in the throne speech debate.

The Progressive Conservative leader said the government has no program to combat what he called the crisis in the province's coal industry and has made no "adequate efforts to develop industry." He urged the government to increase teachers' salaries.

..Manitoba: Education also was discussed in the Manitoba legislature. CCF Leader Lloyd Stinson made a motion of want of confidence in Education Minister W.C. Miller. It was defeated 27 to 14.

Mr. Stinson charged the minister with failing to promote the inauguration of the larger school unit. There was only one unit in Manitoba compared with 47 in Saskatchewan.

New Brunswick: In the New Brunswick House, Herman S. Murray, Liberal member for Northumberland, in an attack on the proposed provincial prison farm, suggested it be called "Westhaven Farm" in honor of Attorney-General W. J. West.

He said nothing much was known about the farm except assurance by Mr. West last year that filet mignon would not be served there. However, reports indicated the prison would have none of the usual restraints associated with penal institutions.

Alberta: A Progressive Conservative member of the Alberta legislature said a royal commission should be set up to study provincial liquor laws.

J. Percy Page of Edmonton said there are more than 25,000 problem drinkers in the province and present regulations encouraged excessive drinking. The question was not one for or against liquor but one of more sensible administrative policies.

Saskatchewan: Herman Danielson, Liberal member for Arm River, said the CCF government in Saskatchewan has become "worse than the Russians" for taking credit for everything. He said the CCF through its 'propaganda machine" was trying to tell the people they had nothing before the government was elected in 1944.

Firm in Malaya Teaches Workers Birth Control

MALACCA, Malaya (AP) — The Dunlop Malayan Estates, biggest rubber growers in Malaya, are introducing birth control for 11,000 workers and their families.

C. H. G. Kinahan, director in charge of employee relations, said a nurse had been employed as a full time adviser on contraception. He added:

"The idea is not ours. Workers on our village committees asked us to help them control the size of their families."

Residents Shiver After Cut-Off Of Natural Gas

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Residents of this city of nearly 100,000 and seven other communities shivered in sub-freezing temperatures today after a pipeline break cut off the area's gas suply.

The majority of homes use natural gas for heating.

Appliance stores reported a run on electric heaters. There also has been a rush to buy ready-cooked foods.

A break in the 16-inch transmission line of the Cities Service Gas Co. caused the shortage. The break has been repaired, but it may be 24 hours before service can be resumed to all buildings.

Workmen have the tedious task of turning off each individual connection, then turning them all back on again. The disconnections are necessary to eliminate hazards when pressure is restored.

Approximately 32,000 homes and business places were affected.

OVERBURDEN WIRES

The gas shortage also hit the electric supply indirectly. Heavy use of electricity in heaters and cooking ranges overloaded power lines. The power and light company appealed to residents to turn off all ranges not being used for cooking.

Hospitals, most commercial establishments and industries have stand-by fuels such as oil and were not affected.

Most schools were dismissed. They were heated by stand-by fuels but the city opened them to families as emergency shelters.

The heated municipal auditorium also was used for shelter. The Red Cross, civilian defence and city officials co-operated in organizing the shelters.

Supreme Court Dismisses Action Against Hospital

TORONTO (CP)—The Supreme Court of Ontario Wednesday dismissed an action for damages brought by the parents of a five-year-old boy who suffered second-degree burns in an explosion in the operating room of Stratford General Hospital.

Mr. Justice P. E. F. Smily said in a written judgment that he could find no negligence by Dr. C. Edward Sylvester, anaesthetist, Dr. Lionel A. Macklin, surgeon, or the hospital. In the event of an appeal, damages were set at $9,382.

John Crits of Stratford had been given ether and was about to undergo an operation for removal of his tonsils when a disorder in his circulation occurred.

NOTICED FLAME

Dr. Sylvester was administering oxygen when he noticed a blue flame near the oxygen bag. The explosion burned the boy's face and left some permanent scars.

"The evidence was that all safeguards against an electrical explosion were incorporated in the construction of the hospital in 1950," Mr. Justice Smily said. The hospital "took all reasonable precautions."

"I do not think there was any negligence on the part of Dr. Sylvester. It is quite clear on the evidence that Dr. Macklin could not be said to be negligent in any respect."

Dulles and Eden Expected To Discuss Formosa Issue

BANGKOK (AP)—John Foster Dulles and Sir Anthony Eden may talk over the Formosa and Chinese off-shore islands situation at a dinner tonight at the United States embassy in this Thailand capital.

The possible effort to reconcile differing Anglo-American views took the spotlight today as the eight Southeast Asia defence treaty powers held their second day of closed conferences here. The conference unanimously chose Bangkok for the permanent secretariat.

Dulles stressed the importance of Formosa to the over-all defence of Southeast Asia in his talk to the closed conference Wednesday.

In a sweeping review of the Far East situation, the U.S. state secretary said potentially greater dangers face the free world now because of internal pressures on the Communist hierarchy.

In the face of these dangers, not only the resources of Formosa but those of South Korea, Japan and Indochina were deeply involved in Southeast Asia security. He wished they were represented at the Bangkok conference.

Northern, Central and Southeast Asian forces, together with the mightiest U.S. Pacific fleet and air striking power in history make Red China chary of starting what might quickly develop into a three-front war which China wants to avoid, he declared.

He made plain his belief that Chiang Kai-shek's government on Formosa and Syngman Rhee's Republic of Korea must be maintained as barriers against Red Chinese aggression. Their collapse, he said, might turn overseas Chinese and Korean populations toward the Reds.

Dulles also mentioned new weapons, and ticked off components of the huge American force he said could strike anywhere in the Pacific.

He urged that this force be kept intact, able to strike anywhere needed, and that the separate powers add their strength to that of the U.S. Pacific force.

Dish-Washing Problem Ended, Just Eat Plate

TORONTO (CP) — A Philadelphia ceramics engineer may have the final answer to the dish-washing problems.

Eat them.

Dr. Elliott R. Danzig told the Society of Automotive Engineers Wednesday plates made from a gelatine substance could be used to hold main course.

The dishes themselves would be the dessert.

Ministers Foote, Challies Expected To Resign Posts

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says it has learned that Reforms Minister Foote of Ontario is expected to resign soon to take over as chairman of a reorganized Ontario parole board.

The newspaper says it is reported at Queen's Park that Maj. Foote, reforms minister since 1950, will resign before the current legislature session is concluded and that he will be replaced by W. J. Stewart, veteran Progressive Conservative member of the House for Toronto Parkdale.

"The resignation of Maj. Foote is one of two cabinet changes expected in the near future," the story says. "The other is that of George Challies, minister without portfolio and vice-chairman of Ontario Hydro. It is reliable reported that Mr. Challies will retire from political life to become chairman of the St. Lawrence parks commission."

SUCCESSOR HAMILTON

Mr. Challies' successor as vice-chairman of the Ontario hydro-electric power commission is reported to be W. E. Hamilton, also a minister without portfolio, the newspaper says. Mr. Hamilton, who represents Wellington South, was succeeded as reforms minister by Maj. Foote, member of the legislature for Durham.

The Globe adds:

"The reorganization of the Ontario parole board, now being considered by the government, is in line with and the result of considerable criticism directed at the board last year by the select government committee on reform institutions. . . .

"The board, which has been without a chairman for over a year, is expected to be reorganized as a full-time establishment with regional sub-boards in various parts of the province."

Hockey Player Held as Suspect In Wounding

VANCOUVER (CP) — Detectives were en route to Toronto today by plane to pick up a man described as a suspect in the wounding of Bill (The Painter) Semenick.

He was identified only as a former hockey player from St. Boniface, Man. Semenick was sentenced to three months for refusing to name the men who wounded him last Nov. 4 during a gang-land-style ride in wooded Stanley park.

Police here maintained complete silence on the case. Toronto police would only say they had been on the lookout for the man for Vancouver officers for two weeks and arrested him Tuesday.

The Toronto arrest came as Vancouver's war on drug addicts and traffickers began to make itself felt through the city's underworld.

PRESSURE HURTS

The constant stopping and searching of known addicts by every member of the 750-man force was reported giving the underworld jitters.

Police chief Walter Mulligan said he hoped the pressure tactics would drive some traffickers out of the city and curtail sale of narcotics to the city's 20,000 known addicts.

He has blamed 70 per cent of Vancouver's crime on addicts stealing to get enough money to feed their habit.

40 YEARS FOR BEATINGS

CORONA, Calif. (AP)—A total prison sentence of 40 years was fixed Wednesday for Mrs. Trinidad Vera, 30, who was convicted of administering repeated and severe beatings to her 10-year-old daughter. At the time of her conviction last year Superior Judge Mildred Lillie said the girl, Celia, had been subjected to "hideous and terrible brutality" and had been permanently maimed.

If Arms Talks Bring Accord Britain Will Support Reds' International Parley Call

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told Parliament Wednesday night that Britain will support Russia's call for an international disarmament conference this year if East-West arms talks here produce agreement.

Delegates of Britain, Russia, the United States, France, and Canada are gathering in London to resume sessions of a United Nations disarmament sub-committee Friday. Churchill said he expects Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to detail the Soviet disarmament proposal.

NO FORMAL CALL

Moscow's call for the disarmament conference, coupled with demands for freezing world armaments at present level and destruction of all atomic and hydrogen weapons, was broadcast Feb. 18. Churchill said it has not been delivered formally to the Western powers.

The prime minister told the House of Commons he thought the closed-door sessions planned by the UN sub-committee would be the best way of reaching international agreement.

"If this could be achieved," he added, "a world conference would be possible."

CHURCHILL UNDER FIRE

Shortly after Churchill spoke, spoke, Moscow radio accused him of giving a "false" impression that Big Four talks on unifying Germany would be possible after the Western powers ratified the Paris treaties to free and rearm West Germany. Churchill told the Commons last Thursday he had found nothing in a recent speech by Foreign Minister Molotov indicating the Russians would not talk about German unification after ratification of the Paris pacts.

Viktor Shragin, a leading Soviet commentator, emphasized Wednesday night that Russia announced Jan. 15 "four-power talks on the restoration of Germany's unity would be useless and impossible if the Paris agreements are ratified.'

Murder Trial Is Postponed

SUDBURY (CP) — The trial of Robert Ducharme, 23, of Hamilton, charged with murder in the shooting Dec. 6 of 21-year-old Steve Klapouschak, was put over Wednesday until May 16.

Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly granted the postponement at the request of crown attorney E. D. Wilkins after a grand jury at spring assizes of the Ontario Supreme Court returned a true bill requiring Ducharme to stand trial.

It was reported the crown attorney told the judge the crown needed additional time to prepare its case. Mr. Wilkins made the representation privately in the judge's chambers. Forty-five crown witnesses and the petit jury will again be summoned in May.

Klapouschak, a school teacher whose home was in Timmins, was found dead under snow-covered boards beside his combined school and residence at Dalton Mills in the Chapleau area. Ducharme was arrested later in Dundas, near Hamilton.

OR NOT TO BE

OAKVILLE (CP)—Farmer Allen Hall is wondering when a hen is not a hen. A white leghorn hen he owns was a first-class egg-layer last fall. But since then it has developed a rooster's head and there haven't been as many eggs.

No Payment Made for Use Of RCAF Planes

OTTAWA (CP) — Three cabinet ministers used RCAF planes on six different occasions between June 1 and Aug. 10, 1953, the defence department said Wednesday.

In a return tabled in the Commons for C. W. Hodgson (PC—Victoria, Ont.), the department said no payment was made for use of the planes.

Former defence minister Claxton used RCAF planes June 1, June 30 and July 7, 1953, for trips from Kingston to Ottawa, St. Johns, Que., to Ottawa and Montreal to Ottawa. Prime Minister St. Laurent returned from the Coronation in London June 10, 1953. External Affairs Minister Pearson made two trips in the period: from Boston to Ottawa June 10 and from Ottawa to Lebanon, Vt., June 13.

Fatigue Blamed By Pilots' Group For TCA Accident

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Air Lines Pilots' Association has suggested that fatigue due to overwork of the pilot caused the Dec. 17 crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines plane at Brampton, Ont.

The association said in a statement Wednesday night that it cannot accept a board of inquiry finding that the crash was caused by negligence on the part of the pilot.

A number of the seven-man crew and 16 passengers suffered injuries and burns. Most severely injured was the pilot, Capt. Norman Ramsay of Montreal. He suffered a fractured skull.

Capt. Ramsay has been under automatic suspension from TCA since the crash and the department of transport suspended his flying licence Wednesday after the board's finding was announced.

NOT ACCEPTABLE

CALPA president Capt. W. J. I. Montgomery said the board's decision that the "accident was due to negligence and poor airmanship . . . is not acceptable . . . as a fundamental reason."

The report made minor references, Capt. Montgomery said, to the hours of flying or hours of duty of the Super Constellation crew prior to the accident.

(The board established the crew had been on duty 16 hours and in the one day had flown from Montreal to Tampa, Fla., and were on their way back to Toronto.)

"Such an accident is a result of deviation from safe established procedures," the statement said, "and too often, as in this case, is dismissed as pilot error. The real reason for the accident will be found if it is determined why the pilot deviated from the procedures."

NOT PRIMARY CAUSE

"If the individual knowingly deviated, then the accident could be classed as wilful negligence. In the case of this captain, with his many years of experience and thousands of hours of accident-free flying it is near-impossible to credit this as the primary cause of the accident.

"This being so, there must be a further underlying reason."

Protestant Services Too Boring Minister Tells Closed Meeting

TORONTO (CP)—A minister of the United Church of Canada says Roman Catholicism is "thriving on the luke-warmness and haziness of much Protestantism."

Rev. A. G. Reynolds of Elmvale, Ont., said Wednesday that many persons are bored and sickened "by the manifold" varieties of dreary, mushy, and loquacious Protestant worship."

For this reason, he said, many Protestants have turned to a church "that promises them the unchanging miracle of the mass and the one voice of authority and truth."

Dr. Reynolds spoke at a closed session at the annual meeting of the United Church board of evangelism and social services. A report on his address was released to the press on a motion by Dr. J. R. Mutchmor, board secretary.

Dr. Reynolds is the author of the booklet "What's the Difference," a study of Roman Catholic and Protestant beliefs.

Dr. Reynolds said many Protestants, "tiring of the unchartered freedom of churches with practically no discipline, are glad to put themselves into the hands of an exacting, uncompromising priesthood and an infallible church."

Referring to a denial by the United Church's official publication, The Observer, that Protestantism is losing ground in North America, he said:

"But a great many ministers who are in a position to observe daily defections from the ranks of Protestantism and who know by experience the spiritual inertia and the alarming illiteracy of Protestants, are inclined to push aside statistics and wishful thinking and face the fact that we are slipping.

"Roman Catholicism, on the other hand, is enjoying a vogue, at least on this continent. In certain circles it has become quite fashionable to announce one's conversion to the Roman faith—and then write a book about it, or on the strength of it."

MARMORA

Bantams Win Third Round

MARMORA — Marmora Bantams playing their second game with Stouffville in the third round of the OMHA playdowns here on Tuesday eliminated the latter as they scored nine goals against four to make the goal count on the round 16-8.

Play was at a high standard for boys of the Bantam age requirements and while the play did not lack in keen rivalry it was absolutely free of penalties.

Moloney in the home goal was unbeatable in the initial period. At the other end Lavender successfully tested Vague at 4.55 to score without an assist. McKenzie a minute later scored on W. Holland's assist. W. Holland put his team ahead on McKenzie's assist and Lavender added another brace unassisted before the closing minutes of the second frame. Wedseltoft assisted by Pennanen and Hendricks successfully tested Moloney.

Opening the third C. Holland got through on McKenzie's and Osborne's assists and a minute later F. Abraham registered neatly on Baston's assist. Then Baston broke through on a solo rush. Marmora replied through W. Holland getting his second.

E. Abraham and Baston combined to aid Malloy in scoring.

Bateman scored unassisted for Marmora and Tarr's shot entered the Marmora nets. The scoring was climaxed as at 18.35 Lavender again rushed to earn the unusual honor of having four goals to his credit without an assist. The attendance was 150.

Teams—

Stouffville — goal, Vague; defence, Thompson, Evans; centre, Hendricks; wings, Wedseltoft, Pennanen; alternates, E. Abraham, Baston, Tarr, Smith, Malloy, Stover, F. Abraham, Spencer.

Marmora — goal, Moloney; defence, Bedore, Osborne; centre, McKenzie; wings, Lavender, C. Holland; alternates, Shannon, Wright, Bateman, W. Holland, Olsen, Brooks, Doyle. Extra goalie Morrow.

Referees: W. Post, W. Mulholland.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Finkle attended "The Hunt Club" banquet in the Anglican Parish hall, Frankford, last Wednesday evening.

Mr. Charles Bates, Shannonville, won a purebred pig on a lucky draw of registered names at the annual meeting of Hastings county Hog Producers' Association, held in Stirling community hall, last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tucker entertained a number of friends at their home on Friday evening.

Mrs. Roy Bush entertained River Valley Women's Missionary Society on Tuesday. Mrs. Ernest Carr conducted the opening business and Mrs. Ross Holland outlined the study chapter on India with several members assisting in its presentation.

Mrs. George Heasman contributed a vocal selection.

Mrs. Roy Bush gave the Bible study on "Ephesians".

This year it is planned to have a press scrap book, also a scrap book with interesting items and pictures on India.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks and Mrs. Stanley Irven convened the luncheon.

On Thursday evening Mr. J. A. Francis, assistant agricultural representative, and Miss Faye Irvine, home economist, met at the home of Miss Kay Homan, "Fairfields Bridge" where the executive members of Thurlow junior farmers and junior institutes had gathered to plan the various activities for this season.

Mr. Robert A. Patterson spent Monday at Bancroft.

River Valley Farm Forum discussed the topic "The Farmer and the Urban Worker" on Monday evening.

On Sunday Miss Marion Smith, of Stirling RR 4, in the Oak Hills district quietly celebrated her 89th birthday anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rosebush, Havelock, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hubble, Stockdale, renewed old acquaintances at River Valley last Friday evening.

BRUCELLOSIS MEETING

Rawdon and Sidney Townships held a Brucellosis meeting on Monday in Stirling Community Hall under the direction of Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, agricultural representative. Mr. R. H. Graham, associate livestock commissioner, Department of Agriculture, Toronto, gave the special address.

Thousands of dollars are lost every year in Hastings County, and for this reason the Federation of Agriculture is sponsoring this project and why the Department of Agriculture is interested in Calfhood vaccination.

Mr. Graham thoroughly explained the Brucellosis control act and its benefit to cattle owners as well as the prevention of undulant fever.

Just Like on TV Crime Doesn't Pay

First bank robbery in Hamilton in years became a comedy of errors with two suspects in custody within 10 minutes of the theft. The robbery was staged just as a television show staged it a few days before. A man mingled with the passing crowds in front of the bank, darted in, displayed a shotgun, ordered the teller to hand him cash, then walked out with $3,100. One of those held is Kenneth Bullock, above.

STONE CHURCH WMS

FOURTH SIDNEY — The Stone Church Women's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. J. A. Detlor, the president, who also presided over the meeting.

After the worship service, Mrs. J. Tufts gave a talk on greeting the new year and said:

"The year is closed, the record made,
The last deed done, the last word said,
The message alone remains—
Of all its joys, its griefs, its gains,
And now with purpose full and clear,
We turn to meet another year."

A NEW DAY - YEAR

"Today is a new day; 1955 a new year; the present age a new age, the year and the age give us new hope, new strength and renew our outlook on life.

"At this season of the year what sort of trail are we going to make in it? Let us dare to love God, and our fellow men better than ourselves, and leave behind us a trail that is clear, straight and true.

"The year will be new only if we allow God with all His grace, wisdom and love to make us creatures for Him. What shall we pack in our travelling bag for our journey through 1955? Through God's careful guidance may we take along all our pleasant memories of 1954. Tuck in all our friendships, also a lot of courage and hope, slip in plenty of smiles, we might even go the second mile in 1955. We must start with ourselves by the help of God get rid of bad habits, grudges and quarrels, add good habits, season with forgiveness, give the helping hand, be unselfish' control our tongues, do not give way to disappointments.

"I see not a step before me as I tread another year. But I have left the last in God's keeping, the future His mercy shall clear and what looks dark in the distance may brighten as I draw near.

The kind of faith we have today will determine the kind of world we will have tomorrow. A new year is a splendid gift. Now we begin it. Let's stop and think awhile and choose what we'll put in it."

REPORTS GIVEN

Mrs. Detlor asked for reports from the 1954 officers. All reported a successful year.

An invitation from Aikens WMS to join them in a meeting in April was accepted.

Mrs. Tufts, Mrs. M. Benedict, Mrs. A. Vermilyea and Mrs. H. Gray read a skit introducing the chapter in the study book on India which was presented by Mrs. H. Whitfield, who stated: "India has 30 times more people than Canada, and is only half the size. Although India is 4,000 years old, there is little done to improve their way of living.

"They need help along the line of technicians and machinery. There is a fine hospital being built to which many are contributing. Mrs. Laughlin of Toronto sent $300 in memory of Mr. Laughlin's mother, a former resident of Belleville.

It was decided to try having WMS and WA meeting combined, thus there will be a meeting each month instead of alternating as was done in 1954.

A committee of Mrs. M. Benedict, Mrs. H. Gray and Mrs. E. B. Phillips was appointed to be in charge of refreshments at the April meeting, when the Mission and Baby Bands meet with the WMS. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Gore

THE GORE — There was a fine attendance at Farm Forum Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Hubbs.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Green, Rawdon.

Centre WA held its February meeting at the home of Mrs. Cecil McFaul on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance.

Mrs. Matt Dickenson and children, David and Suzanne, left Sunday morning by plane for England, where they will join Mr. Dickenson, who is stationed there. The family will be making their home there for a time. David and Suzanne will be greatly missed in the school here.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green and family were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brickman, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Cronk and Beverly, Wellington, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Pulver and children.

Centre Mission Band enjoyed a jolly sleigh ride around the Centre-Victoria block on Saturday afternoon, chaperoned by their leader, Mrs. Clarence Vanclief. Master Lisle Vanclief was in charge of the tractor that drew the sleigh with its load. Following the ride the Band held their February meeting at Centre school.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Vandewater, Belleville, spent Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner.

Miss Betty Redner, Pt. Credit, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Redner.

Little Miss Barbara Ann Hubbs spent a few days with her Mrs. Clifford Calnan, 2nd Concession.

Shannonville

SHANNONVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Web. McTaggart were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Don Nugent and family.

The "Gideons" will assist with the service in the United Church next Sunday evening. The time of the service will be at 7.00 p.m.

Mr. Elmer Ogden was in Nova Scotia last week where he attended the funeral of his mother. Mr. Ogden has the sympathy of his friends in his bereavement.

Mr. Jim Harrington, who has been employed at Hillsport, Ontario, for several weeks, spent the week-end with his wife and family.

The Women's Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. Everett Stratton on Friday at 2.00 p.m. for the regular meeting and to observe the "World Day of Prayer".

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cook spent the week-end in Aurora.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Toppings, Napanee, were recent callers at the home of James McFarlane.

Miss Marina Mastin, who underwent an appendectomy in Belleville General Hospital, is progressing favorably and has been able to return home.

The euchre party, sponsored by the Ladies' Guild, which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin McKenzie, on Thursday evening, was well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Vivian and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grills, of the second concession of Thurlow, spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doxtator.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wilson, who are spending the winter at Lime Lake made some calls in the village on Friday.

Marsh Hill

MARSH HILL — Mr. and Mrs. Berson Mitts, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell were dinner guests of Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Prest, of Ivanhoe.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Finkle were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. David Hollinger.

Mrs. Alex Tanner was a recent guest of Mrs. William Rodgers and Miss Alice Rodgers, of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Allyn Finkle spent Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McMullen, of Holloway.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Breeze spent Sunday visiting relatives in Brighton.

Wellington

WELLINGTON—The Wellington United Church Choir was sponsor to a jolly crokinole party on Monday evening in the church basement. Seventeen tables were in play with Mr. Poulter and Mrs. Reg. Bishop the prize winners.

After the games refreshments were served by members of the choir.

VALENTINE PARTY

The Masonic Brothers of No. 84. were hosts at a delightful Valentine party on Tuesday evening with more than a 100 guests present.

Following a lively game of euchre the prizes were presented to Mrs. James Dick who tied with Mrs. Wm. Harvey and won on the draw. Mr. Gordon Channel, Mrs. Colin Lane, and Mr. Norman Allison. Mr. Rae Ferguson received the lucky prize.

Refreshments were served by the gentlemen of the social committee.

BRIDE-TO-BE HONORED

On Tuesday evening, Mrs. J.B. Lavender and her daughter, Miss Orlene Mollard, entertained at a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Jean Guernsey, a bride of next week.

The guests included members of St. Andrew's Church organizations to which Jean belongs; also her bowling team.

The early part of the evening was occupied with a game of "Bugs", the prizes going to the guest of honor, Mrs. Ralph Preston, and Miss Ruby Nash.

Following the presentation of gifts, a delicious buffet luncheon was served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. J.A. Gair and Mrs. Ed. Bailey.

The Wellington Consolidated School Students Council is planning an "At Home" dance for Friday, February 25th, in the School auditorium. Audrey Haines and his orchestra will provide the music. This promises to be a popular event.

W.I. MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening as there were so many things going on on Tuesday evening there wasn't a large attendance. The vice president, Mrs. Ralph Ellis, was in the chair and opened the meeting in the usual way.

Letters and thank-you cards were read from the little girl in Greece who sent a nice letter, also from Mr. and Mrs. Guernsey; Mr. Harry Slavin sr.; Mrs. A. Wannamaker; Mr. and Mrs. Beaverstock; Mrs. T. Nash; Mrs. Durant; also a letter of thanks for a ditty bag that was received by a Korean Officer who was attached to a Canadian Ship. Letters were read from the Navy League, and the Hurricane relief fund of Ontario.

Discussions on catering to the school dance, Boy Scout banquet, came next. Also it was stated that the Masons would like the W.I. to cater to a banquet in the near future. It was decided to cater to these.

A nominating committee: Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. A. Ogilvy, was voted to bring in a slate of officers at the next meeting.

Mrs. Blakely reminded of the district annual which takes place at Demorestville 31st March. This closed the business part of the meeting.

Mrs. Harris, hostess for the evening, took charge of an interesting program. Mrs. Laura Wright gave current events. Poem of the month by Mrs. Cory Harris: "Winter" by Mrs. H.B. Anderson a reading by Mrs. Jackson, which told of the ways and means of living and enjoyments in our grandparents days, quite a difference in the way of doing then to-day. Another reading, "Olden Days", by Mrs. Ellis.

Mrs. Harris had previously asked every one to bring in something antique, which were called for at this time. These proved most interesting: a whistle, made out of a pigs tail a 100 years ago; a cigarette holder the shape of a little horn, also over 100 years old; a night cap worn 100 years ago; a part copy of a 1831 Hallowell free press; linen yarn spun by a flax wheel 150 years old, Mrs. Harris brought this and and she also has the flax wheel at her home. She then read an interesting paper on "flax and its uses".

A contest was put on by Mrs. Harris. She had brought 20 old antiques which consisted of a sampler, snuffbox, powder horn; pinking iron; peacock feather, a hand made nail; a wax night light; clay pipe and many other antique articles including a carpet stretcher. Mrs. Jackson knew 18 out of the 20 antiques, so she won 1st prize and Mrs. Cory Harris 2nd prize knowing 14. This brought the program to a close.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harris and her helpers.

Mr. and Mrs. Baden Alyea entertained four tables of euchre on Thursday evening. The prizes went to Mrs. J. Denard and Mrs. Will Luffman and to John Watt and Roscoe Mastin. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. George Baitley, Mrs. Jim Denard and Mrs. Mastin.

'Golfer' Jim Thomson Tees Off With 110-Footer To Clinch Leafs' Win

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THIRD OR FOURTH!

Kingston Goodyears clinched second place in the senior "B" standing last night with a 5-4 win over the Brockville Magedomas. Whitby took over third spot with a 7-1 defeat of the Peterborough Petes, leaving the Memos alone in fourth position.

The way matters stand as of now, Cornwall has clinched top spot with 58 points and three games to play. Kingston has nailed down second place with 57 points and one game left. Whitby is in third spot with 54 points and one left while our side has 52 points and two games to play.

So it looks like a battle for third place. The Memos can clinch the spot with wins over Kingston and Clinton and a Cornwall victory over the Dunlops in the latter's last scheduled appearance, or for that matter, a tie. Furthermore should Whitby defeat Cornwall, as we think they will for obvious reasons, and the Memos win both tilts the teams will end up in a third-place tie with 56 points each. Just how the positions will be decided in this event we do not know, either a playoff or on the goals average. In the latter case Whitby would take it.

All of which makes that clash with the Kingston Goodyears here tomorrow night a "must" win for the Memos.

* * *

"BITING OFF MORE . . ."

It was suggested at the senior "B" meeting held in Kingston last Sunday that the group change its status from senior "B" to senior "A" next season. Various reports state the majority of the clubs' representatives were in favor of the change.

That is all right—as long as they change it in name only. "A rose by any other name . ." In fact it is about the only way the change can be brought about, successfully.

While the calibre of senior "B" hockey seen here this winter is the best since "way back," there is not a club in the group with the possible exception of Kingston which is not deep in the red—and don't let any manager tell you differently.

If the proposed senior "A" status is meant to be comparable to that of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association and the Western Ontario senior "A" group there is not a club in this group but what would have to undergo serious rebuilding. It is all right for some rabid fans to say that the calibre of hockey in this loop is comparable to that of the current senior "A" type—but there always has been a strong line of demarkation between senior "B" and senior "A" and there is at the present time.

And even if it were comparable, what about the box office? From all parts of the group district this season came wails of distress about the lack of fan support. Some clubs had "fathers' days," "mothers' day," "children's day." Others gave away costly prizes. It was a flash in the pan and the fans turned out for that night only. Two clubs threatened to fold unless they received better box-office support.

Even the strong Cornwall Colts, reputed to be of senior "A" calibre and who bid fair to finish on top of the group standing, almost went to the wall not too long ago—and only a new financial arrangement with the players kept the Colts in the running.

Perhaps the managers in favor of the suggestion feel the hockey played in the group this season did not come up to fandom's expectations. And they indulge in the wishful thinking that teams of senior "A" calibre would bring the faithful surging through the turnstiles.

A report from Western Ontario the other day said that senior "A" clubs up thataway needed 3,000 fans per home game to finish the season on an even keel. The playoffs would be velvet. We doubt if clubs in this loop, again with the exception of Kingston, would draw 3,000 consistently with the Montreal Canadiens wearing their colors.

If the proposed senior "A' loop is to be operated on the same calibre basis as other leagues, who is going to pay the shot? Kingston at present, and possibly Peterborough next year are the only clubs who will operate in arenas large enough to accommodate the crowds necessary to balance the budget. True the prices can be upped, but that, too, has run its string. There were enough complaints around this village last year regarding that item—and probably was one of the reasons why the crowds did not pack the arena.

And if and when they do decide to operate in a senior "A" league, none of the clubs can afford to wait around until a couple of weeks before schedule opening to sign players. As a matter of fact Maxie Silverman, of the Sudbury Wolves, was in the city this week en route to Ottawa to sign players, formerly with the Ottawa Senators, for his Wolf pack next season. That's how senior "A" clubs work.

Maybe the managers were doing, as was said before, some wishful thinking. Maybe they weren't. The Oshawa management has been lobbying for this group to go senior "A" for a couple of seasons, but nobody paid any attention to it.

Why not leave well enough alone—unless the proposed change is in name only.

DRAWS SUSPENSION

Buz Gagnon, of the Whitby Dunlops, won't see any further ice action until the playoffs, an Oshawa informant tells us. Gagnon, who is the league's leading scorer and incidentally the "bad man' 'of the loop as far as penalties go, was suspended for the rest of the schedule season (two games) by the OHA following a fracas in Kingston when the Dunlops were playing the Goodyears.

VETERAN RETIRES

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Veteran outfielder Sam Chapman announced his retirement from baseball Wednesday. Chapman, 37, played with two American League teams, Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland Indians and the Pacific Coast League Oakland Oaks during his 17-year career.

CURLER DIES

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Everett J. Donnelly, 68, well-known Brandon sportsman, died Wednesday. He was an ardent curler and skipped many championship rinks. He also had been a hockey executive at one time and an enthusiastic hunter. He was born in Peterborough, Ont.

Was 16th Goal in 637 Games, Bruins, Hawks Play to Tie; Irvin Blasts Vezina Trophy

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jim Thomson has scored his 16th goal in 637 big-league hockey games. Even he wasn't too surprised this time.

The 28-year-old defenceman with Toronto Maple Leafs golfed the puck 110 feet into an empty net Wednesday night to give the third-place Leafs a 3-1 National Hockey League victory over New York Rangers with 43 seconds left in the game.

Rangers had just yanked netminder Lorne Worsley in favor of an extra forward.

In the only other game, the fourth-place Boston Bruins were held to a 3-3 deadlock by the last-place Chicago Black Hawks at St. Paul, Minn. Rookie centre Eddie Litzenberger scored all the Chicago goals. Bruins now are four points behind Leafs.

MOST PRODUCTIVE

Thomson now is only one goal away from his most productive season. In his nine-year-NHL career the six-foot, 188-pound rearguard has 16 goals for 583 regular games and 54 playoff engagements.

Leftwinger Sid Smith of the Leafs started the scoring with his 29th goal of the season at 11:26 of the second period. Joe Klukay made it 2-0 at 9:07 of the third.

Rightwinger Bill Ezinicki, a former Leaf, scored the only Ranger goal at 12:42 of the third period. He ruined Harry Lumley's shutout when he took a goalmouth pass from another former Leaf, Danny Lewicki.

STILL 12 BEHIND

Leafs now have 64 points, 12 behind Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings, who are tied for first place.

The Bruins had to come from behind late in the second period to gain their tie against Hawks. Doug Mohns tallied twice for the Beantowners. Rookie centre Don McKenney got the other—at 6:10 of the first period.

Litzenberger started his one-man show at 19:15 of the first session. He got his second at 10:05 of the middle frame to make it 2-2 and sent Hawks into a 3-2 lead at 15:50 of the same period. Mohns tied it up 30 seconds later.

MONTREAL (CP)—Dick Irvin, coach of Montreal Canadiens came out Wednesday with the flat statement that "the sooner the Vezina Trophy is done away with, the better for the fans."

Sitting in his office in the Montreal Forum, the veteran coach unburdened himself on defensive hockey by teams whose goalies are contenders for the trophy and the $1,000 that goes with it.

On the eve of tonight's Toronto-Montreal game, Irvin went further. With a show of righteous wrath he declared that Harry Lumley of Toronto Leafs should be declared ineligible for the trophy this year.

It was Irvin who called for measurement of Lumley's goal stick during a game in Toronto Feb. 9. The stick was over-size.

"There's a goalie who played in 45 games this season with an over-size stick," said Irvin. "What's more he admits he used the same pattern stick when he played for Detroit and Chicago. Why should it be eligible for the trophy? He shouldn't."

Currently Lumley and Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings are in a tight battle for the trophy, which goes to the goalie who has played the most games for the team with the fewest goals scored against it.

Hauling out the National Hockey League statistics, Irvin pointed to the 13 goals scored against the Leafs, this season while the Leafs themselves scored 128; 119 goals against Detroit Red Wings, who have scored 162.

"When two teams are trying to protect their goalies, with the Vezina Trophy in mind, the public suffers," went on Irvin. "It isn't only that the teams play defensive hockey against each other; they do it when playing against all the other teams.'

TO PLEASE FANS

"Our club plays to please the fans, and to win, of course," proclaimed Irvin with a grand gesture. 'Look at our goal record. We've scored 192 times, but we've also been scored on 128 times; more goals against us than against either Toronto or Detroit.

"We've never been a defensive-hockey club, even when we had Bill Durnan in goal. Why, I've seen our fellows let a forward get away from them just to see Bill make the save."

Durnan, who retired five seasons ago, won the Vezina Trophy six times, four of them in a row.

Minister Fan Wanted to Bet; 'Out of Order'

REGINA (CP)—Welfare Minister J. H. Sturdy was ruled out of order in the legislature Wednesday before he had a chance to finish inviting bets on the Dominion school bonspiel.

Mr. Sturdy, member for Saskatoon, rose to announce Bayne Secord's Saskatoon rink had won six straight games in the final at Sydney, N.S., and stood an excellent chance of retaining the title he won last year.

Mr. Sturdy started to add: "And if anyone wants to lay any bets . . ." when Speaker Tom Johnston ruled him out of order.

May Appeal Constance' Win Over Gavilan

By BEN FUN K

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Kid Gavilan's defeat by Hector Constance hasn't convinced the once-mighty Cuban Keed that he's too far over the hill to fight his way back to the welterweight throne.

Constance, a smart, quick youngster from Trinidad, beat Gavilan to the punch often enough Wednesday night to score a unanimous decision over the former champion before a national television audience.

Badly upset by the loss, Gavilan told reporters the decision was as "funny" as the one against him last Oct. 20 in Philadelphia, when he lost the title to Johnny Saxton. He claimed he won every round.

This time, though, there weren't so many on the Kid's side. Of the 12 working newsmen at ringside, seven voted Constance the winner. Five thought Gavilan won.

WILL APPEAL

Yamil Chade, a Cuban banker who became Gavilan's manager recently, said the decision was "very bad" and will be appealed.

Judge Gus Jacobson scored the fight 97-95 for Constance. Judge Morris Feingold had it 99-97 and referee Cy Gottfried 96-95. The Associated Press gave Constance a 97-96 edge.

It was the 22nd victory for Constance against six defeats and six draws. The 29-year-old Gavilan, who had hoped to register his 100th victory, instead suffered his 16th defeat.

Gavilan weighed 154¼, Constance 149.

'The Island' Divides Saskatchewan And Dominion School Curl Title

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY (CP) — Prince Edward Island may be the main obstacle to Saskatchewan winning Canada Dominion School curling title.

Prince of Wales College of Charlottetown, after losing their opening game to Ontario 5-3 Monday, have rolled up six wins and are slated to meet Saskatchewan in the last round tonight.

Saskatchewan, looking for their second consecutive championship, is undefeated in seven starts. Before meeting the island rink in the final round they must play Alberta this afternoon while Prince Edward Island takes on the suddenly hot New Brunswick rink.

ONTARIO LOST

In other eighth round games Ontario, which dropped a heart-breaker to Alberta in an extra end Wednesday night, meets Quebec, Nova Scotia plays Northern Ontario and British Columbia meets Manitoba.

In the ninth round, besides the Prince Edward Island-Saskatchewan match, Quebec plays Northern Ontario, Alberta meets British Columbia, New Brunswick tangles with Manitoba and Ontario and Nova Scotia meet.

Alberta downed Ontario 7-6 in an extra-end, seventh round match. Both Ontario and Alberta have two losses.

Other seventh round matches saw Northern Ontario down British Columbia 10-4, New Brunswick pound Nova Scotia 11-2, Prince Edward Island defeat Quebec 12-3 and Saskatchewan down Manitoba 10-5.

TIED IN THIRD

Seventh round results left Quebec, New Brunswick and Northern Ontario all tied in third place with 3-4 records. British Columbia has won two and lost five, Nova Scotia has 1-6 and Manitoba has seven losses.

Sixth round games saw Saskatchewan romp to an easy 17-4 win over New Brunswick, while P.E.I. was defeating Manitoba 10-7. Ontario edged Northern Ontario 9-6, British Columbia downed Quebec 9-5 and Alberta scored an easy 16-5 victory over Nova Scotia.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sid Smith of Toronto and George Sullivan of Chicago each gained ground Wednesday in their attempt to overtake the leading Montreal quartet in the National Hockey League scoring race.

Smith scored one goal as the Maple Leafs downed New York Rangers 3-1 and Sullivan collected two assists as Chicago and Boston tied 3-3. Each now has 49 points to tie for fifth place in the standings.

Czechs Did'nt Bounce—

Pentictons Seek Authority To Bring in Reinforcements

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DUESSELDORF, Germany (CP) Canadian hockey authorities today sought authority to bring in two last-minute reinforcements for Penticton Vs, Canada's entry in the world hockey tournament which opens Friday.

On his arrival here from London, president W. B. (Baldy) George of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association said he would seek permission from tournament authorities to reopen the Canadian team's 17-player registration. He gave no indication as to the identity of the additional players who would be brought here if permission is granted.

The National Hockey League Old-Timers Association has proposed that 38-year-old Roy Conacher, a 200-goal man in the NHL who retired three years ago, be sent to bolster the club.

CHANGE IN POLICY

The proposal for reinforcements represents a change in policy. Before the team left Canada, Doug Grimston of New Westminster, B.C., a former CAHA president, described the Vs, 1954 Allan Cup champions, as "the fightingest team in hockey today" and said the CAHA didn't want to take a chance on disrupting their team spirit by adding outsiders.

Evidently the CAHA officials changed their minds when Penticton was held to a 3-3 tie by the Czech national team in an exhibition game at Prague last week.

The team got back from Czechoslovakia Tuesday night and went through a stiff workout Wednesday. Club doctor Bill White said all hands are fit.

LOST WEIGHT

"They have all lost weight because of the gruelling journeys of the last few days," White said, "but they are almost into their best condition of the season, and they will be there for the first game."

Manager Clem Bird said the team is in good spirits, with "good quarters, good food and the first mail from home awaiting them when they got here. The players are getting lots of eggs and steaks, White said after running into a little trouble in Berlin last week owing to a travel mix-up.

The Vs open their tournament schedule against the United States Friday at Dortmund. Their week-end assignments are at Duesseldorf Saturday against the Czechs, whom they consider their toughest opposition, and against Poland at Cologne Sunday.

Remember When

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

National Hockey League president Frank Calder 32 years ago today introduced the two-referee system, the plan continuing from 1923 until 1938 when the league reverted to one referee assisted by a linesman. The NHL now uses one referee and two linesmen for each game.

Canada Has 50-50 Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada, which used to win world hockey titles with ease ,has only a 50-50 record to show in the eight championships since the Second World War.

The world championship became an annual event in 1930 (the Olympic champion is world champion in Olympic years). From 1930 to 1939, inclusive, Canada won eight times and finished second twice—to the United States in 1933 and to Great Britain's team of Canadians in 1936.

Since 1947's post-war renewal, Canada has won four times. Champions since the war:

1947—Czechoslovakia
1948—Canada (Olympics)
1949—Czechoslovakia
1950—Canada

BANCROFT

Pontiacs Trim Tamworth 4-2

BANCROFT — Wet ice made the going tough for the Bancroft Pontiacs and Tamworth in the third round of the Hastings-Addington league finals, played on Bancroft ice on Monday night.

In a close game, capably handled by OHA referees Herb Payne and R. Kingdon of Peterborough, Bancroft were the victors by 4 goals to 2, and are now one game ahead of their opponents. Should the present mild spell continue the series will have to be played out on neutral ice, and Bancroft officials are eyeing weather reports anxiously.

The line-up:

Tamworth—Green, Bender, J. Cox, J. Brady, Rombough, Gerrow, Boston, Ohlkie, Kennedy, R. Cox, G. Brady, Murphy, McDonald, Fishe, McLean, Parry.

Bancroft — Young, Stringer, Grover Crosby, Ramsbottom, Severin, Shalla, E. Brough, Comrie, N. Brough, G. Crosby, M. Crosby, Levar, Lentz, M. Crosby, Pilgrim.

'Y' Basketball

Last night the first round of the play-offs in YMCA House League Basketball was played. The Speedsters were matched in a two-game points to count series with the Whizz Kids. The winner of this series will play off with the first team in regular league standing; George Parkhurst's Pirates.

Last night's game saw Ted Batchelor lead the Speedsters to a decisive 74 to 60 victory. This means that the Whizz Kids will have to overcome a 14-point handicap in next week's game in order to earn the right to advance into the finals in two weeks' time.

Retired RCMP Officer Skip Of N.B. Rink

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—A 50-year-old retired policeman, now chief assessor for the city of Edmundston, guides the broom-and-stone destinies of New Brunswick's provincial champion rink in the Canadian Curling Championships at Regina March 7-11.

Skip Edgar J. (Eddie) St. Pierre, whose rink won the provincial title at Moncton recently, retired from the RCMP in 1947. Two years ago he brought together on the ice lanes Walter Brebner, Jim Coster and Gene Abbis.

Until their provincial triumph, they had never won a major event, although they reached the 1954 provincial finals.

EARNEST SKIP

St. Pierre has been curling 13 years. He takes the game seriously and seldom makes a costly mistake.

Brebner, 35, has been curling seven years. He works as a shipping superintendent in Edmundston.

Coster, 3, has been curling five years. He is a graduate chemical engineer from Fredericton's University of New Brunswick, and works side-by-side with teammate Gene Abbis.

Abbis has had only three years of actual competition. He is 38, single, and has a penchant for golf.

As a competing unit the rink won five straight games in the provincial championships.

Maple Leafs Will Train At Fort Pierce

MONTREAL (CP)—Seven International Baseball League clubs—all except the Cuban Sugar Kings—will start spring training in Florida early next month in preparation for the opening of the league's 72nd season April 19.

The Sugar Kings, who last year went to Merida, Mexico, will hold their pre-season workouts at San Christobal in the Dominican Republic where Montreal trained in 1948.

Richmond, first to open shop March 7, returns to Sanford; Buffalo to Lakeland; Montreal to Vero Beach and Syracuse to Plant City. Columbia, which took over the Ottawa franchise, will be in the former Ottawa camp at Leesburg. Toronto goes to Fort Pierce, and Rochester to DeLand.

Pt. Anne Trims Marmora Millionaires In Third Win Intermediate Playoffs

Building up an 8-0 lead in the first period, Earle Anderson's Point Anne Cementmen rolled over the Marmora Millionaires by a 15-6 score in the OHA Intermediate "C" game played at the Memorial Arena last night. This was the Pointers' third start in the three-team round-robin series without a defeat and leaves them one game to play with Campbellford.

The Cementmen used only two lines in last night's victory, but they were in perfect working order as the Goyer-Williams-Goyer trio chalked up 17 points, while Strahan-Gilmour and Mulvihill claimed 16. Bill Strahan was the top marksman with six goals and one assist, while Gerry Goyer rifled home four goals and two helpers and playing-coach Tim Williams registered three goals and an equal number of assists. Brian Mulvihill and Leo Goyer led the assist parade with five each, while Pat Gilmour had two goals and two assists. Bobby Hunter, Pete Green and John Green each drew one helper.

Lavendar was the top Marmora scorer with two goals and one assist. Mantle netted two goals, Ken Trumble had one and one, Bill Brown a goal, Carswell two assists and Maynes one. The game was very clean with referees Flanagan and Carson handing out only four penalties, the winners getting three .

Williams opened the scoring after only 43 seconds of play and Point Anne never slacked off until the 12.41 mark of the final twenty minutes. The winners had their biggest lead at 3.43 of the second, 11-1, and were in front 13-3 at the end of the middle session. Strahan and Gilmour fired the fastest pair of goals in the first period, coming just 13 seconds apart. Gerry Goyer got a pair in 22 seconds and Strahan and Goyer tallied two in 42 seconds of the middle period.

Joe Scott, of Point Anne, received a nasty cut over his eye in the first minute of the second period and did not return to action, while Bob Hunter limped off the ice after a hard bodycheck half way through the game, but played later.

The teams:

Marmora — Killian, Leonard, Darrah, Lavendar, K. Trumble, H. Brown, Carswell, Blute, Mantle, B. Brown, Smith, Sweet.

Point Anne — Letman, G. Goyer, L. Goyer, Williams, Strahan, Gilmour, Mulvihill, Hunter, Semark, J. Green, P. Green, and Bates.

Referees — "Moon" Flanagan, Mac Carson.

Indians Alone At Top Of American League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The ever - changing American Hockey League standings today showed the Springfield Indians alone at the top with only five points separating them from the fifth-place Cleveland Barons.

The Barons played a big part Wednesday night in preventing the Pittsburgh Hornets from keeping pace with Springfield. They defeated the Hornets 3-2 while the Indians were thumping the third-place Hershey Bears 11-1.

The Cleveland victory, however. may have been a costly one, for Glen Sonmor suffered a severe eye injury after scoring the first goal. He was hit above the left eye by a puck off the stick of a teammate.

Buddy Boone was the star in Springfield's triumph. He put together the three-goal hat trick with a tally in the first period and two more in the six-goal final session.

BLACKWELL ASKS RELEASE

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Ewell Blackwell said Wednesday he will appeal to commissioner Ford Frick if New York Yankees don't give him a contract or his unconditional release.

Asserting he still is the property of the Yankees, the former National League pitching great, harassed by recurring arm trouble, said:

"The Yankees refused to give me a contract last year.

"If they don't want me to play, why don't they release me from my contract? I think I can pitch again, if not with the Yanks, with some other club. I know I can pitch in the Pacific Coast League. I'd love to pitch there."

Marlies Defeat Irish 4-1 In Final Game

TORONTO (CP). — Penalties played a large part in Toronto Marlboros' 4-1 victory over Toronto St. Michael's College Majors in the final game of the regular Ontario Hockey Association junior A schedule here Wednesday night. The crowd was 2,844.

The win left Marlboros in third place in the league standings, five points ahead of fourth-place St. Michael's. The game was worth four points and gave Marlboros a 4-1 won and loss record over the Majors for the season.

The first and last goals of the game—both for Marlboros—were the only ones scored with both teams at full strength.

LEAD STOOD UP

Mike Nykoluk put Dukes ahead at :32 of the opening period and this lead stood up until Dick Duff fired the tying counter early in the final frame. Then while Gino Ubriaco was serving a St. Michael's hooking penalty, Gerry James and Gary Collins fired two quick Marlboro goals to clinch the win.

Duff's goal came while Bill Kennedy of Marlboros was in the penalty box. Bob Pulford scored the fourth Duke goal.

Marlboros will now meet the sixth-place Galt Black Hawks in a semi-final playoff. Majors take on the first-place St. Catharines Tee-Pees in another playoff.

Dutchies Trim Mercurys 3-1 In Playoff Tilt

KITCHENER (CP) — Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen went one game up in their Ontario Hockey Association senior A best-of-seven semi-final series with Owen Sound Mercurys by defeating the Mercs 3-1 Wednesday night before 4,105 fans.

Dutchies scored three first-period goals and were never in danger as they controlled play all the way except for a few minutes in the third period.

Gerry Theberge, Jim Logan and Jack McKenzie picked up the K-W goals. Tom Jamieson scored from the blue line in the third period for the Merc tally, sinking his shot through a mass of players in front of Dennis Brodeur.

Dutchies fired 44 shots at the Merc goal where Bobby Gillson played a starry game. The Mercs managed 13 at Brodeur.

Each team had five minor penalties in a robust game.

Wolves Tackle Sunderland In Sixth Round

By JEFF RYAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Lowly York City, a Cinderella soccer club without a manager, tackles second-division Notts County in the quarter-final battle of the "little giants" for the Football Association Cup.

A record crowd of 47,000 is expected to turn out for the match.

York City slipped into the last eight with an upset 3-1 victory over London's first-division Tottenham Hotspur in last Saturday's fifth round.

The third-division club, which usually fields four part-time players, last reached the quarter finals in 1938. This year, however, it sports a sparkling record of no losses away from home in five months, with eight victories and four draws in the last 12 fixtures.

York travels to Nottingham for the game March 12 and Notts County officials say they don't underestimate their opponents.

"Nothing but ability has got them where they are," said Notts manager George Poyser, "we'll treat them as though they were the best team in the land."

The Notts squad proved its own worth Saturday, eliminating London's first-division Chelsea. Bookmakers sliced Notts cup odds to 20 to 1 from 66 to 1 at the news.

London now hasn't a team left in the struggle for English soccer's most coveted trophy.

Wolverhampton Wanderers, firm favorites at 11 to 4, disposed of the capital's third cup hope, Charlton Athletic, and are scheduled to meet Sunderland, a 4-to-1 shot in the competition. Sunderland edged out second division Swansea Town 1-0 Wednesday in a fifth-round replay.

The Sunderland-Wolves match is regarded as the key game of the sixth round and experts predict the winner can be sure of appearing in the final.

Tony Martin One of Most Successful Vocalists in TV

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—If he'd been a better musician, Tony Martin might not be a singer today.

Now one of the most successful vocalists in television, radio, films, phonograph records and night clubs, Tony started out on the saxophone and clarinet with no thought of being a singer.

He recalls it was almost by accident that he sang a number with a band with which he was playing while at college in California.

"Then the boys started giving me more and more songs," he says. 'Pretty soon I noticed they weren't giving me any clarinet and saxophone parts and I began asking why. They'd say, 'oh, we have you doing some songs tonight and we thought we'd let you rest in between.'

'I guess it was fortunate for me I wasn't a good musician and got into this business."

SURPRISED FANS

It came as a bit of a surprise to some of Tony's TV fans when he played the clarinet during his Monday night show in NBC.

"But any similarity between what I played and real music was purely coincidental," he declares. 'I hope James Petrillo wasn't tuned in or I may lose my union card."

Tony's first broadcast as a singer was on a radio pickup during a music program Walter Winchell conducted in the '30s. His first network performance as a featured soloist was on the Burns and Allen show a little later. Since then he has become one of the highest-paid singers in the business and has made 14 films.

Normally, Martin does his telecasts from California where he and his wife, dancer-actress Cyd Charisse, and two children have a home. His last two shows, however, were staged in New York so Tony could commute to Miami where he has a personal-appearance engagement.

Robert Montgomery's dramatic hour came up with a warm and sensitive performance and script in "Coming of Age" starring Lee Bowman, Monday night.

Bowman played with depth, restraint and a touch of humor the role of a man whose 40th birthday comes as a shock, as it does to nearly all who reach that milestone.

The play by Theodore and Mathilde Ferro captured beautifully the sudden realization of the arrival of middle age, and adjustment to the fact that while life may not begin at 40, it doesn't end then either.

The battle of the children's hour begins in earnest next fall when Walt Disney's hour-long Mickey Mouse Club moves onto ABC-TV in competition with Pinky Lee and Howdy Doody on NBC and Barker Bill on CBS.

Ray Anthony Gets Divorce But Wedding May Not Follow

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marriage for Mamie? She says no.

When band leader Ray Anthony dashed off to Mexico for a divorce, folks naturally thought he'd return to claim Mamie van Doren as his bride. They've been chums for some time. When I saw her in the U-I commissary, she was wearing, among other things, a jeweled pin in the form of a trumpet, which Anthony plays.

I asked her about wedding plans. "Oh, I doubt if Ray and I will ever marry. He's a lot of fun to be around, but I don't think we'll ever get serious enough for marriage."

Besides, there's her career, now beginning to gain some steam. The blonde charmer recently finished "Ain't Misbehaving" and soon starts "The Second Greatest Sex" (don't ask me which it is). And she has a disc contract with Decca —she was once a band singer.

But I wouldn't count the Anthony alliance out. She celebrated her 22nd birthday recently and he showered her with presents.

OSCAR'S VISION NARROW

The Motion Picture Academy has been accused of being provincial in its awards, and this appears to hold true in the photograph division. This year the cameramen overlooked "Gates of Hell" among nominees. The Japanese film has been hailed as a milestone in the use of color.

It's not the first time this has happened to a foreign film. Oscar slighted "Black Narcissus," the British movie that taught Hollywood lessons about color, as well as the breathtakingly beautiful "Moulin Rouge." It's time Oscar took a broader viewpoint.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Mr. Arthur Sine passed away in the Kingston General Hospital on Saturday. Mr. Sine was a resident of this village before moving to his home at Zion's Hill. Sympathy is extended to all the bereaved ones who are left to mourn his loss.

Mr. David Trow spent Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fisher.

Mrs. Dorothy Wannamaker is at home under the doctor's care. All wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garrison called on Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Townsend on Sunday afternoon.

A most enjoyable time was spent in the Orange hall on Friday night when the LOL members invited the LOBA members and each member of both lodges invited a couple for the evening. Euchre was played. Later dancing, with the music provided by Jimmy Mitts' Orchestra, was enjoyed until the small wee hours. The men deserve much credit for their fine entertainment and fine refreshments which consisted of potato salad, cold ham, cheese, pickles of all kinds, jellies with whipped cream, buns and coffee. All enjoyed the evening and remarked the good time spent together.

The W. I. euchre which was to be held in the Orange hall was postponed until March 4th. All are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Langabeer of Belleville, called on Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris on Sunday afternoon, also Mr. and Mrs. Ross Pound and son Dale, of Thurlow, and Mr. Floyd Taylor, of Consecon, were recent tea hour guests.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Your bridge partner can give you plenty of hints of what kind of a hand he is holding. If he has time he can give you a very clear picture of what he has; at least enough for your purposes.

Your opening bid is one heart with this south hand:

♠A Q
♥A K 6 3
♦K 7 5 2
♣6 4 3

Suppose the immediate response from your partner is two spades. What is he starting to tell you? What is he asking you to do about it? What should you do in co-operation with him?

The one-jump takeout promises a biddable spade suit, six tricks, two sure tricks; a signal that forces to at least a game. Lacking a takeout or assist, your second bid it two no-trump.

Suppose your partner then bids three clubs. Still lacking both takeout and assist your third bid is three no-trump. Suppose partner then bids four clubs. What picture do you get of his hand?

Having bid spades before clubs his clubs are not longer. Having rebid clubs he must have at least five of them. Therefore he must have at least five spades and five clubs.

Since you thus see him with five spades you may consider spades as your trump suit. Since you have a sixth trick you see 12 in your pair which should influence your probe to slam in spades.

Recall that his immediate one-jump promised two sure tricks. With what you hold they must be the ace and king of clubs or two minor aces or diamond ace and king-queen of clubs.

Since you know he has at least ten black cards he can have no more than three red cards. By bidding four no-trump find out exactly how many aces he has and from this know how safe is a slam.

Of course, it is nice to know that you can see these things if necessary. But you do not need so clear a picture. Follow rules and you will automatically do what is right.

Wellington

WELLINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, of Belleville, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Marvin and family and Mrs. Sherwin, their cousin. Mrs. Sherwin, who has been in ill health for some time, is staying for the time being with her daughter, Mrs. Marvin.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Walker, Toronto, spent the week-end at their home, here.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell, of Toronto, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bishop. Callers at the same home on Saturday were, Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Wiltse, of Dundas.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Post were Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ogilvy.

There was a good turn-out at the ice follies in the arena on Saturday and they saw a good performance.

BRIDE-TO-BE HONORED

On Friday afternoon the staff and employees of the Quinte Milk Products honored Mrs. Jean Wallace, a bride of this week, prior to severing her connection with the firm. In the presence of the office staff and employees Mr. J. A. Gair read an address to the guest of honor and Mr. George Dorland, on behalf of all present, presented her with an automatic frying pan.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Ross and family were guests over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hubbs, Peterborough.

The World Day of Prayer will be observed on Friday. Service will be in St. Andrew's Anglican Church in the evening at 7.30 p.m.

Mr. David Evans, Queen's University, Kingston, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Evans.

Mrs. Gordon Dean is ill in Kingston hospital, having undergone a major operation. Hope she will soon be well and home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg returned home on Saturday after spending several weeks in Florida and other southern points.

AT THE BELLE — The inimitable Jerry Lewis outdoes even his wonderful self as the clown in Paramount's Vistavision entertainment package, "Three Ring Circus", which is starting today at the Belle Theatre. Truly this is the season's big fun show.

AT THE CAPITOL

It's Called "Phffft!"

The title of the new Columbia Pictures' comedy with Judy Holliday, "Phffft," has become a headache to harassed parents and teachers who are being asked: what does "phffft" mean and how is it pronounced? It is pronounced "Ph-f-f-ft"—but Hollywood urges that audiences don't say it...see it!"Phffft" is the sound of romance on the rocks, in the hilarious new farce also starring Jack Lemmon, Jack Carson and Kim Novak opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre for its first Ontario Showing.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Friday, Feb. 25, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—[illegible]day's aspects encourage advancement, general improvement, fresh opportunities. Have faith and feel hopeful of attaining objectives. Be reasonable in demands, not too exacting.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Amount of advantages may be contendable but benefits are available and obtainable for right planning and effort. You are usually conscientious, earnest; these assets will bring reward.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Work (profession, trade, study, domestic matters) for which you have training or talent can gain recognition under your splendid management and intelligence. Have faith in YOU.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Get to the core of tasks and problems and you will have got[illegible] over some of the barriers [illegible] made an advantageous start. Don't anticipate difficulties, things won't be too hard.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Day holds challenge, invites tackling new and promising ideas and methods, new machinery, materials; study in medicine, chemicals, etc., progressive matters generally, to better living standards.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—In midst of present tensions and anxieties we must pause to interview ourselves: what are we doing to help problems and privations of others? We must be whole world-minded.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Read Cancer, please. You can do great good today as always, especially for community, loved ones, also associates. Make right use of your God-[illegible]n capability; pray.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Really TRYING and asking God's help is the sure way to better our environment, pave lasting way for success and inner contentment. Study, observe well, and LISTEN to those who may know.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Many interesting and useful matters honored today. Be the careful judge as to what to handle first and the speed and thoroughness to use. Don't be sidetracked by idlers.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Obstacles, fresh opportunities naturally go to-Honest labor, artistry, skill in management will bring solid achievement in all lines of honest endeavors.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—No need to catch at straws this fine, sound and canbe-productive day. Examine schedule, evaluate the urgent tasks from the less important; take things in right order and you'll gain.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Influences should arouse your originality and go-getiveness. You are innately patient, must be more (rightly) aggressive at times. Today invites your best and will reward.

YOU BORN TODAY: are gatherers of knowledge and often know more than you and others realize; you are as a rule unassuming and not given to empty talk. Withal your leaning to learning, you may also tend to occasional indolence, could waste valuable time puttering on unessentials. Watch sternly this latter inclination, correct it before it defeats your possible fine success. Also guard NOT to heed every Tom-Dick-and-Harry advice, but listen to those qualified to help and advise. Pray daily for God's help. Birthdate: Enrico Caruso, famed singer; many performers of betterment to mankind's advantages.

Little Benny's Notebook

The door to the kitchen skreeked when ma pushed it open to bring in the lam stew, and ma said to pop, Oh, that door, William. Are you going to bring pressure to bear on yourself and really oil it, or do I have to live in a haunted house? she said.

Say no more, my dear, I'll give you an illustration of action speeking louder than werds, pop said.

And he quick jumped up and got the little can of oil and put some drops on the kitchin door and made it stop skreeking, and then he came back to the table and sat down again looking proud, saying to ma, How's that, my dear?

That's perfectly wonderful, ma said, and pop said, Oh, any resolute man of action could of done it.

Dont be so modest, William, ma said. I've always said the house couldn't get along without you, and I repeeted it this morning to myself while I was filling up the broken places in the bathroom shower with tile cement, she said, and pop said, I was going to do that.

Of course you were, it would only of been a question of time, ma said. There's litterly nuthing you cant do if you're only given time enough. That's what I told myself this afternoon when I plugged up the nale holes in the kitchin wall with the special putty I got at the hardware store. And when I put new screws in the catch of the garbage door, I knew you were going to feel terrible when you found out you had missed the chance to do it before the car gets walked off with, she said.

My dear, in some ways this is really a man's werld, pop said, and ma said, Oh, eat your nice stew.

Which he did.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — After the past few nice days it isn't difficult to realize that the first day of Spring (according to the calendar) is just a month away. However, there will probably be cold fingers a few times yet, before the robins sing.

The Women's Association of Rylstone United Church held a pot luck dinner and quilting at the home of Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn, in Springbrook, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hall and Stewart, of Havelock, were Friday evening guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Pollock, of Menie were Friday evening visitors at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Percy Reid, her husband and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Miller and Wayne and Miss Shirley Stewart of Trenton, were visitors with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Stewart, on Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Barnum and Betty Lou, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Watson, Barbara and Grant were supper guests on Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reid, Anne and Teddy. It was the occasion of the 4th birthday of Betty Lou Barnum.

Congratulations to Mrs. Minnie Morton who, on Sunday celebrated her 75th birthday. All wish her many happy returns of her birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Stewart, Glen and Marilyn were Sunday supper guests with Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stewart and Gary, in Campbellford.

Doug. Morton called on his cousin, Jack Reid, in Belleville General Hospital, on Saturday night. Jack was injured in a car-train accident earlier in the week. Jack is well known around Rylstone and all wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom McKeown visited her nephew, Don Spencer and family at Ridge Road, Stirling, on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geordie Sutherland and family and Mrs. Maude Runnalls, of Stirling, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thomson and family of Campbellford, were Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Anderson and Mrs. Lizzie Thomson.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Irwin, of Campbellford, were Sunday supper guests with Mr. and Mrs. Willis Irwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Reid and Geordie spent an evening last week with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Irwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McKeown and family were Friday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stapley and Lenora.

Supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heath and family on Friday night were Mr. and Mrs. Melville Gibson, Menie, Mr. and Mrs. Claire Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Walt Reid and Geordie and Mrs. Stella Gibson.

Rawdon

RAWDON.—Mr. and Mrs. Murney Johnston and Dwayne, Mr. and Mrs. Will Johnston, of Salem, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher, Pump street.

Mount Pleasant ladies catered for the Hoard's Livestock Sales on Monday evening.

On Sunday morning, Miss Betty McConnell presided at the piano, and the Juniors filled the choir loft and rendered a selection.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Sharp and Bert; also Rev. W. G. Fletcher attended the funeral of the late Mr. Hiram Manley Post, at Eldorado United Church, last Tuesday.

Mrs. Walter Dracup is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Gordon Foster, Moira.

Born—At the Sine Maternity Home, Harold, Ontario, on Saturday, February 19, 1955, to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Abrams, Halloway, a son, a brother for Gordon and Irene.

The World Day of Prayer for Rawdon circuit will be held on Friday afternoon at Mount Pleasant United church for the ladies of Rawdon circuit.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Pollock and daughter were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Pollock.

Miss Ellen Trenear and her brother, John Trenear, visited their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Menzies on Saturday.

Wellman's Women's Institute sponsored a successful card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clancy, 6th concession, with nine tables in play.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Ben Dewey. The prizes were — ladies' high, Douglas Clancy, playing as a lady; and Mrs. Robert Wallace; men's high, Douglas Cotten; low, Gerald Clancy.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

Mrs. Albert Dunkley spent Saturday with her daughter at Glen Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw and Wayne, Ivanhoe, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher.

The Williams School S. S. No. 4 under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Harvey Couch, held their exchange Valentine party on Tuesday at the school.

Gail Jeffs presided over a Red Cross program which consisted of piano music, recitations and songs by the pupils. Five little girls attended, Barbara Hoard, Ida Mae Bailey, Betty McAdam, Judy McAdam and Jean Sharpe. Each girl brought a decorated Valentine box filled with refreshments. "HAVEN'T FELT SO WELL IN YEARS-THANKS TO SYNTONA"

Eat Well; Sleep Better At Night. Stomach Disorders, Headaches, Rheumatic Pain Relieved, Says This Man.

"For a long time my stomach was in bad shape and my entire system became rundown, but I haven't felt so well in years as I have since I've been taking Syntona," said Mr. Roy I. Smith, R. R. 7, St. Thomas, Ontario, in a recent report.

Former Energy Gone

"I would have indigestion very bad with heartburn and gas after my meals. I'd belch up hot, sour liquids and often got throbbing headaches. At night I couldn't get my proper sleep. More recently rheumatic pains set into my arms, back and limbs and my entire system seemed so rundown that I didn't have my former energy to do things. I seemed to be feeling tired-out all the time.

"Reading about Syntona helping other people like this I made up my mind to try it and even after taking the first bottle I began to notice a difference. As I kept on with it my food began to digest better and all the gas, souring and other distress cleared up. Then the aches and pains eased up and headaches ceased to be a problem to me. Now I sleep much better, enjoy my meals and feel better throughout the day."

How It Acts

Made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots, Syntona will help anyone suffering from stomach disorders and associated symptoms. At the same time it helps tone up the entire system. . . .

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan The Druggist.

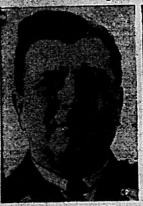
Their Missing RCMP Plane Located



A. N. BEAUMONT

R. L. FLETCHER

Rescue is only hours away for seven persons aboard an RCMP Otter plane, which vanished Tuesday over the bleak Barren Lands of the Northwest Territories. The downed plane was sighted from the air on Thursday 35 miles south of its destination, the settlement of Ennedai Lake. Indications were that all of the plane's seven occupants had survived the landing and the bitter cold, 50 below zero. Left above is shown RCMP Sgt. A. N. Beaumont of Winnipeg, pilot of the plane, while on the right is RCMP Corporal R. L. Fletcher of Holmfield, Man., co-pilot. Sgt. Beaumont participated in the rescue of three U.S. fliers who survived the February 12 crash of a U.S. B-47 Stratojet bomber in northern Saskatchewan. Now it is his turn to be rescued.

Evacuation Near for Survivors Of RCMP Plane Down in Arctic

WINNIPEG (CP) — The RCAF switched planes today for the rescue of seven persons stranded on the freezing Barren Lands since Tuesday.

An air force plane, scheduled to leave Ennadai lake to pick up the group who were aboard an RCMP Otter that dropped in the tundra during a flight from Churchill to Ennadai, was grounded. A substitute Otter was sent in its place from Churchill.

RCAF headquarters here was unable to explain the switch.

The RCMP aircraft is on the ground 35 miles southeast of Ennadai. Air force officials said they were still uncertain if the seven persons were safe and well.

The downed plane, just a speck in a world of white, was sighted from the air Thursday 35 miles southeast of its destination — the Northwest Territories settlement of Ennedai lake.

FO Dave Hennigar, pilot of the RCAF Dakota which located the plane, said five persons were seen walking about and that it was likely the other two were in a tent pitched nearby.

An RCAF Otter piloted by FO Ed McNarry of Foxwarren, Man., flew to Ennadai Thursday night after an unsuccessful attempt at evacuation before darkness set in but was scheduled to make another try at daylight.

To keep the spot pinpointed until evacuation, the air force began a shuttle service in which a single plane circled over the scene until relieved by another aircraft.

Last winter an RCAF plane forced down in roughly the same area on a flight to Baker lake was found and then lost again, even after radio contact had been made. Fortunately, the lapse was only temporary and the crew members were rescued unharmed.

The RCMP plane, which was on a 290-mile flight from the Hudson bay port of Churchill to Ennadai, carried:

James Houston, Toronto-born artist who is director of handicrafts for the department of northern affairs and an authority on Eskimo lore and art.

Sydney J. Sillett of Vancouver, department of transport employee who was on his way to an Ennadai posting.

An Eskimo woman identified only as a Mrs. Attaloak and her four-year-old son.

The pilot, Sgt. A. N. Beaumont of Winnipeg.

The co-pilot, Cpl. R. L. Fletcher of Holmfield, Man.

And the engineer, special constable G. E. Bartlett of Churchill.

Claim Breathalyzer 'Foolproof' Way to Test Drunken Drivers

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario has been trying out a new "foolproof" machine to test motorists suspected of drunkenness.

It is known as a breathalyzer.

A group of self-styled "hardy drinkers", including students at the University of Toronto, school teachers, salesmen, policemen, a chemist, a doctor and an engineer, have been meeting during the last four months at government-sponsored cocktail parties to get thoroughly drunk.

They drank only the best of liquors in club-like surroundings and played chess, cards, or just talked.

They served as "guinea pigs" for a University of Toronto professor trying out the new machine.

The story of the cocktail parties was told Thursday night to a group of Ontario judges, magistrates, heads who met secretly in a Toronto hotel.

They were told that Dr. J. K. W. Ferguson, head of the department of pharmacology at the university, and Harry Salem, a graduate student, were testing the machine invented by Lieut. Robert Borkenstein, director of laboratories of the Indiana state police.

Dr. Ferguson said it was "a substantial improvement" on the drunkometer and other machines like it.

"It might well represent the first move to break the dreaded highway death-alcohol link."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Colder air is firmly established over Ontario after a night that saw temperatures drop as low as 42 degrees below zero in the Lake Nipigon area of northern Ontario. A new storm south of Saskatchewan early Friday will invade northern Ontario Saturday bringing more cloud and snow to that area. Southern Ontario will have generally fine weather for the most part of Saturday except for some light snowflurries near Lake Ontario. With a return to southerly winds temperatures will moderate in all regions Saturday.

British Airways Will Purchase Planes from U.S.

LONDON (AP) — The government today gave the British Overseas Airways Corp. permission to buy 10 American Douglas DC-7C airliners.

The decision, announced in the House of Commons, was expected to touch off a storm of protests from members of Parliament and sections of the press which have contended the state-owned BOAC should "buy British."

J. A. Boyd-Carpenter, minister of transport and civil aviation, said the four-engine turbo-prop American aicraft would cost £13,000,000.

He said the government authorized the order on the express condition that the American planes, capable of carrying 68 passengers, shall be sold when British-made Britannias, also turbo-prop, now on order fo BOAC, become available.

Pair Rescued from Flood Waters Electrocuted as Helicopter Crashes

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Two men thankfully grasped the rungs of a rope ladder today and were carried up and out of the disastrous floods sweeping parts of New South Wales by a Royal Australian Air Force helicopter.

Their safety was short-lived .The helicopter crashed.

The two rescued men were pitched from the ladder on to power lines and electrocuted. Their deaths brought to five the total fatalities caused by the flooding. Thursday, three persons died when a truck was swept from a bridge at Singleton, 150 miles from Sydney.

At least 50 towns in west and northwest New South Wales and the Hunter valley now are in the grip of a flood which threatens to become the worst in the state's history.

In Singleton, the town's population of 4,300 was evacuated Thursday night. It now is completely flooded, in places 20 feet deep.

In Maitland, about 8,000 have been evacuated and water today poured into the main shopping centre and quickly submerged hundreds of homes.

There is little hope of weather clearing before Sunday. That means the worst may still be to come.

BLIZZARDS TRAP MANY MOTORISTS IN OLD COUNTRY

At Least Four Perish In European Storms

LONDON (AP) — Snows and freezing weather snarled traffic in Britain and many parts of Europe today, trapping hundreds of motorists and causing at least four deaths.

Northern England was the hardest hit with blizzards blocking many roads and marooning cars, buses and trucks. Two persons died from exposure.

Two deaths were reported in Vienna. Around 12 inches of snow fell in the Austrian capital, bringing traffic there almost to a standstill.

British European Airways cancelled flights from Belfast because of a blizzard. In southern Ireland, six inches of snow covered Shannon airport and it was still snowing this morning.

VILLAGE FREED

Snowplows hacked through 15-foot drifts to free the village of Denshaw on the Yorkshire moors which has been snowbound for three days.

A British naval helicopter went to northwest Scotland to fly to hospital an eight-year-old boy who was burned when a kettle of boiling water overturned on him.

Much of West Germany was covered with snow. Four inches fell on Frankfurt in the last 36 hours and in some parts of Bavaria as much as four feet fell during the same period. Temperatures remained below freezing.

Toronto Bandits Wound Merchant After Robbery

TORONTO (CP) — Two bandits, one of them armed, Thursday night wounded a 40-year-old Toronto shopkeeper in the right thigh and left hip after robbing him of $170.

Police said the bandits shot William Lamb twice after forcing him at gun-point to hand over the money from the cash register in his small grocery store in the east end.

Lamb crawled to the front door of his marketeria and attracted the attention of a neighbor by banging a bottle against the door. He underwent an operation Thursday night and his condition was reported as good.

Police said Lamb had given the men the money, then stepped backward and the bandits apparently thought he was about to attack them. The man holding the gun fired once, hitting Mr. Lamb in the thigh. Mr. Lamb fell to the floor, police said, and heard the other bandit shout: "Kill him."

Police said a second shot was fired, striking the storekeeper in the back and hip.

LAMAS HOSTS TO REDS

TOKYO (AP)—The Dalai Lama and Panchen Lama of Tibet were hosts Thursday to Mao Tze-tung and other Chinese Communist leaders in Peiping, the Red Chinese radio said today. Mao, who is suspected of holding the Dalai Lama in Peiping while the Communists solidify their control of Tibet, drank a toast to his hosts. The occasion was the Tibetan New Year.

Four Children in Manitoba Die as Fire Razes Log Home

BALSAM BAY, Man. (CP) — Fire claimed the lives of four children Thursday and sent four persons fleeing into sub-zero cold as it destroyed a log home on the southeast shore of Lake Winnipeg.

Killed in the blaze, believed to have started from an overheated stove, were Wendy Patzer, 4, Lloyd McLean, 6, Richard McLean, 8, and Raymond Thomas, 11.

Taken 25 miles south to Beausejour hospital were Mrs. Blair Patzer, 20, Brian McLean, 13, Gregory Patzer, 1, and Margaret McLean, 1. All suffered burns and frostbite.

Mrs. Patzer and her nephew, Brian McLean, ran nearly a half-mile for help through deep snow in 33-degree-below weather. Clad only in their night clothing—Mrs. Patzer wore stockings, Brian was barefooted—they each carried an infant child in their arms. The fire spread so rapidly they were unable to rescue the four others.

RCMP later recovered the bodies. No date has been set for an inquest.

West Counters Red Demands, Asks All-Round Disarmament

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

LONDON (AP) — The West today countered Soviet demands for a nuclear weapons ban with an over - all disarmament proposal calling on Russia and Red China to reduce their armies.

The Western offer was made known to correspondents as delegates of the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Russia resumed closed-door disarmament talks which had ended in stalemate here last June. The five powers are conferring as the United Nations disarmament commission sub-committee.

American officials said the United States stood behind the British - French plan for the eventual scrapping of all atomic and hydrogen weapons, but that it tied this in with step-by-step reductions in military manpower as well as conventional weapons.

The U.S. contribution to the program is a blueprint for an international control system with the powers to enforce disarmament measures on both sides of the Iron Curtain. The Russians have bitterly opposed opening their arsenals to outside inspection.

The Western powers are said to have agreed that this is the only formula which would allow them to meet the Kremlin's Feb. 18 call for abolition of nuclear weapon stocks.

Informants said the U.S. is pessimistic about prospects of the Russians accepting any agreement based on the Western formula, but is ready to talk over any compromise that would bring about disarmament without endangering the West.

Russia is expected to press demands for a world disarmament conference this year, but the Western powers are reported to have agreed to oppose calling such a parley until preliminary agreement has been reached with Moscow on an acceptable disarmament scheme.

U.S., Britain Drop Support Of France's Claims to Saar

BONN (CP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer today said the United States and Britain have agreed conditionally to drop their support of France's permanent claims on the industrially rich Saar territory.

Adenauer intervened in a noisy parliamentary debate on the Paris treaties for rearming West Germany to make the statement, which was greeted with surprise.

The U. S. and Britain agreed at the 1947 Moscow conference to support French claims on the Saar as compensation for damage suffered by France at Germany's hands during the war.

But the chancellor told the Lower House in the second day of the rearmament debate that the Anglo-American powers had informed him verbally of their new attitude. He said they promised to drop their support of French claims on the Saar in a future German peace treaty if the present Saar agreement goes through.

The chancellor was making an open bid to win over opposition to the Saar agreement from the Free Democrats within his own coalition cabinet. He has ordered them to vote for the agreement Saturday or "take the consequences."

Asked whether he had personally concluded that the Anglo-American attitude on the Saar had changed or whether he had any direct information to this effect, Adenauer replied:

"It was a communication made to me by competent sources. I have no written agreement. But when I received such information from such competent sources, I feel no need to ask for it on paper."

The Bundestag plans to take a clause-by-clause vote tonight on the Paris treaties for restoring West German sovereignty and setting up a 12-division army of 500,000 men. Saturday a final vote will be taken on all the treaties including the Saar agreement.

Today's debate was televised through West Germany and provided far more excitement than the quiet opening Thursday.

Court Martial Opens Regarding Drinking Spree

HALIFAX (CP)—The aftermath of a surreptitious methyl alcohol drinking spree aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent will be aired this morning at a navy court martial.

AB John L. MacDonald of Beaverton, Ont., will face court martial on charges of stealing government property, consuming a beverage containing duplicating fluid and furnishing to others a beverage containing duplicating fluid.

The navy has banned news and television cameras from the court martial scheduled to open at the Stadacona naval shore base here. Newspaper men will cover the proceedings.

The navy said Thursday that possibly more of the sailors involved in the near-deadly spree will be court martialed, but did not say how many may be charged or what the charges could be. Others of the 47 involved and not charged, or facing charges, have already been disciplined by their commanding officers.

ALL RELEASED

Forty-seven men were rushed to naval hospital Jan. 22 after a brew of duplicating fluid, ginger ale, water and apple cider was passed from mess to mess in drinking mugs.

The navy said Thursday for the first time that all now have been released from hospital and none have lost their sight.

No Request For Public Inquiry From Association

OTTAWA (CP)—No request has been received from the Air Lines Pilots' Association for a public inquiry into the Dec. 17 crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines Super Constellation near Brampton, Transport Minister Marler told the Commons Thursday.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) had asked whether Mr. Marler would reconsider his decision not to hold a public inquiry.

A transport department board of inquiry blamed the crash on "negligence" of the pilot, Capt. Norman Ramsay of Montreal. No one was killed in the accident.

Mr. Knowles referred to a statement by the Pilots' Association which suggested the crash was due to the pilot's fatigue brought on by overwork. The board of inquiry report said the plane's crew was on duty 16 hours.

"Does the minister not feel the question which has arisen regarding the 16-hour day merits further inquiry?" Mr. Knowles asked.

"My answer offhand would be no," Mr. Marler replied.

The transport department suspended Ramsay's airline transport pilot's licence. He has been under automatic suspension from TCA since the crash which injured a number of the 23 persons aboard.

NATIONALISTS ABANDON TINY NANCHISHAN IS.

Reds Win Another Bloodless Victory

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China today abandoned tiny Nanchishan to the Chinese Reds, giving the Communists another bloodless victory in their civil war.

The defence ministry here said the evacuation was carried out without United States assistance and with no interference by the Reds.

The ministry refused to divulge the number of troops involved, but the garrison of regulars and guerrillas totalled perhaps 5,000.

A ministry spokesman said the island's fortifications were blown up before the withdrawal and all supplies and equipment were brought to Formosa.

The entire civilian population, a little more than 2,000, chose to leave rather than come under Red rule, the spokesman told a press conference. All arrived safely in Formosa.

"Not a single person remained behind," he said.

KEPT A SECRET

Nationalist spokesmen insisted right up to the end that Nanchishan would be defended.

Col. Hsiung Eng-teh, defence ministry spokesman, told the press conference the evacuation of Nanchishan was planned at the same time as the Tachen withdrawal but was kept secret for security reasons.

That brought some blunt questions from foreign correspondents regarding frequent statements by Nationalist spokesmen that Nanchishan would be defended.

One correspondent said the press had been "deliberately misled." Another expressed resentment at having been "gratuitously informed" Thursday that Nanchishan would not be abandoned—at the very time the evacuation was in process.

Nanchishan, 140 miles north of Formosa and 23 miles off the Red mainland, was the northern anchor of Chiang Kai-shek's chain of offshore island outposts.

The Nationalists decided to abandon three-square-mile Nanchishan because of U. S. refusal to aid in its defence.

The Communists are expected to move into the island quickly just as they did the Tachens after those islands were evacuated with U. S. assistance.

Attempts to Rob Home of Cadi

HAMILTON (CP)—A prowling housebreaker took on the wrong house early today and was scared off before he could pull a job.

Magistrate Beamer W. Hopkins said his mother, Mrs. W. B. Hopkins, was aroused by the sound of a man jimmying a storm-door sash. His mother worked a buzzer system between their rooms to wake him.

"I telephoned immediately for the police and they were there in a moment," he said, but the prowler had got away.

It was the second time the magistrate's home had been the target of housebreakers. A year ago the same door was jimmied, but that prowler also was frightened away.

Starting in Fiji and Tonga Islands, Christians Unite in Day of Prayer

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Today may seem no different than the rest—the same sounds and movements in the streets, the same routines in offices, homes and workshops. But something special will be going on.

It may be unseen, soundless and hidden in men's thoughts. Or it may be whispered, or spoken aloud before crowds. But whatever the form, millions of people around the earth today are making a great, concerted prayer.

". . . . In this troubled world, may we not be frightened or dismayed, but have greater courage and greater faith in Thy love and power. . . ."

This is the world day of prayer and Christians in nearly every country—130 of them—are joining in.

At various hours of the day, in various settings—churches, hospitals, colleges and factories—groups will gather to bow their heads, to kneel, to give voice to the wordless, universal language.

The praying began at daybreak in the Fiji and Tonga islands, just beyond the international dateline.

In the United States, special proclamations were issued by many mayors and governors, calling attention to the observance. It is sponsored nationally by the 10,000,000 - member United Church Women.

Started in 1887 by a small group in New York, the movement has spread gradually until now interdenominational bodies in many lands observe the occasion on the same date—the first Friday of Lent.

Just this year church groups in several additional areas — Israel, Czechoslovakia, Bali, Gibraltar, New Britain, Okinawa, Timor, Gambia, Papua and Togoland—took up the custom.

Iraq Joins West's Defence Lineup, Angering Egypt

Cairo Demands Expulsion Of Iraq from Arab League

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraq took up a post in the Western defence lineup today after signing a pact with Turkey.

In Cairo, a high government spokesman promptly declared that Egypt will call a meeting of all Arab League members except Iraq and demand the expulsion of the Baghdad government and revision of the league agreement.

If the demand is not heeded, he added, Egypt will either withdraw from the eight-country group or renounce any commitment to defend Iraq. The Arab League is a collective security alliance. Egypt, generally acknowledged as its leader, has insisted that the Arabs stick to their neutralist position and depend on themselves for defence.

Defying Egyptian threats, Iraqi Premier Nuri Said signed the mutual defence agreement with Turkey Thursday night. Turkey is a member of the north Atlantic treaty alliance. Her pact with Iraq is the first to link an Arab state specifically for defence against any Communist aggression in the Middle East.

The other Arab League members are Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, Yemen and Libya.

CHANGES MADE

It was believed some changes were made in the pact to meet objections voiced by other Arab states.

An informed source said one clause provided that no other country could join the alliance without the agreement of both original signers.

There have been reports that Lebanon, Syria and Iran were negotiating with Turkey and Pakistan to form a Middle East defensive alliance against communism. In addition to belonging to NATO, Turkey is linked with Pakistan in a separate defence alliance. Pakistan is outside NATO but has a military aid agreement with the United States.

Jury Says Driver Not Negligent

HUNTSVILLE (CP) — A coroner's jury at nearby Dorset Thursday found no negligence on the part of the driver of a heavy truck which fatally injured a five-year-old Fort Erie boy last August.

Gary Buckman, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Buckman died of injuries suffered when struck by the truck at nearby Oxtongue lake on the outskirts of Algonquin provincial park.

Police said the truck, loaded with lumber, and driven by Sydney Cook, 35, of Oxtongue, was passing the boy when he suddenly darted into the back, near the wheels.

The boy's father said he thought the truck was going about 50 miles an hour but Mr. Cook said he was going about 40.

A post-mortem revealed the boy died of concussion but there was no skull fracture.

Urges West Copy Turkey's Calm Attitude to USSR

OTTAWA (CP) — Kasim Gulek likes to tell about a Turkish peasant along the Aras river separating Turkey from Russian territory.

"I saw him plowing calmly beside the river," said the leader of the opposition in Turkey's National Assembly. "I asked him: 'Don't you know who is across there?'" The peasant said he knew, all right, but did not worry.

"Let them come across here, and we will see," said the peasant, and went on with his plowing.

In an interview Thursday during a brief eastern Canada speaking tour, Mr. Gulek added: "That peasant should be a lesson to the West."

TURKEY CALM

Turkey was "very calm and confident" despite its proximity to Russia. A few years ago when the Russians had sought to share control of the Dardanelles Turkey had "flatly refused and it worked." The Russians had not bothered the Turks lately, said Mr. Gulek.

And, he added: "As long as the Free World is strong, ready, determined and without hesitation, the danger of world war is far removed."

Mr. Gulek, secretary-general of the Republican party, speaks today to a Kingston branch of the institute.

VISITS BRANTFORD

He visits Toronto and Brantford, where he will tour a large farm machinery factory, during the weekend.

Mr. Gulek, who arrived Thursday from Montreal, paid a brief courtesy call on External Affairs Minister Pearson.

As he was leaving the external affairs department, he ran into an old friend just arriving, Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak, another current visitor to the capital.

Specialized Farming Needed For Bigger Financial Returns

The trend of the farmer of the future should be toward specialization if he expects to reap the highest financial returns with the least outlay for labor, members of the Central Ontario Ayrshire Breeders were told Thursday at their annual meeting.

Members of the Association held a luncheon meeting at Lattimer's and later heard Dr. B. Murray, V.S., of Stirling, say that the day was past when general farming could be expected to return satisfactory profits.

General farming required too much labor and expensive machinery failed to get its most economical use with result that this type of farming was proving too costly.

SAYS PARTY IS OVER

"The party is over," Dr. Murray stated. "There are no more $400 cows or 40c pigs. Cost of production is too high for what is received, therefore we must cut the cost of production."

To illustrate Dr. Murray referred to the operation of some American dairies where all feed for milkers is purchased and helps are hired for specific jobs. He cited one instance where up to $40 per ton for hay was paid and comparative prices were paid for other feeds yet a profit was made with milk at 18c per quart.

Only a small profit per cow was made but equipment and plant were used to capacity and thus an over-all profit was possible.

MASS PRODUCTION NEEDED

Specialized farming in hogs, or poultry could also be made pay on a mass production basis where only a few hogs or hens would be unprofitable.

Referring to the Ayrshire breed of cattle, Dr. Murray said the demand for this type of cattle was stronger today than ever before. The reason was that Ayrshires returned a high profit for what was put into them. They were hardy animals and live and produce on marginal land where other type cattle would starve.

Also the productive period of an Ayrshire cow was longer, often exceeding 12 or 15 years, whereas few Holsteins lasted more than eight years.

Charles N. Heath, secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, spoke briefly at the meeting.

Association president M. A. Parks, of Wallbridge, was re-elected as was vice-president Dr. B. Murray. Ross Ketcheson, of Moira, was re-named secretary-treasurer.

Grades 1 and 2 in City Schools To Be Given Polio Vaccination

The Belleville Department of Health, in co-operation with the provincial health department, will launch a program of polio vaccination for pupils in Grades 1 and 2 of the city's elementary schools early in April.

The program, to be undertaken on a province-wide basis involving 250,000 children in the selected group, was announced recently by Provincial Minister of Health, Dr. Mackinnon Phillips.

Parents and guardians of children in this age group will be asked for their co-operation in carrying out this vaccination. "Request forms" for signature by parents or guardians will be distributed within a few days.

The vaccine, made by Connaught Laboratories of the University of Toronto, is being provided free to local boards of health. The vaccine, tested on 450,000 children in the United States last year, proved harmless.

Vaccination includes three injections in the arm; the first two doses are given at least one week apart and the last dose at least three to four weeks after the second dose. Children missing the first dose will not be given second or third doses.

Refresher Course For District Dentists Ended

Members of the dental profession in the Quinte area yesterday concluded a two-day refresher course here when the third annual seminar of the Ontario Dental Association ended—a measured success.

Conducted by clinicians from the University of Toronto, the seminar was attended by dentists from Belleville, Kingston, Trenton, Tweed, Marmora and Stirling. Conducting the seminar's four sessions were Dr. W. J. Spence, department of orthodontics, and Dr. C. D. Beierl, department of paedodontics, both of the Faculty of Dentistry, University of Toronto.

Object of the seminar was to bring local family dentists up to date in knowledge and instruction on the latest trends in clinical practices.

Yesterday Dr. Beierl spoke appreciatively of the results of the seminar. "I feel it has been most successful," he said.

This seminar laid particular emphasis on dental care for children, the event being highlighted Wednesday evening with an address on fluoridation by Dr. Wesley J. Dunn, editor of the ODA Journal.

The profession points out that sciences associated with modern dental care for children are progressing so rapidly that dentists find it necessary to keep abreast of the newer knowledge and skills in order to give better services to the children of the community.

Among other subjects underlined during the seminar were preventice services, better operative dentistry, child management and other problems in dentistry for children and general practitioners.

Responsible for arranging the seminar here, were local dentists, headed by Dr. G. Harold Craig. They were Drs. J. M. Clarke, R. W. Edwards, J. R. Guthridge and J. F. Letersky.

News Staff Enjoys Gala Dancing Party

The fact Valentine's Day has been and gone was no dampener to gaiety last night when staff members of the Ontario Intelligencer, celebrated their Valentine's party at the ANAF hall, Front street.

Close to 100, staffers, their wives and friends, turned out for the evening, one chock-full of music, mirth and mambo. In fact there was so much fun, some of the reporters were afraid their editors might suffer chipped hearts if they laughed any louder.

Dancing held full sway and swing throughout most of the evening with music being supplied in a refreshing style by Hugo Diggins' orchestra. The band boys displayed their versatility half way through the night when someone called for a square dance and the orchestra switched to fiddle and banjo without batting an eye.

A buffet lunch was served in the intermission.

Spot prizes were lavishly distributed during the dances while special prizes also were won during the hilarious games period.

Organization of the evening, a measured success, was under the direction of Elizabeth Sonne and Marjorie Foster, assisted by Len Taylor and their committee.

Head Red Cross Campaign in Belleville District

JUDGE J. C. ANDERSON

LEE GRILLS

MRS. HERBERT McCABE

Judge J. C. Anderson, president of the Belleville and District Red Cross Society, announced today that an executive meeting of the Society had appointed Mr. Lee Grills as General Campaign Chairman for the Red Cross drive and Mrs. Herbert McCabe as Chairman of the Residential Blitz Campaign. Campaign headquarters have been set up at 3 Bridge Street West and plans have been completed to hold a one-day fund-raising "blitz" on March 15th. The area objective has been set at $19,000 with the objective for the city of Belleville itself being $12,500. The local campaign is part of the Canadian Red Cross Society's annual nation-wide appeal for funds, which opens March 1. The national objective is $5,494,100, while Ontario's quota is $2,173,000. W. Lloyd Wood has been appointed Campaign Chairman for the Ontario Division. He has been active in the work of the Society since 1939.

GEORGE SPRENTALL

TRENTON. (Special.) — A Masonic service was held at the Weaver Funeral Home last night for George Sprentall, a member of Trent Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 38, who died at the Trenton Memorial Hospital, Wednesday. Mr. Sprentall, a retired CNR station agent, was one of Trenton's best known citizens. He retired from the railroad in 1941 after 47 years service. He was in his 79th year.

After leaving the railroad service Mr. Sprentall served with the Customs until 1954. At one time he was employed by the Central Ontario Railroad.

Interested in civic affairs Mr. Sprentall served as a member of the town council in 1920 and was a member of the Water Commission for some years.

Surviving are his wife, Margaret Arthurs, Trenton; one son, Arthur, of Cobourg; three daughters, Mrs. James Wiggins, (Willena), Leaside; Mrs. W. R. Wesley (Bernice), Thornhill; Mrs. Clint Sales (Jean), Trenton; eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted this Friday afternoon by the Rev. G. J. Minielly, of King Street United Church, where the late Mr. Sprentall was a member. Interment will take place in St. George's cemetery.

Acting bearers will be V. P. Carswell, Grant Rathbun, James Wright, Les Henson, John Owens and William Allan.

A native of Grafton the late Mr. Sprentall lived in Trenton most of his life.

Blue Cross Purpose Outlined To Group Leaders at Hospital

"The purpose of Blue Cross is to bridge the gap between hospital costs and the patient's pocketbook and to render this service at cost without profit to the organization."

That statement was made on Thursday by D. W. Ogilvie, director of the Ontario division of Blue Cross, in an address to 75 group leaders of Blue Cross plans in effect in Belleville. He spoke at a luncheon meeting held at the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Ogilvie stated that since the origin of Blue Cross in Dallas, Texas, in 1929, the plan has spread across the world to provide prepaid hospital care for 47 million people.

Blue Cross was established in Ontario in 1937 as a division of the Ontario Hospital Association.

"Fifteen years ago this plan was introduced because of a patient shortage in hospitals. Sick people were going without bed care in hospitals," he said.

"Blue Cross sought to relieve the sick of the worry and fear of financial strain resulting from hospitalization.

INTRODUCED IN 1943

Blue Cross was introduced to Belleville in 1943 and today there are 133 groups in the city with an enrollment of 11,000 persons. In 1953 Blue Cross paid $288,000 in subscribers' claims to Belleville General Hospital; in 1954, $337,200.

"Blue Cross plans led the way for the provision of pre-paid hospital schemes," said Mr. Ogilvie. He noted that today there are 36 insurance company group plans, 45 insurance company non-group plans, and between 40 and 50 co-operative plans in operation in Ontario.

"Altogether these plans have 1,500,000 subscribers," he said. "Blue Cross protects nearly 2,000,000. Together, these plans cover 67 per cent of Ontario's population."

RATES BASED ON COST

Mr. Ogilvie pointed out that 77 per cent of hospital revenue comes from prepaid and self-paid patient fees. Ontario government grants cover 10 per cent; municipalities provide nine per cent and philantropy four per cent.

In 1937, the year Blue Cross was introduced, hospital revenue was received from: patient fees, 57 per cent; provincial grants, 9.6 per cent; municipalities approximately 24 per cent and philanthropy about seven per cent.

How are Blue Cross rates set?

"Rates are based on costs," said Mr. Ogilvie, "keeping always in mind the cost of professional and technical services. There is no profit derived from the plan."

Why are costs up?

"Hospitals have no control over what services are used or to what extent they will be used," he said. "The hospital's job is to make services available 365 days a year, 24 hours a day. Sixty per cent of hospital costs are wages."

Why are patients asked to make a down payment?

"The hospital is a business as well as a house of mercy," he said. "It is not a credit association. It must have cash to pay wages and to meet its accounts."

Why are there so many fund drives for hospitals?

"The population is not static. New communities are rising and old ones expanding," said Mr. Ogilvie. "Government grants cover only part of hospital costs. 720,000 people in Ontario went to Red Cross and public general hospitals in 1954. Average cost of hospitalization was $12.58 per patient per day. The patient paid only $8.83 with government and private donations meeting the rest of the obligation."

STUDENT NURSES COSTLY

Other factors contributing to hospital costs is the rise in the number of student nurses, each of whom "costs the hospital $300 yearly," and intricate and intensive medical procedures that now require two nurses for every five patients, where only one was required in 1943.

Mr. Ogilvie also pointed out that while hospital costs and the costs of "miracle drugs" and special services are rising, new methods and new drugs are actually decreasing the over-all cost of sickness by reducing the duration of hospitalization and time lost from work.

Mr. Ogilvie's address was broadcast by radio station CJBQ.

Mr. Ogilvie paid tribute to the first ten groups in Belleville joining Blue Cross: S. S. Kresge Co.; Deacon Bros.; Keyes Supply Co.; Belle Cleaners; Cliff Baragar; Canada Packers; Arthur A. Sills and Son; Metropolitan Stores; Graham Food Products and Houston Co. Ltd.

The speaker was introduced and thanked by J. N. Yanover, chairman of the hospital's Board of Governors.

"I wish to express to you group leaders the appreciation of the Board of Governors for your fine work in promoting Blue Cross," said Mr. Yanover, in welcoming group leaders to the hospital.

Alderman Bram Humphreys, representing Mayor Jack Both, spoke briefly.

Included in the hospital's "Blue Cross Day" program was a tour of the hospital by group leaders to be followed by tea in the recreation room of the nurses' residence and a forum on Blue Cross. Members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary convened the tea.

Included in Mr. Ogilvie's party were: Robert Foster, manager of the records division of Blue Cross for Ontario; Kenneth Cross, public relations manager of the Ontario Hospital Association; Ramsay McDougal, public relations staff of Blue Cross, and Miss Margaret Elliott, district Blue Cross representative.

The heavenly gates were open wide,
A loving voice said come.

—Always remembered by husband and children. F25

KEEGAN. — In loving memory of Frank Keegan, who passed away February 25th, 1954.

The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there.

—Ever remembered by wife Margaret and family. F25

KEEGAN. — In loving memory of a dear grandfather, Frank Keegan, who passed away February 25th, 1954.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember him, who was once here
And who though absent, is just as dear.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by grandchildren Sheila and Frank. F25

KEEGAN. — In loving memory of a dear father, Frank Keegan, who passed away one year ago today, February 25th, 1954.

One year has passed, dear father,
Since you were called away;
How well do I remember
That sad and weary day.
You suffered much, you murmured not,
We watched you day by day.
We cried and prayed that your dear life
Would not be taken away.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by son Arthur, daughter-in-law Gladys. F25

CLAPPER. — In memory of my dear Dad, Norman Frederick Clapper, who passed away February 25th, 1946.

We think of him in silence,
His name we oft recall,
There's nothing left to answer
But his picture on the wall.

—Ever remembered by daughter Norma. F25

CARDS OF THANKS

Mr. Frank Burkitt and family wish to acknowledge with grateful appreciation the many kind and thoughtful expressions of sympathy of their friends, neighbors and relatives in their recent bereavement; also for the beautiful floral tributes and many cards of sympathy. A special thanks also to Dr. Russell Bateman and nurse Mrs. McGee. F25

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all friends, relatives, neighbors for cards, fruit, candy and flowers and calls made while I was a patient in Kingston General Hospital; also Dr. Houston, nurses on Victoria II; Mt. Pleasant W.I. and Empey Hill W.A.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market suffered its greatest and most widespread declines of the week in early afternoon trade today.

Prices fell off Tuesday and Thursday but the losses were not as severe as those recorded up to 1 p. m. EST today. A dozen industrial issues were off $1 or more, with losses up to $3.

Brokers said prices here wee appaently following the New York market down, where weakness was triggered by falling share prices at London, Eng.

Papers, utilities, steels, and manufacturers led the decline. Off $1 or more at 1 p. m. were International Paper, Westinghouse, Algoma, Bell Phone, Asbestos, Pice Bros., Federal Grain, General Dynamics, Goodyear, Gypsum and Power Corp.

Imperial Life climbed $4.75 to $94 and Minnesota and Ontario $1.50 to $58.50.

Noranda led base metals down with a $1.25 drop to $86.

Western oils changes were almost all 25 cents or less. Small gains among lower-priced mines went to Cassiar, Campbell Chibougamau, Consolidated Denison, Coulee. Pardee Amalgamated, a uranium which began trading a week ago, climbed 20 cents to $1.50.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Cattle prices were steady at 50 cents a hundredweight higher this week at the Ontario public stockyards.

Calves were steady, hogs $1 lower and sows unchanged. Sheep and lambs were steady.

The run of 7,035 head of cattle was 300 head short of last week and some 1,400 head less than the same week last year. Included in the fresh run were 225 head of western cattle, which is comparable to last week. Shipments to eastern Canada were sharply higher at eight cars and there were no exports to the United States.

Prices: Choice steers, all weights $21,21.25; good steers $19-21; mediums $16-19; commons $12-16; good heifers generally $17-17.50 with odd sales to $18; mediums were $14-16; commons $12-14; boner steers and heifers $10-12. Choice fed yearlings $21-21.50 with a few extreme sales to $22; good fed yearlings $20-21; mediums $16-19; good cows $12-12.50; tops of $13; light heifery cows up to $14.50; canners and cutters as low as $8; good heavy bologna bulls $13-13.50; butcher bulls up to $14; common and medium light bulls down to $10.

Replacement cattle— Shipments back to the country were comparable to last week at about 300 head. Prices continued unchanged with good stockers selling at $17-18.50; several small lots of good heavy short-keep feeders sold at $18.50-19.50; medium stockers $14-16; commons $12-14.

Calves were 1,282 head. This total is some 200 head more than last week. Good choice vealers were $28-20; mediums $19-27; commons $12-18.

Hogs totalled 3,603 head. This is an increase over last week of 760 head. Grade A hogs were $25-25.50; B1's $24-24.50; sows $19; stags $14. There were 402 grade A and B1 hogs shipped to eastern Canada for slaughter.

Sheep and lambs were 478 head. This figure is slightly less than last week. There were no lambs from western Canada. Local feedlot sold at $21.50. However, some heavy feedlot only brought $21; one lot of southdown lambs $23; common and medium lambs generally $14-17. Good light sheep $8-10; common and heavy sheep down to $3.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was steady to firm with offerings light and demands good.

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: Eggs, graded, in fibre cases: A large 39; A medium 38; A small 34; B 32; C 26. Wholesale to retail: A large 44; A medium 43; A small 39; B 37; C 31.

Butter solids: Ont., first grade 61-61¼.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL, (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 7-32 per cent the Bank of Canada reported at noon EST, today. Thursday's noon rate was 98 19-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.75 3-8 against $2.74 13-16.

Alert Action Of Tenant Averts Disastrous Fire

TRENTON (Special) — The alert action of Mrs. Nellie Barrie, living in an apartment over Farrar's furniture store last night averted a disastrous fire that broke away from merchant Bob Cretney after he had doused it with a fire extinguisher. Mrs. Barrie, bothered by rancid smelling oil smoke decided to call Mr. Cretney, co-owner of the furniture business at his home on Byron Street.

Mr. Cretney, who found the store filled with smoke, grabbed a fire extinguisher from the wall just inside the front door and headed for a store room at the back, where the trouble seemed to be. Fire belched out of the stove door when he opened it and flared up nine feet to the ceiling. He knocked the flames back with the contents from the extinguisher but called firemen when they flared up again and started burning fiercely.

A crowd of spectators commenced to gather as firemen were leaving with chemicals, that had confined the damage.

Residents in apartments over the store were compelled to air smoke from their quarters.

CHANGE IN BOUTS

There will be a slight change in the program for the Community Centre boxing show being held at the Trenton Air Station Monday night. Welterweight Roy Goodwin will not be fighting, due to an injured hand received in training at No. 6 Repair Depot on Wednesday night. He was slated to joust with Gnr. Coughlin, Canadian Army, Picton. Matchmaker Hub Smith rearranged his card so now Grant McPhee, RCAF, meets Coughlin and Lorne Cutting, RCAF, meets Gnr. Dunkley, Canadian Army, Picton.

HOLD 3-GOAL LEAD

Charlie Drake and his Gould's Midgets undergo the acid test at Gananoque tonight in the sudden death game for Eastern Ontario OHML honors. The Jewelrymen from here carry a three-goal advantage earned in their first meeting with the Gans here Wednesday night when they racked up a 7-4 victory.

Station Plane Taking Part In Rescue Work

TRENTON — (Special) — One of the planes taking part in the search for a missing Otter aircraft with seven people on board left the Trenton Air Station at 9.23 p. m. Wednesday night en route to Churchill and Ennadai Lake area in northern Manitoba.

Yesterday an RCAF search plane spotted the lost aircraft and five of the passengers. It is not known whether the Trenton Dakota crew flashed back the first good news to a concerned Canadian public.

The temperature in the region where the missing plane and five of the seven passengers were sighted stood at 49 below zero. Hope is held for the survival of all the passengers since the aircraft was equipped to withstand severest Arctic weather for weeks. An RCAF plane dropped a large tent and extra heating facilities to them by parachute. The rescue was delayed because of Arctic fog blanketing parts of the ground where a ski-equipped plane could land.

Crew of the Trenton rescue plane comprises: F/O G. Thomas, (captain), F/O Poppenk, F/O W. H. Eddles, F/O L. M. Latter, F/O W. A. Thurston, Cpl. G. R. Couch and LAC, K. M. McLearty.

Commons Approves Bill To Tighten Water Controls

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has approved, despite vigorous Social Credit opposition, the government's bill strengthening federal control over use of international river waters.

A debate that had continued intermittently for two weeks ended Thursday night with a vote of 178 to 16 to give second reading—approval in principle—to the measure. It was sent to the external affairs committee for detailed study.

Social Credit members claim the bill is an invasion of the right of British Columbia's Social Credit government to carry out an agreement with the Kaiser aluminum interests of the United States for development of Columbia river power.

The bill would require anyone—including provincial governments—to get a federal licence for any works in Canada affecting the flow of a river running into the U.S.

It is aimed particularly at the B.C.-Kaiser agreement for a low-level dam at the outlet of the Arrow lakes on the Columbia river system. The dam would increase power output downstream at Bonneville, Wash.

The federal government said B.C.'s prospective return to 20 per cent of additional power generated at Bonneville is insufficient.

With the bill endorsed, the house approved introduction of two measures to increase sessional indemnities of elected members of the Yukon and Northwest Territories councils.

During debate on a preliminary resolution, H. A. Bryson (CCF—Humboldt-Melfort) proposed provincial status soon for the two territories. J. A. Simmons (L—Yukon) said they will develop sufficiently in 10 years to attain this.

Northern Affairs Minister Lesage said the government has in mind provincial status for the northland, but it is not yet time for that move.

Two Men Hurt As Autos Skid And Hit Poles

TRENTON—(Special)—Alfred Reid, 22, Smithfield needed hospital treatment today, when he suffered injuries when a car driven by John G. Shonker, 45, of Smithfield crashed into a hydro pole across the street from Steenburg's apartment on Dundas St. west.

The car cut off the pole and was damaged to the extent of $800. According to police the car skidded on some ice and went out of control.

Earlier this morning Roy Chesher, 29, Division street, needed five stitches to close a cut in his lip after his vehicle had skidded on ice on Marmora street and crashed into a pole cutting it off at the butt. He damaged the car to the extent of $200.

A car driven by Mrs. Dorothy Potter, North Murray street, fell into a three-foot deep hole on the south side of Quinte street near the Legion Hall and had to be towed out. The town workmen have barricaded the hole and placed warning lights.

Safe-Crackers Make Small Haul At Oil Office

For the third time in the past two years, safe-crackers Thursday night forced their way into Trinidad Leaseholds warehouse office on South Front Street, sledged open the safe, and escaped with cash, non-negotiable cheques and credit card vouchers.

Poice said the amount of cash taken had not definitely been determined but was believed to be but a small amount. The Trinidad Leaseholds safe was last smashed about eight months ago.

The oil company property is surrounded by a high mesh wire fence and gates are kept locked at night. Police, therefore, are unable to check buildings during their regular patrols. It is believed that the safe-crackers climbed over the fence at the rear of the property and then forced their way into the buildings.

Ontario Hydro Members Hold Snooker Tourney

Members of the Ontario Hydro staffs in this district have planned an exciting winter's program and last night at the National Billiards, a snooker tournament was staged with 24 members taking part. This is the second of such affairs held this winter and the boys certainly had a grand time with good-natured banter floating around, especially if a shot was missed by an exceptionally good player.

Six tables were in play with four players at each table. Four games were played with the players alternating at different tables for each game. A maximum of 25 points was set for each player which gave the poorer players a chance to share in the prizes.

The high scorer was Elgin Moynes with 94, closely followed by Don Burr with 92 and Tom Lynch with 90, after he had a playoff for the third spot. The low man was Robert Bleecker but Bob says things will be different after he gets a little practice.

James Annis and George Paulos, co-owners of the National Billiards, made ideal hosts. The tables were in excellent condition and everyone had an enjoyable time.

CHANGED ATTITUDE TO IMMIGRATION

The last few years have produced a decided change in the attitude of Canadians towards immigration.

Large scale immigration into Canada followed a pattern of boom and bust from 1900 to 1945. In the early years of the 1900's immigrants poured into Canada in increasing numbers until the peak year of 1913 when 400,870 persons were admitted. Figures on immigration from 1900 to 1913 are revealing. They show an increase from 41,681 in 1900 and 55,747 in 1901, to 89,102 in 1902, 138,660 in 1903, 131,252 in 1904, constantly increasing numbers to 211,653, in 1906 and 272,409 in 1907, to 331,288 in 1911, 375,756 in 1912 and 400,870 in 1913.

No significant immigration took place during World War I.

During the 1920's immigration was intermittent. In 1920, 138,824 immigrants were admitted to Canada. From 1926 to 1929 inclusive the number each year was in excess of 135,000. From 1931 through 1939 the number per year was never more than 28,000. There was no significant immigration during World War II, but in 1946 the federal government embarked on a policy of controlled immigration that has brought more than 1,000,000 persons to Canada in the past nine years.

Launching of the federal government's immigration policy was given a mixed reception by Canadians. Strong opinion was expressed that such a policy was suicidal at a time when the country was trying to convert from a wartime economy and that the influx of such numbers would result in widespread unemployment, distress in housing, and imbalance in the ratio between the country's various ethnic groups.

Increasing criticism of the inadequacy of the government's present immigration policy points up, dramatically, the change in the public's attitude towards immigration.

The influx of 1,000,000 persons into Canada in the last nine years, augmented by a rising birthrate, has accelerated Canada's population growth and contributed to the continuance of a record level of national prosperity. The mutual benefits of immigration to the immigrant and to the native Canadian include not only greater personal prosperity, but increasing national wealth as well.

Immigrants have proven, too, that they are contributing in many ways to the advance of Canada and Canadian life and are not simply parasites on a sound economy as some of their earlier detractors would like to have had us believe.

Canada owes something of its increasing awareness of international issues, its stature in world society and commerce, and its internal growth which made its increasing participation in international events possible, to immigration. It is to be hoped that our new citizens will continue to serve their adopted country as well in the future.

PRESCRIPTION FOR SUCCESS

A recent news release from England reported that an English motorist had been acquitted of drunkenness because his hand writing was clearer than that of the doctor who issued a certificate that he was intoxicated.

Samples of doctors' handwriting have never been used in elementary schools as models of clarity and precision. Their peculiar brand of shorthand, liberally sprinkled with Latin short forms, usually written at top speed while one patient is being shown out and another shown in, tends to lend itself to an illegibility that druggists alone seem able to decipher.

Acquitting a motorist for drunkenness because his writing was more legible than that of the physician who testified to his intoxication proves only that the doctor's penmanship is comparable to that of fellow doctors everywhere.

There is a story, whose truth we will not attest to, that a man of our acquaintance used his doctor's prescription for a cold remedy as a railway pass on the CNR for two years and was found out only when his daughter took second place in a Kiwanis music festival by playing it as an encore.

BEER PARTY IN THE ANTARCTIC

We have commented before on the voyage of the U.S.S. Atka, a U.S. icebreaker whose Antarctic wanderings have been noticeably ignored by the big press services but faithfully reported in considerable detail to the New York Times by Walter Sullivan, correspondent aboard the vessel.

Sullivan's latest despatch describes the manner in which the crew of the Atka "spliced the main brace" on an unnamed peninsula of floating ice.

Splicing the main brace is an old navy custom reserved for special occasions and involves the issue of an extra ration of grog. Grog has long been forbidden in the U.S. Navy. But during the war U.S. ships got into the habit of carrying beer, to be issued to crews ashore in remote places. There probably has never been a more remote spot than that where the crew of the Atka sipped or crunched beer—it was so cold the beer froze. Probably rigor mortis setting in. The voyage to the Antarctic is terribly long for anything as weak as U.S. beer.

WELCOME

I say it's good to be alive
When those you love the most arrive.
This is the sweetest sound I know,
To hear the children shout: "Hello!"

It fills the measure with content
To get that hug that's truly meant,
And I enjoy the time I use
In taking off their overshoes.

It makes me proud to have them be Happy to share a meal with me,
And when they shatter plate or cup
The pieces gladly I pick up.

Their mother, by their noise disturbed,
Insists that children should be curbed.
And with that notion I agree,
Except when visiting with me.

February 25th., 1935.

Mr. and Mrs. S.S. McComb of Bonarlaw celebrated the 40th. anniversary of their wedding on Wednesday. A large number of their relatives and friends gathered at their home and presented them with a handsome table lamp. The Rev. Canon W.G. Swayne, rector of the Anglican Church at Bonarlaw, made the presentation. An enjoyable social evening was passed.

Mr. G.R. Davis, superintendent of the meter department of the Belleville Hydro Electric Commission, gave a very interesting talk on the fundamental of electricity at the meeting of the Y's Men's Club last evening. Mr. Davies was introduced by Harry Poste and the thanks of the club were expressed to Mr. Davies for his very informative talk by Ed. Buchanan. The chair was occupied by Newton Wilbur.

Miss Mary Adams was home from Lindsay to spend the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Campbell are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G.M. Campbell, Deseronto.

The members of the Hastings County Club in Toronto met at a banquet at the Carls-Rite Hotel in that city. The president of the club, Mr. Cleworth Foster, presided and Mr. George Eckert led in the singing of many old time favorite songs. Among the guests present were Mr. J.F. Hill, M.P.P., Mr. W.H. Ireland, M.P.P., Mr. Lindsay Meiklejohn, Mr. Tom Solmes and Mr. Geo. A. Kingston. The following officers were elected: president, Clifford Hatton; vice president, Edward Gladney; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Phoebe Kerr-Sargent; executive committee, Arthur Abbott for Belleville; W. Nugent for Trenton; James Parker for Stirling; Mrs. C. McWilliams for Marmora; George Eckert for Madoc; Sandy Grant for Tweed; Hugh Carnahan for Deseronto; Cleworth Foster for Moira. The club membership now numbers two hundred and much of the success of the organization is due to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hatton, who have given freely of their time and the use of their home towards the extension of the club. A vote of thanks was tendered to Miss Temple L. Hawkins, the retiring secretary-treasurer, for her excellent work during the past year.

Bargains Are Banned

(Utica Observer-Dispatch)

The United States government announces it will add the 15,000 uncut diamonds seized at Rouses Point to its stockpile. The diamonds for the present, safely locked up in Utica, are estimated to be worth about $127,000.

The government, you should understand, has a different set of economic principles than you have. You would be happy to acquire 15,000 diamonds at a bargain price. But the government has laws against adding to the wealth of the land at bargain prices. That is why it seized the diamonds at the Canadian border. The attempt was to bring them in without paying the tariff tax.

Countries go to great lengths and expense to ship out their wealth. This is done to afford profits, wages and relief to those who produce the wealth.

The United States is the champion of the world when it comes to selling its wealth beyond its borders cheaply. In recent years it has given away billions of dollars worth of farm and manufactured products. Just now it has 7 billion dollars worth of farm products on hand that it can't even give away. Foreign lands say it would hurt them to receive the food. That is because government does not operate on the same economic laws that individuals do. Individuals are happy to receive valuable things as a gift. Not so a government.

Last week Brazil told its coffee growers it would give them a larger bonus in cash for all the coffee they sold overseas, mostly to U.S. Brazil has been up to such things for many years, even to burning coffee in the hope of selling the remainder at a higher price. Leading Americans used to laugh at such nonsense. Now the U.S. is entangled in the same sort of government management of the economy. But it has long been against letting its citizens buy bargains across the border.

When Secrecy Best Policy

(Windsor Daily Star)

A Grand Rapids high school student who won a cherry-pie contest has refused to divulge her recipe. She is very wise, or has a very wise mother who advised her. Part of the glamor of this victory is the aura of mystery she has wrapped around it.

To reveal the recipe could spoil everything. Chances are someone would recognize it as a standard cook book formula. The hint of secret processes, presumably a closely guarded family tradition, would fade into something dull and commonplace.

This has been proved in another field by the Indian who admitted he got his weather data in the newspapers—and hasn't enjoyed his old scientific status since.

Paper Work Costs Fortune

(Chicago Tribune)

Former president Hoover, now acting as chairman of a commission to investigate reform and reduction of government function, has recommended birth control of federal documents.

He says it costs the government $4,000,000,000 a year to prepare, send out, and file 25,000,000,000 forms, questionnaires, letters and other documents.

During the first Hoover commission survey several years ago, some astounding facts were brought to light concerning the federal paper chase.

It was found at that time that 18,000,000 square feet of floor space was being utilized for the maintenance of federal records. This was the equivalent of six buildings the size of the Pentagon, Washington military headquarters, which is the largest building in the world. The rental value of this space was then $20,000,000 annually, and the filing equipment to handle the papers was worth $154,000,000.

The mania for paper work produced some fantastic results. On over half of the 3,000,000 purchase orders issued by civilian agencies, the cost of paper work exceeded the cost of the items purchased.

As an example, it cost $10 to process the order and pay for a 50-cent typewriter ribbon.

The rules, regulations and instructions of the veterans' administration at that time encompassed the use of 88 different manuals, 33 pamphlets, 665 technical bulletins and more than 400 circulars. The procedures manual of this bureau ran to 1,101 pages and the instructions covering veterans' rehabilitation and education covered 994 pages.

This is not government. It is a nightmare.

Cold Morning Journey

(New York Times)

The man awakened reluctantly. His exposed nose seemed almost not a part of himself. Without disturbing the warm bubble of air beneath the blankets, he turned to the window. The panes were covered with two-dimensional jewels translucently sparkling sunlight. Out of bed, he rushed to the shower, but for warmth, not cleanliness. Then, hanging a moment too long over his coffee, he found it had lost its ability to console.

On his way to the subway the snow squeaked in muted torment under his rubbers. Parked cars stood stoically along the curbs. The man wondered how many would start if pressed, and how many cough helplessly and whine into silence. He was touched by the sight of one hood solicitously covered by a soiled quilt, but doubted there was any heat inside for the quilt to hold.

In the train his eyes kept jumping from his paper to the young man opposite you nonchalantly wore his scarf over his head and ears like some bright bandage. Then, as white as in an open field, the breath coming from people in the shuttle tunnel. Up on Broadway the man asked a name for the gray stuff being churned and turned in the gutter. It was too dry for slush, too dense and dirty for snow. Smush, perhaps? But what could he call the stalactite-like masses accumulating in drops and granules under the rear fenders of creeping cabs. He would think of something once he got inside the warm office building, after the genial good mornings and ear rubbings, after the strange journey was done.

Caribou Increasing

(St. Catharines Standard)

The woodland caribou, regarded as a vanishing species some years ago, is increasing in numbers in Ontario. There are now more than 7,000, according to Hon. Clare E. Mapledoram, Minister of Lands and Forests for Ontario.

The woodland caribou found in Ontario is distinct from the barren ground caribou found on the tundra from Labrador to Alaska. Few people in southern Ontario have seen one. It's a large, rather awkward-looking mammal with a thick hair muzzle, a maned neck, broad flat hooves that are concave beneath and rather long, and loose hair. Both sexes have slightly flattened antlers. Their color is brown in summer, greyish-brown in winter.

The Department of Lands and Forests, which has studied the woodland caribou over a number of years, reports the increase partly due to the care and protection given by trappers and their assistance in research projects.

Most of the caribou are in Northern Ontario. They have been reported near White River and Onaman Lake just east of Lake Nipigon, in the McKay Lake area and on the Slate Islands off the north shore of Lake Superior not far from Schreiber. Hunting of the animals has been prohibited for years, another excellent reason for their increase in numbers.

TV Proves Quite Costly

(The Printed World))

Henry, an enthusiastic sportsman of the spectator variety, decided last fall that he would watch the Grey Cup game in comfort. So he bought a televison set, costing $300 with aerial, and installed it in his basement recreation-room. Clara, his wife, had decreed that the set go there, because the children would naturally be the most constant televiewers.

So far, so good; but as the weeks went by, Henry and Clara found they were spending more and more of their evening hours in the basement and fewer and fewer in the living room. The recreation-room had been good enough for the children, but was too dingy for the lord and lady of the manor or their guests. Clara's new decree called for panelling, painting and new lighting.

The contractor mede a pleasant room of it and pocketed $500. Clara was a little frightened at the rate they were now spending money, and her next idea was on the economical side. The recreation-room obviously had to have new furniture to match the new decorations, but their living-room furniture was almost new, and as they were spending most of their time downstairs, why not take the furniture downstairs too? Down it went, at no cost except to Henry's temper.

However, Clara is a native of Ottawa and has flexible ideas of economy. Henry got a Christmas bonus, sufficient to make a good down-payment on $1,200 worth of new living-room furniture. Henry's personal share of the bonus is a new tie.

The situation is static for the moment; but Henry has moments of clairvoyance when he foresees that the new furniture in the living room will call for redecoration there, and after that the rest of the ground floor will look shabby in comparison, and then...

Sometimes Henry wishes he had paid speculator's prices for Grey Cup tickets last fall.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A sporting friend of mine who has never won many bets in his life has, for a hobby, kept track of the big winners of sweepstakes tickets. And he assures me that in the great majority of cases, those who won the big money have not wasted it or used it foolishly, but employed it shrewdly for the permanent improvement of their lot in life. Like most people, I am prepared to doubt statements like that. Easy come, easy go is a pretty sound motto.

But my friend said he would take me to see the nearest couple he knew of on his list. They operated a small shop on one of the main uptown business streets of the city. We drove out at once to see them.

It was a busy little hive of a fancy goods store that dealt in greeting cards, china, picture frames, a limited range of stationery. As the proprietor said, "we have just about exactly what you would expect to find inside, from looking in the window."

When they won their forty thousand dollar sweepstakes money, he was a clerk in a department store, and he and his wife were well settled down into a life of humdrum unexpectancy. He had no particular ambition, neither of them had the slightest idea of money; they were always in debt. They were inpulse buyers, always plunging, on a very modest salary, into expenditures away beyond their budget. Every month, they worried themselves sick for the rent. It was their total inability to handle their small income that reconciled them to a life of little promise. They were content to muddle along.

When they won their forty thousand, they were transformed, instantly, magically, overnight, into shrewd, wise managers of money. They couldn't manage $55 a week. But they managed $40,000 like Rothschilds.

They hoarded it. They found a bank manager to advise and coach them. They bought a business. They studied it with acute attention. It was made money every year for ten years and more. I gather their investment had more than doubled in ten years. They are hugely happy, And they work like fun.

MODERATE EXERCISE GOOD FOR THE HEART

From a study of 500 cases of heart disease in workmen, Dr. Cadis Phipps of Massachusetts Industrial Accident Board concluded that the workman with heart disease who continues working has a better life expectancy and later advent of incapacity than the workman with heart disease who quits his job and just vegetates in the delusion that physical activity, exercise, work is "dangerous" or "bad" for a "weak" heart.

Dr. Brady

Even doctors with 19th century training seem to harbor the notion that physical activity must be restricted or avoided altogether if the individual has any kind of heart disease. And some old timers have never learned that graduated exercise is essential in the successful treatment of most cases of heart disease, be it valvular ("leakage")) incompetency, angina pectoris, coronary thrombosis or whatnot.

This and other instances of tremendous physical effort and endurance by persons with valvular heart defects, angina pectoris or coronary occlusion (cited here from time to time) do not indicate that vigorous exercise or athletic competition or heavy manual labor is the best treatment for heart disease. But they do indicate that there's something wrong with the advice so often given by nineteen century physicians still in active practice, namely, that the individual with any kind of heart disease spend the rest of his life loafing, sponging on sympathetic relatives, walking on eggs and playing the invalid to evade all duties and responsibilities.

I have stated many times that graduated exercise is at least as essential as rest and/or medication in the successful treatment of any kind of heart trouble. This is not just my notion; it is the consensus of recognized medical authorities — as no one will venture to deny. But the truth doesn't cramp the style of the doctors who conspire with heart disease patients or embarrass the iatrogenic invalids who accept the incompetence imposed upon them.

What the heck is an iatrogenic invalid? You know us doctors — how we love to use words that you dumb laymen do not understand. You know me, too—how I love to use words that even N. Webster obstinately excludes from the lexicon, such as VITE and CRI. But iatrogenic is not my invention — to the best of my knowledge the word was first used five years ago in medical literature, and it means caused by the doctor. A doctor the cause of heart disease? SALT AND LIGHT

Jesus said that Christians are the salt of the earth and the light of the world.

Salt has two functions—it prevents decay and it brings out the latent flavor of food. Christians likewise have two functions. They prevent the decay of society and they bring out the latent flavor of life wherever they touch it. Take the Christians and their influence out of a community and it would go rotten fast. Put one genuine Christian in a family, an office, a classroom, or on an athletic team, and everyone will be conscious that something has happened to make life richer and better.

True Christians are the light of the world. Christian parents give a home its only essential illumination. Christian statesmen keep nations from going over the precipice. The Church is a beacon set upon a hill, and the light thereof cannot be hidden.

Try as we will with all our remedies, the only answer to life's dislocations and sufferings are the ones proposed by Jesus Christ. Confront life with these principles and its problems admit of solution —but only when so confronted.

"Ye are the salt of the earth . . . Ye are the light of the world." That's really something to live up to.

VOICES

There isn't an instrument in all this world that can adequately compete with the human voice. And what a variety of voices there are! It's the soft, kindly, and gentle voice that is the most effective and the one longest remembered. The very thought of an unpleasant, angry voice sends a chill into the soul!

I had a roommate in college who taught me a great deal. I never heard him speak in a high or loud voice. He talked distinctly and in a low voice but there was nothing weak about what he said. It had a certain quality. The mere sound of his voice gave comfort at times and conviction at others.

One of the greatest speaking voices, that is, in public, was that of William Jennings Bryan. It wasn't what he said but how he said it that gave him his first nomination for President of the United States. It was the voice of a crusader. With Winston Churchill, one of the great voices of all time, it is both what he says and how he says it. People always listen to that voice.

The voice of Edwin Booth, the actor, must have been a wonderful one. In a small gathering he was once asked to repeat The Lord's Prayer and one of those present said that he had never heard it uttered as Booth did. President Woodrow Wilson had a wonderful public speaking voice. You felt the faith of the man and his convictions. The voice of General MacArthur is that of a rare-toned bell, and that of the late George Grey Barnard, the sculptor, like the deep notes of an organ.

Just the little word "please" can be so uttered that it becomes eloquent! Just listen to it from the voice of a small boy some day—he of the many wants! I am told that the great telephone companies take great care in selecting operators with clear, pleasant voices. The words to live by come from voices that have learned the way to the human heart!

Big Profit Made In Sale of Land PC Members Says

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Progressive Conservative member of the Alberta legislature is demanding a judicial inquiry into government purchases of land for a new jail.

Paul Brecken (PC—Calgary said land in the Chestermere lake region was put under 30-day option by an individual last June for $92 an acre. It was then sold to the government at $144 an acre. He said the profit was estimated at more than $50,000.

Mr. Brecken said a certain member of the Social Credit cabinet and the option-holder kept race horses in the same stable. It was possible, he said, that the middle man got some information straight from the "horse's mouth."

In New Brunswick, W. J. Gallant (L—Northumberland) broke up a two-week calm when he said the liquor control board was a "refuge for defeated Tory candidates."

HELP DEPENDANTS

A bill to raise allowances for dependants of workmen killed in accidents received second reading in the Saskatchewan legislature.

The increases would bring the province's allowances in line with those paid by British Columbia and Ontario, Labor Minister C. C. Williams told the House.

A suggestion that schools should make a greater effort to instill a love of country in their students was made by E. P. Foley, minister without portfolio in the Prince Edward Island legislature.

"We in Canada have not the love of our country we should have and we have the best country of the world," he said.

Immigration to Canada Fell Off Nine Per Cent in 1954

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration to Canada fell off nine per cent in 1954 compared with the previous year, apparently because of stiffer restrictions during periods of slack employment in this country.

The immigration department, in a series of statistical tables issued Thursday night, said 154,227 immigrants entered Canada last year compared with 168,868 in 1953.

Most of them were in the 20-40-year age group, most were in the gainfully-employed category and by far the largest proportion headed for Ontario. The largest group came from the northern European countries like The Netherlands and Germany with Britain supplying the second-largest segment.

The 1954 flow was up sharply in the first five months of the year compared with the corresponding months of 1953. January arrivals, for instance, were 44 per cent higher. But from June on the 1954 monthly totals were down until a 40 per cent decrease was registered in October.

FLOW RESTRICTED

This apparently reflected government policy of recent years which has tended to restrict the flow in the fall and winter months of decreased employment in Canada.

Britain supplied 44,593 of the immigrants last year compared with 47,077 in 1953 and northern Europe 58,562 against 68,675. Total newcomers from other countries excluding the United States was 40,962 last year compared with 43,737. Arrivals from the U.S. totalled 10,110 compared with 9,379 in 1953.

Ontario was the intended destination of 83,029 of the arrivals. Another 28,419 said they were going to Quebec; 13,294 to Alberta; 12,197 to British Columbia; 9,219 to Manitoba; 4,125 to Saskatchewan; 2,207 to Nova Scotia; 1,001 to New Brunswick; 524 to Newfoundland; 107 to Prince Edward Island and 95 to the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

12-Day Easter Recess

OTTAWA (CP) The government plans to have Parliament take a 12-day Easter holiday.

Prime Minister St. Laurent gave notice to the Commons Thursday he will move that the House recess from its adjournment Wednesday, April 6, to the afternoon of Monday, April 18. Easter Sunday is April 10.

Unions Sign Pact

MONTREAL (CP)—Unions representing non-operating employees of the Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Ontario Northland, Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo railways Thursday signed agreements embodying the recommendations of the arbitrator in their recent contract dispute.

The agreements are effective until Jan. 1, 1956.

The CNR and CPR also signed agreements with the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, providing minor rule changes and three weeks vacation after 15 years service.

V.O.N. Holds Board Meeting

First regular board meeting for 1955 of Belleville Victorian Order of Nurses was held at the home of Mr. Clarke James, MacDonald Avenue on Monday evening. Mrs. M. E. Bulger, president, presided, and extended a welcome to the new members on the board.

Reports were given by the treasurer and conveners of standing committees.

This is V.O.N. Week in Canada. V.O.N. Week is not being held to raise funds for the order. It is designed to inform all Canadians about the order's extensive home nursing services. All V.O.N. nurses are graduate registered nurses. The Victorian Order of Nurses makes a specialty of providing nursing services in the home. Its nurses are fully qualified to instruct mothers on the proper care of a baby, and will make daily visits if necessary.

The V.O.N. nurse will also look after patients requiring general nursing or special treatments and persons suffering from long term illnesses or infirmities of old age.

Mrs. E. D. Finkle, convener of Publicity committee, reported on the local program for V.O.N. Week.

The nurse reported that 94 patients received care in January; of these 43 were admitted to the service during the month.

The nurses made a total of 439 visits; of these 354 were nursing cares and 85 were for health instruction to mothers with babies.

Four half days were spent assisting the local Department of Health at the Child Health Conferences and two half days at Cannifton school.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Clarke James served refreshments.

C.C.F. Holds Euchre Party

A well attended euchre party was held in the Engineers' Hall, Pine Street, on Wednesday night, under the auspices of the CCF.

Prizes went as follows: ladies' 1st, Mrs. A. Williams; 2nd Mrs. L. Sweet; men's 1st, B. McKay; 2nd, P. Schilroth; ladies' consolation, Mrs. L. Quirt; men's consolation, H. Salisbury. Lone hand prize went to B. McKay.

MADOC W.I.

Mrs. Albert Empey was hostess to Madoc W.I. members on Friday afternoon for its February meeting. The president, Mrs. Herrington, opened the meeting with a friendly greeting to all. A short time was spent in singing.

It was suggested that each member give a suggestion for the new year program.

Communications arising from the business period were dealt with and a letter from the Provincial President Mrs. McPhatter, was read in which she explained fully how the year's project had been handled. A total of $7,086 had been used for the widows of Korea, providing many of them with looms and sewing machines. She also announced the 1955 project, called the "Unesco project", which will be in Ceylon, and will include four villages with a set-up for home-making and home care. A donation was made by the Madoc Institute toward the project.

Mrs. Ken Nicol, district representative on resolutions, reminded the members to have on hand some resolutions to be passed on at the district annual. Several suggestions were suggested to taken up at a later date.

The program was in charge of Mrs. J. Aylesworth, who was assisted by Mrs. Beatty, giving a reading on "Myths, Legends and Folk Stories", that go to show the history, habits, religion of the ancient people. This was informative and interesting.

Mrs. Allan Pigden gave a talk on the motto, "Begin well and end better" and concluded with a quiz on Current Events.

A vocal duet was given by Mrs. Hulin and Mrs. Nicol. A new Canadian Ensign has been purchased by the W.I. to be used in the Thompson Memorial Park and was on display at the meeting.

Appreciation to the hostess and all who assisted was tendered from the members and a pleasant social half hour followed.

Good Companions Hold Successful Meeting

The Good Companions club of Tabernacle United church met Tuesday evening in the church school room. The meeting opened with an inspiring worship service led by Earl Stansfield. Those assisting were Ethel Horton and Margaret Stansfield, with soloists, Ruth Nightingale and Harold McNish.

After a brief business period the members adjourned to the playroom for games, of Coronation, Confiscation and Chivalry, which met with great hilarity.

Winners for the evening were, Isabel Goodfellow and Bill Smith.

Refreshments provided by Earl Stansfield's group, brought to a close another successful evening.

Canada's Wrens Are Going Into Regular Navy

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's Wrens are going into the regular navy—the first time in Commonwealth history that women have been made part of any regular naval force.

Defence Minister Campney, making the announcement today, said the ceiling for the new component of the RCN will be 35 officers and 365 Wrens.

The present Wren reservist organization will remain, but its members will be given first opportunity to join the regular navy and make a career of it.

The intention, Mr. Campney said, "is to provide a nucleus of well-trained personnel who will be capable of training the influx of women to the Wrens that would be necessary in the event of total mobilization."

SIGN FOR FIVE YEARS

A naval spokesman said the Wrens' change to regular status won't mean much difference in living or working conditions. But they will have to sign up for an initial five-year tour of duty. Regular status will make them eligible for naval pensions.

"It means," he said, "that the Wrens are here to stay."

The 35 Wren officers and 181 Wrens now serving full-time with Canada's navy on a reserve status live on the naval establishments to which they are attached, as will the regulars. Canada also has 45 officers and 500 Wrens on reserve strength in 22 naval divisions across the country.

The new regular-force structure is being co-ordinated by Cmdr. Isabel Janet Macneil, O B E; of Galt, Ont., and Halifax. She is staff officer (Wrens) to the chief of naval personnel at naval headquarters here.

Macneill commanded HMCS Conestoga, the wartime Wrens training establishment at Galt.

QUEEN ATTENDS BALLET

LONDON (AP)—The Queen rode through a driving sleet storm Thursday night to the Royal Opera House in Convent garden to watch an ambassador's wife dance. The ballerina, Margot Fonteyn, preformed the title role in "The Firebird." It was her first appearance since her marriage three weeks ago to Dr. Robert Arias, the new Panamanian ambassador in London.

Housewives Easily Swindled In Own Home Says BBB Head

MONTREAL (CP)—Housewives are more easily swindled in their own home than anywhere else, says Claude Root, manager of the Better Business Bureau here.

"When the kids start crying and the dinner starts boiling over, a woman will sign anything to get an unscrupulous door-to-door salesman out of the house," he says. "Once she signs, she has lost a woman's right to change her mind."

He concedes that women are intelligent shoppers. "They measure economy and performance when they're in the stores. But when they're at home trying to keep the kids away from the hot stove they're tripped up by fast-talking phonies."

The swindle most easily worked on housewives is "bait advertising," says Mr. Root.

"A woman will answer an ad for a cheap vacuum cleaner, for example. The salesman who calls at her door probably says that her rugs, even though they might be shoddy, are too good for such a product. Then he'll produce an expensive model."

The advent of television has opened a new series of twists, he warns.

Salesmen ask the housewife to sign a delivery slip for a free 10-day trial of a television set.

"Once she signs, she's sunk," says Mr. Root. "The so-called delivery slip used by fraudulent salesmen is a contract to buy the set."

"New products make for new versions of old phoney deals," says Mr. Root. "There have actually been no new swindles since the serpent persuaded Eve to munch the apple."

Another common fraud women fall for is the home-work scheme. A salesman will offer a knitting apparatus, for example, promising to supply the wool free and to buy the finished goods."

"After the housewife buys the machine, the salesman seldom come through with the wool. Even if he does, he never buys the knitted products."

Mr. Root's warning to housewives: "Don't sign anything without reading it very carefully.

"When a disguised contract is handed to a woman, she usually smiles and asks 'This won't cost me anything, will it?' "

"All she has to do is read it to find out that she may be paying heavily," says Mr. Root.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. and Ladies' Aid, Ivanhoe, was held at the home of Mrs. William Donnan on Thursday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Harry Benson, presided and the meeting opened by singing "Simply Trusting" followed by prayer led by the Rev. W. H. V. Walker. The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Walker.

An interesting paper on the second commandment, "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain."

A short business session followed the roll call. The cleaning of the church was discussed, and it was decided to hold the monthly meetings at 2 p.m. o'clock instead of 2.30. Plans were made for the World Day of Prayer service to be held in St. Andrew's on Friday.

A chapter in the study book "Shadows are Frontiers". The new study book was introduced by the president. A reading "Kept For the Master's Use" was given by Mrs. John McInroy.

Readings: "The Light of Dedication"; "Give Ye Them To Eat"; "Your Missionary Dollars at Work"; "How Children are Helped by Missions", were given by Mrs. William Donnan, Mrs. Harry Thompson, Mrs. John Wright and Mrs. Don Haggerty.

A Bible quiz was conducted by Mrs. J. C. Sills.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostesses.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

The February meeting of the Foxboro United church W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. W. Scott, with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. C. Wilson, presided, and opened the meeting with a reading after which she conducted the business part.

Mrs. C. Arthurs gave the treasurer's report; Mrs. E. Tummon replied to the supply work; Mrs. Daniels gave the Associate Helpers' report.

Twenty-five calls were recorded. Arrangements were made for the Mission Board's dinner in connection with the W.M.S., to be held in the Sunday school rooms in March. The proceeds will go to the Mission Band.

Mrs. R. F. Darke reported on the meetings and the work of the Mission Band as Mission Band superintendent. It was decided that an allocation would be placed on the Mission Band for the year of $40 which would give them an objective for which to work.

Mrs. Kilpatrick, temperance secretary, gave an interesting paper entitled "What the Bible Says About Drink."

The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Stewart conducting the program part. After the reading of a poem by Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Darke gave the Scripture lesson from the 1st Corinthians 1:9.

Mrs. E. Tummon gave a reading, "Cast Thy Bread Upon the Water", after which Mrs. P. Kilpatrick gave the chapter of the study book "The Church's Contributions to New India". She outlined the whole chapter which was most interesting.

Mrs. H. Shetler and Mrs. E. Sills favored with a duet "The Lord Is My Shepherd".

After Mrs. Wilson closed the meeting, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Reg Scott, served refreshments after which a half hour of social talk was enjoyed.

On behalf of the members, Mrs. Simmons moved a vote of thanks to the hostess.

Rather Have Spoon Than Big Diamond

TORONTO (CP)—Janet Jones, a 21-year-old five-foot honey blonde visitor from Wales says she'd rather have a spoon than a diamond ring any day.

Miss Jones, from Abergynolwyn, Merionethshire, Wales, is in Toronto to charm prospective overseas travellers into visiting Wales. She travels the world as official hostess for Wales.

Miss Jones' spoon must be a wooden spoon of a special type, however.

"They're known as 'love spoons,'" she said.

Back in the 18th century a swain would carve a spoon and present it to the girl he wanted to marry. The more intricate the carving the greater the swain's affection.

If the young lady accepted, they were engaged.

"It was a personal token of love," said Miss Jones. "Not like a diamond ring you can buy in a shop.

"That's why I prefer a spoon."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IT'S NOT QUITE TIME TO BE "IN LOVE"

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 15, I believe I am very much in love with a boy who is a junior in high school. I went with this boy for over three years, until he moved away, and now he comes in from another city to see me almost every weekend.

Since he has been gone, I have been dating a young man who is attending the University here. He knows about this other boy, Frank, but still continues to date me, and while I enjoy being with him, my mind is always wandering to Frank. I want the relationship between myself and the college boy to be just a friendly one, but he doesn't see it that way.

Frank calls me long-distance very frequently, and just to hear his voice means more than anything to me. Could I be in love with him, or is it just puppy love? He has asked me to wait for him until we are both older, and I would like your advice on what to tell the college boy and, also, should I wait for Frank? I believe I am very much in love with him. — J.B.

Dear J.B.:

Why don't you just make up your mind that it isn't quite time yet for you to think about being "in love" with anyone? Because it really isn't, you know.

If you want to consider Frank your best boy friend at the present time, that's perfectly all right, of course. But since Frank lives elsewhere now, I think you should tell him that when he isn't around, you want to feel free to go out on dates with other boys. That's only sensible.

If you will do this—that is, go out with other friends—it will help you find out, as time goes on, whether you want to keep on indefinitely putting Frank at the head of the list or not.

YOUR BOY FRIEND IS BEING VERY CHILDISH

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 13 years old, and there was a boy, 14, that I liked. But one night we went to a school dance and something was said to him which made him mad at me. I don't know what it was that was said, or who said it, but he told me it is my fault he is mad and I should apologize to him.

Do you think I should apologize to him for something that I don't know I even said, or do you think we should solve it another way? — A.L.

Dear A.L.:

Why don't you just say something like this to your boy friend, who, it seems to me, is acting very childishly: "Iam perfectly ready to apologize if I have really said or done something that wasn't right, but I would have to know, first, what I am supposed to have said or done. Why don't you be honest with me and tell me, so that I will have a chance to make things right if I have been wrong?"

If this boy is worth bothering about, he will answer you in equally frank fashion, and then things should be all right between you again. If he isn't willing to be frank and open, then he isn't worth taking seriously, and your best plan would be to make no more attempts to get him over his "mad." Instead, just go your way with your other friends; speak to him naturally, and in a friendly way, when you happen to meet him, but don't go out of your way to do so. You will have done all you can, and any further move to make up should come from him.

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—"Dear Dog Lady" has given away her four Dalmatians because she became allergic to dogs. Helene T. Arlington, author of animal stories under the pen name "Dear Dog Lady" has been a breeder of Dalmatians for several years. But "I can't even stand to hear a dog bark now."

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I enjoy your column very much and have received so much helpful information I was wondering if you have a recipe for Cocoanut Macaroons. The ones you cook the egg whites and sugar in double boiler on stove. . .your Christmas cake recipe was delicious.—Mrs. A. H. D.

ANSWER:

I have not tried this recipe but it comes from a source that I think is reliable.

COCOANUT MACAROONS

(Double boiler type)

In the top of the double boiler but not over any heat beat 3 egg whites until glossy but not dry, then gradually beat into them 1 cup white sugar. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons cornstarch over 3 cups shredded cocoanut and then fold them into the egg white mixture. Place over boiling water for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and add 1 teasp. vanilla. Drop by teaspoonfuls 1 inch apart on oiled cookie sheet. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Yields 30 macaroons.

QUESTION:

QUESTION:

. . .a recipe for making homemade soap. . .I would like to cook about 50 lbs. of soap grease in a large iron kettle all at one time.—Mrs. Pem. S.

ANSWER:

To both of the above letters I would like to reply by giving Ruth D.'s Homemade Soap recipe. Mrs. Pem. S. will have to multiply this by ten if she wants to make a 50-lb. batch. I am giving it in these proportions because I think it will be the size of batch most readers will find practical. Marjorie C. will probably want to increase the size of the batch too.

RUTH D.'S HOMEMADE SOAP

The fat is not clarified. On the morning of the day I plan to make soap I mix the can of lye and three cups cold water in quart pyrex measure, being careful not to splash. I place this terrible brew on a large plate in a safe place (middle of unused table) with lye can as danger sign. In summer it will take until afternoon to cool, in winter sooner. When lye solution is nearly cold melt 5 lbs. (scant) fat. I do this in two large old preserving kettles and use an old large wire strainer across one kettle lined with nainsook. I place pan and strainer on my kitchen scale and set balance at some even number so I can pour 5 lbs. hot fat through the strainer. (Any gravy from various cans stays in cans which stored it.) Everything else is caught in strainer. Stand pan aside to cool. The other pan is lined with old cotton which is held in place by several clothespins around top edge. Into the 1 cup of water which I did not put in the lye solution I put 1-2 cup washing soda and heat to dissolve, then cool. Then add 2 tablespoons sugar and 1-4 cup bleach solution. (This latter whitens and deodorize soap.) When lye solution is cold and fat getting creamy white around edges, pour the lye solution into the fat while stirring carefully. After a few minutes when soap has emulsified add the washing soda and bleach solution. If the fat and lye are quite cold the soap will begin to solidify at once. Otherwise leave it until it does, stirring occasionally. Then pour into cloth-lined pan. Let stand in warm room for two days, then cut itno bars and put in attic to dry. Use this for hand and laundry soap.

NOTE FROM EMEM:

(1) On the lye can 2 1-2 pints (50 oz. or 6 1-4 measuring cups) water are the quantities recommended for dissolving lye. (2) Oil of bergamot or lavender may be used for perfuming soap.

If Ruth D. happens to see this I would like to thank her again.

GOOD MANNERS

NEWSPAPER ANNOUNCEMENT OF BROKEN ENGAGEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter and her fiance have just broken their engagement, and I maintain that it is correct for us, her parents, to send to the newspapers a formal announcement of the broken engagement. My daughter would like to follow your suggestion. Do you advise the published announcement? If so, please tell us the correct form.
— Mother

You are right . . . the announcement of the broken engagement should be sent to the newspapers in which the announcement of the engagement was published. This is logical, practical. This is the standard form: "Mr. and Mrs. John Jay Brown of 432 Third Street, announce that the engagement between their daughter, Miss Dorothy Brown and Mr. Paul Allen, has been broken by mutual consent." (That "by mutual consent" must always be used . . . it's very important.)

A CORRECT, PRACTICAL FORM FOR TODAY'S WEDDING "AT HOME" CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are to be married here quite soon, and then we leave immediately to live in our new home in a city some distance from here. We will have a small, informal wedding; no engraved invitations. But, as we both have many relatives and friends who live in various parts of Canada and the States, we would like to send formal wedding announcements. With these announcements is it correct to enclose At Home cards carrying our new-home address? If so, what form, please, would you suggest as most practical? Particularly this question: Do we give the date after which we will be "at home"?
— F.K.

Yes . . do enclose At Home cards with your fomral marriage announcements. This is correct and also extremely convenient, particularly in your circumstances. (It's wonderful to have a new-home address!(Since they will be mailed after the ceremony has been performed, they would, of course, carry your married name.

Today there is a definite trend not to include the phrase "At home after . . . (then the date)." This is a good suggestion for your cards, because you and your bridegroom will be "at home" immediately after your marriage. Also the cards, without this phrase, can be used for your "Mr. and Mrs." cards with your address, so useful for so many occasions after the wedding. The form:

SHOULDN'T MARK LUGGAGE 'NOW' FOR 'THEN'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As a birthday present my aunt gave me two very handsome pieces of matching luggage. She told me she didn't have them marked because she wasn't sure about what initials I preferred. You see I am ot be married in the Fall, and I don't know whether to have them mark with the initials of my name now, or my married initials. What is your advice? — M.J.

You shouldn't, of course, have the luggage marked with your married initials now, unless you are putting it away until after your marriage. My suggestion is that, if you are going to use the luggage this summer, you don't have it marked now at all . . . it really isn't necessary to have it marked . . . then have it marked with your married initials in time to use it on your wedding trip. (You or your aunt should notify the place where she bought it, so that the marking arrangements will be understood and postponed.)

GIFT FOR THIRD MARRIAGE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A friend of mine is to be married soon, her third marriage. She has invited me to her wedding. Am I obligated to give her a wedding present? (I gave her a wedding present the first time and the second time.) — S.N.

No, there is really no obligation for you to give her a wedding present. Naturally, however, this does depend on circumstances. For example, if she is an intimate friend of yours and you feel a special interest in this new marriage of hers, it would be quite natural, I should think, for you to give her some thoughtful present to show your friendliness and interest.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

TAKE STOCK OF YOUR LEGS

It is the dream of every girl who seeks physical loveliness to have pretty legs—ankles as slender as those of a deer, knees without bumps or knots, calves of graceful contour. Whether skirts are short, long or of medium length, doesn't matter. In the swimming season the leg show is definitely on.

Fatted calves are problem number one. Adipose tissue shuns legs that are given sufficient exercise. Walking "Tippy-toe" is highly recommended by experts in leg and general figure remodeling.

Ten minutes of tippy-toe walking once a day—in your bare feet, of course—will not only slenderize the legs but will make the ankles trimmer, even if they are built on sturdy bonework. The muscles of the legs will tighten and the tape measure will give an encouraging report.

Ankle bending, which draws the muscles of the ankles and foot downward and then back again at a right angle, is helpful. Sit down with your legs crossed, work the upper foot up and down, then change to the other foot.

Massage is effective if it is continued long enough. Anoist your hands with a heavy cream. Clasp them around your ankle, grasping the flesh tightly and wringing it hard, as you would wring clothes. Repeat this movement all the way up the calf of the leg, until you have wrung every inch of the flesh vigorously. The back of the legs should be pinched and squeezed.

Shoes and stockings of the same color—dark nylons and brown suede shoes, for instance—will make large ankles and bulky legs less conspicuous. If there is no color contrast to catch the observer's eye, the ankle will give the impression of greater slenderness.

WELLINGTON

1955 Ice Follies Present Spectacle Of Gorgeous Colors, High Class Art

WELLINGTON — The Ice Follies of 1955, sponsored by the Wellington Board of Trade, and held in the Wellington arena on Saturday night was a spectacle of color and art.

The 45 members from the Port Hope Skating Club rendered many various and lovely acts and the highlight of the evening, Miss Wendy Tayler, gold medalist from the Granite Club in Toronto, stole the hearts of all. The performance opened with eight little Indian girls dressed in vivid orange with green head-dress, and their princess, Miss Sylvia Coppler was in turquoise trimmed with sequins.

The senior members of the club four couples, skated a fox trot, dressed in navy taffeta with sequin trim and the men in dark trousers and white sweaters.

A solo number by Miss Helen Wright, Millbrook, was beautifully done; she wore nile green and pink head-dress.

DRESDEN DOLLS

One of the loveliest numbers were eleven Dresden dolls with a dancing doll, little eight-year-old Anita Churchley, in mauve nylon net.

A chorus of 21 intermediate skaters performed a variation of dances, chic in white blouses and short pleated plaid skirts.

Any show isn't complete without a comedy act, and this show certainly didn't lack for such an act. Three "scrub women," namely Stan Churchley, Rob. Johnson and Leonard Lowmark excelled as clowns.

Miss Bonnie Dawe, in silver sequined flame and scarlet nylon, performed an intricate and difficult number.

Miss Helen Wright and Gwen Rutter in tails and top hats were clever in a duet.

Following a short intermission, a chorus with all 25 members in turquoise and pink, skated their version of "Invitation to the Waltz", with Miss Gwen Rutter in blue nylon taffeta as their soloist.

The tango was beautifully and gracefully given by four couples of the senior class. Miss Wendy Tayler in black velvet and sequins, displayed talent, poise and grace in her number and was brought back for an encore.

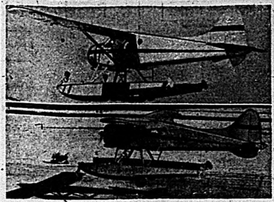
The "Mounties", in scarlet tunics, white belts and the traditional hats, were colorful in "The March Past," and their "Officers of the Day" were Donna Skitch, Andrea Shepherd and Rosalie Rice.

FINALE

The finale bringing this beautiful show to a close," comprised all the members of the cast, and Miss Tayler of Toronto. Just previous to the "Queen", presentations of beautiful bouquets of roses were made on behalf of the Board of Trade by President J. A. Gair and Mr. A. C. Platt to little Miss Anita Churchley and Miss Wendy Tayler.

Members of the Board of Trade served refreshments to all the troupe in the Town Hall before they started on their long trip home.

USEFUL IN LAKE, BUSH COUNTRY



This Canadian-built Beaver plane has attracted attention in the U.S. for its new type of amphibious floats. In flight, top, the plane shows how its landing gear can be retracted for take-off and landing on water. Above, the wheels are down for runway landing. The wheel undercarriage consists of two main wheels and two nose-wheels, allowing landing on even rough terrain. The light plane is particularly attractive, as it carries a heavier payload and range than other amphibious types. De Havilland of Canada is the builder. (Central Press Canadian).

FLEE HOSPITAL FIRE

CAMP BORDEN (CP) — More than 20 patients were helped to safety Thursday night after fire broke out in the army base hospital here. No one was injured. The blaze started in a storage room on the ground floor of the two-storey frame building, but it was quickly extinguished. Damage was estimated at $1,000. Camp Borden is 55 miles north of Toronto.

HYDRO WORKER INJURED

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — David Buchan, 34, Kingston Hydro employee, suffered severe shock and burns Thursday night when he came in contact with a 28,000-volt transformer. Buchan was working on a raised platform in a transformer sub-station when he apparently straightened up from a bent-over position and touched the transformer. He fell unconscious 10 feet to the floor. Hospital authorities described his condition serious.

Canadian Wheat Board Deficit Is $26,766,188

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian wheat board cut wheat prices in the face of heavy production and stiff world competition during the 1953-54 crop year and ended its pool operations for the year with a deficit of $226,766,188.

Its annual report tabled Wednesday in the Commons said, however, that the deficit will be wiped out when the heavy carryover of stocks is sold.

The board said the deficit at the end of the crop year July 31 last was caused by low pricing of the 378,200,000 bushels carried into the new crop year at an inventory valuation of $1.40 a bushel for the top grade of No. 1 Northern.

It added it is convinced that all the wheat can be sold at a price sufficiently higher than the inventory price so as to produce a surplus. It did not estimate what the surplus will be.

The report said that wheat exports in the 1953-54 crop year dropped to 255,000,000 bushels, a decline of 131,000,000 from the previous year.

With world supplies plentiful and markets declining, prices were cut during the year by a total of 32½ cents a bushel for No. 1 Northern. Price spreads between lower grades were widened. The price for No. 1 last July was $1.70½ at the Lakehead. It currently is a little higher.

YOUTH SENTENCED

PENETANGUISHENE (CP)— Norman Dunn, 18, Thursday was sentenced to one year on a charge of armed robbery. Dunn was arrested Feb. 16 shortly after Cecil Hayes of Barrie was robbed of $46 in a street holdup. Elmer Chapman, 33, was arrested the following day in connection with the same robbery. His trial is scheduled for March 10.

For the second time in succession Labatt's ale won the only first prize medal among Commonwealth ale and beer entries at the Brewers' and Allied Traders' International Exhibition at Olympia, London, England. It is believed unique in modern Canadian brewing history for any Company's products to have won such an honor in consecutive competitions. Here the silver medal is presented to President Hugh F. Labatt (centre) by H. Oldham, British Trade Commissioner to Canada, while Tom Morgan, Brewmaster of John Labatt Limited, looks on.

New interior trim and upholstery and exterior colors are offered in the 1955 Nash line.

Sunday School Lesson:

Must Get Message Out

By ROY L. SMITH

Dr. Louis Evans, the famous Presbyterian clergyman, tells of a friend of his who was accosted on the street in New York City by a panhandler who asked for "the price of a cheap meal."

"No," said the business man, "I never give anyone the price of a meal, but I will be glad to buy you a meal. Come in to this restaurant with me and we will have dinner together."

The man demurred, the business man insisted, and finally they were seated together and eating. Then it developed that the panhandler was actually hungry and ate ravenously.

When the meal was finished and paid for, the two of them stepped out on the street together. Then the business man pressed the matter rather closely, insisting that the begger tell him why he had asked for the price of a meal then attempted to avoid eating, and finally had eaten so eagerly.

"I will tell you the truth," the beggar said. "There are five of us who have bound ourselves together with a vow that we were not going to eat until we had begged enough to pay for a printing job we have standing over here at a printer's. I had my share almost raised when I asked you for the price of a meal. I figured if you would come through I would be about across the line. I haven't eaten for two days and all that I have begged is going into this project. The other fellows are about as far along as I am. By tomorrow morning we can start the press to printing. We have got to get the message out; the world is waiting for it."

> The Uniform Sunday school lesson for February 27: "THE CHURCH PROCLAIMS THE GOSPEL," Mark 16:15; Acts 2:14-41; Romans 10:8-15; I Corinthians 1:18-25; 2:1-5; Colossians 1:24-29.

The business man was greatly interested. "And what is that message you are so anxious about?" he inquired. "It must be mighty important."

"It is!" the panhandler said. "Its mighty important. It is the one hope of the world, if we can only get it out."

A few more persistent questions, and the truth came out.

They were communists!

WHERE WE HAVE FAILED

Major-General Irwin, for a considerable period of time second in command under General Douglas McArthur, has said, "Our failure in China is due to a very simple and a very terrible mistake. We thought we could win with the Chinese when we gave them something to fight with. But the communists did what we did not do. They gave them something to fight for. They deceived the Chinese, of course, and millions of them rue it bitterly now. But if we had given them a new hope and a new purpose, they would have gotten along with almost anything in the way of weapons."

OUTPOSTS OF THE FAITH

The Christian missionary program has never been as important as it is at this moment. A desperate struggle is going on for the mind and the heart of the world, with the forces of democracy locked in a struggle to the death with the forces of communism. It is not a duel of bombs, planes, and guided missiles. It is a conflict between two contradictory philosophies of life, represented on the one hand by Christianity, and on the other hand by pure materialism. Both sides are about equally armed with the weapons of death. The battle will be won by that side which can convince the world that it has the best idea.

In the meantime, we must get our Christian message out, and Christian missionaries are in the front lines with their gospel.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mrs. Jack Hanna and William Johns are spending some time with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Montgomery.

W. I.

Stirling Women's Institute sponsored a card party at the community hall Monday evening and provided prizes and refreshments. The winners were: ladies' high, Mrs. Marguerite Rodgers, low, Mrs. Lily Spry.

Men's high, Mrs. Sam Kirkey, (playing as a man), low, Alex Rodgers.

THEY'D WELCOME HIM

CAMBRIDGE, Eng. (Reuters)—Cambridge University students, after a heated debate which was broadcast Wednesday night, decided by a large majority they would welcome the return to Britain of American evangelist Billy Graham. The preacher is due in Glasgow on March 21 to launch a crusade in Scotland. He is tentatively scheduled to appear in Cambridge next November.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG—Many friends attended to pay their respects to the late Mrs. B. Fitchett whose death occurred February 14. Funeral services were held from the Presbyterian Church, Roslin. Sympathy is extended to the sorrowing relatives.

Funeral services for the late Helen May Moon were held in Christ Church, Thomasburg. Many friends were present at the service. Interment was in Thomasburg cemetery.

The regular monthly meeting of Christ Church Guild was held at Mrs. Lewis Morton's with eight members present.

The president conducted the devotional period using Scripture, Psalm 46.

It was decided the roll call at next meeting was to be answered with word 'glory' and a donation handed in for future bazaar.

Receipts from membership fees $4, Receipts from holiday bags $8, Received for flower fund 32c, Received from collections $1.05.

Some discussion arose regarding next meeting and it was decided to invite Miss Peggy Sherry, Tweed, to show pictures on that date, March 17.

A short program of music followed. Piano duet by Misses Karen and June Morton, a reading, "The Ladies' Guild", Mrs. Mildred Sherry, duets "I get so Lonely", "It's Been so Long" Ruth and Roscoe Morgan.

A poem by Edna Jacques, "An Ontario Landscape" - by June Morton.

Refreshments, served by the hostess, terminated the evening.

Owing to the many homes entertaining the flue, the dinner served on Tuesday by the United Church W. A. was patronised by a much smaller number of people. For the same reason, the afternoon meeting was cancelled as several of the members had left sick people in their homes and could not stay longer than the dinner hour.

The euchre party sponsored by the ladies of Christ Church Guild in the Hall last Wednesday was a success in spite of the stormy night. Nine tables were played. First prize ladies', Mrs. Acker and Mrs. A. Crawford; first prize men Harold Morton Sr. and W. Courtney; door prize, Mrs. Charles Jeffrey; Consolation, Mrs. W. Geen, C. Grills.

The winners of the lucky ticket for the quilt was Mr. Harry Morgan, Halloway.

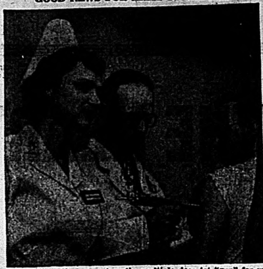
IT WAS MILK

HORSEHEADS, N.Y. (AP)—The mysterious cobwebby stuff that blanketed parts of this Chemung county village was identified by scientists Wednesday night as powdered milk—and no more radioactive than the air you breathe. Chemists concluded it came from a flue at a nearby dairy. It was first identified as cotton fibre.

GOOD NEWS FOR ARMY PERSONNEL



A new needle-less, automatic, multiple-dose jet "gun" for mass vaccine injections is now being tested at an army medical centre in Washington, D.C. The new inoculation mechanism gives promise that some day soldiers may receive quick and practically painless inoculations. The new injector, although not completely painless yet, hurts considerably less than the old-style needle. The new device can inoculate up to 1,000 men without a refill. Here, right: Army doctor Lt.-Col. Robert B. Lindberg, aided by Lt. Marx Montgomery, inoculates Sgt. Richard Hansel with the inoculation "gun," which shoots a tiny jet of vaccine right through the skin under some 250 pounds of pressure. The pressure comes from a spring-driven piston pump. Each injection takes about one second. —Central Press Canadian.

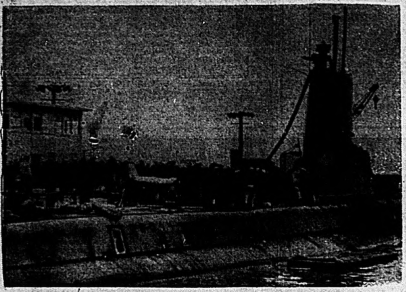
WHILE EXPLOSION ROCKS SUB AT SAN FRANCISCO . . .



The body of a dead crewman (centre) is carried from the U.S. submarine Pomodon—almost 36 hours after three internal explosions shattered the forward section of the craft, killing three sailors with two more presumed dead in the hull. Rescuers were prevented from entering the forward section of the ship because of the presence of explosive hydrogen. The submarine was charging its batteries preliminary to sea trials after a four-month repair job when the blast occurred at the San Francisco naval yard. In addition to the three known dead and the two missing and presumed dead, four other sailors and two civilian rescue workers were hospitalized after inhaling poisonous gases. (Central Press Canadian).

Full-Dress Debate Planned On Unemployment

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament will have a full-dress debate on Canada's climbing unemployment early next week.

It likely will be held Monday, government sources said after CCF leader Coldwell tried for an emergency discussion Thursday and later settled for one in the next few days.

Mr. Coldwell called the unemployment situation "alarming" and sought to have the Commons put aside normal business to debate it as a matter of "urgent" public necessity. This is a procedure rarely used by the House.

Mr. Coldwell's proposal was founded on government figures issued Wednesday showing that unemployment this winter has topped the previous post-war high of March, 1954.

FIGURE CHANGED

March customarily is the low period of work, so unemployment likely will continue to rise until then. Officials state current unemployment already is considerably above Wednesday's official figures, which gave the situation of late January.

In these, the government estimated 362,000 persons were out of work and looking for jobs in the third week of January. With the federal government's national employment service, 569,562 persons were registered for work.

The figure of absolute unemployment is regarded as somewhere between these two totals, both subject to margins of error.

It is understood the employment service figure now is around 600,000, compared with the 570,000 post-war peak of last March.

Bank Manager Dies

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Frederick A. Maples, 59, manager of the main branch of the Bank of Toronto here for the last three years, died in hospital Wednesday after a lengthy illness. He had served 42 years with the bank.

Mr. Maples was formerly manager of banks at Stratford and Galt. He was born in Hamilton.

"FINDERS, KEEPERS"

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Pursued by police following a holdup, two men tossed several hundred dollars in small bills from their speeding truck Thursday. Patrolmen caught the fleeing pair, now they are looking for motorists who stopped their cars, grabbed up the cash and drove off.

Expert on Eskimo Life is Aboard Plane

An expert on Eskimo life, Jas. A. Houston, 33, of Ottawa, is one of seven people aboard an RCMP Otter plane, which is down west of Churchill, Man. The plane had been missing since February 23, when it was due to land at Ennadal lake, 290 miles northwest of Churchill. On board, besides Mr. Houston, seen above, who was on an investigatory trip in the north, are three RCMP personnel, two Eskimos and another federal government employee. The plane was equipped with northern survival equipment, food supply and a radio. (Central Press Canadian).

Strep Deaths Show Decline

TORONTO (CP)—A 10-per-cent reduction in deaths due to streptococcal infections during the last 30 years has been marked at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children, Dr. John D. Keith, physician-in-charge of the hospital's cardiac clinic, said Thursday night.

Dr. Keith, associate professor of pediatrics at the University of Toronto, was speaking during a closed-circuit television broadcast originating from the Columbia Broadcasting System studios in New York.

The broadcast, largest closed-circuit TV program ever presented, was watched in 64 Canadian and United States cities by 30,000 doctors and medical students. It was seen in Canada at Toronto, Montreal, Kingston, Ottawa and Quebec City and marked the first time a closed-circuit TV network program has been seen in Canada.

Strep diseases now account for less than one per cent of deaths among infants and children, Dr. Keith said. The marked decline was due to improved treatment and the availability of penicillin since 1945.

Cannot Locate Vial Containing Radioactive Salt

NEW WESTMINSTER, B. C. (CP)—Matthew Prantner thinks he still has in his New Westminster home, somewhere, a small vial which is believed to contain radioactive powder, it was reported Thursday night.

The vial is believed similar to one turned over to the RCMP at Port Arthur by prospector John MacDonald, of Beardmore, 100 miles northeast of the Lakehead.

MacDonald's vial is being shipped to the Chalk River, Ont., atomic works from Port Arthur, where it had been kept in the radium vault at Port Arthur General Hospital.

MacDonald said he got it from the Dutch underground during the Second World War. Prantner was a wartime buddy of MacDonald and got his vial at the same time.

STILL MISSING

It was thought at first that MacDonald's vial contained pure radium. A source close to the Port Arthur investigation said it is "a salt made from heavy water and more or less dormant."

It was reported earlier that the RCMP had seized Prantner's vial, but Prantner still hadn't found it Thursday night.

Drug Addiction Will Be Given Special Study

OTTAWA (CP)—Drug addiction in Canada, its causes, effects and methods of dealing with it, is to be given close study by a special, government-backed committee of the Senate.

Solicitor-General Ross Macdonald, government leader in the Upper Chamber, proposed the 20-man committee Thursday and immediately won unanimous support.

He said drug addiction is not out of hand in Canada. But it was a real problem in many of the larger centres, particularly Vancouver.

The government leader said the committee's recommendations could be a "document of the utmost importance." It could have far-reaching consequences in helping to find methods through which drug addiction might be successfully attacked.

Senator Macdonald said the committee should concern itself with the means by which actual trafficking through the country can be controlled. Solution of drug addiction required more than just law enforcement. Methods must be found to remove its cause and to effect treatment and rehabilitation.

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—George Pappavlahodimitrakopoulous has retained the distinction of having the longest name in the Lansing telephone directory. Pappavlahodimitrakopoulous, a restaurant owner, has a standing offer of a free meal for anyone who can pronounce his name correctly the first time.

163,930,000 AMERICANS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The census bureau said Thursday that 1954 population gains were the biggest in United States history, with births rising over 4,000,000 for the first time. The net population gain during the year was 2,823,000—a record. By Jan. 1, 1955, the population was estimated to be 163,930,000.

Private Job Agency Taking Applications for Work On Seaway Cannot Use Mails

OTTAWA (CP)—A small agency seeking fees in purporting to direct workmen into St. Lawrence seaway jobs has been cut off from the mails and the post office department is investigating others.

The right to receive mail has been denied a concern called the International Recruiting Agency, with an address in Cornwall, near the scene of major construction work on the $900,000,000 navigation-hydro development.

Officials said three other private job agencies are being investigated for possible misuse of the mails. Labor Minister Gregg said in the Commons Thursday not enough evidence has been obtained "yet" to deprive others of postal service.

He made the announcement about the International Agency, without mentioning it by name, after Joseph Noseworthy (CCF—York South) asked what action is being taken to stop "continued exploitation" of unemployed by private agencies operating from post office box numbers in Cornwall.

SENT OUT FORMS

The International Agency, informants said, is one of a number that have advertised for job applicatoins from prospective seaway workers. It charged $3 for services which consisted mainly of sending applicants a form to be filled in.

The postal ban means that it will get no incoming mail. Letters addressed to it will be returned to the sender.

Another firm operating out of a Cornwall postal address—Seaway Opportunities — has been warned by the Ontario government to desist. Otherwise, Ontario Labor Labor Minister Daley told it earlier this week, it may face prosecution.

Officials here said they have reason to believe some of the firms under investigation may go out of business before long.

F. A. Hardy, parliamentary librarian, probably will become sole director of the library when general librarian Felix Desrochers retires. Both have been in joint control but legislation is before Parliament to make it a one-man job. (CP Photo).

Surplus Butter Sales Likely To Be Increased

OTTAWA (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner indicated Thursday he expects that sales of government-held surplus butter will increase by more than 2,000,000 pounds through the plan of cut-price sales to institutions.

Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) asked in the Commons about a press report quoting federal officials as estimating a sales increase of 1,000,000 or 1,500,000 pounds a year at the most.

Under the plan hospitals, orphanages and other institutions will get butter at a price reduction of 21 cents a pound.

"I shall not be at all surprised if the amount of butter that goes out under the plan would not show an increase of more than 2,000,000 pounds," Mr. Gardiner said.

MAGAZINE DROPPED

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Curtis Circulation Co., an affiliate of the publishing firm, announced Thursday the suspension of its weekly magazine, TV Program Week, due to "unexpected complications, production costs which exceeded original estimates" and other factors.

Robber Arrested West of Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—Kingston police Thursday night arrested Frederick John Tulk, 47, of Ottawa, 5 minutes after a $200 robery at the federal stores in the downtown business district.

Police said Tulk was arrested following a three-mile chase from Kingston on No. 2 highway west of here. They said they found $200 on Tulk, who was not armed.

Vast Fields of Lignite Coal May Have Industrial Future

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — North Dakota, a farm state sitting on one of the world's great single fuel resources — vast fields of lignite coal — may have an industrial future closely tied to increased use of that coal, a private research group has indicated.

The group, known as the Resources Research Committee, consists of 16 business firms active in the Minnesota - Dakatos area.

A study of the possible economic significance of the area's natural resources was made for the committee by a Cambridge, Mass., industrial engineering firm, Arthur D. Little, Inc.

The study itself did not say specifically that intensive industrialization is ahead for North Dakota and the surrounding area. It termed lignite coal a potential dependable source of power at competitive rates, however, and said industrial development will be linked to greater use of the coal.

A committee spokesman, Dr. H. N. Stephens, research director for Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., St. Paul, went further in a statement when the committee began its task two years ago. He predicted that increased use of lignite would some day turn North Dakota into a "highly industrialized state."

An aluminum smelting plant is North Dakota's best major industrial bet geared to use of lignite, the engineering survey said. It also regarded as economically feasible on the same basis the smelting of Minnesota iron ore in North Dakota; furnishing power for the tacomite (low grade iron ore) industry in the western part of the Minnesota iron range; an ammonia plant, with fertilizer an end product; production of salt from Williston basin wells; and a few lesser industrial developments not linked to the use of lignite as a fuel.

The Little report said North Dakota lignite, used locally, should provide industrial fuel "at costs as low or lower than those available elsewhere in the United States."

The report termed the XDakcta-Montana lignite beds 12 per cent of the estimated usable fuel reserves in the U. S., and commented:

"The size of the reserves enables a concern to guarantee itself a long-term supply of low-cost electric power. Thus, North Dakota is a potential site for heavy power-consuming industries."

Van Doos to Pit Cunning In Northwest Territories Against Canadian Rangers

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—Soldier citizens of the North, trappers and woodsmen, today pit their cunning against the professional skill of the Royal 22nd Regiment.

In Canada's second sub-Arctic military exercise of the winter, some 120 members of the famed Van Doos are scheduled to "attack this Northwest Territories district.

First duties in defence fall on two local militia units, whose members are wise to the ways of the North, in this opening of Exercise Bull Dog III.

The Van Doos, flown from their base at Quebec City, were ordered to capture the Yellowknife airport and nearby fuel dumps as well as ensuring supplies of food from the town.

RANGERS COLLECT DATA

The Canadian Rangers — over-age, part-time soldiers who include farmers, miners, trappers and woodsmen — and the 24th Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers, were ordered to foil the patrols of the invaders and spy out their plans.

Meanwhile, regular troops were being concentrated here, notably elements of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, for a parachute assault against the Van Doos.

This phase was expected to come Saturday, although the weather in Yellowknife, where temperatures of 40 degrees below zero are common, will be the decidnig factor.

RCAF TO BE BUSY

Tough young paratroopers, garbed in strange-looking Arctic gear and each man equipped with snowshoes as well as weapons, will be flown to the attack by the RCAF, which also provides a striking force.

Directing the joint scheme is Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, general officer commanding, Western Command, with Air Commodore Sheldon W. Coleman as deputy director.

Gen. Vokes said at a briefing Thursday the paratroopers will not be dropped in winds exceeding 15 miles an hour or in temperatures more severe than 30 below. Peacetime exercises do not call for undue risks, he said.

It was understood that barring weather changes, the Van Doos will be landed at Yellowknife airport about 5 p.m. EST today and the first airborne flight of "defenders" will leave Edmonton, 600 miles south, about noon Saturday.

In all, some 250 men will be parachuted, from units in Calgary, Camp Shilo, Man., Barriefield, Ont., Rivers, Man., and Camp Borden, Ont.

300,000 RESETTLED

GENEVA (Reuters) — Almost 300,000 Europeans have been settled in new homes overseas with help from the inter-governmental committee for European immigration since the committee started work in February, 1952, it was announced today. Of these almost 70,000 have gone to Australia. Canada received 67,294, the United States 52,164, Argentina 40,426, and Brazil, 39,574.

FLAG OFFICER

Rear-admiral Hugh Pullen, 49, of Oakville, Ont., will be promoted to Flag Officer Pacific Coast next summer. He will succeed Rear-Admiral James C. Hibbard, 46, of Victoria and Ottawa, who is to retire July 7 because of ill health. (CP from National Defence).

GROWERS TO MEET

HAMILTON (CP) — Central Ontario growers will hold a one-day conference here Tuesday to discuss latest production and marketing developments. N. A. Fletcher of Hannon, chairman of the conference, said canning crop growers from 13 counties, will attend the meeting.

FLY OCEAN FOR "FANNY"

NEW YORK (AP)—Coming from Paris to Broadway to see a show, 22 persons, mostly Americans now living abroad, arrived by plane Wednesday to see the night's performance of the musical "Fanny" starring Ezio Pinza. After the play the group, which purchased round-trip plane tickets, was entertained by Pinza backstage.

Welfare State Has Arrived Says Minister

TORONTO (CP)—The dean of the faculty of divinity at McGill University has taken a look at the modern, Canadian way of life and concluded: "The welfare state has arrived."

In a report to the board of evangelism and social service of the United Church of Canada, Rev. James S. Thomson said the national income has been redistributed by pensions, insurance schemes and children's allowances.

His remarks were included in a text released to the press in advance of delivery.

"The tendency is to look to government, national, provincial and local, to do more for us," he said. "This can only be done at a price which is apt to be unobserved in the multiplication and increase of taxes."

"The gravest problem in modern society is the suppression of individuality," said Dr. Thomson. "Governments are more and more remote and we leave decisions to the experts."

He said governments tend to become entrenched and unassailable. The real opposition in the Canadian Parliament was no longer in the House of Commons but in the governments of the provinces.

Born in Peterborough

TORONTO (CP) — Isobel Donnelly, an employee of the Toronto Star for the last 23 years, died Thursday in hospital after a lengthy illness.

She was born in Peterborough. Her father was the late Harry Donnelly, press room superintendent for many years at the Peterborough Examiner.

During recent years Miss Donnelly was a fiction reader for the Star Weekly.

OOPS, WRONG DECADE

DETROIT (AP) — Police said Hehry Blaszczak, 37, made one major mistake when he allegedly tried to pass a bad cheque at a supermarket. The cheque was drawn on a bank that went out of business 10 years ago.

Member Asks Govt. to Support Municipalities That Enter Fluoridation Scheme in Prov.

TORONTO (CP)—John Yaremko (PC — Toronto Bellwoods) has asked the Ontario government to go on record as supporting municipalities that enter a fluoridation scheme.

Mr. Yaremko said in the legislature Thursday the question of fluoridation of water supplies to combat tooth decay must be dealt with by the municipalities but that the province should be prepared to give guidance.

He said he recognized the controversial aspects of fluoridation but accepted the testimony of experts that it was beneficial in preventing tooth decay and was not harmful in any way.

Mr. Yaremko, speaking in the throne speech debate, asked that the provisions of the Juvenile Court Act be changed to include youths and girls 18 years and under.

He said crimes involving persons 18 years and under should be dealt with in juvenile court and not magistrate's court. The maximum age now for juvenile-court cases is 16 years.

He suggested the government consider increasing the $3 fees of non-professional witnesses in court cases because they had to give up a day's pay and in some cases this resulted in hardship.

Many questions must be answered before it can be determined whether toll roads are feasible in the province, he said. The government must decide what effect they will have on the present highway construction program and on municipalities.

He recommended more government assistance to university students through additional funds for bursaries.

Arthur J. Reaume (L — Essex North), a former Windsor mayor, criticized the government for not appointing a royal commission to investigate highways department operation and administration and irregularities in highways contracts.

He said the matter remains unresolved and he fears innocent people are being smeared while the guilty had not all been punished.

Robert E. Elliott (PC—Hamilton East) said he cannot agree with a statement earlier in the week by John P. Robarts (PC—London), who said annexation as it has been handled in the past is dead.

"Hamilton has grown and prospered over the years by the natural process of annexing land from time to time, and I believe the only healthy way that any city can grow is by natural annexation when growth develops."

The number of resignations from the provincial police in 1954 was less than half that of 1953, the annual report of commissioner E.V. McNeill shows.

The report, tabled in the legislature, listed 47 resignations in 1954 compared with 118 in 1953.

It claimed the morale of the force was exceptionally high. There were no dismissals last year but seven constables were "permitted to resign."

Last year was the busiest in OPP history.

A total of 9,662 convictions under the Liquor Control Act resulted from provincial police action and fines totalled $196,086.

A government bill introduced Thursday provides for a penalty to anyone marring the natural beauty of a lake or river by throwing refuse on the shore or into the water.

The bill, introduced by Lands and Forests Minister Mapledoram, said a $50 fine may be levied against a person found violating the act.

The transfer of the gasoline tax from the highways department to the treasury was contained in another bill given first reading. It was introduced by Premier Frost and is aimed at relieving the highways department of a task which is essentially financial.

Another bill introduced by Mr. Mapledoram provides for the changing of the name of fire hazard areas from "travel permit areas" to "forest travel permit areas," making it clear that highwa traffic is not affected.

Adenauer Presses Struggle To Get Saar Pact Approved

By BRACK CURRY

BONN (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer pressed his West German parliamentary fight today for approval of the German-French agreement to "Europeanize" the industrially rich Saar. This is the hot issue in the three-day debate on German rearmament, now at the crucial midpoint.

With debate running behind schedule, the semi-final vote originally set for today may be postponed until Saturday. The final vote will be held soon thereafter.

Heavily armed and reinforced police numbering 1,300 braced themselves for another day of street demonstrations. Hundreds of Communists, including 120 imported from the Ruhr for the occasion, tried to cause trouble at key points Friday. Police cooled their ardor with water cannon which drenched them during a snowstorm. A dozen were arrested.

Some shop windows were broken before downtown squares were cleared after dark.

As two government coalition parties—the Free Democrats and the Refugees—defied the chancellor's stand on the Saar, Adenauer marshalled his own Christian Democrats behind the plan. Under it, the Saar, German before the war and now virtually autonomous but tied to France economically, would be put under a neutral commissioner.

Despite the wholesale desertions by his allies, Adenauer still claims a slim majority in the 487-member Bundestag (Lower House) for the Saar pact. It must be accepted in the Paris "treaty package" if the French are to approve west German rearmament. Thus the question of whether 500,000 Germans will be armed for Western defence hinges on Adenauer's victory in this fight.

Eden, Dulles Are Pleased With Southeast Asia Parley

BANGKOK (Reuters)—Ministers of the southeast Asian treaty ended three days of talks in full agreement here today after a last-minute hitch over whether communism should be openly named as a menace to the area.

Britain's Foreign Secretary Eden objected to the word communism being written into the final 1,400-word communique on the eight-power talks, but he finally bowed to the will of other delegates, notably State Secretary Dulles of the United States and External Affairs Minister Richard Casey of Australia, conference officials said.

The conference adopted measures to safeguard the security of southeast Asia against communism on three fronts, armed aggression, internal subversion and economic want.

The foreign ministers set up machinery to implement the southeast Asian treaty signed in Manila last September by Britain, the U. S., France, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, Thailand and the Philippines.

In addition to the difference between Dulles and Eden on the wording of the communique, the two also failed to agree on Formosa policy at a private conference over dinner Thursday night, American sources said.

Eden restated British policy, that the Nationalist-held islands of Quemoy and Matsu must be considered part of continental China, and Dulles restated American policy, that the islands must remain in Nationalist hands for reasons of the defence of Formosa.

There was no narrowing of differences, sources said.

But both statesmen applauded the success of the general conference.

"I am confident of one thing," Dulles said, "the way of the aggressor has been made harder."

In his wind-up speech Eden said the talks had achieved "practical results not only of value to ourselves but for the peace and security of this whole area."

High officers accompanying the ministers issued a communique on their own two-day talks in which they announced that military staff planners will meet in Manila in April to initiate plans for implementing "certain military aspects" of the pact.

The militarv advisers themselves will meet again in Bangkok soon after the Manila meeting, their communique said.

STIRLING

John Ray Awarded Gilt Cross

STIRLING— On Tuesday, word was received in Stirling, that John Ray, 14-year old son of Councillor and Mrs. Ken Ray, had been awarded that day the Governor General's Gilt Cross for bravery at Oak Lake, last July.

At that time Michael Long was attempting to swim across Oak Lake when he got in trouble. John noticed that Michael was in difficulty so he went to his aid and held Michael up until a boat came out from shore and picked up the two lads.

The gilt awards are made twice yearly. The first on Baden Powell's birthday on February 22nd, the other on Dominion Day, July 1st.

At a later date John will be invited to Ottawa to receive his award from Viscount Massey.

This is the second gilt award received by the Stirling troop. In 1953 Arthur McConnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McConnell, was honored for his bravery in rescuing Eddie Maybee at Bird's Beach, Oak Lake.

You can't go "ALL-OUT" If you feel "ALL-IN"

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backache, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follow. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 53

This diploma has been issued to graduate pharmacists since 1952

THE ONLY MERCHANT WHO MUST HAVE A DEGREE

As with your doctor, your family pharmacist is many times entrusted with your very life. The prescriptions he dispenses, the drugs and medications he compounds, all are part of an exacting science which must be perfectly understood.

That is why your druggist spent many long years studying for his degree. And why, long after graduation, he must continue his studies—keeping abreast of the advances made by the great pharmaceutical houses, keeping pace with medical and scientific research and discovery.

That is why, too, he is proud to display his diploma. It is his hard-earned authority to practice an exacting science—and it is the reason why YOU CAN DEPEND ON YOUR FAMILY DRUGGIST.

THE MERCHANT WITH THE DEGREE

Your pharmacist is the only merchant in the community who must have a diploma . . . and who must have it renewed each year. Your druggist shares with your doctor a personal and professional interest in your life.

PRESENTING Nash '55

CANADIAN STATESMAN—Custom 4-Door Sedan—No other 1955 car has such a dramatic, yet functionally designed, front end as the new Nash Canadian Statesman. The exterior beauty of this truly fine car is complimented by the glamorous styling and upholstery of the re-designed interior. There's a choice of three great transmissions, too . . . Standard Synchromesh, Automatic Overdrive or Dual-Range Hydra-Matic Drive. And be sure to ask your Nash Dealer about the high compression Dual Powerflyte twin-carburetor engine.

...WITH THE 7 BIG FEATURES EVERY CAR MUST SOMEDAY HAVE!

Many of the outstanding features that have since been copied and built into other cars were actually pioneered by Nash! Now, Nash '55 presents a new feature—a continental design front end, with road-guide fenders and Safety-Vu headlights, located in the sports-car grille. The low position of the headlights gives a greater concentration of light ahead and greater safety and efficiency in fog or rain. Another achievement in better motoring—pioneered by Nash.

Nash

NASH MOTORS OF CANADA LIMITED
A SUBSIDIARY OF AMERICAN MOTORS CORPORATION

HERE ARE THE 7 BIG FEATURES that put Nash '55 ahead of all others in safety, comfort, and economy

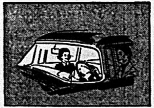
UNEQUALLED "LIVING ROOM" — Nash single unit body construction does away with unnecessary makeshift bracing and supports. With the widest front seat of any car, Nash alone gives you more leg, head, hip, and shoulder room—both front and rear.

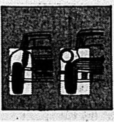
GREATER TRAVEL COMFORT—Touch a lever and either front seat goes back gently, one notch at a time, into five restful positions. With both seats horizontal you have luxurious Twin Travel beds—ideal for sportsmen and vacationists.



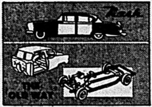
GREATER VISIBILITY—Nash '55 has the greatest Scena-Ramic visibility with the widest wrap-around windshield and rear window of any car on the road. Nash wipers actually clean around the curve of the windshield.

AMAZING NEW MANOEUVERABILITY—Nash '55 features a shorter turning radius, now better than industry average, and new, improved steering mechanism. Anti-friction bearings produce effortless steering.

NASH EXCLUSIVE WEATHER EYE—Heating and Ventilating System—the greatest comfort and health feature ever put into a car. One simple control gives you thermostatically controlled heat. Fresh air entering the car is filtered through replaceable Fiberglass filters!



NASH EXCLUSIVE DEEP-COIL RIDE—Extra-long coil springs front and rear cradle the centre of gravity and car weight between and below them (far left)—for greater safety and riding comfort. Springs on conventional cars are vertical and shorter.



NASH EXCLUSIVE DOUBLE-STRENGTH SINGLE UNIT BODY—Nash '55 (top)—is a rigid, welded single unit, built like streamlined trains and jet planes—designed for greater strength, safety, and the complete elimination of body bolt squeaks and rattles. In old-type construction (below) the body rides "piggy-back" on a frame, joined by body bolts that eventually loosen and rattle.

Canadiens Move Into First Place After Playing 1-1 Draw With Leafs

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

GOODYEARS TONIGHT!

The Kingston Goodyears, with second place safely tucked away in their inner tubes, invade this village tonight in their final scheduled appearance of the season. The Ramblin' Rannies from Roddenville, who were extended to the limit to edge the Brockville Magedomas 5-4 Wednesday night, won't be sentimental over tonight's business. Anytime the Casterton crew can hang a figurative "shiner" on a Belleville club, you can consider it done. But the Memos will have something to say about that this evening. They have discovered the Goodies are not exactly puncture-proof and they will be out there battling at full strength to grab an all-important victory that will enhance their chances of grabbing third place. In fact tonight's game could possibly be a dress-rehearsal of the semi-finals, but don't bet on it.

POLICE - FIREMEN

"Dit" Clapper, of Boston Bruins fame; Roy Conacher (if he is not overseas helping the Penticions), and Danny Cox, all ex-National Leaguers, will be a three-man tribunal to arbitrate the hockey goings-on of the fourth annual ice-battle between the Police and Firemen hockey squads here next Tuesday night.

The trio is not the least concerned about stories of hidden guns and other secret weapons which are purported to be used by the belligerents of the city services — in fact the story is going the rounds that they have a few tricks of their own, should hostilities break out.

And there is no truth in the rumor that Kid "Warpy" O'Brien, and "Knockout" Kowal, the respective masterminds, are staging an alley-fight immediately following the contest. The referee-in-chief tells us that he and his men have been informed as to the verbal battles being waged between the managers, coaches and various players of the squads, but he adds, should the matter come to fisticuffs none of them has anything that a little tear gas won't cure. Or if that is insufficient, a few hockey socks loaded with buckshot, should have a quieting effect.

A word to the people. Every cent of the proceeds of the police-firemen game will go to the Belleville Shrine Club's Crippled Kiddies' Fund. We know, through personal experience, of the splendid work being done by the Shriners for these kiddies of Belleville and district and many a father and mother have murmured "Thank God for the Shrine Club." Not only do the Shriners take care of the cost of medical, hospital and equipment, such as crutches, braces, wheel-chairs, etc., but they bring sunshine into these little lives with various forms of entertainment. The latter costs are borne by members of the club.

So that twenty-five cents you spend for an admisison ticket to the police-firemen hockey game will not only aid a handicapped youngster in his fight for a better equipped life, but it will bring you the sense of satisfaction that in this small way you have helped.

NOT NEW!

Michael J. Rodden, the sports writing "encyclopedia" of Kingston, digs deep into a well-stocked memory to bring up some scoring records that was prompted by 'Boom-Boom' Geoffrion's five-goal effort a short while ago against the Rangers. Writes Michael:

"Bernie 'Boom-Boom' Geoffrion's feat in scoring five goals in one game is being given the 'full treatment' in applause even in Montreal where it is no secret that snipers of old like Joe Malone, Tommy Smith, 'Newsy' Lalonde and Frank McGee were no strangers to such goings-on. Malone, who holds the all-time record with seven counters in one game, might have doubled that total if he had been assaulting a team as weak as are those modern New York Rangers.

"The late Frank McGhee of Ottawa Silver Seven fame racked up 14 counters during a Stanley Club tragedy against the Yukon Miners but the National League publicity bureau isn't likely to remember that feat. Dick Irvin, coach of the Canadiens, scored all the goals in a 9 to 0 conquest of a Toronto amateur team in 1912; Frank Lafranier racked up 14 during an exhibition game in Cobalt against the University of Toronto seniors but wily Steve Vair surpassed them all in 1908 when he scored 13 goals and collected three assists during a 21 to 3 Renfrew victory in Smith's Falls."

SOFTBALL

Gad, it won't be long now. Despite the fact we're on the threshold of what should develop into one of the hottest hockey playoffs series seen here in many a moon, signs of spring are beginning to make themselves known.

For instance, Secretary Frank Feaver of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association, comes up with the announcement that the annual conclave of his organization will be held in Peterborough April 7 and 8, with the sessions being under the auspices of the Peterborough Men's Softball Association.

Rule changes will be discussed, Frank says, and the girls' intermediate series, which last year provided championship competition among Northern Ontario, Western Ontario and Georgian Bay representatives, will be enlarged.

And with that in mind, it is likely a great number of softball associations will be holding their annual meetings prior to the OASA confab, so they can take 1955 ideas and suggestions with them. It would not be a bad idea if the Belleville Softball Association started to get its thinking caps arranged and call a meeting prior to April 7 and 8, so they will know where they stand before attending the get-together. It's a nice thing to have last year's matters cleared up before the year gets into the dew-worm stage, and with softball on the upsurge here it would simplify matters a lot to have 1955 organization completed before the Peterborough meeting.

Point Clinches Playoff Spot For the Clancy Cockerels; Beliveau Scores 33rd Goal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs today are a step closer to clashing in the Stanley Cup semi-finals and if that playoff comes off the winner is anybody's guess.

Canadiens moved alone into first place in the National Hockey League again Thursday night on a single point from a 1-1 draw with Maple Leafs before 14,668 fans at Montreal. The point clinched a playoff berth for Toornto, putting Leafs 21 points ahead of fifth-place New York Rangers, who have 10 games left in the 70-game schedule.

Detroit Red Wings, with two games less to play than Montreal, are in second spot, a single point behind Canadiens and Boston Bruins trail Toronto by five.

Barring an upset in the standings, Canadiens and Leafs will clash in one half of the semi-finals and Red Wings and Boston in the other.

And if the season's play—including Thursday night's draw—is any indication of things to come, a Toronto-Montreal playoff is almost certain to go the limit.

ONE GOAL EDGE

In 12 meetings so far this campaign, Canadiens have won five, lost four and three have been tied. On goals, Canadiens are only one ahead of Leafs, 27-26.

Sixty minutes couldn't separate the two in Thursday night's only league action. Big Jean Beliveau scored his 33rd goal of the season to put Canadiens ahead at 6:24 of the second period, but Tod Sloan stole the puck and put Toronto on even terms three minutes later. Neither Jacques Plante in the Montreal net, nor Leafs' Harry Lumley would give any quarter in the first and third periods.

Lumley was Leafs' shining light, robbing Canadiens' big guns throughout the game. He kicked out 30 shots, 12 of them in the last period, while Plante handled 23, only three of these in the third session.

No action is scheduled tonight. Saturday Canadiens play Bruins at Montreal and Red Wings are at Toronto. Montreal goes to New York Sunday and Detroit to Chicago.

Saddler Favored Over Red Davis

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandy Saddler, longest reigning current champion, is a surprisingly short priced 7-to-5 favorite to turn back Teddy (Red Top) Davis tonight in the first defence of his world featherweight title in 41 months.

The New Yorker has spent two years in the army and fought 10 tuneup fights since he last risked his crown against Willie Pep, Sept. 26, 1951.

Davis, 31, a clever boxer with not much of a wallop, is getting his big chance with the dubious distinction of having lost more fights, 47, than any other challenger. If he wins, he will be the oldest ever to win the 126-pound crown.

As usual on Friday nights, the 15-round match will be carried on network radio and television (NBC), starting at 10 p.m. EST.

The match is the first championship scrap of the year and is promoted by the International Boxing Club.

The short odds on the champion, which normally would be about 2½-1, have been attributed to doubt about Saddler, his weight-making ability and his legs after his army service.

Yankees Deny Ignoring Sewell

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees expressed surprise and then chagrin over Ewell Blackwell's statement in Florida that the Yankees refuse to give him a contract.

Through publicist Bob Fishel they denied they are purposely ignoring the onetime star pitcher of the National League and refusing to give him another baseball chance.

"We can't send him a baseball contract because he is on the voluntarily-retired list," Fishel said. "Naturally we can't do anything until Blackwell takes steps to be reinstated."

Blackwell said in Tampa Wednesday the Yankees refuse to give him either a contract or his unconditional release so he can play with another team.

Fishel said word was sent to Blackwell that the "Yankees would be happy to have him apply for reinstatement." Nothing more was heard from him, Fishel said.

Remember When

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New York Rangers defeated Boston 2-0 at New York 14 years ago tonight, ending the Bruins' streak of 23 games without defeat. The record, which still stands, lasted from Dec. 22 of 1940, and Boston had 15 wins and eight ties before the loss at New York.

Demaret Leads Houston Open

HOUSTON (AP) — Jimmy Demaret, a colorful Houston product who normally runs into trouble while playing before his home fans, fired a six-under-par 66 Thursday to grab the first round lead in the $30,000 Houston Open.

It was the first time Demaret ever was a day leader in the eight-year-old tournament.

His 34-32—66 for the par 36-36—72 Memorial Park course left him one stroke ahead of Bill Trombley of Dallas.

Tied at 68 were Jack Burke Jr., another hometown favorite; Ed Furgol, the U.S. Open champion from St. Louis, and Wesley Ellis, Riverside, N.J.

Forty players broke par while another 21 turned in par 72s. The field of 156 players will be cut to the low 60 professionals and 10 amateurs after today's second round.

Bob Attersley Conceded Group Scoring Title

Bobby Attersley, speedy young centre player with the Whitby Dunlops, was virtually conceded the scoring championship of the Eastern group, Ontario Senior "B" hockey league on Wednesday night when he picked up two goals and two assists in a game against Peterborough. This is Attersley's first year of senior hockey and with one game remaining in the 48 game schedule he has registered 45 goals and 42 assists for a total of 87 points.

His closest competitor, playing coach Bus Gagnon, also of Whitby, lost his chance to capture the scoring title when he drew a three - game suspension following an incident during a league game with Kingston. The two team mates have led the league since the first month of play and Gagnon held the lead at the time of his suspension with 47 goals and 38 assists for 85 points. He also is the "bad man" of the loop with 171 minutes in the penalty box.

Moe Savard of the league - leading Cornwall Colts has an outside chance of overtaking Attersley but it is very slim. Savard's present record shows him with 24 goals and 47 assists for seventy one points. The Colts have three games remaining in the schedule which closes on Sunday.

Last year's scoring champs, the Duncan twins of Belleville held down seventh and eighth spots in the last official release. Edwin Duncan edged out brother Erwin in the 53-54 schedule with 78 points to Erwin's 76.

Pentictons Switch Sweaters To Fool Foreign 'Intruders'

By ARCH MacKENZIE

DORTMUND, Germany (CP)—Favored Canada tonight trots out its Allan Cup champions against the United States in the 21st world hockey championships which get under way throughout the German Ruhr with 153 players representing nine countries.

The games are scheduled in four industrial cities. Some of the games have been sold out for weeks.

In the next 10 days the teams from Canada, the U.S., Russia, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Switzerland, Poland, Finland and West Germany will play for the world title — now held by the Soviet Union—in the round-robin tourney.

The games all start at 8 p.m. (2 p.m. EST) except the final between Russia and Canada scheduled for 3 p.m. (9 a.m. EST) March 6.

In the top-bracket game of opening day, the Canadians take on the Americans here in the 15,000-seat Westfalen-Halle.

Russia and Czechoslovakia, who figure to give the Canadians the most trouble, drew comparatively easy opponents. The Russians play Finland at Duesseldorf and the Czechs meet Switzerland at Cologne. At Krefeld, Sweden clsahes with Germany.

Coach Al Yourkewicz of the American team said his players would act "like real little gentlemen" against the Canadians.

"I can't honestly say I think we will win the championship," the hefty coach added.

But coach Grant Warwick of the Vs and the players are not at full strength. One player is laid up and another isn't quite recovered from illness.

"Let them come," Warwick said as he led a stiff workout Thursday night.

Either the Russians or Czechs—Canadian players weren't sure which—scouted the practice although it was supposed to be private. They gathered at one end of the outdoor rink, watched impassively and wrote in notebooks.

The dapper little playing coach pulled the Vs off the ice and switched sweaters to jumble the numbers. Rink officials finally had to ease out the intruders.

Thursday night the Canadians went through the formal procedure to pave the way for bringing replacement from Canada if needed.

It was done purely as a "safety gesture," Canadian officials said.

Penticton now has the choice of naming fewer than the maximum 17 players, thus providing a safety margin in the case of sickness or accident. The Vs probably will list 15 players today. Replacements then could be flown from Canada.

Forward Ed Kassian, 23-year-old native of Vegreville, Alta., is in bed with a severe pain in his right side and Dino Mascotto, 22-year-old defenceman from Sioux Lookout has a touch of influenza, but took part in the eve-of-tournament workout.

On the basis of their showing in Berlin and Prague, where they outscored their opponents 36-8 in four exhibition games, the Canadians are rated fairly good up front, hard workers, hard finishers and first-class exponents of the Canadian power play which tends to baffle Europeans.

But the defence is slow-footed.

LACK SAVVY

The Russians and Czechs have sound goalies but their all-round savvy is lacking, especially in controlling rebounds and catching a puck.

Canada will be represented on the pool of referees by Louis Lecompte, former Ontario Hockey Association official, now with the RCAF in France. No referee officiates in games involving his own country.

Canada will be after its 15th world championship in 20 tries since the games were organized in 1924.

HAS SPEED REPLACED STICKHANDLING?

SPEED makes the difference in a fast breakaway rush—one of the most exciting plays in hockey!

Today's fast, breakaway style of hockey—with its flashing rink-length rushes—demands more speed than stickhandling ability!
With so many hockey teams playing a ganging type of defense—as well as attack—a puck carrier can now do a lot more with a sudden burst of speed than with fancy stickhandling. If a fast skater is also a smooth stickhandler, he's a threat any time he's on the ice!

Saskatoon Rink Wins Second Schoolboy Curling Crown

By GERRY MARTIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP) — Bayne Secord skipped his Saskatoon Technical Collegiate rink to its second consecutive Dominion school curling title Thursday night, defeating Prince Edward Island 12-5 in the final round to win the title.

It was the fourth Dominion championship for the collegiate in the last five years.

In winning the Sifton Trophy, the 19-year-old Secord amazed the 3,000 fans who packed the rink here with his cool rink generalship and sharp shooting.

Skipping the Prince of Wales Charlottetown rink was 18-year-old Barry MacDonald, who skipped the 1954 PEI champions and played lead for the province's Briar representatives the same year.

Prince Edward Island, whose other loss was to Ontario in the first round, finished in a second-place tie with Alberta and Ontario, all with 7-2 records.

Northern Ontario and Quebec came next with four wins and five losses. New Brunswick had 3-6 record and British Columbia and Manitoba each had two and seven. Nova Scotia finished in the cellar with one win in nine starts.

In the final Thursday night, the Saskatchewan four took no chances with their surprising opponents from the east. After dropping the first end to the island on a one they swarmed back and loaded the house with rocks to come up with a big five. PEI took a single on the third and then Saskatchewan struck for two more.

Ontario was forced into extra ends before defeating Nova Scotia 12-9 in another ninth-round contest.

The rink from Colchester County Academy of Truro was skipped by George MacCharles. Skipping the Ontario rink was Bill Fraser from Sarnia Collegiate and Technical school.

Hamish Smith skipped Quebec to a 9-8 win over the Northern Ontario Noranda rink. Skipped by Terry Justice, Noranda fell one short in the final end from gaining a tie and forcing an extra end.

Manitoba won their second game in the ninth round when Barry Shearer skipped his rink to a 12-9 win over the Bill Bannerman rink from Bathurst, N.B.

Alberta, skipped by Ronnie Munro, downed British Columbia's Dennis Reed - skipped Kelowna rink 11-6.

Munro also led his Red Deer quartet to an upset win Thursday over Saskatchewan in the eighth round when they defeated the champions 8-7.

In other eighth-round matches, Ontario edged Quebec 9-8, PEI edged New Brunswick 9-8, northern Ontario downed Nova Scotia 10-5, and Manitoba defeated British Columbia 9-6.

Wings Defeat Hamilton Cubs

HAMILTON (CP)—Detroit Red Wings exchanged a forward line with Hamilton Cubs and defeated their Ontario Hockey Association junior A farm team 5-4 Thursday night in an exhibition game watched by 1,838 fans.

Red Kelly with a pair of goals, Marcel Bonin, Ted Lindsay and Jim Hay were the marksmen for the Wings. Glen Skov scored twice for the Cubs with Marty Pavelich and Larry Hillman contributing singles.

The Skov-Pavelich-Leswick line played the last two periods with Hamilton while Detroit used the Pirie-Sharpe-McNeill unit on loan from Hamilton.

Big Seven

Redskins, Calgary Stampeders Announce A 'Separate Peace'

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Football's smouldering player war cooled down today just as it was about to explode again in a United States court.

The fuse was snuffed by Washington Redskins and Calgary Stampeders, who surprisingly announced a "separate peace" had been reached on the eve of scheduled litigation.

Stampeders, the Western Interprovincial Football Union club which, along with Toronto Argonauts and British Columbia Lions, was one of Canada's holdouts against a no-raiding agreement with the U.S. National Football League, signed a pact with Redskins Thursday night.

Under the agreement, Redskins dropped a $50,000 damage suit against Calgary coach Jack Hennemier, whom they had accused of enticing Washington tackles Dick (Little Mo) Modzelewski and Bob Morgan to scrap their Redskin contract commitments and sign with Calgary.

The clubs agreed that Morgan will remain with Calgary while Modzelewski returns to Washington.

The "no - raiding" agreement, first to be signed between an AFL club and a Canadian team, came at a time when Canadian football observers felt attempts to reach a pact had all but failed—for this year at least.

It was hailed on both sides of the border as a step that definitely brightens the prospect of an over-all agreement between the two Canadian leagues—the WIFU and the eastern Big Four—and the NFL, though no one would predict such a thing is within reach in 1955.

Hennemier and Redskins owner George Preston Marshall called the pact "a signal achievement in relations between teams in American and Canadian football."

NFL commissioner Bert Bell said in Philadelphia he is "very pleased" at the agreement.

Big Four president Ralph Cooper said in Hamilton that Bell had told him in a telephone conversation Thursday that Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the WIFU also are about to sign an agreement with the NFL.

The Big Four has been negotiating with the NFL since early this year, but Toronto Argonauts' refusal to go along with the other three clubs—Montreal, Ottawa and Hamilton—in honoring NFL contracts and options, has left these negotiations hanging.

In Washington, Stampeders agreed not to negotiate with two other Washington players, quarterback Jack Scarbath and fullback Ralph Fenton.

Redskins said their suit against Stampeders was settled for a "substantial" amount, but in Calgary, Stampeder president Ed O'Connor said the suit was settled for a minor amount—court costs only.

Rocky to Fight Don Cockell

NEW YORK (AP) — President Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club said Thursday terms have been settled for the title match between heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and Britain's Don Cockell, to be in either San Francisco or London.

Norris said Marciano will receive 40 per cent and the challenger 20 per cent. If Cockell wins they will meet in a return bout within 90 days, each receiving 30 per cent.

The return bout would be held, Norris said, at "a site of our selection."

Canucks Battle Quakers to Tie

SASKATOON (CP)—Vancouver Canucks and Saskatoon Quakers battled to a 3-3 tie in a Western Hockey League game before 2,000 fans here Thursday night.

The single point moved Vancouver to within one point of the fourth - place New Westminster Royals and left Quakers last.

Jackie McLeod, Phil Maloney and Harry Dick tallied the Vancouver goals. Vic Lynn, Jim Ross and Carl Kaiser notched the Saskatoon replies.

Deny Fracas About Fracas

EDMONTON (CP)—Gino Fracas won't get $8,000 a year from Edmonton Eskimos, and he—and his salary—can be cut from the club any time.

A spokesman for the Western Interprovincial Football Union team denied Thursday an Ottawa report that Fracas, 200-pound fullback from University of Western Ontario who was first draft choice of Ottawa Rough Riders, came to Eskimos because of an $8,000 no-cut contract rather than the $6,500 offered by the Big Four club.

Asked how much Fracas would get from Eskimos, the club spokesman said only, "He isn't getting that much."

Canucks Remain In Habs' Chain

KITCHENER (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League will continue to sponsor Kitchener-Waterloo Canucks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, Sam Pollock said in an interview Thursday.

Pollock, overseer of the Canapresident of the Kitchener club, also said arrangements have been completed with the Kitchener auditorium commission for Canucks to operate in 1955-56 on the same terms as this year, Canucks getting 70 per cent of the gate receipts on the first 2,000 admissions and 50 per cent thereafter.

It is estimated Canucks lost $25,000 on this season's operations.

Swimmers Smash Canadian Marks

HAMILTON (CP) — Two members of Canada's swimming team entry in the Pan-American Games, George Park and Shirley Jones, smashed three Canadian records Thursday night in a tune-up meet at Hamilton municipal pool.

Park, who represented Canada in the British Empire Games, set a new time of 51.4 seconds in the 100-yard freestyle, eclipsing the former record of 52.1 seconds established in 1951 by Lucien Beaumont of Quebec City.

He broke a second record when he swam the 50-yard butterfly breaststroke in 27.6 seconds. His time was one-tenth of a second better than the former record of 27.7 seconds set this year by Lloyd Kishino of Montreal.

Miss Jones shaved two seconds off the record 31.2 seconds for the senior women's 50-yard butterfly breaststroke. Helen Stewart of Vancouver set the old time of 33.4 seconds this year.

Sports Roundup

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—It's about time Kid Gavilan stopped crying "wolf." If he keeps on hollering maybe some people will begin to believe tha Saxton ylinnyreahtJo believe that Johnny Saxton really did deserve the decision in that smelly fight in Philadelphia last October.

True, the sleek Cuban had a legitimate beef when his crown was lifted by Saxton. That night the Keed had a right to howl.

But the fading, 29-year-old ex-champ from Camaguey certainly did himself no good in Miami Beach Wednesday night when he and his entourage let loose with the familiar "we wuz robbed" theme.

The three officials were unanimous in scoring for Hector Constance, a sharp counter-puncher from Trinidad, by close margins. A majority of the boxing writers at the ringside also thought Constance had won.

Much of the yammering was done by Gavvy's new manager, Yamil Chade. He can howl as long and loud as Angel Lopez, the old boss of the Kid, ever could.

"Gavilan definitely won," Chade told reporters. "And I know all the television fans in the United States will agree."

He's going to be disappointed. This TV observer and many others I spoke to considered it a just verdict.

Bombers Sign Three Players

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Blue Bombers announced today the signing of a new import, a veteran import and a youthful Canadian holdover for the 1955 Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

Signed were 235-pound tackle Edward Roth, formerly with the University of Indiana, halfback Tom Casey, a veteran of six years in Canadian football, and halfback Gordie Rowland, playing his second season with Bombers.

Casey, 31, formerly with New York Yankees, has been with the Bombers since 1950 after playing one season with Hamilton Wildcats. He has rated all-star selection each year in the West.

Why Tell 'Em Show 'Em

DUESSELDORF, Germany (CP) The Canadian embassy in Germany is working hard to explain the Canadian style of hockey to Europe.

The objective: To discourage a trend of thought which stamps Canadian hockey players as rough, tough and nasty.

Canadian Ambassador Charles Ritchie, who is to attend a press reception today, has asked Sid Godber of the Penticton Herald, a sports writer travelling with Penticton Vs, to give assembled press and radio representatives a verbal explanation of why Canadians play the way they do.

Earlier, German sports writers were shown a film of a typical National Hockey League playoff.

Hockey in Europe is probably a milder game than in Canada. Generally, bodychecking is frowned on.

AT THE CAPITOL — Judy Holliday stars in her new comedy "Phffft" with Jack Lemmon, Jack Carson and Kim Novak. The comedy is now having its first Ontario showing at the Capitol. On the same program MGM's spectacular western "The Devil's Doorway" starring Robert Taylor. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

AT THE CAPITOL — Roy Rogers in North of the Great Divide" is the extra attractions for the children Saturday matinee. Also shown on the same program are the two current attractions "Phffft" starring Judy Holliday, and "The Devil's Doorway", a western starring Robert Taylor. The shows are continuous from 1.00 p.m.

AT THE BELLE — Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis engage in sidesplitting antics along with Joanne Dru and Zsa Zsa Gabor in the new Vistavision picture "Three Ring Circus", now playing at the Belle Theatre. It is a comedy the whole family will enjoy.

AT THE McCARTHY — "Romeo and Juliet" has touched the hearts of more people than any romance ever written. The J. Arthur Rank Organization has brought this classic to pulsating life, in the new prize-winning version. Laurence Harvey and Susan Shentall head an all-star cast. Opening at the McCarthy theatre Monday.

Paul Winchell Quite Happy Entertaining the Kiddies

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Winchell, one of the early stars of night-time network television, now is entertaining the kiddies on NBC Saturday mornings and says he's well content with the arrangement.

"I like it much better," says ventriloquist Winchell, the voice of Jerry Mahoney and Knucklehead Smiff, his dummy co-stars.

"I feel I'm accomplishing something good. We try to make it fun for the kids but also to include educational elements.

"There's a much heavier responsibility than on a night show when your only responsibility is to be as entertaining and as funny as you can. Children are tremendously impressionable. We never do anything on the show that isn't tailored to the idea that youngsters must be able to understand it, and repeat it."

Winchell, now 31, first went on TV in late 1948. For 2½ years he was co-featured with a mind reading act, and then for two seasons he and his wooden pal Jerry had their own program billed as the Paul Winchell and Jerry Mahoney show.

ASKED TOO MUCH

"I changed that the next season to the Paul Winchell show, starring Jerry Mahoney," Paul recalls. "That was because the program listings had been carrying it as the Jerry Mahoney show. I didn't mind losing my identity, but I wasn't going to lose it to a block of wood."

Winchell also turned dramatic actor on his night show and did sketches with such guest stars as Margaret Truman, Thomas Mitchell, Hedy Lamarr, Signe Hasso, Ilona Massey and Eva Gabor. There was speculation that he might put aside his dummies and take up a career as a dramatic actor.

Paul says that while he still has aspirations along that line he's going to confine himself to his Saturday show until he's sure it's well in hand.

France has had TV for several years but still has only 119,000 television sets in use, according to a parliamentary report. This compares with 3,500,000 sets in Great Britain and about 33,000,000 in the United States.

Martin Codel's semi-annual TV factbook estimates there now are 137 television stations in 35 foreign countries, and a total of about 6,600,000 TV sets in use outside the U. S.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz have received 30,000 fan letters commenting on the change of the mythical locale of "I Love Lucy" from New York to Hollywood, where it had been filmed from the beginning. Most were favorable. . . . Milton Berle, Martha Raye an Ray Bolger head the cast for NBC's Sunday night spectacular entitled "Big Time." . . . Art Linkletter flies from Hollywood to Mexico late today for a week's vacation. He will be back on his "House Party" on CBS-TV March 7.

Loyal Penticton Fans Send Club Three-Thousand-Word Telegram

PENTICTON, B. C. (CP)—Telegrapher Morrison Botting carries that right hand a shade tenderly today.

It took him nearly three hours Thursday night, but hammering steadily at his CPR Morse key, he started a 3,000-word cable on its way to a hockey team 8,000 miles from Penticton.

Unusual? Not when the cable was sent by Penticton fans to their heroes, the Vs. The people who signed it claim it's the longest greeting cable ever to cross the Atlantic.

PAY TO SIGN

More than 1,345 fans paid 25 cents a word to sign a 239-word message to the team carrying Canada's hopes into the world hockey championships.

There's nothing those fans won't do for the team that grew from a 10-cent notebook and an idea four years ago. The notebook was used to keep the minutes when 50 persons met to decide whether this fruit-packing centre should form a team to compete in the Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League.

The co-operative spirit caught on. Vs have no travelling expenses—they're ferried on all road trips by volunteer drivers who donate their time and cars.

A women's auxiliary washes their jerseys and darns their sox.

A woman in Kelowna, having a baby the day Vs won the Allan Cup last year, named it Allan for the cup and Grant for Grant Warwick, playing-coach of Vs and one of the three Warwick brothers from Regina.

HAD TO KNOW

During one game, an elderly woman fan collapsed of a heart attack during the third period. She was carried to the manager's office as a great cheer rose from the fans.

Her last words to her son and daughter were "go see who scored that last goal." The entire Vs team attended her funeral that Friday.

SIGNS TWO CONTRACTS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Gordon Malloy, University of Miami halfback, Thursday signed a contract to play football with the Detroit Lions.

Malloy previously had signed to play with the Montreal Alouettes and it was not clear immediately which club would wind up with Malloy's services.

No figure was announced in connection with his one-year Detroit contract but it previously was reported that Montreal offered him $9,000 a season plus $1,000 for signing.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You can picture in your mind's eye just about what partner has from the bids he makes in response to your opening one bid. This is particularly true of the one-jump assist in a minor suit.

Open with a bid of one diamond when holding this south hand:

♠K J 3
♥A Q 4
♦A K J 8 5
♣7 4

Suppose your partner makes an immediate response of three in the diamond suit. What does his one-jump assist in the minor show you? What should you do after that?

The fact that he jumped shows he has tricks enough to help make a game. The fact that the jump was immediate promises two sure tricks among them. The fact that he assisted shows diamonds should be trump.

Thus should you be able to picture him with four or more cards in diamonds, probably including the queen. He must have five other tricks among which he has admitted holding two sures.

So, if he does not have both black aces or ace and king in the club suit he must have the spade ace and king with the queen of clubs. The rest of his tricks up to six are no doubt short cards.

Meantime you have a count of six tricks in your own hand. The total of 12 in your pair says a slam in diamonds is worth digging into. So, you bid four no-trump; aces and kings asker.

As soon as he tells you his number of aces and kings you will decide the final contract. It may be a small slam. It may be a grand slam. But a slam of some kind it should be.

You may, of course, run into a stubborn expert partner who has invented a special convention. Such as a jump minor assist that asks you to gamble for game in no-trump And he forgets to tell you.

Since his is not its basic meaning you may misunderstand him. He may not have all the basic values you expect. This will make him mad. He expects you to read his mind, too.

Unusual Restrictions Placed On Star Playing 'Moses'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Charlton Heston is not only playing Moses. he has to live like him.

Cecil B. DeMille, is making the Moses epic, "The 10 Commandments," with Heston in the title role. The film veteran has placed unusual restrictions on his star.

Reported Heston: "When I am on the set in my costume and makeup as Moses, I cannot sit down, read a newspaper, use the telephone or give interviews. I don't smoke anyway, so that is no problem.

"These are the same restrictions DeMille placed on H. B. Warner when he was playing Christ in 'The King of Kings.' Except that I believe Warner had to be veiled when he walked from the makeup department to the set.

DOUBLE PURPOSE

"DeMille has a twofold purpose: 1. To make others on the set get the illusion that I am Moses; 2. To make me feel the role. And by golly, it works. When I get the beard and robes on, I really feel like Moses."

I was able to interview the young actor because he was not in his Old Testament robes. He was dressed as a United States infantry captain. This was for his current film, "The Private War of Major Benson."

Heston has done two months of locations with DeMille in Egypt. He soon embarks on 5½ months of shooting on the picture at the Paramount lot. He has sandwiched the army comedy in between.

He has approached the Moses role with much thought.

"I do a great deal of research on every historical figure I play," he said. "But especially this one. Here is a man about whom Winston Churchill once remarked that his life marked the greatest stride forward in the history of the human race.

"The responsibility is a great one. After all, Moses figures in three of the world's great religions. You have to be prepared to answer questions of all of them concerning the interpretation of Moses' life."

Sport in Brief

FORMER GREAT IS 81

PITTSBURGH (AP) — John (Honus) Wagner, baseball's Mr. Shortstop, Thursday celebrated his 81st birthday.

Wagner, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, led the National League in hitting eight years during his heyday.

Now ailing, the former Pittsburgh Pirates seldom leaves his home in nearby Carnegie.

WILL HOLD OUT

WASHINGTON (AP)—Jim Busby Washington Senators' leading hitter, said Thursday he is determined to hold out for more money.

Busby is after a salary of $20,000. The Senators, now working out at their spring training camp in Orlando, Fla., have been reported offering $18,000.

"I think I'm worth at least what I'm asking," Busby said in a quiet—determined tone. "Undoubtedly, they don't think so. Well, I'm not signing until they change their minds."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for

SATURDAY, FEB. 26, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Vibrations in tune with you are harmoniously inclined and work assiduously at duties. Renew in your heart pledge of co-operation with right ideals, good living, faithfulness to home, loved ones.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Caution in all things of value, haste may come to loss of money, property even character. Be sensibly careful always, wise living calls for wise moderation. Attention to the important.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — May be called upon to stand in defence of right, rights of home, family. Don't hesitate, protect honor in all things. Loyalty, honesty, fairness truly are assets.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Benefic rays abound, day should be means for many happy, valuable hours, blessings to come. Though reasonably strenuous conditions, being aware should fortify and eliminate fear.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Personal, private interests seem to the fore. You who make yourself equipped to cope with this should fare well; you who are not, look around, learn the ways of the wise and gain.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Get the incentive of zeal, the will to do, achieve. It's in the air, breath in and have your share. Likely you will receive help, encouragement from the unpretentious, unexpectedly. Alert.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Today discloses hidden advantages for keen, observing ones. Glance around for indications, leads, and don't be fearful of taking some chances; many have won the jackpot that way.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — The obscure could be what you have been looking for, today you may come across lucky idea, thought. Don't be too exacting, take progressive liberty with consistency and expect to achieve the unusual.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Attractive day, what does it mean to you? Only what you put into it, what you derive from it. Good can be gotten from the most every day places, instances. Be busy, search and win.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Planetary aspects offer little extra help. You are virtually on your own, but of course are quite capable of handling the hard as well as easy ones. Enjoy some rest, replace energy.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Put a stop-gap on unwise spending, thinking you can make it up later. You can do a fine job if you make up your mind to keep within right spheres. Advance your ability, possibilities.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Hesitate signing notes, taking on heavy financial obligations; be logical this mixed period. Legal matters, contentions need shrewdness, diplomatic smartness. Don't cross opposite sex needlessly.

YOU BORN TODAY: Pisces is of the Water Triplicity, Twelfth Sign of the Zodiac. It indicates peacefulness, meditation, kindliness and sympathy. You like to gather knowledge and have a deal more than you give yourself credit for having. Innately unselfish, sometimes too generous and friendly. You women make devoted able wives, mothers; you men are constant, faithful, work hard for your families. Avoid worry, lack of confidence.

Birthdate of: Victor Hugo, Fr. poet, novelist; Wm. F. Cody "Buffalo Bill," Indian scout; Madeline Carroll, actress.

Little Benny's Notebook

We were eating dinner, being liver and onions in pop's honor, and ma said, This white china is getting panefully chipped, William, but I know how fond you are of it, so at least it has a sentimental value.

Plain white china has a practical value, too, pop said. According to statistics, hundreds of man and woman hours are lost every year by peeple jabbing their forks at colored designs on china plates in mistake for food, he said, and ma said, Anyway, I'm certainly not going to use my good Widgeon Ware for everyday use, and it would be sheer extravagants to buy a 3rd plane white set just as a stop-gap. Dont you agree, William? she said.

A hundred per cent, pop said, and ma said, There's just one little contrary straw in the wind. I'm always haunted by the idea of somebody suddenly dropping in while we are eating, so I'd have to invite them to join us with no time to change the china. They'd be sure to jump to the headlong conclusion that we eat off chipped plates for poverty stricken reasons rather than sentimental ones, she said.

By gollies, now that you bring it up, I'll probably start to be haunted myself, and I cant think of anything werse for the digestion than eating with a haunted feeling, pop said, and ma said, Why William, if you really feel that way, Hookbinders is having their semmy annual sale of china, including their famous white ware.

Well that's a coincidents, why dont you take advantage of it? pop said. Coincidences only knock once, he said, and ma said, William I think that's a wonderful idea.

You're quite welcome to it, my dear, pop said.

Being the happy end for ma.

TENDERS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "TENDER FOR ADDITIONAL DEVELOPMENT OF THE AIRPORT AT TRENTON", will be received up to 12 o'clock noon, MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1955, for the Construction of a 2000' x 200' Extension to Existing Runway 6-24, Construction of Additional Parking Area and an Access Road at the Airport at Trenton, Ontario.

Plans, specifications, labour conditions, contract form, form of tender and return tender envelope may be obtained on application to the District Airway Engineer, Department of Transport, 25 St. Clair Avenue, East, Toronto 7, Ontario, upon receipt of an accepted cheque made payable to the Receiver General of Canada for the sum of $25.00. This cheque will be returned upon the return of the plans and specifications in good condition. Additional information required with regard to interpretation of plans and specifications may be obtained from the aforementioned District Airway Engineer.

Plans and specifications will also be on display at the Belleville and District Builders Exchange, City Hall, Belleville, Ontario.

Each tender must be accompanied by a security deposit equal to (a) ten per cent (10%) of the tender price where the amount of the tender does not exceed $250,000.00, or (b) $25,000.00 plus five per cent (5%) of the amount by which the amount of the tender price exceeds $250,000.00, where the amount of the tender exceeds $250,000.00 which security deposit will be forfeited in the event of a tenderer refusing to enter into a contract on the basis of his tender if called upon to do so, or failing to satisfactorily complete such a contract. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.

Any tender not accompanied by a security deposit as described will not be considered.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

F. T. COLLINS,
Secretary.
Department of Transport,
Ottawa, Ontario, February 18, 1955.

MADOC

District Band Concert Well Received

MADOC — The Madoc and District Band, under the leadership of William Aylesworth, gave a concert recently to a most appreciative audience in the high school auditorium.

This band, since its inauguration in 1953, has made continuous progress from a musical standpoint. The program included the celebrated waltz from Verde's "Il Travatore", and a brilliant arrangement of the well known "Glow Worm", featuring advanced clarinet work.

Overtures and chorals, along with military and ceremonial marches, made a fine variation.

John Bristol, of Madoc, was master of ceremonies, and pointed out that Madoc has a band second to none for a town of its size and asked for continued support.

Toward the close of the program Mr. Aylesworth thanked the guest artist Lieut. Bill Brown, of Tweed, for his euphonium solos, which were well received. In reply to Mr. Bristol's compliment, the bandmaster stated that proud as he was of the band, his efforts were augmented by the assistance of several bandsmen of wide and varied experience who have loaned their talent and prestige at practices and various band

CHRYSLER OFFER AVERTS STRIKE

Union committee men cheer decision to accept Chrysler offer, which was agreed upon two hours before Chrysler of Canada employees were to go on strike in Windsor, Ont. Official union ratification of the settlement terms will be asked on Feb. 27 from the general membership of the union—local 195 UAW-CIO. Terms, details of which are being withheld until after the membership has been informed, are estimated by the union to represent a package of 10.44 cents. (Central Press Canadian).

Trent Valley Hockey League

TRENTON. (Special.) —Point Anne Cementmen knocked the Trenton RCAF Flyers out of the Trent Valley hockey league playdowns here last night winning 5-2, in the third game of the semi-final series. The CCC boys qualified to meet the winners of the Trenton-Belleville TVL game in Belleville tonight unless a fourth game is necessary.

Spirited by the G. Goyer, L. Goyer and Williams combination Point Anne took an early lead and rammed in four goals before the Flyers took their turn at flashing the light.

In the third period St. Pierre raised the Flyers' hopes but Gerry and Leo Goyer showed the opposition who was boss scoring one for good measure two-thirds of the way through the period. Point Anne weathered a heavy storm while Duke Doran sat out a two minute penalty and was put out of the game for the rest of the night charged with throwing his elbow into the face of an opposing player. Blanchard on a relay from Tardif and St. Pierre sank the Flyers' first goal.

THE TEAMS

Point Anne—Goal, Don Bates; defence, Judd Semark and Hurst; centre, Leo Goyer; wings, Gerry Goyer and Tim Williams; alternates, Strahan, Gilmour, Doran, Graham, Stewart, Hunter.

New Divorce Bill Wins Support From Senators

OTTAWA (CP)—A Senate bill aimed at widening grounds for divorce in Canada won support Thursday from an Alberta Senator who said present divorce machinery seems to be working against itself.

Senator F. W. Gershaw, Liberal 71-year-olddocto r and father of four children, told the Senate he is convinced present law permits divorce where there should be none, yet prevents it where it should be granted.

For this reason, but with some slight reservations, he would support the bill.

Introduced by Senator Walter Aseltine (PC—Saskatchewan), it would make desertion for three years, cruelty and insanity additional grounds for dissolution of marriage in provinces with divorce courts. Adultery now is the only ground in these provinces, except Nova Scotia, where cruelty also pertains.

It also would provide that no divorce petition could be started until three years after marriage except in extreme cases but that adultery would be ground for starting a divorce action anytime.

Senator Gershaw said the fact adultery is the sole ground makes Canada's law harsh. No matter how intolerable married life might be or what horrible examples were held up to children involved, incompatible couples couldn't be released unless "the crime of adultery, or the crime of perjury, is resorted to."

Cruelty as a divorce ground should be carefully defined and not include mental cruelty but only constant inhuman physical treatment.

JITTERS IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The eerie wail of an air raid siren awakened thousands of residents early today and sent hundreds rushing into the streets to scan the dark sky. Police, swamped by telephone calls, reported a short circuit had set off the huge siren.

Ill-Health to Retire Pacific Flag Officer

REAR-ADMIRAL HIBBARD

REAR-ADMIRAL PULLEN

To retire on July 7 because of "ill health", Rear Admiral James Hibbard, DSC and Bar, will be succeeded to post of flag officer, Pacific coast by Read Admiral Hugh Pullen, 49, of Oakville, Ont., and Halifax. A native of Hemison, St. Malachie, Quebec, Admiral Hibbard, 46, son of a clergyman, joined the navy as an ordinary seaman in 1924 and rose to the second-highest rank in the peacetime navy. Named chief of naval personnel in April, 1953 Admiral Pullen joined the service in 1920 and served mostly in destroyers during World War II. Later he commended a destroyer flotilla and then the cruiser Ontario. (Central Press Canadian Photos).

SHANNONVILLE

H-S Assoc. Commemorates Founder's Day

SHANNONVILLE. — The meeting of the Home and School Association was held on Monday evening with a good attendance. The meeting was opened by the president.

Treasurer's report was given with the same bank balance as of previous meeting and cash on hand $30.63. Card convener reported six cards mailed out and two responses of thanks were received.

Membership convener reported two more new members. Mrs. Nickie Sero, and Mrs. Ken Hollands, who are doing such good work teaching the younger girls to sew, knit and embroider, were present to display some of their finished work of pretty aprons, wee pyjamas, sequin work and embroidery.

A hearty vote of thanks from the Home and School Association as well as the parents, go to these ladies for their wonderful help. Mrs. Bert Spencer and Mrs. Helen Louis with the good co-operation of parents, are also doing a wonderful job with their teen-age group. They are entertained every Saturday evening at different homes, and are now learning to round and square dance, as well as having a sleighing party and wiener roast. These refreshments are furnished by the young people and paid for with their weekly collections.

Deadline for fare money to be taken in to Mrs. Reid for the Toronto trip is set for March 1st, after this date the Association will not guarantee transportation and tickets for the show.

It was decided that tea towels and dish clothes also playing cards be purchased.

Mrs. Kilburn offered a hearty vote of thanks to vice-president, Mrs. Walter Brant, who conducted the last meeting so successfully, in her absence due to sickness.

The next Home and School meeting will be on March 15, Tuesday evening in the school room. Conveners for the March months are, Mrs. Marion, Mrs. Walter Brant and Mrs. Lorne Maracle.

Founder's Day collection amounted to $2.35.

Refreshments were served and the next euchre party will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Louis this evening.

Windsor Hostess Stabbed to Death In Restaurant

While 100 Dine Feet Away, Waiter Wields Big Knife

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Police said charges will be laid today against a Windsor man who admitted fatally stabbing a restaurant-bar hostess while about 100 supper patrons dined within 20 feet of him Friday night.

The man, a part-time waiter, was to appear in court this morning.

He surrendered to police a few minutes after the stabbing. His name was withheld.

The hostess, Mrs. Betty Lesperance, 33, was stabbed while she stood in the doorway of the restaurant's office, talking with another. She was the mother of three children.

Police said she was stabbed twice with a six-inch hunting knife, once in the chest and once in the back. She died 30 minutes later in hospital.

NO MOTIVE

According to police, the waiter entered the police station and said: "I've just killed a woman. I stabbed her with my knife, and she died."

He was carrying a blood-stained knife, and his clothes were spattered with drops of blood, police said. They could find no motive for the stabbing.

Mrs. Kay Bundock, a bookkeeper at the restaurant, told police she was talking to Mrs. Lesperance when the waiter entered the office and asked for his pay and unemployment insurance book.

When told it would not be available for a couple of days, he protested, Mrs. Bundock told police. She said Mrs. Lesperance then asked him not to disturb the customers.

SCREAMS AND FALLS

"He said it would be all right," she said. "Then, as he was leaving, he pulled a knife from his pocket and stabbed Betty.

"Betty just screamed and then she fell. I didn't know what had happened at first."

Mrs. Bundock grappled with the waiter as he tried to run, but he threw her against the wall and fled through the kitchen.

Police said the waiter told them he purchased the knife a week ago. They said he had cut a pocket out of his trousers, and was carrying the knife in a sheath strapped to his leg.

Mrs. Lesperance's husband Joseph, a bus driver, and her three children, Marilyn, 9, Paty, 6 and Tom, 4, remained in seclusion all night. A relative said they were "too shocked" to say anything.

ALWAYS CHEERFUL

Mrs. Lesperance had worked at the restaurant for two and a half years. Her fellow workers described her as "always cheerful and well-liked by everyone."

The waiter had been employed on a part-time basis for the last 18 months.

WRESTLERS MEET

GUELPH (CP) — University of Toronto Friday night placed seven men in the finals of the senior championships to be held here tonight. OAC-OVC placed six in the finals, McGill three and Western two. Queen's failed to place.

START CAMPAIGN

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A house-to-house campaign to raise $84,000 for two swimming pools will be held next Monday, city officials said Friday. More than 1,800 persons will take part in the canvassing.

Mental Tests For Irritable Drivers Urged

TORONTO (CP)—Mental examinations for drivers whose actions indicate instability were suggested Friday in the Ontario legislature as the debate on the highway safety committee report continued.

E. L. Weaver (PC—Toronto St. David) said any enforcement officer who sees such actions should have the power to take the driver before a magistrate.

The magistrate could order a mental examination by a doctor or psychiatrist and the driver given a stability rating. Classification would depend on irritability, impatience and so on.

OTHER PROPOSALS

Other suggestions heard Friday included compulsory insurance insurance for all motor vehicles, compulsory insurance for driving school vehicles, regulation of automobile advertising so the accent on speed is eliminated and special daytime licences for persons with poor night vision.

W. E. Brandon (PC—York West) said he favored a committee recommendation that motorists under 21 be required to have insurance on their cars, but he questioned why the rule should be confined to that age category.

Mr. Brandon said he did not agree with the idea conveyed in the report that all drivers under 21 were incapable drivers; teenagers were not always at fault in traffic accidents.

Attorney General Porter interrupted the debate to comment on two reports published here during the day.

He told the legislature that one, which said 30 provincial police officers had resigned in the Dundas and Newmarket areas in the last 10 days, was erroneous.

SAYS MORALE HIGH

There were no resignations in those areas during the time mentioned; applications for employment in the provincial police were on a scale higher than during the last three or four years, and morale was higher than ever before.

Commenting on a second report, Mr. Porter said the government is conducting experiments on a new machine to test degree of intoxication. The project was being carried out under responsible medical experts and a group of University of Toronto students were co-operating.

The report had said dozens of experienced drinkers, including 48 university students, had been getting themselves drunk at government expense for periods during the last four months.

The legislature agreed to a suggestion by W. J. Grummett (CCF Cochrane South) that the highway safety committee report be considered section by section by the committee of the whole next week.

The debate on the speech from the throne will continue Monday.

Last Deadline Set for Mar. 15

TORONTO (CP)—Deadline for obtaining 1955 Ontario car and driving licences has been extended to March 15, Ontario Vehicles Registrar J. P. Bickell announced Friday.

The deadline was originally fixed for Jan. 31, but "time of grace" was made Feb. 28.

"March 15 is the absolute deadline," Mr. Bickell said.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO — (CP)—Ontario's latest cold wave was just about over Saturday morning as strong southerly winds brought moderating temperatures to all areas. These southerly winds are caused by an elongated weather disturbance that stretched from James Bay to Lake Michigan. This storm is already bringing snow to northern Ontario and will bring rain and wet snow to the southern part of the province later today. Another surge of Arctic air will clear skies and drop temperatures in northern Ontario by tonight but clearing across southern regions will be extremely slow on Sunday.

LEGISLATION IS EXPECTED TO AID SALE OF GAS

Federal Power to Tax Exports Removed

OTTAWA (CP)—Legislation expected to help Canadian natural gas find United States markets has received Commons approval.

It is a bill removing federal power—never used—to tax exports of gas, oil and other fluids and restricting the present unlimited government authority to cancel licences for their export.

The measure, which also provides for federal licensing of natural gas imports, was given second reading—approval in principle—Friday night. It passed committee study, too, and now needs only a formal final reading before going to the Senate.

Trade Minister Howe said the measure does little to alter federal policy on export of natural gas, oil and electricity. He indicated, however, that ending dormant export-tax powers is aimed at helping Canadian gas companies enter U.S. markets.

MUCH CONCERN

He said that in applications by Canadian companies to the U.S. Federal Power Commission there has been considerable concern over the taxing power. It was being abolished to give reassurance that the government did not intend to impose a tax.

His statement was an apparent reference to the FPC rejection last year of a bid by Canada's Westcoast Transmission Co. for a licence to pipe Peace River gas into the U.S. Pacific Northwest. Westcoast now is planning a new arrangement which needs FPC approval.

Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd., also needs FPC approval for a line from Winnipeg to the Minneapolis area in connection with its 2,200-mile line from southern Alberta to eastern Canada.

It is expected FPC approval of the two companies' applications will be encouraged by the relaxation of federal power to cancel gas and oil export licences.

Mr. Howe said the provision for licensing of natural gas imports will ensure that any import would be based on continuity of supply and will make certain that Canada's own gas resources can be developed most advantageously.

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) urged adoption of a national policy to safeguard use of Canada's energy resources. He proposed a "national energy board" to formulate policies on uranium, gas, oil and water resources.

He described the bill as a stopgap measure that does not go far enough towards establishment of a national energy policy.

(Federal authorities, it was reported last week, have undertaken a long-range study with a view to eventual integration of the uses of atomic and convention sources of power in Canada with an eye to a possible national fuel and energy policy. No proposals have yet been placed before the cabinet.)

Mr. Howe replied that the government is advised on energy matters by a committee of experts from various departments. It would be a waste of manpower and talent to set up a board of experts which would be called on to deal with no more than about 10 applications a year.

The Commons made other progress on its legislative program as it approved a series of preliminary resolutions to bills which then were introduced.

One bill, to increase membership of the national harbors board to four from three, brought a suggestion by Mr. Green that local councils be set up to advise the board on operation of Canada's eight national ports.

Princess Margaret Starts Last Lap Of Her 'Suntan Tour' of West Indies

NASSAU, Bahamas (Reuters)—Princess Margaret starts the last lap of her "suntan tour" of the British West Indies today when she steps ashore on this world-famous Caribbean holiday-isle and into the middle of an inter-governmental squabble over her visit.

Her four-day visit will end a month's triumphant journey among the Caribbean islands, and Bahamas fully intend to mak her short stay here a memorable one. The many islands in the Bahamas group have been sending representatives, from justices of the peace to schoolchildren, to swell the numbers of the official welcomers.

But a big fight has marred the official doings. Next Thursday, the day after the princess flies to London, the House of Assembly will debate a protest that no elected members of the House have been invited to a state dinner which she attends Monday night.

The governor, the Earl of Ranfurly, confirmed Friday night that the only members of the House present would be chairmen of boards, appointed by him.

He explained that the difficulty has been that accommodation for entertaining is limited. "I have tried in two functions at Government House, a cocktail party and banquet, to spread the net as wide as I can."

He added that all the members would attend the cocktail party.

IMPORTANT ROLE FOR LITTLE BOY

Dominic McGowan, 3, reaches up to hand Queen Elizabeth a purse of money during her visit to London's Welsh Baptist chapel on the occasion of the 19th anniversary of the Hepburn Starey Blind Aid Society. Dominic's purse contained a contribution to the society, of which the Queen Mother is a patron.

Adenauer Close to Victory In Fight to Rearm Germany

BONN (AP)—Opposition Socialists rallied their forces today for a last-ditch, but apparently hopeless, struggle to block the Paris treaties rearming West Germany.

As the parliamentary battle over ratification entered its third day, clashing legislators faced the prospect of an all-night session before reaching a vote. All hope for French approval of German sovereignty and rearmament rested on the outcome.

Despite the fierceness of the fight, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer seemed certain of victory on his drive to push the pact through the Bundestag, lower house of the West German Parliament.

The Socialists virtually conceded defeat in advance by summoning party chiefs immediately after close of debate "to consider the new political situation."

There was no clear indication when the final vote might come. Opponents of the pacts have delayed proceedings so much that today's schedule showed a big backlog of speakers.

Although the Bundestag rarely sits after midnight, the government, anxious for quick ratification, was ready to continue the debate into Sunday morning if necessary to reach an end at this sitting.

If approved, the ratification laws must be returned to the Bundesrat (upper house) for final action before being sent to President Theodor Heuss for his signature.

The treaty laws before the Bundestag would: End the 10-year allied occupation of West Germany; authorize the Western big three powers to maintain armed forces in West Germany; admit West Germany into the West European Union and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization; "Europeanize" the strategic Saar.

The government seemed certain to win overwhelming majorities on the first three. Only the troublesome Saar agreement faced a close squeeze.

Written in as part of a package deal to gain French approval of German rearmament, this accord has been hotly condemned as a sacrifice of 960,000 German citizens and 991 square miles of German territory.

Gale Stalls Rescue of 7, Have to Locate Plane Again

WINNIPEG (CP) — The cloak used by the Arctic to stall the rescue of seven prisoners of the Barren Lands was expected to be torn aside today.

Searchers planned a dawn start to locate once more the RCMP plane which carried the seven to a forced landing Tuesday while on a flight to a Northwest Territories weather station and trading post.

The ski-equipped Otter was found Thursday and then lost again Friday when swirling snow obscured its position. For three RCMP crew members, two federal government employees and an Eskimo mother and her four-year-old son, the taunts of the weather meant a fourth straight night huddled in tents near the downed aircraft.

Today's weather prospects were described as good, however, and three RCAF Dakotas were set to take off from Churchill, Man., in renewed search.

Churchill was the starting point of the Otter's scheduled 290-mile trip to Ennadai, N.W.T. It is known to be down roughly 35 miles from the weather station but lack of distinguishable land marks, the instability of magnetic directional aids and the unco-operative weather combined to erase many of the gains searchers had made.

One of the Dakotas carried para-drop supplies and para-rescue personnel but they were to be dropped only if the party appeared in urgent need of medical attention. This was not expected to be the case.

When the Dakotas find the group, two RCAF Otters, now based at Ennadai, will be sent to pick up the seven.

Although neither the RCAF nor the RCMP had been able to talk to the stranded party, they said they are confident the seven were in no danger. Temperatures have dropped to as low as 49 below, but their tent was dug in well below the snow and they were believed well provisioned.

The only message laid out by the survivors was a red panel "L" the international distress signal for fuel.

The plane was carrying provisions for Eskimos at Ennadai. Aboard were Sgt. A. N. Beaumont of Winnipeg, the pilot; Cpl. R. L. Fletcher of Helmfield, Man., co-pilot; special constable G. E. Bartlett of Churchill, engineer; and passengers, James Houston of Toronto, director of handicrafts for the northern affairs department, and Sydney J. Sillett of Vancouver, department of transport employee. Only identification of the Eskimo pair was that the woman was a Mrs. Attaloak.

Riverdale Zoo To Be Enlarged

TORONTO (CP)—A five-year, $3,000,000 proposal to enlarge Riverdale zoo and make it "the largest and best in Canada" was disclosed Friday.

The plan, presented to the Toronto zoological committee for approval, would add 35 acres to the east-end zoo's present seven-acre site. The zoo sub-committee Friday approved the proposal.

Alderman Alex Hodgins, committee chairman, said features will be a special zoo for children and a combined restaurant and administrative building. The plan calls for barless cages, large water-bird sanctuaries and an aquarium, already in the planning stage.

He said construction could start next summer.

BUDGET SURPLUS DOWN ONE-HALF FROM LAST YEAR

Bank of Canada Profits Transferred

OTTAWA (CP)—The surplus on Canada's budget for the first 10 months of the current fiscal year is less than half that for the same period in the last fiscal year.

The finance department has explained that it boosted the treasury's January surplus to an unusually high $77,474,000 by transferring into its coffers a month early the Bank of Canada's annual profits, this year $41,400,000.

Still, the monthly treasury statement released Friday showed the budgetary surplus totalled $123,130,000 for the first 10 months of the fiscal year ending March 31. That is less than half the $287,494,000 in that period of 1953-54.

And without the Bank of Canada profits, shelled into the government treasury in February last year, the treasury surplus for January would have been $36,074,000, down from $47,113,000 a year ago.

MAY HAVE DEFICIT

There has been speculation that if the usual pile-up of bills towards the year's end appears this fiscal year, the government will have its first deficit since the war. Year-end bills in the 1953-54 year sheared the government's budgetary surplus to $46,000,000, and the January treasury statement showed the revenue-expenditure pattern following trends of pact months.

Tax revenue for the month totalled $328,610,000, down from $337,687,000 last year. That cut the 10-month collections to $3,090,845,000 from $3,314,610,000.

January government expenditures rose to $313,138,000 from $309,000,000 mostly from higher social security costs and miscellaneous increases, but spending for the 10 months totalled $3,240,745,000, just above the $3,237,248,000 last year.

CBC TV Shows 'Amateurish' Says Legislator

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A member of the Alberta legislature says CBC television programs are amateurish.

Edgar H. Gerhart (SC—Calgary) said Friday that every time he watches a CBC production he sees "millions of the taxpayers' dollars marching across the screen."

He said the programs have "poor sound, lighting and technique — amateurish is the word." CBC writers had not learned what to do with actors' hands "so they put a drink in them."

(At Ottawa, a CBC spokesman commented: "Like millions of other Canadians Mr. Gherart is entitled to his own opinion. We're sorry he doesn't like Canadian talent.")

In Saskatchewan, Robert Woof, (CCF—Turtleford) told the legislature he is pleased that liquor consumption declined in the province last year.

"I know it will mean less revenue," he said. "But I am sure the loss will be offset by a decline in administration costs resulting from accidents due to drinking."

Russians' Big Strides in Research In Arctic Cause Concern in Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—There is some concern here over the big strides the Russians are making in Arctic research.

One authority Friday described as a "shocker" the information on Soviet far-north research contained in a recent non-secret Russian booklet entitled "New Soviet Researches, Explorations and Discoveries in the Central Arctic."

The defence department has had in mind possible use of Canada's Arctic islands as air and sea bases. But little research into the problem has been carried out.

In the hydrogen age, the problem may become pressing. In light of the destructive capacity of the hydrogen bomb and the wide area which its radioactive fall-out can poison, it becomes increasingly evident that North America's defences must be pushed farther and farther away from the centres of population and industry.

Officials said Canada is at least 10 years behind the USSR in Arctic research. Russia started a systematic exploration of the central Arctic in the 1930s with, the Russians say, the objective of mastering a northern shipping route.

Up until 1947, Canadian Arctic research was left to explorers, the Hudson's Bay Company and the RCMP. It was not until that year that the defence department's Arctic research section was established.

The Russian pamphlet says that in 1948 Soviet scientists discovered a great submarine mountain range in the Arctic basin. The range, up to 10,000 feet high and 1,000 below the surface of the Arctic ocean, extends from the new Siberian islands to the north pole.

The discovery is important because the undersea range divides the Arctic ocean into two basins. It affects the circulation of water masses and the distribution and drift of polar ice.

Fear Australian Town Wiped Out By Raging River

Last Radio Message Says People Clinging to Roofs

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — A wall of water roaring down the flooded MacQuarrie river tonight was feared to have wiped out the town of Warren in New South Wales and known to have killed 38 people.

Last reports said most of the 1,746 people of Warren, about 360 miles northwest of Sydney, were clinging to their rooftops in the path of the swirling waters.

Apart from the 38 known dead in the floods ravaging a 30,000-square-mile area of New South Wales, 32 people are missing and more than 25,000 homeless.

Casualties at Warren are not known. The mayor radioed the last message heard from the isolated town, appealing for sandbags and calling for all able men to man the levees. Three air force transports took off with the empty sandbags.

WATER DROWNS VOICES

In the stricken Hunter river area, the town of Maitland braced itself to meet a second flood peak after a two-day battle against invading waters.

The raging Hunter is pouring down the main street. Water stretches from one to two miles, isolating the town. A convoy of trucks carrying hundreds of tons of food and clothing had to turn back because all roads were under from eight to 25 feet of water.

The roar of flood water is so great that voices cannot carry more than 20 feet.

A group of 23 grown-ups and children who had perched on a barn roof for 36 hours refused rescuers' offers to take them to safety.

Two ocean-going tugs, the only craft powerful enough to fight the torrents of the Hunter river, saved about 40 families cut off at Millers forest.

UNDREDS MISSING

Unconfirmed reports said one of the tugs foundered on the Hunter with at least eight people aboard. No further report of the incident was available because communications throughout the flooded area have been disrupted.

Relief officials said it was impossible to estimate the flood damage because of the lack of communications.

State Premier J. Cahill called the situation "near-castastrophic" with hundreds unaccounted for.

Four-fifths of Maitland population 23,000, is under water and police estimate damage there at £1,000,000.

Water 12 feet feet deep in the town greatly hampers mass evacuation and adding to the town's plight is the gas, drinking water and electric power failure as well as a grave food shortage.

At least 150 people are clinging to rooftops and hundreds more are marooned on railway stations, top floors of blocks of flats and hotels. Several thousand are camping in the open on high ground at the town's outskirts.

HEADS GARAGE MEN

TORONTO (CP)—Ben L. Parr of North Bay was elected president of the Garage Operators' Association of Ontario Friday at the 22nd annual meeting. He succeeds Joseph Perkins of Perth. Vice-presidents include Clinton Kellar, Kingston and Rae McWilliams, Peterborough, Treasurer is Arthur Morrison of Brampton, and secretary is Don Swift of Listowel.

Militia Grimly Fights 'Invaders' In Far North

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—A little band of trappers and militiamen held on grimly today, awaiting reinforcements from the south, as an airborne "enemy" force sought to consolidate a foothold on its theoretical invasion of North America.

The defenders, local residents attached to the reserve army, were harassing the enemy on all sides, attempting to contain the invaders in their present positions until assaulting paratroopers could be flown in from Edmonton. The defenders are members of the 24th Field Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers, and the Canadian Rangers.

PARATROOPERS READY

Six-hundred miles to the south, paratroopers of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, were poised to take off from Edmonton about noon in a massive effort to repel the "invasion," second exercise by Canada's mobile striking force this winter. The first was at Churchill in northern Manitoba in December.

Amendments To Canada Elections Act to Be Studied

OTTAWA (CP) — Committee study of suggested amendments to the Canada Elections Act, along with the whole broad question of redistribution, was approved Friday by the Commons.

The additional question of redistribution—changes in boundaries of electoral districts to keep parliamentary representation in line with population shifts—was given at the last minute to the standing committee on privileges and elections.

Secretary of State Pinard announced the government's decision that redistribution should be studied this year. The last redistribution of Commons seats was in 1953.

MOVE AMENDMENT

Mr. Pinard had External Affairs Minister Pearson move an amendment to include it in the terms of reference given the committee. He said it is the government's intention that there should be the freest study without pressure of any kind.

James E. Brown (L—Brantford) said he is anxious to see the franchise extended to all Indians over 21 who ordinarily reside on reservations. At present only certain Indians have that right.

Mayor Is 'At Sea' in Thinking Hospital Chairman Asserts As Board Approves Protest

The Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital agreed unanimously, Friday, to forward a letter to His Worship Mayor Jack Both expressing their reaction to recent statements made by him about the operation of the hospital. Governors also agreed unanimously to release the text of the letter to the press. The letter is published elsewhere in this edition.

The decision was made after considerable discussion amongst Board members.

J. N. Yanover, chairman of the Board, in commenting on the mayor's remarks, said that "the mayor, in his thinking, is completely at sea on hospital business, what we are trying to do and how we are trying to do it.

"His recent published statements are of some concern to many responsible people. In order to try to counteract the wrong impression which his statements may have created the Board has drafted a letter to Mayor Both."

"We are concerned about the talk which is being bandied about in the city on what is going on here. We have pledges outstanding on the Building Fund which may be affected adversely by the mayor's criticism. I can't understand how he could have made such statements.

CAN ASK FOR RESIGNATIONS

"If he and council haven't faith in the people on the Board, many of whom they appoint, they have the power to ask for our resignations," said Mr. Yanover.

He was referring to statements by Mayor Both reported in the Ontario Intelligencer on February 16th and 21st, in which the mayor is reported to have said that in his opinion the Board was "hiding" and "covering up" a deficit under payments for special service grants.

INDIGENT QUESTION

In explaining special service payments by the city to the hospital Mr. Yanover pointed out that "the county and the city are not equal partners in the hospital's operation" but that of total patient registration 40 per cent is from the city, 40 per cent from the county and 20 per cent from other municipalities.

He noted that at times the hospital has more indigent patients from the county than from the city.

"In fairness I feel that the county should pick up the difference between indigent rates and costs for special services. In effect the paying patient is subsidizing the indigent patient," he said.

He went on to explain that in 1951 city council allocated one mill, or approximately $18,000, to pay the hospital deficit. The hospital received about $16,000 in 1951 to meet the deficit.

In 1952, council allotted $15,000 for deficit of which the hospital needed $12,500.

In 1953 council decided to pay the difference between the statutory indigent rate and the ward rate plus the cost of special services. This amount was slightly in excess of $13,000.

"This money is not a grant," said Mr. Yanover. "It is payment for services rendered indigent patients."

PAY OFF DEBENTURE DEBT

He also stated that the hospital is paying approximately $31,000 a year against debenture debt and interest.

"No other hospital in Ontario is paying debenture debt and interest," said Mr. Yanover. "In effect we are earning $31,000 a year in profit."

K. G. M. Ross stated that "today's patient is paying for the financial sins of this city in the past."

"This hospital has come out of a financial swamp in a very short time," continued Mr. Ross. "It is small thanks if the devoted people who have brought this about are now to receive nothing but criticism."

"I am not concerned so much about criticism," he said. "We welcome criticism where it is warranted. But I am concerned about the place where this criticism has arisen and in order to present a true picture I heartily endorse this letter."

Mr. Yanover said, "We expect a certain amount of criticism but we do not expect members of the Board to take the statements Mayor Both has made. With regard to the amount of effort and work the Board has made, it ill behooves Mayor Both to make such statements."

SAYS CRITICISM UNJUSTIFIED

"I have meant nothing personal in this," said Mr. Yanover, "but I feel the mayor's criticism of the Board is unjustified."

Alderman Effie McCabe, stating that she could not speak for Mayor Both, stated that she felt that everyone should know what the hospital's financial position really is. She said that members of county council told her that until the hospital showed a deficit then they wouldn't vote it additional funds.

"I didn't know anything about this $31,000," said Mrs. McCabe.

"It would be the easiest thing in the world for this Board to produce a whopping deficit," said Mr. Yanover.

A. M. Haig then commented that "if the city doesn't welcome a good asset then that is their business. If they want a deficit we can certainly give it to them. If they want liquidation of a paying asset they can have it but I want no part of it."

"We have been trying for years to get out of a deficit position. This $31,000 debenture debt and interest should not be here. Any profits should be applied to reduction in rates. But we don't know what effect the impact of this new construction will have on rates and we dare not tamper with the present financial structure."

PAY ONLY FOR SERVICES

"There is no cash grant from the city for indigents," Mr. Haig continued. "They are only paying for services. Costs are going up year by year. Drugs and medical procedures are expensive but are compensated for by reduced time for hospitalization and by greater patient turnover."

"The welfare of the hospital is our only concern," said Mr. Yanover. "The Board has devoted hours to its work. I think the mayor has criticized the Board without knowing the siuation, and as the chief magistrate is listened to by people who have respect for his office."

"Maybe the mayor should be better advised," said Mrs. McCabe.

Mr. Ross then moved that the letter explaining the Board's position with respect to the mayor's previously published statements be forwarded to him and released to the press.

"We must inform the public about the Board's position," said W. B. Lattimer.

"It is an accepted thing that if one sode of question is publicized that the other side receive the same degree of publicity," said Mr. Ross.

"The council can have any information about the hospital that it wants," said Mr. Yanover. "Either the council doesn't care to or doesn't want to understand what we are doing."

A motion to forward the Board's letter to Mayor Both and to release the letter to the press was unanimously endorsed by the following Board members: J. N. Yanover, A. M. Haig, K. G. M. Ross, Dr. George Faulkner, Hastings County Warden, J. H. Sprackett; Cecil Ketcheson, reeve of Thurlow township; Alderman Effie McCabe; Mrs. W. C. Mikel, Frank Domenico, Bruce Lattimer, and Mrs. Lennox Smith, Women's Hospital Auxiliary representative to the Board of Governors.

Routine business attended to by the Board included approval of reports by the following committees: executive, public relations, accounts receivable and finance.

Mr. Ross noted the necessity for for immediate planning on the hospital's role in the event of civil disaster.

During January of this year there was a daily average patient population of 174. The hospital has an authorized bed capacity of 136.

WANTS DISASTER COMMITTEE

"I suggest that a disaster committee be formed," said Mr. Ross. "In the event of a train wreck or bus crash with 30 or 40 casualties, we would be swamped.

Board members were wholeheartedly in sympathy with the idea of housing the city health department and the TB clinic in the hospital. Lack of space for these two services was cited as one of the chief stumbling blocks to their eventual movement to the hospital.

The Board recommended that the needs of these two services be passed on to the architects for their consideration when assessing redistribution of space which will be available in the existing buildings when the new wing is completed.

The property committee was instructed to begin immediately to take steps to solve the problem of providing accommodation for the health department and the TB clinic.

Text of Hospital Board's Letter to Mayor J. Both

Following is the text of a letter addressed to His Worship Mayor Jack Both by the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital. Forwarding of the letter to the mayor and its release to the press for publication was endorsed unanimously by the Board of Governors at its monthly meeting held Friday noon in the hospital. An account of the meeting may be found elsewhere in this edition.

February 25, 1955.

His Worship, Mayor J. Both,
City Hall,
Belleville, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The Board of Governors cannot help but take notice of certain remarks ascribed to you as reported in the Ontario Intelligencer under dates of 16 and 21 February.

The particular remarks to which we refer are reported as follows:

Excerpt Ontario Intelligencer
16 February, 1955

"The Mayor pointed to the $12,000.00 voted by the City to pay for special services for indigent patients at Belleville Hospital and suggested this could be dropped. 'The hospital could not expect to receive outside grants as long as it presented a balanced budget', he said."

To a question from Alderman Argue, the Mayor replied 'it was not a question of lack of confidence in the Hospital Board of Governors, only that in his opinion the Hospital should show their true deficit instead of hiding it behind special service grants."

We would like to particularly call your attention to the use of the words "hiding it" and "outside grants."

Excerpt Ontario Intelligencer
21 February, 1955

"Claiming that the City could operate on 70 mills this year, the Mayor referred to the Special Grant of over $12,000.00 to the hospital for payment of special services which he said could be cut out. He said the payment for special services was used to cover up a hospital deficit.

'The City is not supposed to budget for a surplus, nor to cover up deficits of other people', he said."

We would like to call your attention particularly to the use of the words "cover up" and "other people".

The Board must take exception to the use of the words "hiding" and "cover up".

The Board has nothing whatsoever to hide or cover up and welcomes inquiries and constructive criticism.

The Board would like to point out that you are a member of the Board of Governors and as such have every opportunity to raise any matters which you may consider to be in any way critical of the hospital at Board meetings.

According to the Minutes of our meetings, the last meeting of the Board of Governors which was honoured with your presence was in March, 1954. The records also indicate that you attended three meetings of the Finance Committee of which you were a member in the year 1954, namely in February, April and September. The Board of Governors and each Committee meets monthly. The hospital is possibly the largest single asset of the City of Belleville and we would like to point out that the previous experience of the Board was that the Mayor attended such meetings and offered constructive criticism at such meetings.

We would like to state clearly that we consider it the duty of any member of the Board and the privilege of any member of the general public of the City of Belleville to bring before the Board any complaint or helpful suggestion on any matter whatsoever having to do with the management of the hospital.

We would also like to make it very plain that we consider it the duty of any member of the Board of Governors to lay his complaints and any constructive suggestions before the Board of Governors or the relevant committee of the Board where proper action may be taken of a constructive nature.

The Board also takes particular exception to your use of the words "deficits of other people", and "outside grants". The inference of your remarks is that in some way you choose to regard the hospital as being distinct financially, from the City of Belleville. You of course should be aware of the fact that the hospital financially is completely dependent upon the City, being city owned and operated. A majority of the members of the Board are appointed by City Council. If the hospital operates with a deficit, and your remarks would appear to be directed to the encouragement of a deficit, the deficit will have to be met by the City of Belleville. In the last few years it should have been apparent to council that the hospital has done more than its share in attempting to hold the line in municipal taxation. There is a debenture debt of approximately $295,950.00 outstanding against the hospital at the present time. The annual carrying charges on this debt is about $31,000.00, which is being entirely paid by the hospital. As far as we know, it is unique for a hospital to pay its own debentures. The $12,000.00 paid by the City, which can certainly not be regarded as a grant, is to meet the difference between the actual cost to the hospital to provide for services for indigent patients and the provincial indigent rate. It is certainly not used in any way to "cover up a deficit."

When this "grant" was established some years ago, it was hoped that it would encourage the County of Hastings to match it with a similar amount by reason of the fact that an equal number of indigents from the County of Hastings are served by the hospital. The Board has reason to hope that this may eventually materialize.

You should also be very much aware of the fact that building operations are in progress and the hospital is passing through a period of considerable financial uncertainty and sound financing dictates that no change be made in our budget structure for the coming year.

You should also be most aware of the fact that your public comments may have a most serious effect in undermimding the confidence of the general public in the hospital at a time when there are still outstanding a large number of public pledges and subscriptions to the Hospital Building Fund. These subscriptions were given by tax payers who had faith in the management of the hospital, which faith you may seriously have undermined by what can only be regarded by the Board as at least, indiscretion in your public remarks.

You may be sure that this letter would not have originated had not the Board been driven to the conclusion that your remarks as head of the City can only be construed by the general public as showing a lack of confidence in the Board of Governors.

We would like to add that the members of the Board serve without pay and without any hope of personal gain. Members attend from three to ten meetings during the daytime at the hospital at considerable expense in some cases to their own means of livelihood.

Their efforts have met with success in the provision of better facilities for the care of our sick and the successful completion of the largest financial drive ever conducted in our city, which results have been only obtained by many long hours of devoted work.

The incentive for this work has received a very severe blow by your public criticism.

We would like to make it clear that we welcome your criticism, but in fairness to the Board it is our belief that your criticism should be expressed first in the proper forum, and that is at a meeting of the Board of Governors of which you are a member.

Yours very truly,
J. N. YANOVER,
Chairman,
BOARD OF GOVERNORS.

He is survived by his wife, the former Margaret Arthurs; one son Arthur of Cobourg, and three daughters, Mrs. James (Willena) Wiggins of Leaside; Mrs. W. R. (Bernice) Wesley of Thornhill, and Mrs. Clint (Jean) Sayles, of Trenton.

There are eight grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Tulips Showing Through Earth Have Setback

Tulips which have been coaxed into life by the bright sun of the past few days had a temporary setback last night when the thermometer dropped to considerably below the freezing point.

In many sections of the city tulip beds have been showing life with tender shoots poking their way through the earth wherever they received the full benefit of the sun and where they were protected by buildings.

Trade Slower, Vendors Fewer On Market Here

Trade was a little slower on the local market here this morning, with fewer vendors than last week plying their business on the outside. Prices were mostly unchanged.

Carrots and beets continued at 50 cents a six-quart basket and turnips at 75 cents a basket. Cabbages were five to 15 cents a head while onions brought 50 cents a basket for cookers. White beans were 50 cents a quart. Potatoes continued at $3. a 75-lb. bag and 50 cents a basket.

Apples still in large supply brought 80 cents a basket for Spies; 75 cents for McIntosh; 65 cents for Snows and 90 cents for Delicious.

On the inside market prices also were steady with last week's. Eggs were 45 cents for large, mediums, 43 cents and small, 38 cents. Poultry was 45 cents a pound for fowl and 50 cents for spring chickens.

Chased by Dogs, Deer Races Through Madoc

Residents of Madoc village rubbed their eyes in disbelief Wednesday afternoon when a deer was seen racing through the village pursued by several dogs.

The deer ran up Champlain St. to No. 7 Highway, then crossed at the intersection of 62 highway and after making a circuit through the northern section of the village swung south past the theatre to the southern part of the village.

QUALITY THE PRESCRIPTION Rx PHARMACY SERVICE
IT NEVER WAS NECESSARY TO "Enjoy" POOR HEALTH

Many people seem to "enjoy" poor health. They would not care to be without a cupboardful of odd medicines for self-treatment—some of which may not be in keeping with competent medical advice.

The better way is to enjoy good health—by careful planning. Consult your Doctor at regular intervals; more often if required. He will prescribe only the preparations that you need—preparations of the highest quality, such as those from the laboratories of Parke, Davis & Company—prescriptions which we will be pleased to compound for you. The necessity for medication will pass, and life with abundant health can become a pleasure indeed.

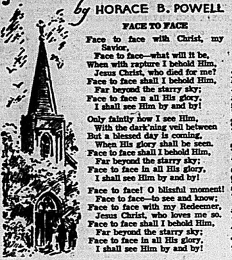
Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL



FACE TO FACE

Face to face with Christ, my Savior,
Face to face—what will it be,
When with rapture I behold Him,
Jesus Christ, who died for me?
Face to face shall I behold Him,
Far beyond the starry sky;
Face to face n all His glory,
I shall see Him by and by!

Only faintly now I see Him,
With the dark'ning veil between
But a blessed day is coming,
When His glory shall be seen.
Face to face shall I behold Him,
Far beyond the starry sky;
Face to face in all His glory,
I shall see Him by and by!

Face to face! O blissful moment!
Face to face—to see and know;
Face to face with my Redeemer,
Jesus Christ, who loves me so.
Face to face shall I behold Him,
Far beyond the starry sky;
Face to face in all His glory,
I shall see Him by and by!

Nineteenth century readers of Christian Herald were attracted one day by some verses tucked away in a corner of the magazine under the title, "You Ought To Do Something for Jesus."

Mrs. Carrie E. Breck, author of the verses, was unknown then but the hymn—her first real triumph—introduced her to the world and started her on a gospel song-writing career. With a large family to care for, Mrs. Breck was a busy home-maker but she found time along the way to write more than 1,500 hymns. "Face To Face With Christ, My Saviour" is one of the best loved of them all.

Mrs. Breck was born in Vermont on January 22, 1855. Later, with her parents, she moved to Portland, Oregon and spent the rest of her life on the west coast. She was a descendent of Col. Timothy Ellis, distinguished Revolutionary War hero.

Another New Englander, Grant Colfax Tullar, came along to write the music for Mrs. Breck's popular hymn. The song wings which he provided had a good bit to do with the song's successful reception. Tuller, a native of Connecticut, was a prominent nineteenth century gospel singer and preacher. He was orphaned in babyhood and from boyhood on he had to make his own way in the world. He was 19 when he became a Christian and not long afterward he enrolled for theological study in a New Jersey college. It was during his days at college that he began to develop his hymn-writing talents.

In later years, in addition to singing in evangelistic services up and down America, he collaborated with Isaac H. Meredith in the publication of several popular Sunday School and revival hymnals.

A Lift For Living

The Gift Within You

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

If someone were to say to you, "Stir up the gift of God which is in you," what would you think he meant? Most likely you would ask yourself, "What special gift have I?"

Commonly when we speak of gifts of God, we think of unusual native endowments such as a glorious singing voice, an artistic touch, or a power of literary expression.

Not many of us, however, have these outstanding talents in such degree that we could be called gifted. Most of us are just ordinary run-of-the-mill individuals. Even in our family life we may have been over-shadowed by some more brilliant brother or sister. In school we were not singled out for special distinction. Since leaving school we have made no name which gets featured or no fortune worth mentioning.

EGO-BUILDING TRICKS

Of course, we can always think of some persons who seem less gifted than ourselves. Hence, when we feel dwarfed in the presence of our superiors, we can build up our egos by taking a look at those who seem less favored. But in the long run it is not too satisfying to depend on the apparent inadequacies of others for our own well-being.

Emerson once said, "Every man I meet is my superior in some way In that, I learn of him." What if we caught Emerson's insight and attitude, and instead of concerning ourselves with our own traits, we were to study the traits of others, looking for their gifts that we might learn of them and link ourselves with them. Certainly such an attitude would enrich our inner lives and sweeten our relationship with our fellow men.

Before me is a letter written by an elderly man. The snows of age were upon him, but the light of his eyes was undimmed. He was like a house lighted up on a winter evening. Such houses make me think of some lives. The writer of this letter was in prison awaiting expected execution as a martyr, but his hardships had not put out the fire of his spirit.

STIR UP GOD'S GIFT

He wrote to rekindle the enthusiasm of a young friend. So far as we knew, this young man was not of exceptional ability. But he had something which is possessed by every one of us. That something is a spirit which the writer thus defines: "Stir up the gift of God which is in thee by the putting on of my hands; for God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power and of love and of a sound mind." Such was the counsel which Paul wrote to young Timothy.

Let us consider one of these gifts of God. Take the spirit of power. Paul says, "Stir it up." And the word he uses suggests the stirring of a fire. When a fire has died down, what is the first thing we do to it? We poke it. That's what most of us need when we get into our low moods of fearfulness. We should immediately try to shake ourselves out of such unworthy states.

When the fires of faith and courage need reviving, we must bestir our wills to action. We must put more fuel into our minds. A good coach does not merely shout orders to his team, he builds up their morale as well. Think how Jesus coached the apostles. Not only did he stir their wills, but he fed their minds with thoughts like these: "Fear not little flock, it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom" or "I go to prepare a place for you." Such thoughts rekindle hope.

Years ago a friend of mine, a frail little woman, was being taken on a Mediterranean cruise to restore her health. Her husband died on the voyage. She came back to the difficult task of raising her ten children. She lot two of her four sons in World War 1. Still, her tireless energy and indomitable spirit amazed those who knew her. She simply abounded in good works.

What was the secret of her strength? It was this: she used her iron will to stir up God's gift within her and kept refueling her mind with her religious faith.

Who Was This?

By A. A. M.

Who was the man who asked Jesus "Who is my neighbor?" and in answer to this question Jesus told the story of the good Samaritan.

This was an educated person who had been listening to Jesus' preaching. He stood up to test the Master, saying, "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?" Jesus answered by asking him a question, "What is written in the law? How do you read?"

The man answered, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your strength, and with all your mind; and your neighbor as yourself."

Jesus replies, "You have answered right. Do this and you will live." But the man wanted to justify himself for his question, and so he asked, "Who is my neighbor?"

Then Jesus said, "A man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and he fell among robbers, who stripped him and beat him, and departed, leaving him half-dead. Now by chance a priest was going down that road; and when he saw him he passed by on the other side. So likewise a Levite, when he came to the place and saw him, passed by on the other side.

But a Samaritan, as he journeyed, came to where he was; and when he saw him, he had compassion and went to him and bound up his wounds, pouring on oil and wine; then he set him on his own beast and brought him to an inn, and took care of him. And the next day he took out two denarii and gave them to the innkeeper, saying, "Take care of him; and whatever more you spend, I will repay you when I come back." Which of these three, do you think, proved neighbor to the man who fell among the robbers?"

The Israelite, who had wanted to try Jesus, was certainly on the spot. He did not want to mention the name "Samaritan" because the Jews hated the Samaritans and would have no dealings with them. So he answered. "The one who showed mercy on him." Then said Jesus, "Go and do likewise."

Read this man's name in Luke Ch. 10, vs. 25-37.

A TRIFLE CONFUSED

The day's mail is fascinating.

Almost every conceivable subject is covered in the tters, clippings, pamphlets, booklets and brochures at cascade down onto an editor's desk every day.

Much of it goes unread. After all, there is work be done. But sometimes even the cursory glances hich can be spared detect treasure.

Sometimes this treasure is wisdom. Sometimes——

Well, take today, for example. Came across "Joe utledge's Clip-Sheet," an offering from 84 Forest Hill oad, Toronto, which endeavors, generally quite capably, give management's view on a wide variety of subcts.

Today the first of three articles was entitled "The arity Mirage." It dealt with the argument of some nions, especially the United Steel Workers, that Canadans should receive the same wages as those doing similr work in the United States.

"Obviously what we can get must be related to what e produce, and we do not produce as much per man s they do across the line," says "Joe Rutledge's Clipheet."

Quite true; it might be added that even those Candians who do produce as much as their counterparts the United States—school teachers, for instance, and tenographers and, of course, editors—cannot expect to et as big a slice of "cake" as they would in the United tates because this "cake," the total value of the naon's production, is not as large.

But Clip-Sheet expresses the thought differently.

"We can't produce as many goods as our neighbor," says. "We haven't the tools and equipment. Why ot get them? Because it wouldn't do us any good. If e could and did produce as much as our neighbor, we ouldn't sell all we produce for we have fewer people to uy."

Union leaders, whether or not they understand the eal reason why parity wages are impossible, would be ustified in greeting this explanation with a loud, derise and rude noise.

Here we are being told that we cannot receive more oney to buy goods because there are not enough goods; nd that if there were enough goods to be divided up mongst us that would not benefit us because there are ot enough of us to divide these additional goods among.

It is true, of course, that we do not produce as many oods as the United States because we haven't the tools nd equipment possessed by that country. But it is ot true that additional tools and equipment would not o us any good. On the contrary, they would raise ur standard of living. That is why Canadians, through n ambitious program of capital investment, are doing heir utmost to increase their supply of tools and equipent. Far from there being nothing we can do to chieve parity wages with the United States there is a reat deal we can do—but increased production must recede increased wages.

PILOTS RAISE VITAL POINT

The Canadian public owes a debt of gratitude to the anadian Air Lines Pilots' Association.

The Association suggests that fatigue due to overork, and not faulty airmanship by the pilot, was the asic cause for the crash of a Trans-Canada Air Lines lane at Brampton on December 17.

Whether or not the Association is correct in this ontention is not a question which the layman is qualied to judge.

The board of inquiry established that the crew had een on duty 16 hours and in one day had flown from Montreal to Tampa, Fla., and had returned to Malton, here the crash occurred as the plane was coming in for landing. This fact would have been overlooked by ost of us had not the Air Lines Pilots' Association vigrously called attention to it. The long hours of work o not necessarily mean that fatigue caused the pilot to rr—but certainly there would appear to be a possibilty that they were responsible for his mistake. In any vent, action ought to be taken to make certain that no lane crew, in future, is required to work for 16 hours n a day.

HOLLYWOOD HOKUM

The sidewalks of Hollywood are to be inlaid with blue tars.

No, no, Abysinthe, we do not mean with actresses depressed by little problems like the absence of a job or the presence of two husbands.

These blue stars are to be of conventional sidewalk material and are part and parcel of a blueprint by the architectural firm of Pierera and Luckman, which is designed to glamorize the community and provide it with the most attractive ash cans and news stands in the whole Yewnited States. Both news stands and trash cans will be of contemporary design, in blue, yellow and tan.

There is, unfortunately, no truth in the rumor that the cans will be large enough to hold all the trash which has been coming out of Hollywood for lo these many years.

WARNING TO GIRLS

Dear Girl: The simple truth I state,
The best of men will stay out late.
The kindest men are apt to think
They can't afford that coat of mink.
The perfect man that you pick out
Will leave his garments strewn about.

You'll find the man that love exalts,
When married, will display his faults.
That rare perfection you beheld,
When you're his wife will be dispelled,
And day by day, to your distress,
He'll leave the bathroom in a mess.

Your grandma often shook her head
At things your grandpa did or said.
Your mother, though she loved your dad,
Knew every weakness that he had;
And even Mamie may not like
Some traits that she has found in Ike.

So, dear, I warn you, be prepared.
The honeymoon you two have shared
So happily, in time, will wane
And you'll have reason to complain.
Be patient with him if you can.
No woman gets a perfect man.

It was decided to form an association and the following officers were elected: president, Donald MacLean; vice-president, Norman Phillips; secretary, B. H. Sills; assistant secretary, W. T. Fleming; treasurer, W. B. Deacon; by-law committee, B. H. Sills, S. G. Retallack, Geo. H. Grills, T. E. Pearce and R. J. Graham; entertainment committee, W. C. Springer, G. Bennett and J. A. Laidlaw.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the Bahamas right now, off the end of Florida, spending the winter along with other rich Americans, is the most exclusive social set in the whole of North America. It moves, every last man, woman and child, during the next seven or eight weeks, lock, stock and barrel, from the Bahamas back to a small region of about seven counties in the state of Michigan. And a very exact and exclusive region, near the top of the lower peninsula of Michigan. There they remain for the spring and summer. And at the first hint of autumn, up they get and fly, every last one of them, back to the Bahamas for the winter.

They are a small bird, Kirtland's warbler, smaller than a canary, bluish grey above and lemon yellow below, with bold dark streaks on the yellow, along the sides.

The area it lives and breeds in, in Michigan, is less than 60 miles north to south, and a hundred miles east to west. It is a tiny island of jackpine country amid the vastness of the continent; and out of the fifteen billion birds that live on the continent, these few thousand Kirtland's warblers will have no other. They winter nowhere but the Bahamas, and they summer nowhere but in this one narrow belt in Michigan.

If you want to know what it is about bird watching that makes zealots and enthusiasts out of thousands in the States, this little bit about the Kirtland's warbler should offer you a clue. Every bird watcher wants to see a Kirtland's warbler to add it to his "life list" of the birds seen by him in his lifetime. Pilgrims from Canada and all over the United States drive over to Michigan in May and June to visit the northern counties to merely see it. Having once seen it, and fixed its identity in their minds, they spend the rest of their bird-spotting lives trying to see it somewhere else, on its migration to or from the Bahamas, or perhaps as a stray far from its narrow home. The greatest excitement was aroused last season when bird spotters found a pair of Kirland's nesting in south-western Ontario. The birth of sextuplets could hardly have been more sensational news—among the fantastic brotherhood and sisterhood of the binoculars and pocket field guide to the birds.

Canadian Art Show Assailed

(Medicine Hat News)

An exhibition of Canadian paintings—the first to be shown in London in 17 years—has been written off by its own hanging committee as so mediocre that it promises to be the artistic flop of the season. And perhaps of this generation. Critics complain that the show is a collection of second-rate work by Canada's best artists, plus average work by second-rate artists, and that the reputation of Canadian painting is bound to suffer irreparable harm.

Sir Gerald Kelly, dean of British artists and past president of the famed Royal Academy, branded the collection the worst possible. He is chairman of the hanging committee but emphasized the pictures were merely handed to his group and they were not responsible for selection. The 70 paintings were shipped over by a Toronto art dealer with the backing of the Ontario Government. The high commissioner for Canada, Norman A. Robertson, is listed as first patron.

Of the 30 works termed by Sir Gerald as "sheer rubbish," some were shown in Medicine Hat a year or so ago and earned the saem adverse rating. Local opinions were derided in most Canadian art circles. The furore aroused in London over the Ontario collection is an appropriate rebuttal. So apprehensive is Sir Gerald about the impact of the show on public opinion he has already asked Lord Alexander to start organizing "a really fine group of Canadian pictures." The idea would be to have Mr. Vincent Massey head a committee which would spend at least 12 months choosing the right paintings. Lord Alexander has accepted the mission.

If the Governor General agrees to the plan we hope that western artists will be fully considered, and that western paintings will have representation in the collection. Paintings by resident artists are now being selected in each of the prairie provinces for provincial travelling exhibitions within the next year. The best from each province should be forwarded to Ottawa for competition with the works of Ontario and Quebec and Maritime artists. We are sure that many would be chosen. If this were done the next Canadian show to go to England would be more representative and less dyspeptic.

Do Not Fill Stove's Tank

(New York Times)

In the hope that it might save a life we pass on to our readers a suggestion, sent to us by a fireman of twenty-five years' service, on the filing of the fuel tank on oil stoves. This suggestion is: Don't fill the tank full. The reason is that oil, usually stored out in the cold, will expand gradually as it warms up in the stove's tank, faster perhaps than it is withdrawn by the consumption of fuel. This expansion may prove too much for the container, resulting in leakage or breakage. The result, immediate danger of fire from spilled oil. This warning not to fill too full was among various precautions also advised by the National Board of Fire Underwriters recently, when the many deaths from oil-stove fires emphasized the need for care. Another don't: Don't fill the stove while it is lighted.

Locomotive's Final Disgrace

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The cost sheets decreed that the stream locomotive and its long wail of nocturnal poetry must give way to the diesel with the bark that makes a diva of the sparrow. Railroading is for profit; not for steam-singing in the corn lands or far cities more fair than Byzantium.

So there could only be appreciation when the Union Pacific selected the engine of the City of Salina, strong as Mars and beautiful as Venus, to make the last appearance of a steam locomotive in the Kansas City Union Station. It was a ceremonial and quite properly photographers were invited to record it on their films.

But with the guests gone, the Union Pacific forgot its fine feeling for the old engines. Deciding that the City of Salina's might still be useful now and then as a pusher in the Western Mountain Division, the locomotive was transported in a diesel-powered freight train.

For years men and boys will hear the echo of beautiful, deep-throated keening roll across Western Kansas and Eastern Colorado and into the narrow passes of the Rockies. And the old ones will know that it is the City of Salina's everlasting protest against a final disgrace.

Quetico Area Quiet Haven

(Christian Science Monitor)

Many of us have a most satisfying memory of gliding gently over the surface of a wilderness lake, dipping a paddle now and then, finding ourselves after a while with a much more balanced view of the world than is often possible in the raucous city canyons.

Canoeing is a joyous sport, whether you are loafing over a lake or running a stream. Perhaps the finest canoeing on the continent is in the Quetico-Superior region on the border between northwestern Ontario and Minnesota. It contains 5,000,000 acres of wilderness that have been kept free of roads and low-flying airplanes by complementary action of the two governments.

Not only is the Canadian-American action to preserve a wilderness encouraging when despite our ocean-to-ocean border we have few joint projects, but also because it shows dedication to sane values in a world that often tries to crowd in with the latest jangly commercial or the hollow roar of a jet plane.

Now from the Canadian side there comes reinforcement of all this with the announcement that a Quetico Foundation has been established to promote this great area of lakes, streams, pines, fish, and wildlife. It will sponsor educational, research, and other projects in an effort to be sure that this lovely land is preserved. This looks toward the eventual creation of an international peace memorial forest, returning the entire region to public hands.

Bamboo Is a Grass

(By Jack Spaulding in Atlantic Constitution.)

Biggest of the grasses, and most picturesque, is bamboo. This super-grass has been under study at Georgia Tech's engineering experiment station, and in time bamboo may be another southern cash crop.

There is native bamboo, of well known Georgia canebrake. And there are bamboos from Asia and Africa that have been introduced here and flourish as well as they do at home. The great centre for bamboo introduction has been below Savannah, along the coastal highway, where the United States Department of Agriculture has been testing bamboo from over the world for its suitability to southern climates and soils.

Bamboo is one of the most versatile of all Nature's gifts, and the uses to which it may be put are limited only by man's ingenuity. While bamboo is very much at home in the southern United States, it has been grown for ornament only.

In the tropics, and particularly in Asia, bamboo comes close to being all things to all men. It is used for building and nothing is cleaner looking or cooler than a bamboo house. Bamboo is hollow and jointed, and, properly cut, makes splendid buckets.

Bamboo makes good masts for small ships, and a buoyant raft. The young shoots can be eaten and are very much like asparagus. They can be earthed over and blanched like endive, or can be salted, pickled and candied.

Some species of bamboo grow as tall as 120 feet, and when it starts growing, nothing can stop it. It will push up through anything, sometimes at the rate of 16 inches a day if the soil is rich and the weather damp.

At Tech they have taken the bamboo apart with scientific detachment, and see a good future for it. It may be used as a supplement to pine for pulp purposes, and paper has been made from it in the past.

Other uses, according to Tech, are "light but strong construction, scaffolding, temporary trestlework and ladders. It can also serve as concrete reinforcement, food, nails, phonograph needles, fuel, fibre for roofing, corrugated material for containers and for building felts".

Bamboo furniture lamps and other household accessories are quite the things now, and most of this cane is imported.

Wounded Dog Gets Damages

(Informaciones, Madrid)

A former gendarme of a little village near Montargis, France, fired at a dog which he believed had just stolen some of his rabbits. The president of the local Society of the Friends of Animals attended the dog, succeeded in extracting the bullet from its head and lodged a complaint against the ex-gendarme.

At the trial the villagers testified unanimously in favor of the "honesty" of the dog. They assured the judge that it never stole rabbits from anybody.

The former gendarme was fined 1,000 francs (about $2.50) as damages to be paid the dog.

ANOXIA AND PHYSICAL DEGENERATION

Anoxia—Without oxygen, insufficient supply of oxygen to cells, tissues, organs.

Physical Degeneration — Retrogressive change in which cells and tissues are replaced with inert fibrous, fatty or calcareous matter so that functioning power deteriorates.

I am not greatly concerned about anoxia. Plenty of free oxygen around here. All one has to do is help himself, by B. B. and a few setting-up exercises every day — such as the six movements from the Last Brady Symphony.

Dr. Brady

But since yesterday morning I'm concernad about physical degeneration. I awoke with a stiff neck and I couldn't get up the courage to do my morning rolls. Likewise this morning. But my neck is not so stiff now and I'll roll tomorrow, by golly.

Inadequate daily intake of calcium, phosphorus, iodin, vitamin B, (thiamin), vitamin B2 (riboflavin) and vitamin D, from early childhood through breakfast this morning, is in my opinion the chief cause of premature physical degeneration.

In a pamphlet titled Young Folks and Old Folks I suggest how the former can avoid being mistaken for the latter and, within reasonable limitations, vice versa.

The oxygen deficiency (anoxia) which I believe is as common a factor of physical degeneration as the vitamin and mineral deficiencies already mentioned attributable to shallow breathing habit. Shallow breathing is characteristic of civilized people as compared with the natural (belly or bellows) breathing of untutored or savage people.

Civilized people have been taught how to breathe by self-constituted experts or instructors who were ignorant of physiology. That's why most people think that one pushes out the chest and pulls in the belly in order to breathe deeply. The pouter pigeon, tin soldier caricature.

For the space of a minute or two it is possible to change one's breathing from ordinary shallow chesty breathing to natural, deep belly or bellows breathing, but as soon as attention is distracted from breathing it reverts to the shallow type.

I belivee, however, that regular practice of the B.B. exercise (belly or bellows breathing), tends to prevent the anoxia due to our shallow breathing habit and so to retard the progress of physical degeneration.

BEING HUMBLE

Probably one of the least popular of the Christian virtues is humility. There is something about the very sound of the word that most of us do not like. Perhaps we recall Charles Dickens' despicable villain Uriah Heep, who was always calling attention to how "'umble" he was. Nobody wants to be like Uriah Heep.

Being humble is often thought of as making ourselves small and mean. Nothing could be a more false interpretation of Christian humility, for it does not even make sense. Christianity is always challenging us to make more of ourselves, not less—to become greater, not smaller.

The secret of humility lies not in how big we are, but in how big we think we are compared to how big we ought to be. The truly humble man is not the one who makes as little as possible of himself, but the man who makes as much as possible, and at the same time realizes how much more he might have made. The humble man is a realist about what he is at the same time he is an idealist about what he might be.

Humility is a challenge—a challenge to compare ourselves with something bigger and better. Christianity humility offers the highest standard of comparison of all—the example of the Master. "Lord, I will follow thee."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TOOLS TO HAPPINESS

The expert mechanic, carpenter, and all those who work with tools insist upon those that are sharp and in the best possible condition. Otherwise their work would be of an inferior quality. And how proud a workman is of his tools that are in top condition at all times!

In like manner do we have tools to happiness, and if we keep them in prime condition our friendships will always be kept in repair, and we will want to be constantly building something about us to add to our efficiency and our personal happiness.

Courtesy, consideration for the rights of others, generosity, selflessness, faith and courage are but a few of the tools that are essential if we would be experts in the building of happiness, and we must always bear in mind that when we build for the happiness of others we build for our own.

Most of these tools to happiness may be ours throughout life, needing no replacements. Each day they are ours to use. We can even loan these tools to others, who use them to such good ends that they are inspired to own such tools as their own!

Most of us are born with a full set of tools to happiness, but never learn how to use them, or at most only a few of them, and so miss out on valuable friendships, delightful experiences, and much of the richness of life. The best of tools are useless if they are not put to use; besides, they soon rust if not used.

Dr. Albert Schweitzer, who gave up a brilliant career in music, theology, and medicine to go to "darkest Africa" that he might serve the humblest of human beings, once said that he did it to help compensate for all the goodness and beauty in the world that had been accorded to him. Few men have so inspired others to a life of service as has this selfless man.

Quinte Secondary School News

DISCENDO OMNIBUS CRESCEMUS

KEYETTE CLUB

The Keyette Club is a newly-formed girls' service club in the Quinte Secondary School. It is affiliated with the Keyette Club of B.C.I.V.S. On Tuesday of this week they elected their executive.

Elected were:

President, Mary Catherine Clare; vice-president, Judy Aselstine; secretary, Diane Brown; treasurer, Susan Ghent; board of directors, Audrey Elgie and Gordenia Cummings.

SCHOOL PRAYER

At the request of Mr. Reid, our principal, some of the students have submitted prayers which they think would be appropriate for Quinte Secondary School. The prayers were written by the students. Out of the prayers submitted, Mr. Reid and the Students' Council picked the one to be used as our official school prayer. This prayer was submitted by Margaret Slavin of Grade IIB. All the students have been given copies of the prayer and it is said every day at the closing of school.

QUINTE SECONDARY SCHOOL CLOSING PRAYER

"Our Father, Creator and Friend of all, we thank Thee for bringing us safely to the close of another school day. Guide us and watch over us this night and in the days to come. We pray for clear minds and healthy bodies to do our appointed tasks to the best of our ability — for we would grow to become good citizens of this country and of Thy kingdom. Amen."

ASSEMBLY

Wednesday's assembly was presented by Grade 10C.

The Students' Council awarded Paula Mitas Grade 10A a cheque for her prize-winning crest design.

A boys' trio (Bill Dickey, Geo. Ferguson, Norm Stoliker) gave us their hilarious version of two popular songs.

Joyce Turner was next on the program with a recitation called "So Do I".

Last on the program was a satire on the popular TV program, "This is Your Life," complete with commercials.

The assembly closed with "The Queen."

GIRLS' SPORTS

The girls' junior basketball team played Trenton High on Thursday at Trenton. Trenton won the game 36-27. It was a fast, well-checked game, with Quinte playing well. Trenton were at their best, though, and managed to defeat Quinte.

Scorers for Quinte were: Musclow 10, Hatfield 8, Canning 3, LaRue 3, Lang 2, Thrasher 1.

The Grade 11 inter-form games were over this week. They have been playing for two weeks now.

Grade 10 inter-form starts next week.

BOYS' SPORTS

Boys' inter-form basketball came to a close on Tuesday with Grade 11C as usual the victors. This form has won 15 straight games, giving them complete possession of the rugby and basketball championships.

In Tuesday's game the stars were Eric Moody. Ross Walmsley and Eric Beeby; the scoring pace was set by Walmsley and Beeby. Jim Phillips and Jack Horwood of 11C, pressed the attack against the losers, 10A, and by fine passing were able to set up their team-mates' shots.

Featured in the defeated team's line-up were: Jim Ramsbottom and Jim Green. These boys tried valiantly to break up 11C's tight defence, but to no avail.

The final score of the game was 43-21.

The next scheduled inter-form sport is floor hockey and the odds lie heavily in favor of 11C to take that, too.

Wellington on the Lake

THE CALL OF WINTER

You, who are weary of winter,
Of the days that pass so slow,
Come out into the open
Where the world is white with snow;
Where the wind in keen caresses
Brings the roses to the cheek,
And health and strength and vigor
Are free for all who seek.

There is joy in the cold of winter
As well as in summer's glow,
Though all the summer fragrance
Lies buried beneath the snow;
There is zest in the wind's caresses,
There's strength where the frost intrudes,
And a subtle inspiration
Where the silence of winter broods.

—Helen B. Anderson.

Instead of complaining of the winter cold, the folk of this lakeside village seem to make the very most of winter enjoyment. With a fine commodious arena, skating and hockey are indulged in, and even the smaller boys and girls are seen with skates and hockey sticks. What care they for snow and sleet with winter joys at hand!

On Saturday evening, Maple Avenue was a blaze of light with cars arriving with folk to enjoy the Ice Follies presented by the Port Hope Skating club under the auspices of Wellington Board of Trade. The evening was pleasantly mild and an enjoyable time is reported by all who attended.

In contrast to these northern activities we hear of the sunny south from Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg, who returned on Saturday from a three weeks' holiday in Florida and Cuba.

Also Mrs. Freda Wood of Seattle, (nee Freda Nease of Hillier), sends a card from Honolulu, where she and Mr. Wood have been spending the winter. She writes: "We will soon be leaving our lovely sunsets over the Pacific and returning to the mainland. We will be glad to go. East, west, home is best."

Mrs. Alberta Smith with Wellington friends, visited Mrs. Annie Jones in Belleville hospital on Sunday. Mrs. Jones is recovering from a recent operation.

Rev. Mr. Rennison of Carrying Place conducted the service in St. Andrew's Anglican church, Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Vandewater, Belleville, were Saturday evening guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater.

Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Sanders, Toronto, spent the week-end with friends in Wellington.

The World Day of Prayer service was held in the Anglican church on Friday evening at 7.30.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ainsworth and Mrs. Edna Platt, motored to Campbellford on Sunday.

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

The February meeting of the W.A. of Wellington United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday school room, with the president, Mrs. Baden Alyea in the chair and Mrs. E. Maybee as pianist. The meeting opened with Mrs. Alyea reading a poem. The secretary, Mrs. Harold Nash, read the minutes of the last meeting and the roll call, and Mrs. Fleming gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. (Dr.) Thompson, corresponding secretary, read several 'thank-you' cards she had received. Plans were discussed for the supper to be held on the evening of March 11.

Mrs. Harold Nash had charge of the devotional period, taking as her subject "A Friend" and reading Luke 10. Her thoughts, so well expressed, were an inspiration.

The program that followed was in charge of Mrs. A. Vandewater and Mrs. J. Watt the latter announcing the numbers which included a reading "In Sunflower Time" by Mrs. Alyea; a vocal solo by Mrs. McNeil; a reading by Mrs. Alice Goodmurphy, explaining how the hymn "Ninety and Nine" was written by a Scotch lady whose brother was the lost sheep who led a reckless life after coming to Canada, and whose grave is now marked in the cemetery at Fergus, Ontario, and is visited every year by tourists. All joined in singing the hymn "Ninety and Nine". Miss Marvin favored with a piano solo. At the close of this interesting meeting a social hour with refreshments was enjoyed.

THE LOVE OF MONEY

I had no thought of money
In childhood's carefree day,
I would not work for money
For life seemed oh! so gay;
There were wild flowers to gather
In the deep fragrant wood,
There were birds in every treetop
And fairies, bad and good.

The streams in spring were bordered
With cowslips' gleaming gold,
I gathered them, so precious,
All that my hands could hold,
The days were filled with magic,
The twilight full of dreams,
Enchantment ruled my spirit
What need of gold's bright gleams:

But with the years' swift passing
I've learned the money's need,
Although I felt the evil
Of the miser's grasping greed;

But money is not a source of evil
But the love of it, we're told,
And what blessings to the needy
Come from our gifts of gold!

Christ Church C.C. Plans Activities

A large number of members of Christ Church Contact club gathered, in the parish hall on Monday night for their regular meeting, with president Marguerite Cooke, presiding.

It was announced that the rummage sale of last week was a profitable one and those who helped were thanked. Layette articles were distributed by convener, Frances Rogers, for completion. Preliminary plans for the tea and bazaar to be held early in June were presented by convener, Florence Lennox.

Work and sewing conveners are as follows:

Children's clothing—Margaret Wiggins with assistants Nadine Thorne, Doris Stewart, Joan Taylor, Win Taylor and Marjory Bunnett.

Aprons—Frances Rogers, Evelyn Ethier, Joyce Woodley.

Knitting—Beth Baldwin.

Novelties—Olive Rose.

Other committee members to date are tea room, Joyce Woodley, Jean Flindall; bazaar room, Dorothy McCormick; tickets, Lois Beeby; treasurer, Thelma Saunders; publicity, Marion Huson; decorating, Trudy Sands, Evelyn Wareham and Barbara Sweet.

PRIZE FOR NAME

A prize will be offered for the most appropriate name submitted and also to the member selling the largest number of tickets.

The club voted to purchase new toys for the Sunday nursery.

The members were then invited to join the Afternoon and Evening Branches of the W.A. to view a film on "India", which proved to be interesting and educational.

Before refreshments were served, Doris Stewart presented a cup and saucer to Greta Moult, who is leaving for Newfoundland very soon.

Hostesses were, Evelyn Ethier, Phyllis Hume and Olive Rose.

Women's Activities

ANGLICAN CHURCH GUILD

The Frankford Anglican Church Guild held its monthly meeting in the parish hall on Thursday with Mrs. Carmen Mikel presiding. The Rev. H. C. Secker opened the meeting and read the Scripture.

Roll called showed 19 members and two visitors present. Mrs. McLaren reported on the sick in the village.

A short business period followed and Mr. Secker closed the meeting.

Mr. Secker also gave an interesting talk on Lent; reading by Mrs. J. Wadsworth and a contest by Mrs. A. Caskey.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. C. Cooney and Mrs. B. Rose.

The Guild ladies of the Anglican Church, held their last meeting on Monday evening with 15 tables in play. Ladies' high prize was awarded Mrs. Mary Bruyea; ladies' low, Mrs. M. Houlden. Mr. George Harris won the men's high prize and Floyd Foster took men's low. The door prize was won by Mrs. Floyd Foster.

After the refreshments were served, a social period was spent.

TRINITY W.A.

On Thursday afternoon Trinity W.A., Madoc, held its meeting at the home of Mrs. B. Tanner.

Mrs. Jackson was in charge and conducted the business period. Mrs. Tanner and Mrs. Jackson were appointed to act on the Sunday school committee. A discussion on Christian Youth sponsor followed.

Mrs. Carmen announced the World Day of Prayer meeting to be held in Trinity United Church on Friday.

Mrs. Holmes was in charge of the devotional period the theme being "The Friend", with hymns bearing on the topic being sung and Mrs. Bennett reading the Bible story. Those taking part in the program were, Mrs. Bronson, who told the story of the famous hymn "Fight the Good Fight"; Mrs. W. McCoy gave a reading "Challenge Accepted"; Mrs. Lane, a reading "Happy New Year", and making up the months throughout the year; Mrs. Carmen, a talk on a "New Year's Message", as written in the United Church Observer. Mrs. Bennett gave a humorous reading "Iron Bound Resolutions" and a quiz on "Church Groups" by Mrs. Jackson concluded an interesting program.

A short social period followed.

Shrines and Temples of Penang

After reading a description of Penang written a hundred and fifty years ago, I was able whole heartedly to agree also with a modern writer who writes, "Penang remains one of the most beautiful if least advertised, places in the world. The yellow cassia, the scarlet flowers of hibiscus and ixora, the sweet-scented frangipani and the flaming caesalpinia . . . a brilliant show."

The older writer;—"The island presented a most beautiful and irregular outline . . . as we approached, the deepening tints became more and more vivid . . . until the whole extent of the picturesque isle formed one side of our splendid panorama; whilst, on the other side the hilly, jungly coast displayed almost equal beauty, though of a bolder character . . . one of the prettiest places I ever saw; the red roofs of the houses glittered in the sun through the surrounding thick foliage of the trees."

Instead of entering by sea I came by plane from Kuala Lumpur as I had decided I did not want to go by railroad. One collects so many prejudices. At the farewell to the premier on his way to England I was able to see the interior of the train and I realized my mistake. The sections and the beds were arranged in the European fashion and all were spotless, the buffet car being especially attractive.

The premier was a bright, and alert looking Malayan gentleman and the ladies at the reception, or one should say the farewell, of four races, were so beautifully dressed that I envied them one and all. Though it was a hot August evening, they were all of them covered from jewelled tip to shining sandals. A few, following the French fashions from afar were quite a bit uncovered.

EXCEPTIONAL SERVICE

The hotel was still another of those Oriental hotels where you are looked after as an individual, housed delightfully and every wish, even the foolish ones, gratified.

It has been my great good fortune going about in foreign lands to have had the services of many a good ~~chauffeur-interpreter~~. The rides around the Island of Penang were no exception. This young man spoke a good English, somewhat rare in the travelling world. You may find it hard to understand foreign tongues but the greatest plague is to try to figure out the meaning of the English you are listening to. If you succeed you have proved to yourself that you are a very clever person and can make your way wherever you wish to go.

The driver in Penang was a university student making extra money to continue his schooling. To my astonishment he not only new the names of the trees in his own Malayan speech but knew them by their international names, Latin. The drive to the temples was made memorable by his knowledge and still more by his appreciation of fragrance of plants and trees on the way. The car was sometimes slowed down or stopped to give our nostrils satisfaction. We all of us have done the same in apple-blossom time in Hastings County but at the risk of appearing unpatriotic, it must be admitted that they are bettered on the far side of the world.

Before going to the inspiring Botanical Gardens we shall visit a few of the temples, first the Hindu temple on Waterfall Road. It is the largest temple in Penang and its deity has the longest name you are ever likely to meet with outside of Wales Thandyuthapany.

You enter a large hall and walk in stocking feet on tiled floors to a shrine in front of which is a statue of a peacock given to an ancient notable by his mother for an attendant, but for what purpose was not explained to me. The chandeliers, colored glass balls, lanterns and the gaudy paintings about two feet by one and a half were all good to get away from.

I was taken to the main shrine but being a woman and an unbeliever was permitted to go only as far as the lowest step but the lights were turned on and I could see all its garish gorgeousness. The other Hindu temples were passed by.

CARVING WONDERFULLY DONE

We went then to the temple in Anson Road completed in 1929. In the centre of a noble and lofty hall sits the ever-smiling Lord Buddha. Mona Lisa, by a more modern artist, is supposed to have an enigmatic smile but the Lord Buddha (and some of the minor gods and goddesses) does grow on you when well carved or painted. The sweet, gently closed mouth, the narrowly widened eyes, what they had seen, missing nothing either of the meanness nor the merriment of the world. The silent, smiling mouth seemed to testify to a gentle philosophy derived from true knowledge.

In one of his incarnations Buddha, strangely enough, manifested himself as a woman and to her "Kuan Yin" are many temples dedicated, the principal one here was founded in 1800. The idea seems to have been to make it an inspiration to women so, as a woman it was with great interest I entered the temple and if I was not inspired with Buddhism I viewed with profound admiration the statue of the beautiful lady portrayed standing on a lotus flower. It was brought to my attention that there is a difference between the Egyptian lotus, which floats on the water, whereas the Indian lotus has leaves and flowers both standing high above the water.

This goddess of Mercy held in her hands a long slender-necked decanter from which issued a thin trickle of water but as it neared the ground became a stream, an undulating flow that widened enough for a little angel-like adoring cherub to find a comfortable place to sit upon, while he offered his goddess a flower. One did not have to be a profound scholar to get the meaning of it all.

TWO SHRINES

The temple has two shrines the first is that of this goddess of Mercy framed by dragon-entwined pillars carved from green stone. There were also bronze images representing ladies beautifully dressed riding side-saddle on lions, on elephants or on animals unknown to modern natural history. At the back is a courtyard and at one end are many images not only of the lady Kuan Yin but of disciples of Buddha, who by the way, was born 2577 years ago.

Among them was one to the god who rules the spirit world, one to the goddess of birth, one to the god of medicine, who, while in this world, was a famous physician. Near him was a small cave from which peered forth statues of tigers. They are the ones "who drive out malignant influences and save the devoted from inferior people."

In front of this knelt a young girl with a sort of vase in which were about thirty josh sticks and lying beside her a couple of very hard wood or sone discs. Alternately she took up the discs and threw them clattering to the floor apparently waiting for them to fall into a certain pattern. Then she shook the josh sticks in their case until one protruded beyond the others. That was pulled out, lit, and placed in the clay filled container made for that purpose, while she bowed and prayed in a light chanting tone and after one glance at me paying no attention to anything but her prayers.

On the sides of the high hill beyond the actual town is a group of temples connected with one another but all of them totalling as the Monastery of Supreme Bliss. To their embellishment China, Siam and Burma have given of their finest in architecture. They are not ancient, the main one was completed only sixty years ago, a living testimonial to the continued aliveness of the Buddhist religion.

PRESCRIPTIONS FOR SICK

The climbing was too steep so instead I went to the temple of the god of Medicine. It is back from the main road amongst the trees. Here you can get prescriptions for the sick either by lottery or given by a priest. It was perhaps the origin of the patent medicines of the world combining as it does a fairly even mixture of faith and chance. Statistical results are not available.

In front of the temples are two fierce stone lions whose duty is to protect children. Prayers, or charms, are painted on squares of paper and stuffed into the wide open mouths of these protective lions by anxious mothers. One little family of grandmother, mother and two children was praying in a little shrine close by. At least the older ones were chanting their prayers for the others were too young.

Farther down the road are Christian mission hospitals that have quite different methods. I was forgetting to say that inside the temple proper was a living adder coiled on a high carving. It slithered around its perch but left one in peace and was left in peace except for a little poke.

We went on to the Snake Temple, and if you are allergic to snakes, you had better skip over the next paragraph, for here dozens of live snakes lived coiled around the carved ornaments. They appear to be doped by the incense and I could well believe it. I myself was almost drowsy with the thick smoke and my eyes were soon stinging. I uncoiled a few of the snakes to see what would happen and there was no one to stop me but they just stuck out their tongues at me then coiled themselves up again. One was so-vexed that he tried to climb up a smooth glass. He must have been most foolishly young for no snake can crawl over a perfectly smooth surface.

These snakes are called the "Divine Ones" and are considered godly.

PITIFUL FOOD OFFERINGS

The devout bring to the altars offerings of eggs, chiefly duck eggs that I saw, and at night when the incense had faded away the snakes come down and eat them, usually eating them whole and casting out the shells. It was to me always pitiful to see the offerings of these poor people, eggs, little piles of bacon, little sweets, some spoonfulls of rice that they could ill afford. I watched them placing these offerings on the altars and could not reconcile myself to the fact that it was a comfort to them. How many gods humans have created for themselves!

A Mohammedan had attached himself to me forcefully announcing that he was not a snake-worshipper and asked me if I wished to see some snake babies. I did not but he guided me to a back room of the temple where there were huge pythons in strong cages. They were used for soup and many people eat them and they are said to taste like frogs' legs. They are so much enjoyed that Malaya is being rid of these two-hundred-pound reptiles. And over in New York you can buy canned rattle snake. I stop at eel, which is not at all of the snake family.

Now while we are on this subject and to give the reader a chance to skip the whole thing, I shall jump over to the magazine "The Straits Times Annual".

Mr. M.W.F. Tweedie, director of the Raffles Museum, writes an article "a plea for the serpent" and begins by saying that "snakes are pleasant and interesting creatures once you get to know them." You grant their beauty and grace but most people reach for a stick at sight of one.

Yet the author, who ought to know, states that very few people die of snake-bite in Malaya, and he states blandly that it is difficult to enjoy the society of a snake if you do not know whether it is poisonous or not. I should say so! In order to decide the question you have to examine their teeth. That does not seem to me to be the part of wisdom as you might be a goner before the decision was made. I wonder what would be the reaction of a dentist if faced with that situation . . . perhaps he might decide to become a teetotaler.

Mr. Tweedie goes on to describe the poisonous ones beginning with the cobra which he says must be killed although it feeds largely on rats, the most pernicious spreader of diseases. Its average length is about 15 feet and it must not be teased by throwing stones at it but should be shot. Next in order are the kraits, the coral snakes, vipers and all of the sea-snakes.

The remaining 100 species are harmless and he dwells with some enthusiasm on the house-snakes and the Paradise tree snakes. The latter can climb up the trunk of the tree if the bark is rough and, like a squirrel, can leap from branch to branch and like a parachute can go into a controlled glide to another tree or to the ground.

The world's largest serpent, the regal python, may grow to be 200 pounds in weight and lives on such animals as monkeys and small pigs.

There were two huge pythons in cages at the back of the main temple but I did not try to uncoil them.

After all that a visit to the Botanical gardens was a welcome thought.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Joseph Mulvihill are pictured signing the register following their marriage in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Nora May Anderson, daughter of Mrs. C. E. Smith, Oshawa. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. Joseph Mulvihill, Frankford.

MULVIHILL—ANDERSON

Pink snapdragons and white chrysanthemums, intermingled withe ferns, adorned the altar and sanctuary of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, February 12, for the marriage of Nora May Anderson, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. C. E. Smith, to Vincent Joseph Mulvihill, also of Belleville, son of Mr. Joseph Mulvihill. The Rev. Peter Murphy officiated. The ring table was adorned by a red rose.

Miss Rosemary Macauley of Flint, Michigan, as soloist, rendered "On This Day", "Panis Angelicus," and "Mother Beloved." She was accompanied by the Rev. Sister Mary Wilhelmina.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her grandfather, Mr. Harold White, wore a lovely bridal gown of white French lace over ruffled tulle. The lace jacket was enhanced with mother-of-pearl trimming. Her fingertip veil was held by a halo of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white hyacinth bells.

Miss Betty Blaske, of Oshawa, attended the bride as maid of honor, wearing pink net with matching pink taffeta jacket, and headdress. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and 'mums. Miss Catherine Grant of Belleville, as bridesmaid, was attired in blue nylon net over taffeta with matching jacket and headdress. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and white chrysanthemums.

Mr. Frank Mulvihill, of Frankford, R.R. 2, attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were Mr. Owen Baker, of Frankford, and Mr. Howard McMurter, of Belleville.

The reception and wedding breakfast was held at the Legion Hall, where the bride's mother, wearing navy blue crepe, with blue and white trim, white and navy accessories, and corsage of red roses, received. She was assisted by the bridegroom's aunt, Miss Mary Mulvihill, who wore black crepe with black accessories, and red rose corsage. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Harold White, also assisted in receiving.

For travelling to Detroit, Flint, New Baltimore, Michigan, the bride chose a red wool suit, with blue topcoat and matching hat, black accessories, and pink rose corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Mulvihill are residing in Belleville.

Guests were present from Frankford, Campbellford, Trenton, Oshawa, Detroit, Flint, Michigan.

O.S.D. Teaching Methods Told At W. Aux.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church was held in the Sunday school room on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Clare, vice-president, in the chair, opened the meeting with prayer.

After a short business meeting Mrs. Mott and Mrs. Demeza and their group took charge. Mrs. Fuke gave the devotional, based on the parable of the "Good Samaritan," and its meaning of "Friendship."

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Clare introduced Mr. J. D. Demeza, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, who described the work and the teaching system, and stated that children from the ages of five to 18 years from all over Ontario attend this school; the present enrollment is 380.

Miss Gardiner, a teacher from the Junior school, held a classroom demonstration with six of her pupils, age six years, showing how vowel sounds were taught, also word and object identification.

Mr. Alec Gordon, a teacher in the Senior school, presented four pupils, who gave a lip-reading, talking and pronunciation demonstration.

Mrs. Fuke thanked Mr. Demeza, on behalf of the Women's Auxiliary for his talk and the most interesting program presented.

Mrs. Fairman, president, closed the meeting, and invited all to stay for tea and a social half hour.

For Parents Only

How to Treat Tantrums

By NANCY CLEAVER

When a temper tantrum occurs, in spite of a parent's effort to avoid one, what is the best thing to do?

Johnny is having a marvellous time playing in the sand pile. Dad picks him up to take him in the house for supper. Johnny howls, yells and tries to kick his father. Or it may be Betty's mother has refused to buy her small daughter a chocolate bar when they are shopping together for groceries. Immediately Betty tries her favorite trick of "going limp", lies on the floor, screaming for her candy!

There is no one way to treat all temper tantrums any more than there is any one kind of a child. The method which is effective with Johnny might not work well with Betty.

But it is important that parents try to understand the reason or reasons for this angry demonstration. They should also accept the fact that the great majority of tiny tots go through this resistance to authority and display of temper stage. This is a bit of a comfort to the fond parent who views with horror the "little monster" he has produced!

DIVERT ATTENTION

Sometimes a temper tantrum can be avoided at the last moment by diverting a child's attention. Perhaps Johnny's absorption in playing in the sandpile could be lessened by father telling him that mother has prepared one of his favorite dishes for supper. Betty's mother might let her wheel the grocery wagon to get her daughter's mind off the chocolate bar.

HOW TO TREAT

Shouting at or threatening a tempestuous child are both useless. There is no value in meeting anger with anger. If a parent starts to "explode" as well as the child, what is the youngster learning about self control?

Difficult as it may be, mothers and fathers must try to be calm and casual about their child's behavior. If he is putting on a temper antrum to gain attention, often it is a good plan to isolate him in his room, or just walk away and leave him. A child doesn't get much "kick" out of showing anger if there is no audience!

MIGHT TRY TO REASON

It is a misguided business trying to reason with an angry person of any age. Powerful rage blots out the desire to think. After the storm is over, mother or father may find it helpful to quietly comment on the situation.

But they should not reproach their child or make him feel guilty about his violent feelings. Better get them out of his system and help him to learn how to handle his emotions. Too much repression, too great demands on a youngster, produce a sullen individual.

A child should not get the idea that he can use a temper tantrum as a Big Stick to get his own way! Neither should he conclude that when he has been angry, his parents hate him for being naughty. The angry child is usually an anxious child. He needs to be reassured of his mother's and father's affection. More love, not less, is good medicine for the "tempery" boy or girl!

Going Places

Etiquette for Week-End Visits

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Being a week-end guest, or host, is as big a part of he travel picture as any other reason for going places these days. Whichever side of the welcoming handshake you're on, there are some matters it will be handy for you to know about in making a happy visit.

For instance:

As a guest neither expect nor request your host to meet you at the bus terminal, railroad station, or airport unless you're aged or infirm. Besides binding you to arrive just when and how you said you were going to, even if a last minute change becomes desirable, it can obviously inconvenience your host and get things off to a bad start if your transportation arrives several hours late, as it well may this time of year. Airplanes, in addition, sometimes arrive early. It is better to avoid crossed signals and take a cab.

MAY INSIST ON MEETING

A really good host, however, may insist on at least meeting you downtown if you arrive by air and take a limousine in. Or if you arrive by car and he lives out in the country he may have to run interference for you through the suburbs lest you spend your week-end trying to find his home.

One of the requirements of the ideal guest is that he never has to borrow anything, temporarily or for longer, from his host. While traveling light is a general goal to shoot at, it should be qualified to the extent of making sure you've got absolutely everything you'll need when visiting someone's home overnight.

The good host sees to it that his guest doesn't have to be a mind-reader in that department: he should give him a good idea of what clothes he'll need, depending on whether there'll be dress-up parties, hikes, fox hunting, ping pong or whatever your friends do on week-ends.

MATTER OF CHOICE

Whether to bear gifts to your host is a matter of choice, as is the gift itself. If your hosts are just folks or relatives, and if you know they're entertaining others too, a ham or turkey or other imaginative and useful delicacy will be more appreciated than you may realize. Toys for the kids are usually appreciated, and in place of that, almost anything useful or related to your host's special interests. In other words, just about anything but stale candy from the terminal newsstand.

You need not send a bread-and-butter gift later if you bring one with you; in fact, a gift is never absolutely necessary. But a thank-your note always is.

Your host expects you to make yourself at home, but that works two ways—don't do anything you wouldn't do in your home, such as leaving your room strewn with belongings and expecting someone to clean up after you. This applies even if there are servants to do that chore, though you need not make up your bed if there are servants.

Making yourself at home does not include helping yourself at the bar or refrigerator whenever the spirit moves you, and neither does it mean saying "yes" every time something is offered you.

FIT IN WITH PLANS

Every home has a routine, even on party week-ends, and the guest has some obligation to fit himself in with things. If there are children, breakfast undoubtedly gets things off to an early start and it's good manners to join in, even though a good host might not expect it of you.

Don't expect your host to entertain you every waking minute, and don't expect him to take care of any special needs you may have, such as tricky diet dishes. Not getting underfoot or making yourself burdensome is a fine art which most intelligent people can master.

If there are servants in the house, you must remember that they are your host's, not yours. You never ask a servant to do anything for you directly—you always ask your host to make the request. He should go along with anything reasonable you want to help to do, but there may be other urgent chores pending at the moment and it can be very embarrassing for all concerned if you ask a maid directly to do something for you while she's getting ready to prepare the children's lunch.

LEAVE ON SCHEDULE

Since your host undoubtedly doesn't have his own mailing or package wrapping service like a hotel, be especially careful not to put him out by leaving something behind and having him go to the trouble of sending it to you.

Always leave when you were planning to, your host may have other plans and he may not be able to afford to keep you indefinitely. A good host will drive you to the station if he possibly can, but don't act as if you expect it.

Good judgment of people is always necessary in being both a guest and host. Knowing the difference between polite acquiescence to a proposed activity and genuine enthusiasm can often be the key to making all concerned glad you made the trip.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHY MUST SHE "PAY" FOR A PRE-MARITAL AFFAIR?

A letter from a 16-year-old tells me that she was "one of those unfortunate girls who 'had to get married."

She goes on to say that she has been a wife just two and a half months, and that she "wasn't forced into marriage by anyone. I loved my husband before we were married, and I love him now even more."

The reason she writes me is because she is troubled by certain questions:

"I want to know why people look down on couples like us," she begins. "There have been worse sins committed. It would be different if we had just met each other, but we went together for a year before this happened. And we're happier together now than some other maried couples we know.

"We have paid for our sin by giving up a lot of things that we enjoy, and by the scandal that we faced. Why do we have to keep on paying?"

Now in my opinion, the questions this teen-ager asks are not nearly so important as a question that apparently has not even occurred to her.

Let's take care of her own, before going on to the more important one.

In the first place, both her questions—the one asking "Why people look down on couples like us," and the other about why 'we (meaning such couples) have to keep on 'paying"—need to be qualified. That is, I think it would have been far more correct if she had inserted the word "some" before "people" in question number one, and, in question number two, the word 'sometimes" after "we." For not everybody, by any means, looks down on young people who have made what we call 'mistakes;" nor do they take an attitude toward them intended to forever remind them that they have 'sinned." If this particular couple has the misfortune to live among the minority who cannot understand and overlook a mistake, then I advise them to move away from where they now live and build a new life in a place where their background is not known.

Now for that important question which our 16-year-old might well have asked, but did not. I might put it this way:

"Why shouldn't a boy and girl who believe themselves in love have an affair before marriage?"

And this question has so many answers, all of them sound and wise, that it would scarcely be possible to set them all down. So let me pick just two of them.

First, it is tragically foolish for teen-agers to have an affair before marriage because it is virtually certain that they are not "in love at all, and will sooner or later break up, which almost invariably results in bitter memories and even more bitter regrets. It is a common part of teenage thinking—or more accurately, a lack of real thinking to confuse "like" with "love," which accounts for many of these unfortunate, so-called "mistakes."

All too often, in such a situation, the girl finds that the boy, having got what he wanted from her, goes off and leaves her, something which she usually finds hard enough to bear, even though nothing else may be involved, and which is tragic indeed if she finds herself faced with a pregnancy which she must carry through alone. On the other hand, if the girl finds that she 'has to get married," and the boy does marry her, a vast number of such mariages are foredoomed, either because of the young man's resentment over having had to marry the girl, or because, having found her willing to have an intimate extra-marital relationship with him, he never thereafter trusts her, and is always suspicious that she will be equally ready to have the same kind of relationship with some other young man who happens to come along.

And the second reason why an extra-marital affair is so sadly foolish is because it robs a young couple of the joy and beauty that normally belong to marriage. In other words, they come to their marriage with nothing new and lovely waiting for them. They have cheated themselves out of a very special kind of happiness that they will never know because they snatched at it secretively beforehand.

The 16-year-old who wrote me the letter is a phenomenally fortunate young woman, far more so than most girls of her age who could not wait for the right time to love. But I wonder, if, when the child that is on the way becomes a teen-ager, she will find herself quite willing to have the son or daughter know the real story of its conception, and to have him or her follow her own example.

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Like myself many of my friends enjoy your program or column and am wondering if you have a chocolate frosting like the mocha one. Simple, easy not expensive, 1 egg white, 1 cup sugar, beat then add 1-2 cup strong coffee; adding hot cocoa does not work. Do you think cold cocoa would work? I would like a frosting like the one. . . . . put on their angel cake. I hope this is not asking too much.—Mrs. S.

ANSWER:

I know that the addition of hot cocoa or chocolate will not work in that recipe and should have warned readers. Neither will cold cocoa work. It is because both cocoa and chocolate contain fat.

There is only one way that I know of to make fluffy chocolate frosting. You must observe every rule or the icing will collapse.

LIGHT CHOCOLATE FROSTING

In a saucepan mix well 1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup water, 1-3 teaspoon cream of tartar. Then boil slowly without stirring until syrup spins a 6 or 8-inch thread (242 deg. Fahr.). Keep saucepan covered for first three minutes to prevent crystals from forming on side of pan. While syrup is cooking (1) put 1 1-2 squares of unsweetened chocolate on in double boiler to melt—then let it cool at room temperature, and (2) beat until stiff enough to hold a point 2 egg whites (1-3 cup). When syrup is ready pour very slowly in thin stream into stiffly beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Add 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla. Beat until frosting holds its shape. When both frosting and chocolate have cooled to same room temperature very carefully fold chocolate into the frosting, then spread on cooled cake.

QUESTION:

The following is a recipe I cut out . . . however I was disappointed in the way they turned out. . .is there an error in the recipe. . .the cookies looked lovely when I put them in the oven, but flattened out and ran together . .they taste scrumptious but don't look so good.

CHERRY DREAMS

(This is a repeat of one of Emem's recipes but there is the omission of 1 ingredient—1 cup pecans). Sift together 2 1-4 cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon each soda and salt. Cream 3-4 cup shortening and when light and airy cream in thoroughly 1 cup sugar. Beat in 2 eggs, then add 2 tablespoons milk and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Stir in sifted dry ingredlents. Add 1 cup each chopped dates (here is where 1 cup pecans should have been added.—Emem), 1-3 cup chopped drained maraschino cherries and mix well. Shape into balls, using level tablespoon of cookie dough for each ball. Crush cornflakes—about 2 1-2 cups and roll balls of dough in these. Place on buttered cookie sheet, topping each cookie with 1-4 maraschino cherry, well-drained. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 10 to 12 minutes.

I thought maybe there should be more fruit in these. . .could you please give me your recipe for Emem's French Dressing that keeps without separating?—Mrs. Edith R.

ANSWER:

I am very sorry to see that 1 cup pecans was omitted—for it is a very necessary and delicious part of the cookie.

NON-SEPARATING FRENCH DRESSING

In a bowl mix 1-3 cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon paprika, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, dash of cayene, thin slice of garlic or 1-4 teaspoon garlic salt, 3 tablespoons sugar and 1 whole egg. Beat well with rotary or electric beater for two minutes then slowly begin to add 1 cup cold oil while beating constantly—take 3 minutes to add this oil. Store covered in refrigerator. It may separate—but if it does give it a good shake.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.G.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was held on Tuesday in the church parlors, with Mrs. M. C. Ryan, the president, presiding.

The meeting was opened with the singing of a hymn, followed by prayer, and the Scripture was read by Mrs. D. Kane.

Business included bazaar discussion and plans for Miss Elinor Brown of the Interior Decorating Department of Simpson's in April, speaking on home decoration. A June tea will be held at the Trent Road home of Mrs. George Graham sponsored by Mrs. Ponton's group.

At the close of the business meeting, Mrs. W. Mantle introduced Miss Corbett of the Children's Aid Society, who spoke on some of the welfare work done by this society, pointing out the aspect of clothing these children and the need of good home training.

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. A. Bell and the evening came to a close with the serving of refreshments by Mrs. Ponton's group.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

MAKE-UP MIRACLES

It may be true, as some cynics say, that glamour, these days, come out of a box, a jar or a bottle. But, even so, it's not always an easy job to select the right box, jar or bottle. Beauty aids should be chosen with the color of your skin, the color of your eyes and your type in mind.

There was a time when the puzzle was solved by the color of the hair alone. Blondes were supposed to wear flesh-colored powder, light rouge and lipstick. Brunettes pinned their beauty hopes on rachelle powder, medium rouge and lipstick. But those were the days before the cosmetic industry was a billion dollar business. There wasn't much choice.

Now you will find powders of many tones, make-up lights varying from faint rose shades to tawny hues which glamorize the complexion of the girl who tans her skin all year round.

Your face powder should be a perfect match for your skin. The only way you can get it is by trial and error and that means patronizing a make-up bar. All large department stores have them, presided over by attendants who will tell you beauty secrets you never guessed before.

No matter how fair, your skin is far from being white. It may have a creamy color, or an ivory shade which is darker. Even if skin is inclined to be sallow you will find a powder that will brighten its tones.

Rouge and lipstick should be of the same shade. If you have a flair for dress you can get away with a cherry lipstick, rouge slightly fainter. But you should not be limited to a single pair of such items as make-up should vary a little according to the color of the frock you wear.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WIDOW SHOULD CONTINUE TO USE "MRS. ARTHUR SMITH"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me which is the correct form of name for a widow to use . . . "Mrs. Irene Smith" or Mrs. Arthur Smith"? Ever since I have been a widow, I have used my husband's name after "Mrs."—as I did when my husband was living. And some time ago I read in your column that a widow should continue to use her husband's name. But I have a friend who still insists that a widow should use her first name with 'Mrs."; that is, 'Mrs. Irene Smith." If I am wrong, I want to change the form I use.

— Widow

Dont . . . Don't . . . change the form of name you use. You are right, your friend is wrong, so pay no attention to her advice about this. Correctly a widow continues to use the name she used when her husband was living . . . Mrs. Mrs. Arthur Smith. Socially it is incorrect for a woman (a married woman, a widow, or a divorcee) to use her first name after 'Mrs."

But about signing letters: your signature to letters is your informal name . . . Irene Brown Smith. For example, your signature to a letter to someone who doesn't know your formal name, should be:

Sincerely yours,
Irene Brown Smith
(Mrs. Arthur Smith)

Garden Notes

Forcing Shrubs for Indoor Bloom

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

A bakery shop I know, manages to have flowers all through the year. From early February it displays jars filled with forced blooms from the proprietors home trees and shrubs.

They choose apple blossoms, forsythia, dogwood, cherry or Japanese pussy willow. While one kind adds a touch of spring to the store another is being prepared to replace it in a week, or ten days.

The branches are cut on a mild day. One must choose branches on which plenty of buds have been formed. On fruit trees the buds grow on short spurs, called fruiting spurs. These are short thick branches about two inches long.

SOAK FOR SEVERAL HOURS

Soak the branches and buds in a large pan, (laundry tub or bath tub will do) in luke warm water for several hours. Place the branches in a deep jar of tepid water in a light cool place. A north window is a good choice.

Each day spray the branches and buds with tepid water to keep the buds from drying out. The same result is achieved by dipping them in water once or twice daily.

Forsythia blooms will open in about a week. Others take longer. When the buds begin to open place them in the sun for a short time, but keep them cool if you wish them to last.

INTERESTING EXPERIMENTS

Many of our later-blooming shrubs and shade tree branches will provide interesting experiments in unfolding leaf patterns. Elms bloom very early. You can cut a few branches and treat them as for shrubs. The tasselled blooms will surprise you with their delicate beauty. When the flowers fade the leaf buds will crack open and will thrust out green spears, which will spread into bright green leaves.

The horse chestnut also makes a most interesting specimen to watch. The plump sticky brown buds will open to reveal wooly leaves of a lovely pinky beige, as exotic as a tropical plant.

Try a variety of twigs. Spirea will leaf out into tiny delicate leaves which will form a good background for forsythia, or fruit blooms. Astilbe will form lacy fern-like foliage, which is attractive alone or with other branches. Japanese, or red maple offers more color than the green types, and often could be used in contrast with them.

BEAUTY DEPENDS ON LINE

Background and receptacles can play up the interesting lines of the branches. Choose pottery, crystal, or pewter jars and make the arrangement simple. Spring's first offerings are not profuse; they are sparce, with their beauty depending upon line, rather than color.

Spray, r wash house plant leaves to open the pores and give them a chance to breathe. They need more nourishment now that there is more light. This is a good time to make cuttings from house plants for setting into the flower border in May. Geraniums, begonias, and coleus will make good sized plants in ten or twelve weeks. A mixture of one third soil, sand and shredded pear moss will be good for rooting. Dip the cut surface in rootone, a rooting hrmone, befre planting.

This is a good time to start new African violet plants too. They root well in damp vermiculite.

SWIM TO SAFETY

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Three girls swam 75 feet to shore Thursday night after their automobile skidded off a dam into the Otonobee river near here. Betty Cockburn, 23, her sister, Mary, 19, and Gwen McKee, 19, were in a borrowed car when it plunged into the 20-feet-deep water. The girls, all from Peterborough, escaped through the driver's door.

Bulletins From Birdland

BIRD BEARERS

Birds are efficient carriers, the only carriers, the only drawback being their lack of discrimination between valuable and undesirable baggage. Indeed, they are not even aware of their own ability in this line.

The tiny hummingbird, flitting from flower to flower, is one of Mother Nature's workers. Its long, slender bill, poking into the heart of a blossom to extract the honey and diminutive insects, takes away adhering pollen, and carries it to the next blossom, thus aiding fertilization.

Members of the large finch family—sparrows of various kinds, grosbeaks, buntings and so on—unwittingly disperse seeds. Most of them are partial to weed seeds, which greatly benefits farmers, nevertheless they do scatter some over a large area.

The goldfinch, for instance, has the habit of sitting on thistles and ragweed while feeding—then off it flies, spreading these harmful weeds. However, in contrast, a pine grosbeak is known to distribute seeds of valuable trees, which happen to be to its taste: pine, spruce, tamarack, and maple. They actually help to plant trees.

MANY PUZZLES

One of the many puzzles supplied by nature is the growth of various types of plant life on islands hundreds of miles from any land. We wonder how they could have got there. The truth is that they travelled by air without paying for their passage. They were given wings! All kinds of birds bear plant seeds in their plumage for hundreds of miles, over land and sea.

Charles Darwin raised 82 separate plants, belonging to five distinct species, from a little ball of mud taken from the feathers of one bird. But the method of transportation is ordinarily more simple than that.

Mother Nature has purposely supplied many plant seeds with prickles and hooks which cling to a bird's plumage. Tales have been told of somebody discovering an unfortunate bird that had somehow contrived to get itself so deep into a patch of burrs that its wings were pinned to its sides, and unable to fly it had died of hunger.

The golden plover of the Pacific in this way carries plants from Alaska to, or beyond, the Hawaiian Islands. Thus life returned to the little volcanic island of Krakatoa about 25 years after the eruption of 1883.

Plants native to Australia, the United States, or Europe unexpectedly spring up on other continents. Birds nesting in Canada sometimes transport our plants to South America, and soon these little carriers will be winging their way back here with exchange baggage.

Iggy Reunited With Mother For Trip Home

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Months of yearning and anxiety ended Friday when nine-year-old Iggy Crotty day when nine-year-old Iggy Crotty Leo Crotty of St. John's, Nfld.

At the Hospital for Sick Children, Iggy joyfully hugged and kissed his mother, who rrived in Toronto by plane early Friday to take him home.

Mrs. Crotty, a white haired motherly woman of 40 who has six other children at home besides Iggy was speechless. But after her son got out of bed and scrambled around the room pointing to presents and showing his leather work she said she could not believe her eyes.

"When he left Newfoundland last October we despaired of him ever walking or talking again," she said. "I just can't believe the change in him."

LIVES AGAIN

The bright-eyed, dark - haired youngster was struck down on his way home from a fishing trip in St. John's last May by an automobile which police said did not stop. He was unconscious for 115 days and lost his speech and the use of some of his limbs.

With the help of a nurse, he walked down a corridor and into his mother's arms.

During his stay in the hospital he has learned to walk again and has regained some of his ability to speak.

After Iggy was flown to Toronto at his doctor's suggestion four months ago, Newfoundlanders contributed $10,000 to a fund sponsored by the St. John's Telegram to help his family pay his medical bills.

HYDRO WASTED

TORONTO (CP)—More than 90 per cent of new homes are inadequately wired for some modern appliances, Roland Demers, Windsor electrical contractor, said Thursday. Attending the sixth annual convention of the Electrical Contractors Association of Ontario, Mr. Demers said in an interview that about 20 per cent of all hydro power produced in the province is being wasted through improper wiring.

Gambling Menace Grows in Canada Says Clergyman

TORONTO (CP) — Rev. J. R. Mutchmor said Fri. "off-track illegal betting is a highly organized racket, from the bookie in a beer room to the gambling czar in a posh hotel suite."

Dr. Mutchmor, secretary of the board of evangelism and social service of the United Church of Canada, told the board's annual meeting that gambling "menaces and frequently frustrates law enforcement."

His remarks were included in a text released to the press in advance of delivery.

"No other evil so quickly or sadly leads to the demoralization of a civic or provincial police force," Dr. Mutchmor said.

MENACE GROWING?

He said the "gambling menace" is growing in Canada.

"The chief single factor in this growth is the promotion of race-track pari-mutuel legal betting and the even larger-scale betting promoted by off-track gambling syndicates."

"In 1952 the amount of money wagered at running-horse races was $60,384,287," he said. "The 1954 total is one-third higher.

"It is significant to note that of the total increase of approximately $21,000,000 in Canadian wagering, almost $20,000,000 of the increase was in Ontario."

Annual Reports Are Given For Children's Aid Society

Annual reports of the president, superintendent and treasurer of the Children's Aid Society of the city of Belleville, the county of Hastings and the town of Trenton, were accepted by members at the society's annual meeting held Friday evening in the Parish House of St. Thomas' Anglican church.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

President J. Fred Wilson, in stressing that the society's prime aim is to keep the family together—not to separate it," congratulated Hastings County councillors for making available $5,000 for preventive work in the county.

"Our object is to prevent neglect from occurring, not merely to take the child away from his home when he is neglected," he said.

TREASURER'S REPORT

The treasurer's report, presented by Charles L. Hyde, noted that the society started 1954 with a deficit of $1,480.52. An increase in the per diem rate for boarding homes from $1.10 to $1.33 cost the society $4,000 when the court established the rate June 28th after the Society had inaugurated the new rate April 1st.

Changes in the accounting methods include a new book-keeping system, and the setting of the rate before February 15th on the basis of the previous year's costs.

"Therefore, in the future, the Society will, of necessity, operate on a system of deficit financing," said Mr. Hyde.

The business year end was changed from March 31st to Dec. 31st, in order that the society could make its needs known to the municipal councils in advance of their striking their budgets.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

The superintendent's report, presented by Bruce M. Kerr, included a summary of the work of the protection department, unmarried parents' services, home finding department, child care department and adoption services.

Protective and preventive services, financed entirely at the local level without obligation of the part of the municipality to contribute to the work, received $10,000 last year while maintenance work received $67,000.

Mr. Kerr said that there was sufficient money to provide one worker only for preventive work in the county of Hastings and the city of Belleville and a second worker two days per week for Trenton.

"It is nothing short of ridiculous to expect one man to cope adequately with the social problems of the 60,000 people in the county of Hastings and the city of Belleville," he said.

In speaking of Trenton, Mr. Kerr suggested that, since it is unlikely that town officials will grant sufficient monies to finance a preventive project, private subscription be enlisted to supplement the annual grant by council.

UNMARRIED PARENTS

From April to Dec., 1954, the local CAS assisted 70 girls pregnant out of wedlock. Of this number 25 requested assistance in placing their babies in adoption.

The Society made a conscientious effort to interview the mother of every child born out of wedlock even when the mother did not seek assistance. Fathers of the children were interviewed and where possible social histories were taken that could be used in adoption studies and in arranging financial settlements. Only three cases of paternal support went to court and two of these were settled out of court in advance of their slated appearance.

Settlements were in excess of $4,000.

HOME FINDING

Mr. Kerr paid tribute to foster parents and in particular to Mrs. D. Kostich "for whom no hour is too late for her to take a baby into her home."

He stated that the Board of Directors has authorized engagement of a qualified worker to do home finding on a full time basis but that in spite of extensive advertising, such a worker has not yet been found.

CHILD CARE

The society had 316 wards dependent on it last year with 200 living in boarding homes.

Mr. Kerr said that this was an unusually large number and that insufficient emphasis had been placed in the past on the necessity of placement of children in adoption.

The society inaugurated a schedule of regular visiting and higher clothes allowances. Each child is given a medical examination annually, and dietary supplements are provided during fall, winter and early spring months.

"Dental care at the present time is inadequate," said Mr. Kerr, who suggested that dental clinics be held during the summer months to solve the problem.

ADOPTION SERVICES

From April to December the society arranged for the adoption of 34 children, interviewed 100 couples desirious of adopting through the agency, and supervised 58 children on adoption probation. Assistance was given 19 families in the county, who obtained children for adoption through other agencies.

Mr. Kerr concluded his report by introducing members of the staff of the local CAS and by paying tribute to the board members, court and police officials, local medical practitioners and Ontario Department of Welfare supervisors for their co-operation and assistance during the year.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Total payments by the Society during the nine months ending Dec. 31st. were $87,075.22.

Of this $56,316.99 were spent on ward maintenance; $440.47 for non-wards, with board amounting to $35,494.65 and clothing, $14,751.65.

Administrative and general expenses totalled $30,317.76 Major items were salaries, $21,881.98; car and travel expenses, $4,762.16.

Receipts for maintenance of wards totalled $67,014.22 including sums of $12,421.72 from Belleville; $31,579.15 from the County of Hastings, and $11,711.93 from Trenton.

Grants totalled $3,450 and included $1,000 provincial grant, $900 from Belleville, $800 from Hastings County and $750 from Trenton.

Other major receipts included $4,937.38 from the Community Chest and $1,797.34 in hospital rebates.

Total receipts were $79,618.02 leaving a deficit on the nine months' operation of $7,457.20. Added to the $1,480.52 deficit carried over from the previous statement, this left the Society with a deficit of $8,937.72 as of Dec. 31st.

OTHER STATISTICS

The Society had a total of 369 children in its care on April 1st, 1954. There were 60 admissions and 83 discharges from the Society's care up to Dec. 31st.

Clare B. Morgan New President Of C.A. Society

C.B. Morgan, first vice-president of the Children's Aid Society of the City of Belleville, County of Hastings and town of Trenton for the past four years, was elected president for 1955 at the Society's annual meeting held Friday evening in St. Thomas' Parish House.

Future Offenders Will Be Sentenced To Jail Terms

TWEED (Special) — Efforts to curtail the illegal cutting of Crown timber being made by Department of Lands and Forests staff in co-operation with the Provincial Police are paying off in this area. Where deliberate intent to steal the timber is evident a charge of theft is laid by the police under the Criminal Code on information obtained by Department Rangers. Ten such cases have been heard during the past few months before Magistrate R. C. Jackson of Madoc, all resulting in convictions.

In the most recent case held at Bancroft, the magistrate, after handing down two years suspended sentence to the accused, warned that future offenders will be sentenced to jail terms. He remarked, that although the theft of Crown timber is considered lightly by many local residents in that area, the frequency of the offence must be taken into consideration pointing to the necessity of stricter penalties.

New Child Welfare Act Praised by Hon. W.M. Nickle

"The amalgamation of the Children's Protection Act, Children of Unmarried Parents' Act and the Adoption Act into the new Child Welfare Act is one of the best pieces of welfare legislation ever enacted anywhere," said Provincial Secretary, the Hon. W. M. Nickle, last evening.

Mr. Nickle was addressing 120 members and friends of the Children's Aid Society of the city of Belleville the County of Hastings and the town of Trenton at the society's annual meeting held in St. Thomas Church Parish House.

"The new act has been given an ambitious launching and is being accepted as the best legislation of its type to be found anywhere," said Mr. Nickle.

"The nonsense of appeal after appeal after appeal by the father of illegitimate children has come to an end. From the time the court gives its decision the father pays. It is a sound, honest approach to a situation in which the child's welfare is paramount. The father can appeal but now he pays while his appeal is pending."

Mr. Nickle stated that the best asset in Ontario is its children and that "the best thing we can do for our children is to regulate our lives to preserve their lives and their future."

"Social welfare cannot stand alone," he warned. "It must be accompanied by economic soundness within the province. Full employment means full pay cheques, full dinner pails, better living conditions and the ability to support a welfare program."

SEES GREAT DEVELOPMENT

In commenting on the potential growth of Eastern Ontario with the development of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, Mr. Nickle said, "the future of Eastern Ontario is beyond description. Eastern Ontario is on the fringe of the greatest economic development in Ontario's history."

"The Ontario government is proud of its welfare program," said Mr. Nickle. "Ontario provides blind persons' allowance, disabled persons' allowance, mothers' allowance, old age assistance, unemployment relief, homes for the aged, and charitable institutions."

"These are magnificent things," he said, "and not one dime of the cost of these programs comes from the federal government."

"These mighty programs have been completely and enthusiastically supported by your able and outstanding and efficient members, Elmer Sandercock and Roscoe Robson," said Mr. Nickle.

"My philosophy in public life is that the true test of our civilization is the way we treat our people," concluded Mr. Nickle.

The speaker was introduced by Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P. for Hastings West and was thanked by Roscoe Robson, M.P.P. for Hastings East.

REPORTS PRESENTED

Highlights of the business portion of the meeting were the presentation of the annual reports of the various committees; approval, on third reading, of the new constitution of the Society necessitated by the passing of the Child Welfare Act; and the report of the nominating committee which is published elsewhere in this edition.

J. Fred Wilson, outgoing president of the CAS, paid tribute to the members of the executive, to staff workers, and to the councils of the city of Belleville, the town of Trenton and the County of Hastings, for their support and co-operation of the Society's work last year.

He spoke glowingly of the "splendid group of foster parents and adoption parents," who cared for the Society's wards.

James H. Sprackett, Warden of Hastings County, brought greetings from county council and praised the CAS for doing "wonderful work".

HONOR PRESIDENT

Mr. Wilson, presented with a birthday cake midway through the evening's program, was also presented with a gift by C. B. Morgan, incoming president, for his work on the Society's behalf during his four year term as president.

Reports of the superintendent and treasurer and statistics on the society's operations last year were distributed to members in brochures. Synopses of these reports appear elsewhere in this edition.

Third reading of constitutional changes necessitated by the passing of the Child Welfare Act in 1954 was given last evening by H. Ramsay Park, of Trenton, second vice-president of the society. The changes were approved by members on a motion by Mr. Park and Mr. George Whitman.

Mr. Morgan spoke briefly following his election and promised members that he would "use my best judgment in carrying out the duties of this high position for the welfare of a worthy cause."

Obituary

WALTER NAYLER

MARMORA — Funeral services with the Masonic and Odd Fellows' Lodges, to which he belonged, taking a part were held in Niagara Falls, Ont., on Thursday for Walter Nayler, who died there on Tuesday in his 73rd year. The remains were brought to Marmora on Friday for entombment in the vault in Marmora Protestant cemetery.

The committal was taken by Rev. K. J. Crawford, of St. Andrew's United Church.

The bearers were: John Jones, Nathan Mumby, E. D. O'Connor and W. J. Cottrell.

Deceased was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Nayler and was born in Stirling.

Later he moved with his parents to Toronto and thence to Marmora. He returned to Toronto again and moved to Niagara Falls, Ontario, where he spent the rest of his life, amounting to about fifty years. For many years he had worked as a barber.

He was a member of the United Church, and in addition to being an Odd Fellow and a Mason, he was also a Shriner.

Though not known to many in this district he was held in high regard in Toronto and Niagara Falls. He was unmarried.

He is survived by five brothers, Albert, Robert, Clare and Harold, Marmora, and Norman, Red Lake; besides three sisters, Mrs. William Fry (Gertrude), of Hamilton; Mrs. Percy Kennedy (Winnifred), of Niagara Falls, Ontario, and Mrs. John Rombough (Myrtle), of Marmora.

World Day of Prayer Held At St. Andrew's Church

"For what are men better than sheep or goats that nourish a blind life within the brain, if, knowing God, they lift not hands of prayer both for themselves and those who call them friend? For so the whole round earth is every way bound by gold chains about the feet of God."

Yesterday afternoon another link in the golden chain of prayer was forged at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church when the women of the churches of the city met for the World Day of Prayer.

Lovely afternoon sunshine filtered through the stained glass windows of the nave shedding a silent benediction upon the large assembly, and acting as a harbinger of the impressive service to follow, as the choir in their dark gowns and mortar boards, white stoles, in quiet processional, attended by the representatives of the severel churches who would take part in the service, took their places in the choir loft.

'ABIDE IN ME'

The service, adapted from a service prepared by the Rev. Jorgelina Lozada, of Buenos Aires, Argentina, was based on the theme, "Abide In Me", John 15:4, was led by Mrs. Vernon Weir, of St. Andrew's church. Those representing the various Protestant churches included: Mrs. W. B. May, for Tabernacle United; Mrs. W. Watson, for Bethel Hall; Mrs. Fred Wilson for Holloway Street United; Mrs. A. Henderson, for the Christian and Missionary Alliance church; Mrs. N. Wilson for Victoria Avenue Baptist; Mrs. J. S. A. Spearman, for Wesleyan Methodist; Mrs. Ron Godden for Christ church; Mrs. Erle Denyes for Bridge Street United; Mrs. B. Feather for St. Thomas' Anglican church; Mrs. Hope Smith for Calvary Temple and Mrs. La Rue for St. Margaret-on-the-Hill.

Mrs. Cyril G. W. Fisher, senior captain of the Salvation Army, presented an impressive address on "Character", using the great example, Joseph, in all the varying vicissitudes of his life, and his triumphant overcoming.

'PRAYER PERFECT'

Mrs. Phyllis Barclay, as soloist, favored with a lovely rendering of "Prayer Perfect", accompanied at the console of the organ by Mr. Paul Timan.

The closing hymn, beloved by many, "The day Thou gavest, Lord is ended; the darkness falls at Thy behest; to Thee our morning hymns ascended, Thy praise shall sanctify our rest, and the benediction, given by Mrs. Allan Rex Ellis, of the First Pentecostal church, brought to a close another World Day of Prayer which encircled the globe, to a solemnizing close.

Following this service another service of similar nature was held by the C.G.I.T.; the Girl Guides, Brownies, and Explorers groups, with Miss Mary Anne Rutherford conducting the service. The address on "Prayer", was delivered by the Rev. H. M. Davis of Bridge Street United church.

Canadians Prepare For Big Game Of World Hockey Tournament

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

NOT BAD, EH!

It could be. It could be. It could have been a dress-rehearsal of the senior "B" group finals that a record crowd of 1900 fans saw in Memorial Arena last night. And if it was, brother, what a series this is going to be, come hell, high-water, Cornwall and Whitby.

It was a typical Belleville-Kingston battle with both squads changing the menu from meat to rubber. For a while it looked like it might be close and how Mr. Johnson held the score to 1-0 in that driving opener will never be known. The shots on goal for that heat were Memos 18, Goodyears 3. That's how good the guy was, or how bad our side's shooting eyes were.

Arnie Dugan, the blonde bomber from Peterborough and points west, atomed in three goals to pace the pack. Arnie was never better and his second goal was a beauty. It seems there IS some use for the Petes in this hockey world.

So there it is. The Memos are on their way to Clinton by now and a win will give them permanent position of third place, providing Cornwall hangs a defeat on Whitby, which we doubt very much. However tonight tells the final schedule story.

PLAYERS' NICKNAMES

It's a funny thing how certain National Hockey League players acquire a nickname and it sticks with them throughout their entire career. Others players may star in the league for ten or more seasons and never get tagged with a nickname. Some of these names stick right from the first while others are forgotten after one or two seasons.

Some N.H.L. players are more familiarly known by their nicknames than by their given names. Did you know that Ted Sloan's real name is Aloysius Martin, or that Bucky Hollingsworth was christened Gordon. Two Irishmen answer more readily to Red than they do to their correct monickers. Red Kelly is really Leonard Patrick Kelly and Red Sullivan is George James.

So much publicity has been given to Maurice Richard and Ted Kennedy that every hockey fan knows their nicknames of "Rocket" and "Teeder." Earl Reibel of Detroit is better known to hockey fans as "Dutch." The name of Butch Bouchard, veteran captain of the Montreal Canadiens, is a byword with hockey followers, but Emile Joseph Bouchard would be known to very few puck fans.

The hard-shooting Bernie Geoffrion has a natural nickname in "Boom Boom," as does New York Rangers' captain, Don Raleigh, who is familiarly known as "Bones" due to his lack of weight.

Some of the more amusing nicknames which may not be too well known to all the fans are "Yug," "Muff" and "Slip." "Yug" and Muff" both play for the Toronto Maple Leafs. They are Hugh Bolton and Sid Smith, respectively. Smith is called "Muff" because he always used to wear a pair of ear muffs as a young hockeyist on the outdoor rinks of Toronto. "Slip" is the new name given to the outstanding rookie of the Boston Bruins, Don McKenney. His smooth, slippery style of play on the ice was instrumental in this monicker being hung on him.

Talking of monickers being hung on people, how about some of the following. All Ranger followers know Lorne Worsley as "Gump." One of his playmates in Montreal thought he resembled Andy Gump of the comics and started calling him "Gump." That was quite a number of years ago, but the name stuck. Jim Hay of Detroit picked up the colorful nickname of "Red Eye" as a young boy in Saskatoon. Apparently he was always troubled with a bloodshot eye. "Sugar Jim" Henry of the Boston Bruins, acquired his tasty monicker as a youth in Winnipeg due to his craving for sweet foods.

Calum MacKay is known to his Montreal teammates as "Baldy" but it isn't on account of any lack of hair. The husky winger has had this nickname for years. It started originally after an over-zealous barber clipped off more hair than was called for and MacKay had an almost scalped look. Floyd Curry has been known as "Busher" ever since he joined Canadiens.

Ask anyone in the N.H.L. who "Big Chief" is and they'll answer George Armstrong of the Leafs. Armstrong is the only Indian playing in the National Hockey League at the present time. Ask any of the players who "The Mighty Mouse" is and they will tell you it is Tony Leswick, smallest player in the League but one of the most rabble rousers and belligerent gents in hockey.

Chicago Black Hawks' Johnny McCormack has the nickname of "Goose." Someone watching the elongated McCormack killing penalties tagged him with this. Boston's Doug Mohns is called "Diesel" because he resembles the engine of the same name in action. Mohns has a teammate called "Rocky" and apparently it is a name Warren Godfrey picked up after his first fight in the N.H.L. Metro Prystai of Chicago is called "Meatball" by intimates.

"Wee Willie" is a colorful and apt description of Chicago's speedy Bill Mosienko. There's a player on the Boston Bruins with the unusual nickname of "Bill." It is Leo Boivin, rugged defenceman. Apparently Boivin calls all his teammates Bill. Canadiens' Bert Olmstead was tagged "Picket" by a Montreal sportswriter. It is becoming more common with the hard-working winger. "Bud" is the name that Jim McPherson usually answers to.

"Leapin' Louie" and "Pope" are two newcomers with New York this season. "Leapin' Louie" is Lou Fontinato, freshman defenceman, who usually jumps into the air when he is given a penalty. "Pope" is the Rangers' ace rookie, Larry Popein.

Many players such as Popein derive nicknames from their surnames. For example Eric Nesterenko is "Nester." Bill Quackenbush is "Quack", Real Cherefils is "Chevvy." "Dolly" is Dollard St. Laurent, "Moe" is Ken Mosdell, "Litz" is Eddie Litzenberger and "Topper" is Jerry Toppazzini.

Rangers' latest acquisition, Bill Ezinicki, has several nicknames. He is called "Ezzy," "Wild Willie" and "Sweet William" among others.

Jean Beliveau hasn't picked up a universally popular nickname as yet. He was called "Le Gros Bill" in the Quebec Hockey League but that name didn't take in the National League.

Penticton Vs Lace American Squad 12 to 1 at Dortmund; Are Favorites to Take it All

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DUESSELDORF, Germany (CP) "This is the big one," was the Canadian chant today as Penticton Vs, jubilant after a brilliant first-night performance, prepared to play speedy Czechoslovakia tonight in what may well be the key game of the 21st world hockey tournament.

The Canadiens laced the United States 12-1 at Dortmund Friday night in one of the four opening games in the nine-country tournament which ends March 6, and the way they did it left 6,000 spectators convinced that the team from the British Columbia fruit belt is good enough to take the title back to Canada.

Hard-hitting Bill Warwick scored six goals as he and his two brothers tore the American defence to shreds. Canada had been expected to beat the Americans, but not by nearly so crushing a score.

BEST CLUB

"This is the best club I've ever seen play in a world championship," said American coach Al Yourkewicz of St. Paul, Minn. "If they keep their heads and play the way they played against us, they'll beat the Czechs by a wide margin."

The Canada-Czechoslovak affair is at Duesseldorf, in an open-air rink flanked by covered stands. The same teams tied 3-3 in a rough exhibition match in Prague last Sunday.

Originally the Canadian - Russia clash on the closing day of the tournament was expected to be the crucial game, but Friday night Russia was held to a 10-2 victory over a weak Finnish team while the Czechs blanked Switzerland 7-0.

Now many hockey students figure the Czechs may be tougher for Canada than Russia, which won the title at Stockholm last year in its first crack at world honors.

OTHER GAMES SCHEDULED

In other second-round games tonight, Russia plays Sweden at Dortmund, Germany is drawn against Poland at Krefeld and the United States takes on Finland at Cologne. All the matches start at 8 p.m. (2 p.m. EST).

Sweden beat Germany 5-4 Friday night.

The Canadians are confident they can handle the Czechs in a second meeting. Playing coach Grant Warwick noted at Prague the ice was about 30 feet longer and 20 feet wider than the Canadians were used to at home and in the beginning it cramped their style.

But at Duesseldorf's Eisstadion the ice is 170 feet long, much shorter than what the Czechs are accustomed to. Warwick feels this should be to the Canadians' advantage.

ALL VETERANS

The Czechs all are veterans of international competition. Their captain is Vladimir Zabrodsky who along with Wimbledon tennis champion Jaroslav Drobny, now an exile, teamed in 1948 to win the world title at the expense of Canada's Sudbury Wolves.

The atmosphere during Friday night's Canada-U.S. game bore little resemblance to proceedings at any big-time hockey contest in Canada. At first, the officials disdained even to count assists, and it was some time before announcers agreed to name the scorers.

UNBELIEVABLE WORKOUT

The Canadians gave American goalie Don Rigazio of Cambridge, Mass., an almost unbelievable workout. They fired a total of 96 shots at Rigazio during the 60 minutes, or one shot every 37½ seconds. The American stopped 84 of them—28 in the first period, 24 in the second and 32 in the third.

With more than 60 Canadian soldiers and their wives from nearby military establishments cheering them on, the Canadians scored three goals in the first period, five in the second and four in the third.

"We didn't give them a chance," said Grant Warwick, who picked up four assists.

A long, screened shot by Dan McKinnon of Williams, Minn., early in the second period deprived goalie Ivan McLelland of a shutout.

ONLY PENALTIES

Only two penalties were handed out by the Swiss referees, both minors.

The Warwicks figured in eight of the 12 Penticton goals. Bill scored in the first period, added two more in the second and wound up a tremendous performance with three consecutive goals in the last 10 minutes of play. Jim McIntyre and Doug Kilburn each tallied twice and Jim Fairburn and Hal Tarala once each.

Canada, Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden now are tied for first place in the 10-day round-robin tournament.

Rangers Manage To Secure Draw Against Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

National Hockey League fans might as well forget about New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks for this season. The Hawks are dead; the Rangers have only a flicker of life.

Hawks were out of the running for a Stanley Cup playoff berth long ago. The only hope Rangers have is for the utter and fantastic collapse of Boston Bruins.

The two weak sisters in big-league hockey battled it out Friday night in what could be termed a nothing-game. They tied 2-2 before 5,842 fans at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Rangers haven't seriously threatened the Bruin hold on fourth and last playoff spot for weeks but they now are just about reduced to Mathematical chances.

Pete Conacher, 22-year-old forward in his first season with New York twice pulled Rangers out of hot water. He tied the game at 1-1 late in the first period and deadlocked it at 2-2 early in the second. He now has 11 goals for the season. Defenceman Allan Stanley and Red Sullivan scored for Chicago.

Sammy Saddler Proves Best In Division, Beats Red Davis

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—He't not the old Sandy Saddler of pre-army days but the featherweight champion still is the best in his division by far.

The skinny slasher from New York proved it once again Friday night by walloping 31-year-old Teddy (Red Top) Davis of Hartford with monotonous regularity enroute to a unanimous decision in a title 15-rounder in Madison Square Garden.

Having disposed of the No. 1 contender of the 126-pound class, Sandy looked forward with eagerness today in the direction of lightweight king Jimmy Carter.

"That's the one we want next," said manager Charley Johnston. "Sandy has wiped out everyone else so we might as well go after Carter. I'm going to try and make it for May or June outdoors."

"Carter? Sure, man, if there's money in it, he's the man for me," said the virtually-unmarked champion.

Davis, the "losingest" challenger of all time with 47 previous defeats on a spotty record, blamed a right hand injured in the third round for his one-sided defeat. He said he hit Saddler on the head.

There was a small lump on the hand. Dr. Vincent Nardiello said it appeared to be a sprain but he advised an x-ray.

Red Top had a huge lump on his right cheek bone and he was bruised about the left eye and cut around the mouth.

Harry Kessler, the referee, warned Sandy many times for holding and hitting and low pushing but he didn't penalize the champion. He also warned Red Top who was guilty of a little holding on his own. The crowd of 5,272 which paid $21,734 for the broadcast and telecast scrap booed often for his bulling and rough house tactics.

Davis was in the fight for the first nine rounds. After that it was all Saddler as Red Top used his right almost exclusively for blocking purposes.

Although he weighed only 124½ pounds to Davis' 126, Saddler grew stronger with each round while Red Top weakened.

Memos Hand Kingston Goodies 6-2 Defeat To Climb Into Third-Place Tie

Arnie Dugan Paces Offensive With Three Brilliant Goals; Finish Schedule With Clinton

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Arnie Dugan, ex-lacrosse star, spearheaded a playoff - hungry Belleville Memos team to a brilliant 6-2 victory over the Kingston Goodyears here last night.

The blond-haired bomber from Peterborough hit his seasonal scoring peak when he hat-tricked the Memos to victory.

The win hopped the Memos trio into a third-place tie with the Whitby Dunlops, with both teams having one game to play. The Memos play Clinton Comets today with the Dunlops taking on the Cornwall Colts.

A win for the Memos and a loss or a tie for the Dunlops will give the Memos the third spot and a semi-finals playoff with the Goodyears.

The biggest crowd of the season, some 1900, thrilled to a typical Belleville - Kingston battle and saw a fighting Memos squad take complete mastery of the situation in a third-period splurge that saw the winners slash home four goals in six minutes. The Goodyears battled desperately to forestall the forays of the Memos and whipped the puck past goalie Parisi in the dying minutes of the game to narrow the Memos margin to 6-2.

The "fix" talk was definitely dispelled as these ancient enemies battled tooth and nail. The Memos, driven by an impulse to grab the coveted third-place spot went all out from the opening whistle. It was fast, hard - checking hockey all the way with the Memos leading 2-1 going into the final period.

Then they exploded. They took the Goodyears off their feet by the fury of their attack and the clock had registered but a little over six minutes when the Memos registered four goals.

That was it. The tempo increased. The Memos defensive tactics, not that they laid back to protest their lead, were more effective because at one time they battled three-men to five with the Goodyears being unable to score.

It was fast furious hockey, sparked by Dugan's first goal at the fifteen-minute mark of the first period. The Goodyears roared back to the attack after Dugan hit the hemp for his second goal after 31 seconds of play in the second chapter. It was nip-and-tuck hockey from there on in and the Goodyears gave Tony Parisi plenty to do. And incidentally, the kudos of the game go to one Ken Johnson the Goodyears' goalie. How he kept out Memos' puck on more than few occasions, will never be known. He was good par excellence—and so was Parisi in the opposite end.

Both clubs played strictly to the book with eyes on goals and shoulders not on men. Only eleven minor penalties were handed out by Referees Jim Crombie and Ted Topping. Seven of them going to the Memos.

The teams played cat-and-mouse hockey at a fast pace after the opening whistle. They battled hard with both defences standing out Arnie Dugan grabbed the first of his hat-tricks at fifteen minutes on a neat solo effort.

The same player snatched the puck on the face-off in the second period and rammed the puck past a surprised Johnson to give the Memos a 2-0 lead.

The crowd was on its feet as the Memos and Goodyears raced in a rink-to-rink effort. It was battle royal. Twice in the period the Memos were two men short, but brilliant penalty-killing tactics saved the day, for the nonce.

Then came the explosion. The Memos took the Goodyears off their feet by the fury of attack and Hub Macey, Arnie Dugan, Erwin Duncan and Keith Macdonald assisted by teammates rammed home the four counters that spelled disaster for the Goodyears.

As was noted before Arnie Dugan led the Memos sharpshooters with three goals. Hub Macey contacted for a single as did Keith Macdonald, Erwin Duncan and Ted DeGray. The "Ole Pro" Red Doran had two assists. Jim McKeown and Bob Londry got the Goodyears scoring honors.

The teams—

Kingston — goal, Johnson; defence, Nicholson, Watts; centre, Senior; wings, Irving, White; alternates, Pawchuk, MacGregor, Toppazzini, McKeown, Stewart, Londry, Goodfellow, Tinkess, Bellringer.

Indians, Mercurys Square Series In Senior Playoffs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Owen Sound Mercurys and Stratford Indians bounced back with wins Friday night to square the two best-of-seven semi-final series in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

Indians came through with a 13-2 victory over Windsor Bulldogs in Stratford to even the B series at 1-1. Mercs blanked Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 3-0 in Owen Sound to deadlock the A series at one game apiece.

Stratford handed Windsor goaltender Bill Harrington a playoff nightmare, driving 65 shots at him. Stratford's Bruce Dale handled 32.

NINE AMONG THEM

Bob Mader, Mickey Roth, Lou Bendo and Johnny Muretich connected for nine goals among them. Mader hit three times while the others scored two goals each. Harry Psutka, Tom Walker and George Finbeiner were the other Indian marksmen.

Stratford had the scoreboard blinking 5-0 within eight minutes and 32 seconds of the first period. One of the goals came while they were a man short. Seven seconds before the period ended Reg Abbott tallied the Windsor opener.

Stratford added six unanswered goals in the second period. Floyd Hillman broke away at 3:12 of the final session to score Bulldogs' second and last marker.

Mercury netminder Bob Gillson chalked up the first playoff shutout and his fourth of the season in turning back 18 shots.

31 SHOTS

Mercurys always unpredictable, fired 13 shots at Windsor's Dennis Brodeur in the 3-1 defeat Wednesday at Kitchener but unwound for a 31-shot barrage Friday night.

Tom Burlington, top point-getter in the league last season, opened the scoring at 12:50 of the first period. The score stayed at 1-0 until Buck Forslund and Jerry Reid connected early in the third frame.

Penalties plagued Dutchies. Mercs' first and third goal came while they had a man advantage. Of the 12 minors handed out, Kitchener was tagged for eight. They also got the one misconduct.

Breezed to Win

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The University of Buffalo basketball team breezed through the University of Western Ontario here Friday night 90-58.

Buffalo had no trouble in winning its 14th game against seven setbacks, leading 51-23 at half time.

Tilson Memorial Trophy Awarded To Hank Ciesla

TORONTO (CP)—Centre Hank Ciesla of St. Catharines TeePees has been awarded the Albert (Red) Tilson Memorial Trophy as the most valuable and gentlemanly player in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, it was announced Friday.

The 20-year-old junior star, highest scorer in the league this season, becomes the second TeePee player to win the award in the last two years. Brian Cullen, now with the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs, won it last season.

Ciesla is the 11th player to be honored since the trophy was presented by The Globe and Mail to be awarded annually to the player regarded as the most valuable and gentlemanly in the league.

KILLED IN WAR

The trophy perpetuates the memory of Red Tilson, an outstanding player with Regina and Oshawa junior hockey teams who was killed in the Second World War. Sportswriters in the six league centres handled the voting.

Ciesla, a native of St. Catharines, is completing his fourth year with TeePees, defending Memorial Cup champions. He led all scorers this season with an unofficial total of 106 points—75 goals and 31 assists—and was given five of a possible nine first-place votes.

Dennis Riggin, goalkeeper with Hamilton Cubs, was second. Others receiving votes were Bill McCreary of Guelph Biltmores, Bill Harris of Toronto Marlboros, Dick Duff of Toronto St. Michael's Majors, Harry Howell of Guelph, Hec Lalande of Galt Black Hawks and Les Duff of St. Michaels.

R.M.C. Cadets Go To West Point

OTTAWA (CP)—Royal Military College and the United States Military Academy will meet for their 24th annual hockey game at West Point, N.Y., March 5.

RMC has won 16 of the 23 games. The 1953 contest ended in a tie. Last year, West Point won 5-3 at Kingston.

Solunar Notes

By-Products of Pollution

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables.)

Every once in a while we see a picture in a newspaper or a magazine showing dead fish lying along the shoreline of a stream or a lake, the result of pollution. We click our tongues, shake our heads and allow that something certainly should be done about such things.

Folks who do not make fish and fishing their businss are apt to think of pollution damage in terms of dead fish. To be sure, dead fish are a distinct loss and much to be deplored, but I sincerely wish the pollution damage stopped with fish kill. Believe me, that is just the start.

There is an acid factory near the headwaters of one of our good trout hereabouts and every so often this outfit used to dispose of some of its waste by dumping it into the stream. Of course, a lot of fish would be killed. This, as you might imagine, caused not a little adverse comment and placed the factory management in some rather tough spots.

BIOLOGICAL DESERT

Accordingly, they cooked up a new disposal plan. Instead of dumping enough refuse at one time to kill fish, they dumped it gradually a little each day. The pollution was not heavy enough to kill fish but it did its damage nonetheless. Every insect larva on the stream bottom was eradicated. Within the space of a few months time, the entire stream for 10 or 12 miles below that plant was a biological desert. There being no food, the fish simply moved to more productive waters.

Creamery refuse, if dumped when fresh, is not necessarily poisonous. There is a creamery on the bank of East Branch of Deleware river that dumped its refuse into the stream. At fidst the trout would feed on it and the Creamery Pool was a famous place for large trout.

Gradually, however, the refuse collected among the rocks of the stream bottom and there disintegration set in. This released poisons into the waters below which not only eradicated all insect life but began to kill fish as well. Then the authorities made the creamery arrange for another form of disposal.

Sawdust, seemingly harmless at first glance, is an extremely damaging thing in streams. At first it floats but soon it becomes waterlogged and sinks. Eventually each rock in the stream bed collects a layer of sawdust around its base. Then the waterlogged wood disintegrates and builds up the carbonic acid content of the water so that it no longer is good fish habitat. Of course, all bottom life perishes.

Vermont's famous Battenkill River was once just about ruined by sawdust. All bottom life had died off before fish were greatly affected. It took a long time and much pressure on the state legistaure before that stubborn mill owner was made to find another method of disposal of his sawdust.

One of Pennsylvania's large problems with pollution is that of mine drainage. Our hills are pitted with pollution is that of mine drainage. mine shafts. Gradually these fill with water which picks up a high sulphuric acid content. Then after a heavy rain these poisoned wells overflow.

A great many thousands of dollars have gone into the sealing of these mines, and streams which for many years were barren now hold fish.

There are countless causes of pollution. Coal dust, factory wastes, silt from unwise farming, insecticides, all sorts of things pollute streams, ponds and lakes enough to do damage. Not all of them actually kill fish but practically every one of them destroys bottom life.

RAW SEWAGE

Now and then we do have pollution which endangers public health such as the discharge of raw sewage into open waters. When this can be proven the cause can be rectified fairly readily.

As I say, most folks think of pollution damage in terms of dead fish. They forget the by-products—the complete destruction of bottom life and the resultant loss of use of that water by the peoole who formerly enjoyed it.

It takes a clean stream or lake about 10 years, maybe longer, to rehabilitate itself with an adequate and balanced supply of bottom life to support normal fish life. It is a rather easy matter to replace the fish that have been killed. That is one of the things our hatcheries are for.

But no satisfactory method has yet been found to repopulate the bed of a lake or a stream with a balanced distribution of crustaceans and insect larvae, such as existed before pollution. Only nature can do that job as it should be done and that, as I say, takes a long, long time.

Teeps, Bilts Win Junior Playoff Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

St. Catharines TeePees, defending Memorial Cup champions, eked out a 2-1 victory Friday night in the closing minutes of play against Toronto St. Michael's College Majors in the first game of their best-of-seven semi-final playoffs in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League.

In another playoff game, Guelph Biltmores trimmed Hamilton Cubs 5-3 with four second-period tallies at Guelph to take a 1-0 lead in their best-of-five quarter-finals.

In the tightly-played game at St. Catharines neither team was able to score until the early minutes of the final period when Teeps' Barry Cullen beat goaltender Don Keenan for the first of his two scores. Keenan replaced Gerry McNamara in the St. Michael's nets after the latter suffered a pulled leg ligament in the second period.

Cullen's second marker was scored while Majors' Noel Price was sitting out a penalty in the last five minutes of play. Price came back to spoil the shutout before 3,660 fans.

At Guelph, Cubs jumped into a 1-0 lead in a slow first period in which 33 faceoffs were called. Biltmores scored their first two goals with Hamilton's Larry Hillman in the penalty box.

Defenceman Ron Howell and Bill McCreary each tallied twice and Bill Sweeney once for the Madhatters. Bill McNeill, Brian Kilrea and Murray Oliver scored for the Cubs.

Biltmores outshot the visitors 36-29 with both goalies Glen Ramsay of Guelph and Dennis Riggin of Hamilton coming up with miraculous saves.

Winning Rink Says Competition Much Stiffer

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—The skip of Saskatchewan's Canadian-champion schoolboy curlers said Friday his team encountered much stiffer competition in winning the 1955 title than they did in 1954.

His observation was in line with the views of coaches and players at the Dominion school bonspiel, which concluded here Thursday that the quality and enthusiasm of teen-age curling across the country is on the upswing.

Bayne Secord, who skipped the victorious Saskatoon Technical Collegiate quartet to the title in a memorable playoff with Prince Edward Island, said "last year only one or two rinks were threats."

IT WAS DIFFERENT

"This year, almost every rink had us a little scared."

Ten rinks competed this year, two of them from Ontario.

Maurice Pourtlance, who coached Northern Ontario's Noranda rink, said the bonspiel had "certainly been good" from the standpoint of the spectators because so many of the matches went to extra ends.

Bob Heartwell, coach of Ontario's Sarnia entry, marvelled at the fans—hundreds of them miners and steelworkers who had never seen a curling match before—who thronged the Forum during the four days.

"You'd think it was a hockey game to hear them holler," he mused.

All Favorites Trail Newcomer In Houston Open

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—All the favorites were trailing a 23-year-old newcomer today as one of the tightest fields in Houston Open history began the third round of the $30,000 tournament.

Wesley Ellis, who talks with as much confidence as he exhibits on the tee and green, held a one-stroke lead at the halfway mark.

While Jimmy Demaret, the first-round leader, was missing nine putts of 10 feet or less Friday, Ellis calmly produced his third and fourth nine-hole 34s.

The pair of 68s by the young Rivervale, N.J., pro left him with an eight-under-par 136 for 36 holes on the 7,200-yard par 72 Memorial Park course. A stroke away at 137 were Demaret, Ed Furgol, the national Open titlist from St. Louis, and Ed Carpenter, San Antonio.

As a reduced field began the final 36 holes, 15 players were within three strokes of Ellis and six more were only four away.

Lions Unhappy Because Stamps Signed Pact

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia Lions said Friday they are "disturbed" because Calgary Stampeders of the Western Interprovincial Football Union signed a peace pact with Washington Redskins of the National Football League.

Lions' officials called Calgary's action "abject" surrender. Lions are members of the WIFU.

Refusing to be quoted by name, they said they will follow a plan of "lying low" on the signing of any NFL players.

"We've beaten them twice—on Arnie Weinmeister and Laurie Nieml—and we know the NFL clubs are just waiting for a chance at us," said one executive.

The Calgary - Washington nonraider pact was announced Thursday in Washington.

Marciano Signs To Meet Cockell Early in May

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and British titleholder Don Cockell made it official Friday by signing contracts for their title fight in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium the week of May 16-20.

"We haven't picked the exact date," said president Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club, "because we don't know whether we will have home television or theatre television.

"We will listen to offers from TV sponsors and the theatre television people before we decide."

A clause in the contract guarantees Rocky a return bout in September should he be upset by the pudgy, 26-year-old Briton.

Jan Clayton Enjoys Playing Scenes With Dogs, Children

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Film actors agree on one thing—avoid playing scenes with dogs and children; they'l steal you blind.

Yet here is a Broadway star who appears set for a career with a boy and a dog—and a scene-stealing old man as well. What's more she loves it.

She's Jan Clayton, the winsome star of "Carousel" and "Show Boat" in New York and "Guys and Dolls" on the road. She appears in the TV series, "The Adventures of Lassie" with the clever collie, Tommy Rettig and George Cleveland.

"I couldn't be happier," she said at her sumptuous home overlooking the San Fernando valley. "That dog is a tramp at heart—a real character. Tommy's just about the brightest kid I've ever known, yet not precocious like some child actors. And old George is a great guy; I've learned a lot about acting from him."

It's lucky that she likes the series, because Jan seems set with Lassie for a long spell.

SMALL TOWN GIRL

This marks another phase in the varied career of the New Mexico girl, who has managed to combine show business and a family with equal success. Born in Alamogordo, she grew up in Gularosa. Despite the small size of the town, it had an excellent theatre department in the high school. Her acting urge got good encouragement.

She came to Hollywood, but strangely has never clicked in films. She has been under contract to Warners, MGM and 20th-Fox—"but I never could make it past the first option." She reached her greatest success as a Rodgers and Hammerstein star on Broadway.

After the war, she took on another career, as wife of Robert Lerner, lawyer and department store heir. She is the mother of four children.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

If you bid your bridge hand correctly according to rules you are seldom in the wrong contract. So, you need not extend yourself trying to read what your partner has. But it is fun trying.

Open one diamond with the south hand shown here:

♠Q 4 3
♥A K 4
♦A Q J 9 6
♣8 5

Suppose your north partner responds with an immediate jump to four diamonds. What is the picture you get of his hand? What should you do about it when the bidding comes back to you?

The fact that he jumped shows that he has tricks enough to help make a game. The fact that he assisted shows that his expected tricks depend on diamonds being trump. These are obvious.

But the fact that he double-jumped instead of one-jumped has a special significance. It is a particular kind of signal that shows a particular type of hand with special information included.

An immediate one-jump would guarantee two sure tricks among his other values. The double-jump denies having such two sures. This is the main distinction between the two.

It tells you that partner has the type of help that would go for a slam if you can do without two sure tricks in his hand. Why? If slam was not possible he would have jumped to five at once.

Thus, you may picture your partner with four or five diamonds and one or more short suits which his trumps will ruff. And what he may be short in is one of the black suits, no doubt.

However, since partner lacks two sure tricks there is still no great hope that slam is in your pair. If he lacks quick takers your pair will have too many holes with the cards you have.

This tells you to bid five diamonds and make no attempt to try for slam. If you still have a slam it will be an accident. And if you depend on accidents to win for you, change your game.

Saddler Wins Legal Round

NEW YORK (AP) — Featherweight champion Sandy Saddler Friday won a legal round when Supreme Court Justice James B. M. McNally refused to attach his purse for Friday night's title defence against Red Top Davis as asked by his wife.

The judge said Saddler had paid his wife about $1,000 since last November and had not evaded service of papers in her suit for separation. Mrs. Saddler, who seeks a separation and $500 a week alimony, claimed her husband had embarked on a "strategem of concealment, evasion and flight."

Excellent Skiing

TORONTO (CP)—Skiing conditions were reported excellent Friday at 12 Ontario centres.

They are Bracebridge, Collingwood, Flesherton-Markdale, Gravenhurst, Halleybury, Huntsville, Midland, Orangeville - Hockley, Oshawa, Sudbury-Levack, Sundridge and Sinclair township.

Good skiing is also reported at Barrie, Bolton, Cobourg, Dagmar, Kirkland Lake, North Bay, Owen Sound and Peterborough-Bethany.

There is fair skiing at Larder Lake and Newmarket but none at Cedar Springs and Kitchener.

Carr's Admirals Defeat Juniors To Enter Finals

TRENTON (Special) — The finals for the Frank Follwell trophy and the Trent Valley Hockey League south division honors — Bill Carr's Admirals to meet Point Anne Cementmen. That was decided here last night when the Admirals trounced the Belleville Junior 14-4.

Schedule of the best four out of seven series will be announced later.

The score here last night would indicate that Trenton shooters skated on a one-way track but actually that wasn't the case. The Juniors were peppy at times and but for Hill in the Admiral's net would have given a better account of themselves. In the second period Belleville scorers almost matched the Trenton firing squad, ringing in three goals to their four. In the third period, however, Belleville's cause worsened when the Admirals swamped netminder Ashley with six successive scores.

Trenton's best shooters were Beale, Jones, A. Scott, Schmidt, Hatfield, Cousins, P. Scott, Campney and Farmer. St. Dennis, Brooks, McKenna, Baker and Arthurs carried the mail for the losers.

Fighting broke out in the second period between Cousins of the Admirals and Ashley in the Belleville goal. Ashley claimed the Trenton player rapped him with his stick. Ashley drew a five-minute penalty which was served by a team mate, while Cousins was banished for five minutes.

Belleville: goal, Ashley; defence, Baker, Murray; centre, Fox; wings McKenna, Stoliker; alternates, St. Denis, Atkins, Brooks, Vesterfelt.

Trenton: goal, Hill; defence, Schmidt, Farmer; centre, Cousins; wings, Hatfield; alternates, A. Scott, Beale, Jones, Campney, Istead, Leavey.

Call for Help Is Cancelled

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — The Penticton Vs, Canada's representatives in the world hockey championships being played in Europe, have cancelled their call for help.

Dr. Mel Butler, president of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, said Friday he received a relayed wire from Dortmund, Germany, cancelling a previous request for reinforcements.

The telegram was signed by W. B. (Baldy) George, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and was evidently sent after the Vs smothered the U.S. 12-1 in their first game.

Assumption Wins To Keep Hopes Alive in Loop

WINDSOR (CP) — Assumption College Purple Raiders kept their faint title hopes alive in the senior Intercollegiate Basketball League Friday night by defeating McMaster University Marauders 62-50 here.

The win was Assumption's fifth in eight conference starts. McMaster is winless in eight league outings.

Assumption held a 31-24 lead at half time.

Matt Borowiec of Assumption was the game's leading scorer with 20 points. Bert Raphael of McMaster clicked for 14 points.

Cockell Ordered To Defend Title

TORONTO (CP) — The British boxing board of control has ordered Don Cockell to defend his British Empire heavyweight boxing title against the winner of the Canadian championship fight March 7, it was reported here Friday.

Champion Earl Walls will defend his title here against James J. Parker in a 12-round bout. The BBBC notified the Canadian Boxing Federation Thursday of its ruling on Cockell.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Monday, February 28, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Some upsetting elements with which to contend? Watch self, budget, keep awake; be wary of high-sounding schemes. Guard against indifferences to law, business, employment.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Many advantages all around you that for one reason or another you may not see or think worth while. You'll be wise to ponder, think twice before acting. Avoid domestic differences.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—An early start, keeping pace with reasonable momentum, accelerating where logical and your chances are better than good to come out on top. Trust, also be sure of fairness.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—You may become perplexed by allowing overconfidence to get upperhand. A firm hand in all activities needed all day. Follow plans with alacity, sureness; don't take things for granted.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—This period best for steady, reasonable action. Uptrend will come naturally, better than quickly and become unruly. Be ambitious but not over persistent for lasting results.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Today hits many high spots under varied aspects. Industry vies within itself also labor, science, personal, home interests. Don't play with uncertain influences. Be well informed, tactful.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Move steadily, alertly forward. New ventures can be successful with your sincere effort and proper study first. Be amenable to sound suggestions, often they really help.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Mental tasks likely harder than physical work confronting you now. However, you can have favorable results, so don't be irritated or worry, it effects your best sense and thinking processes.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Finding your competitors at their best should act as an incentive for you to top past effort. Agility of mind, calmness of action will ticket your endeavors advantageously.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Some uncertainties during day could cause worry, pessimism; this you should not permit. Things are not all hard though there may be unexpected opposition. Don't give in, fight back.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—No day to go off the beaten track. Be careful of what you do, say, in committing self, making contracts. It's the little things that sometime become big problems.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Avoid unnecessary criticism of others, those with whom you associate, who employ you, or loved ones. Set a mark and pace yourself to be in at the winning tape. Humor is important to success.

YOU BORN TODAY: Innately idealistic, appreciate art, science, improved mechanical devices. You often lack self confidence; build yourself up in this respect. Have more daily faith in your ability. Association with soundly aggressive folk for better business and all-around balance. You like to do things that please others; are innately honorable, honest. Pisces gives us good judges, lawyers, doctors, nurses. Avoid restlessness, anxiety over health. Birthdate of: Michel de Montaigne, Fr. essayist; Geraldine Farrar, Amer. singer; Vincent Minnelli, motion picture producer.

Little Benny's Notebook

The day after tomorrow is pop's berthday, and after dinner I said, G, pop, I bet you're excited about your berthday.

Oh, I wouldn't say that, pop said. I hardly think my berthday is going to have any far reetching consequences, he said, and I said, Sure it is, pop, it's started to have some alreddy.

Oh, really? How? pop said, and I said, It gave me an idea for a new club, and no fellow is allowed in it unless he thinks his father is the greatest man in the werld. The other fellows all think its a swell idea, I said.

It's surely a grate compliment to us fathers, pop said, and I said, Sure, pop, and wait till I tell you the principal part of it. We're going to call it The Fathers Berthday Club, because your berthday gave me the whole idea, I said.

Well, very flattering, pop said, and I said, Every time a member's father has a berthday, the whole club will have a private holliday from school to celbrate it. That's the principal part, I said.

The dooce it is, pop said, and I said, Sure, pop, we're going to write it out and all sine it wth red ink, and when our fathers find out how serious we are, they'll sine it too, and that will make the hollidays legal.

I still feel honored, but I have an idea you're not going to get signatures from many fathers, pop said. In fact I'll go so far as to say I know absilutely you wont get mine, he said.

Being the sad end, but probably no sadder than the other fellows ends.

TENDERS

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked "TENDER FOR ADDITIONAL DEVELOPMENT OF THE AIRPORT AT TRENTON", will be received up to 12 o'clock noon, MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1955, for the Construction of a 2000' x 200' Extension to Existing Runway 6-24, Construction of Additional Parking Area and an Access Road at the Airport at Trenton, Ontario.

Plans, specifications, labour conditions, contract form, form of tender and return tender envelope may be obtained on application to the District Airway Engineer, Department of Transport, 25 St. Clair Avenue, East, Toronto 7, Ontario, upon receipt of an accepted cheque made payable to the Receiver General of Canada for the sum of $25.00. This cheque will be returned upon the return of the plans and specifications in good condition. Additional information required with regard to interpretation of plans and specifications may be obtained from the aforementioned District Airway Engineer.

Plans and specifications will also be on display at the Belleville and District Builders Exchange, City Hall Belleville, Ontario.

Each tender must be accompanied by a security deposit equal to (a) ten per cent (10%) of the tender price where the amount of the tender does not exceed $250,000.00, or (b) $25,000.00 plus five per cent (5%) of the amount by which the amount of the tender price exceeds $250,000.00, where the amount of the tender exceeds $250,000.00 which security deposit will be forfeited in the event of a tenderer refusing to enter into a contract on the basis of his tender if called upon to do so, or failing to satisfactorily complete such a contract. Cheques of unsuccessful tenderers will be returned.

Any tender not accompanied by a security deposit as described will not be considered.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

F. T. COLLINS,
Secretary.
Department of Transport,
Ottawa, Ontario, February 18, 1955.

Canada's Link With Crown Growing Closer, More Secure Says Governor-General Massey

By HAROLD MORRISON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Vincent Massey is entering his fourth year of office with the feeling that Canada's link with the Crown is growing closer and more secure.

"The link is difficult to measure because it is intangible," Canada's first native-born governor-general said in a recent conversation with this reporter.

"But in my first three years of office and in my travels I have found the warm and affectionate feeling for the Crown is growing deeper and more profound.

"UNIFYING FORCE"

"The Crown is a unifying force, vital to Canadians. To lose it would be to lose a sense of unity, a sense of continuity with the past.

"I believe the Crown is symbolic of all that is best in our lives. It is one thing that is above others. It is one thing that places everybody in the same relationship.

"I sense this strengthening bond with the Sovereign when I witness and participate in ceremonials, when I hear school children sing 'God Save the Queen', and when I chat with municipal officials in my travels across the country.

"The Crown seems to have a universal appeal. Even foreign-born Canadians sense its symbolism of affection, authority and freedom.

"No, we are not moving away from the Crown. We are moving closer."

NOTABLE CAREER

The 68-year-old, Toronto-born governor-general, whom fate cast in the role of industrialist, diplomat, educationist and culture investigator, next Monday observes the start of the fourth year of his five-year term as the first Canadian to represent the Sovereign in Canada.

Friends of his say the slender man, with the high forehead and rather sombre facial expression that cloaks a heart of wit, love of humanity and tolerance, is enjoying his work to the utmost and is prepared to remain in harness as long as his country needs him.

Host at Rideau Hall, official residence of the governor-general on 80 acres in suburban Rockcliffe, and at the Citadel, residence at Quebec City, he has entertained some 26,500 guests, including 8,000 at garden parties.

In his first three years he also travelled some 70,000 miles, visiting almost every nook and cranny across the country. Next year he is planning the most extensive northern tour a governor-general has ever ventured: A swing through the isolated communities dotting the northern coastal mainland, some 300 miles north of the Arctic circle.

CONFIDENCE GROWS

Speaking of his travels, which included a call at Washington to become the first Canadian governor-general to speak at a joint session of Congress, Mr. Makssey said he found a marked increase in the self-confidence of Canadians.

"They are getting to be a very determined people, albeit cautious in a way, but determined and self-confident that they can do almost anything anyone else can do."

While making all of Canada his workshop, Canada's 18th governor-general also concentrates on his home life.

"He has knocked some of the stuffing out of Government House" one staff member at Rideau Hall remarked.

"He makes things warm and informal. He's made it a place where people want to come; you know, no striped pants sort of thing."

MARKED BY INFORMALITY

About 100 young couples are invited to Rideau Hall every Friday night for dinner parties where informality is the rule rather than the exception.

Old political enemies also gather there, considering it neutral ground. Old buddies have come to discuss with Mr. Massey developments in many of the fields in which he still is interested, painting and literature, the role of universities in Canadian life and the development of true Canadian characteristics.

When the dignitaries, world statesmen and politicians are not around, the slight man with the low, cultivated voice walks through the grounds with his dog, Duff, a golden retriever, or romps in the snow with his grandchildren.

Mr. Massey does most of his work, his speech-making and travel planning in a well-furnished Rideau Hall study, with a deep fireplace at one corner. On the walls are some of his favorite sketches, paintings, cartoons and caricatures, including two by Low, the famed British cartoonist.

On his desk are photographs of his wife, Alice, who died in 1950.

It is at this desk that he spent hours polishing some of his now-famous speeches, including one in Toronto last October when he appealed for greater use of books.

INFLUENCE ON TV, FILMS

He expressed the fear then that the pictorial tastes of the masses, expressed in the popularity of television and the cinema, were turning them more and more to wordless cartoons or pictures conveying a language that "is not received through the mind at all but is absorbed by the pores."

In London, Ont., in March, 1953, he called on the universities to redeem the present rootless generation and restore it to its true roots.

In speeches to Canadian Clubs and other groups he hammered away constantly on the need for tolerance among racial groups, patience and tolerance to strengthen humanity and mould Canadians into a stronger nation.

Some observers have suggested Mr. Massey's life may be a lonely one, cut off from normal bustle of day-to-day living in the big and little cities.

But at Rideau Hall, Mr. Massey's associates disagree. One put it this way:

"You should see him when he goes out and surprises a bunch of kids browsing through the grounds with their teachers. He makes himself right at home with them. He loves his work, loves meeting people and loves travelling. That keeps him right in the human swim."

Check Migration of Carp By Banning Minnow-Fishing

By BRUCE HOGLE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — The carp, bane of anglers and conservationists in many parts of North America, has spread to some lakes and streams in Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Authorities are attempting to check its migration by banning minnow-fishing and erecting fish screens at strategic points.

They know the hardy, prolific carp and its destructive power. The "hog" of the fish world is difficult to eradicate and there is no positive method to control it.

The carp was first introduced to North America in 1872 when it was brought to California from Europe. It soon spread through the United States and was first discovered in western Canada in 1938 in the Red river in Manitoba.

FOUND IN SASKATCHEWAN

By 1943 carp were found in Lake Winnipeg and Lake Manitoba and 10 years later they had spread to the Assiniboine river at Kamsack, Sask.

The bulky-looking fish has a voracious appetite. After it is through sucking up plant and small animal life from lake and river bottoms, the carp stirs up mud so that the water becomes too turbid for game fish to live in.

Conservation officials used rotenone to poison 40-acre Eureka lake in South Dakota when game fish became almost extinct because of the carp menace. Of the 76,500 dead fish counted, 71,000 were carp.

G. W. (Gerry) Malaher, director of the Manitoba game and fisheries branch, said in an interview that poisoning unfortunately is not feasible in the larger lakes and rivers of western Canada.

SMART FISH

"Carp are smart fish," he said, "and poisoning one area of a river would not work as they would leave that region.

"We have encouraged people to catch carp if only to destroy them."

Other methods of controlling the fish are control dams and fish screens across smaller rivers and streams.

To ensure that carp are not aided any more than possible, the Saskatchewan and Manitoba governments have laws preventing the use of live-fish bait. This is to prevent carp fingerlings accidentally being released into lakes they could ruin in a matter of years.

SEES NO WAR

OTTAWA (CP)—Belgian Foreign Minister Spaak said Friday he doesn't believe there will be a world war in the next decade. He also told the NATO Parliamentary Association that he thinks the Paris agreements for entry of a rearmed West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will be ratified by the Bonn government by a large majority. The West German parliament now is debating ratification of the agreements.

Delegation Gets Poor Reception In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—A Toronto civic delegation seeking federal help in caring for able-bodied persons out of work was told Friday it should make its first approach to the provincial government.

The delegation headed by Mayor Nathan Phillips met Labor Minister Gregg, Trade Minister Howe, Health Minister Martin and Works Minister Winters.

It is understood that on a public works request, Works Minister Winters made no commitments but told the delegation the government already has indicated in its annual estimates submitted to Parliament recently that projects are being stepped up.

A Weekly Review of Sports Activities of the City's Secondary Schools

HI-Y SCOREBOARD
ICE HOCKEY

On Monday the Canucks whipped the Black Hawks 3-1 to move into a first place tie with the Buzzards. Ab Wright fired two goals for the Canucks with Gary Rowbottom scoring the other. Little had two assists.

Hagerman rapped in Duvall's rebound by Moore, spoiling the shutout bid with only one minute remaining in the game.

There is only one game left in the schedule with the Buzzards playing the cellar-dwelling Mohawks. If the Mohawks should upset the Buzzards, the Canucks will remain in their first place tie with them. Then the goals for and against averages will declare the leading team.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Last Monday the B.C.I. juniors were defeated by the O.S.D. Seniors 46-33 in an exhibition game played at O.S.D. The game itself, was a hard fought, quick-moving battle with only eight fouls being imposed. Oddly enough seven of these went to the winners.

O.S.D. were ahead only by 9 points at half time, leading 22-13. BCI's zone guarding was so effective that OSD had comparatively fewer shots on the basket than BCI. This showed the scoring superiority of the OSD gals. The referee was Donna Ray.

PLAYERS AND POINTS

BCI—Hall 4, Pringle 7, Rose 9, Rowland 13, Batchelor, Loft, Adams, Miller, Irving.

OSD—Brant 8, Brown 2, Moon 14, De La Franier 2, Caldwell 19, Neil, Williams, Masci, Bell Kerr.

On Thursday, the BCI Juniors, in the second game of a three game series with Napanee, slaughtered their hosts 30-16 in Napanee. Napanee had won the first game 26-23 here in Belleville last week placing BCI on the verge of elimination. Our side had to win this game to remain in competition for a trip to Toronto, as representatives of this district.

With a strong inspiration for victory and a great team effort they decisively outclassed their opponents. The checking was close and BCI intercepted many Napanee passes, pressing hard under their host's basket. There were eleven fouls imposed in the game. BCI received six of them.

PLAYERS AND POINTS

BCI—Hall 5, Pringle 4, Rose 9, Rowland 12, Batchelor, Loft, Adams, Miller, Irving.

Napanee — Joan Sullivan 11, Jane Sullivan, Waddingham, Ross 4, Lier 1, Taft, McVicker, Fraser, Martin, Craig, Hagerman.

The referees were Donna Ray and Merna Lier.

The final game of the series will be played next Thursday at the Quinte Secondary School.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

The BCI Juniors trounced the Napanee Juniors 61-28 in the first game of a two game total points to count series. They surged ahead 28-6 in the first quarter and many of the spectators thought that the big red team would surely reach the century mark They only scored 6 points in the second quarter and led 34-16 at half time. In the last half they played more like themselves and soared ahead 44-23 by the end of the third quarter.

Jackson paced the winner's attack with 23 points while Parsons, an ex-BCI sub scored 13 points for Napanee.

PLAYERS AND POINTS

Napanee—Daley 2, Phippen 2, Rogers 1, Elliott 2, Close 2, Parsons 13, Fenton 4, Moore 1, Brown 9, Carter, Oliver, Legg.

BCI—Jones 17, Burleigh 8, Calnan, Cornell 3, Moravcik, Parkhurst, Barber 9, Hagerman, Jackson 23, Irwin, Stephanson 1, Aselstine.

The Napanee Seniors edged the BCI Seniors 56-54 in a thrilling game last Wednesday. It also was the first game of a two game points to count series. Napanee jumped into a 14-6 first quarter lead but BCI gamely fought back and managed to climb within 4 points of the winners by half time 27-23. Napanee increased their margin slightly in the third quarter, leading 38-32 and were able to hang on and withstand BCI's powerful and inspired fourth quarter drive.

PLAYERS AND POINTS

Napanee — Allison 4, Howitt 15, Babcock 9, Church 1, Elliott, McAlister 2, Shaw 6, French 19.

BCI — Farnsworth 7, White, White, Smith 9, Craig 8, Gajdicar, Geneja 2, Bennett 10, Hill, Gault 9, Deacon 2, Varcoe 7, Kells.

The big show almost here! That's right, Kampus Kapers, the biggest show of the school year.

This is the ninth annual Kampus Kapers and it shows every sign of being the best one yet. The fifteen acts embrace almost every field of talent a person would want.

To get things off on the right foot, the whole cast will put in an appearance for the grand opening. Then the Glee Club under the direction of Mr. Templer will sing a couple of songs. Following this will be a display of Grecian statuary by the boys in Tech. 12. This consists of the boys striking various poses, and with the proper lighting and absolute immobility of the boys, the effect is very much like a marble statue.

Then there will be those old favorites, the "Rockefellers," who are going to give out with some of their own inimitable music.

Boys' tumbling under the direction of Mr. Ewald occupies the next spot on the program and from what we have seen spying in the boys' gym it should be one of the best tumbling exhibitions that we have seen around B.C.I. for many a moon.

There is a new group with us this year in Kampus Kapers, the teachers. Eight of the most musically inclined of the teachers are going to have a sing-song. They prefer to remain anonymouse because . . . .

The Dramatic Club is putting on a short skit entitled "Two Boys Meet Girl." This play is under the supervision of Mr. Sloan and is being directed by Barbara Robb.

Bill Gault and Marianne and Barry Ray will give another of their interesting exhibitions of the art of judo.

Following this there will be intermission with the music being supplied by Mr. Cooper and the band.

The girls' tumbling begins immediately following intermission. This is under the direction of Miss Doyle.

Then another new group will make their appearance on the stage. Namely "The Choraliers." This group consists of the girls' chorus and the boys' double quartet.

Mr. Scheffe has written a skit which he thinks will be one of the brighter lights of the evening and from what we have heard it seems to be all right.

Cara and Gregg Butler are going to play the piano followed by those two lovable characters "Huck and Spike." Did I say lovable?

Then comes the high point in the show, the Pyramids. These, as you know, have always been the greatest single effort in Kampus Kapers and when you get right down to it, there is nothing quite so thrilling as seeing a pyramid being built right before your eyes out of human bodies. I think that to Mr. Townsend we owe a great thanks for his untiring efforts with the pyramid club.

We also have to take off our hat to "Red" for another and much greater reason. If it were not for him, we would not be having anything quite like this. All we can say is "thanks."

Don't forget to get your tickets for the show, they will be one sale all next week in the main hall. See you there.

P.S.: There's a dance after the Friday performance.

Bundestag Gives Paris Treaties Approving Votes

Final Ratification Will Come Within Three Weeks

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BONN, Germany (AP)—National rearmament treaties to join 500,000 West German soldiers to the 14-country Atlantic defence forces moved today to Parliament's upper house. Final ratification is expected there within three weeks.

Parliament's Bundestag (lower house) voted for the four interlocking treaties Sunday night after 42 hours of grueling debate that dragged through four days.

The vote overwhelmingly favored the Western alliance. The House also agreed reluctantly—under Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's dogged insistence—to Europeanize the coal-rich Saar that Germany has lost twice in world wars.

THE VOTE

Holding to the stand it had taken in the crucial semi-final reading earlier Sunday, the House voted this way Sunday night on the rearmament treaties:

The key accord to end the Western occupation of West Germany, restore its sovereignty and lift the ban against rearmament—324-151.

To authorize the United States, Britain, and France to station 400,000 troops in the Bonn Republic—321-153.

The joint bill to admit West Germany to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) and the West European Union (WEU)—314-157.

Seven of the 14 NATO nations have approved German rearmament.

AWAIT FINAL APPROVAL

The French National Assembly approved it under former premier Pierre Mendes - France, but France's upper house, the Council of the Republic, has to give final approval. It could relay the process by sending amendments back to the assembly, but France's new premier, Edgar Faure, has promised to push through ratification.

Italy's ratification is in the final stage. The remaining countries are sure to approve but are hanging back to see what France does.

The prospects of French approval were not improved by the German Parliament's attitude to the Saar agreement.

Opposition to separating indefinitely the disputed German-speaking border territory from Germany provoked a split in the ruling Adenauer coalition and also aroused strong disapproval from the Opposition Socialists.

WON MAJORITY

By arguing that West Germany's comeback depended on this sacrifice, Adenauer wrung a grudging 263-202 majority from the pact.

But in apparent appeasement of the coalition rebels, the lower house approved by a show of hands a supplementary motion affirming that the agreement does "not affect that attachment of the Saar to Germany."

The resolution also demanded full political freedom in the Saar before and after the Saarlanders vote on the "Europeanization" statute. It said that the European commissioner to be appointed by the seven nations in the WEU must guarantee this freedom.

Even if the French act quickly, 1959 is the earliest estimated date by which German divisions can be ready for combat.

A mass of legislation has to be passed by Parliament to enable the first volunteers for the professional nucleus to be called to the colors eadly in 1956. Then the first draftees would be called up in the summer of '1957 for 18 months of training.

Ontario Govt. Blocking Way Says CCF Leader

TIMMINS (CP)—Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario CCF party leader, said Saturday night a dog-in-the-manger attitude on the part of the Ontario government is blocking the way to a full-scale health plan for the people of Canada.

In a dinner address to the CCF education and organization conference here, Mr. MacDonald charged the provincia government with refusing to move toward attainment of a national health plan by claiming that the cost would be prohibitive.

He said a statement by Health Minister Phillips that a provincial plan would cost $192,000,000 is unrealistic.

"Precisely the opposite conclusion would be drawn by any government which is really interested in meeting the health needs of our people," he said.

He suggested the federal government would likely meet 60 per cent of the cost of a national health scheme but added that the initiative must come from the provinces.

"The margin of additional revenue for over-all health coverage (for Ontario) is reduced to $20,000,000 or so," Mr. MacDonald said. He added that a partial coverage plan would be far less.

Mr. MacDonald is on a three-week tour of Ontario that will take him to more than 40 northern communities.

Dusk-to-Dawn Charity Party Is Productive

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —More than 2,200 persons trouped through Walt Willoughby's nine - room house during his weekend dusk-to-dawn charity house party.

The 36-year-old insurance salesman said the guests pledged more than 200 pints of blood to the Red Cross. In addition, they purchased about 1,000 tickets to a crippled children's benefit basketball game, brought two truckloads of old clothes and toys, and pledged several hundred dollars to various charities.

Walt invited the entire city to the party through a newspaper advertisement. He provided all the food and drink and the guests were asked only to make some kind of a pledge to some charity.

Willoughly estimated his bill for the shindig at about $3,000.

Trixie Friganza Dies in Calif.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Trixie Friganza, 83, a headliner in musical comedy and vaudeville in grandfather's day, died Sunday night at a quiet Roman Catholic retreat where she had lived for 16 years.

The "champagne girl," as she was billed in the gay '90s, had been bedridden for many years at the Sacred Heart Academy in nearby Flintridge.

Miss Friganza's career spanned a half century and early in her career she was called the "champagne girl" because she was considered the toast of two continents. She became a favorite on the vaudeville and musical comedy circuits of this country and in such European cities as London, Paris and Budapest.

THE WEATHER

WEATHER n-. co notiht, nnasal

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: It is clear and cold in northern Ontario today, with some localities reporting early morning temperatures of 25 below zero. By contrast, mild moist air covers the lower lakes regions, and fog formed again during the night. An area of low pressure will hold the mild air over southern Ontario today and bring a possibility of rain Tuesday.

CHRYSLER UNION VOTES APPROVAL NEW AGREEMENT

Average Wage in Plant Now $1.75 an Hour

WINDSOR (CP)—The final step in the settlement of the contract dispute at the Chrysler Corporation of Canada was taken Sunday when the workers voted approval of a new agreement, announced last week.

Officials of the Chrysler unit of Local 195, United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) said the vote, taken by show of hands at a general membership meeting, was "unanimously in favor" of accepting the agreement.

About 2,000 of the 7,500 Chrysler workers attended the meeting, held in a downtown theatre.

The settlement was announced in a joint company-union statement last Wednesday, only two hours before the workers were scheduled to strike to enforce their demands. It will end Aug. 1, 1956.

PAY INCREASE

The workers will get a four-cent hourly wage boost, effective immediately, bringing their average wage to $1.75 an hour.

The agreement also provides for two extra paid holidays, bringing the total to eight a year; company-paid Windsor medical and Blue Cross health plans; increased weekly sick benefits to $32 from $30; and $4,000 company-paid life insurance for employees instead of $3,600.

The company also agreed to incorporate company-wide seniority instead of department-wide; a new skilled trades apprenticeship program; corporation-wide job posting; and changes in job transfer procedures.

A special clause states the union can ask the company to open discussions early in June to set up a pension plan for the workers.

COVERS CHATHAM

The agreement covers 350 employees at a Chrysler parts plant and depot in Chatham, 50 miles east of here. The workers in this plant were given an extra pay increase to bring their wages more into line with those in Windsor.

George Burt, UAW Canadian director, said he hoped the Chrysler agreement would set a pattern for peaceful settlement of other labor disputes.

". . . I believe this contract will stand as an example of what determined negotiating can accomplish when both sides want to reach a satisfactory agreement," he said.

The new contract marked the end of the second major labor battle in this industrial city in a month. A settlement ending the 109-day strike at the Ford Motor Company of Canada was announced Jan. 27.

Six Youths Charged

COOKSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Two Kitchener and four Toronto area youths were charged with shop-breaking today in connection with breakins at two suburban Malton garages last week. An undetermined amount of cash, an adding machine and other articles were taken.

Those charged included Mervin Goldsmith, 17, and Nelson Boan, 17, both of Kitchener.

ON WAY HOME

SEDBON, Suez (Reuters) — The Canadian destroyers Huron and Iroquois Sunday night entered the Suez canal from the Red sea, on their way home from the Far East.

Rangers Are Bunch of 'Characters', Where Army Recruits, They 'Invite'

YELLOWKNIFE, N. W. T. (CP) In a country where people take pride in being characters, John (Jock) Anderson-Thomson holds his head high.

Capt. Anderson-Thomson is commander of the local unit of Canadian Rangers. The Rangers rested today after a weekend stint of battling the Royal 22nd Regiment of Quebec City in the army-RCAF exercise Bull Dog III.

Capt. Jock, 55, born in Scotland and a First World War air pilot, said in an interview he has terrific respect for regular troops. But he added:

"Nobody can defend this part of the world as well as we who live here. And you've got to remember we're all characters—any enemy would have to get us one by one, because no matter who else ever surrendered, every man from the north would make the decision for himself."

Trappers, woodsmen, bush pilots and other colorful individuals make up the Rangers. And Capt. Jock claims: "It would take a bunch of fellows like ourselves to beat us."

Capt. Jock is fond of the regular army but he makes this point: "They recruit, we invited." By this he means a man must have high northern qualifications to get in the Rangers.

"For instance, we invited Ed Anderson," said Capt. Jock. "He has only one eye, but its his shooting eye."

Red Propaganda Persuasion Backed by Beatings, Solitary Confinements, Mental Torture

LONDON (Reuters) — A British government report said today a cold-blooded Communist program of physical torture and psychological pressure made almost one-third of the British soldiers captured in Korea act as Communist sympathizers during their captivity.

It said that out of 978 Britons held by the Communists, only officers and senior non-commissioned officers remained "almost completely unaffected" by Communist propaganda persuasion, which was backed by beatings, solitary confinement and a mind-shattering collection of other physical and mental torments.

It concluded, however, that only about 40 prisoners were really dedicated and convinced Communists when they were released. Some might have had Communist convictions or sympathies before their capture.

All but one of the British prisoners held by the Communists elected to return home after the Korea armistice.

The report said the Communist success, striking at first glance, was actually "comparatively small" considering the unpreparedness of British soldiers for attempts to convert them and the intensity of the Communist torture and persuasion tactics.

Prisoners who resisted indoctrination were treated with savage brutality in an attempt to break them down.

The report said one group of Britons was marched onto the ice of the frozen Yalu river and forced to stand there barefooted while water was poured over their feet. They were left standing for hours to "reflect" on their "crimes."

At one prison camp, "reactionary" prisoners were confined inside cramped boxes five feet by three feet by two feet where they often went without food for several days at a time. One private spent more than six months in one of the boxes.

"Reactionaries" confined in cells were sometimes forced to clench their teeth on a long pecil-like steel or bamboo stick pushed into their quarters through a hole in the cell door. Sentries outside the cell suddenly would strike the other end of the stick without warning, knocking out the victim's teeth and gashing their mouths.

Other soldiers were kept standing at attention for long periods, in one case 30 hours, in winter cold or summer heat. Some who resisted indoctrination were trussed up with nooses around their necks, the ropes running over beams and then tied to their feet. If they slumped from a tiptoe position, the noose would strangle them.

Medicine, medical treatment and food were withheld from many "reactionaries." Prisoners who succumbed to torture were forced to write out lengthy confessions of imaginary crimes.

Prisoners who saw the "truth" and accepted or pretended to accept Communist doctrines received extra cigarets, better food, medical attention and other "privileges."

But the Communists exacted a stiff price for such favored treatment. Prisoners who went along with them were forced to sign "peace" petitions, write pro-Communist letters home and act as informers and propagandists among their comrades.

Dulles Says Manila Pact Will Deter Red Invaders

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Dulles pushed his whirlwind tour of Southeast Asia capitals across non - Communist sections of Indochina today. After an overnight visit to Laos, he flew on today to Cambodia and South Viet Nam.

In Vietiane, the administrative capital of Laos, Dulles told Crown Prince Tiao Savng Vatthana and other officials the forces the Manila pact nations have in the Pacific will deter possible Communist invaders from neighboring China and North Viet Nam.

Spokesmen said both Dulles and the Laotians were reassured by their talks. The secretary had been reported depressed by pessimistic reports he had received from the land-locked jungle kingdom of 2,000,000 persons.

The Laotians, given their independence from France at the end of the Indochina war, have been fearful both of invasion from their Communist neighbors and of subversive activities by a Communist-supported group.

A Laotian spokesman said his government feels it is almost isolated since it is no longer a French colony. Dulles was reported to expect Laos to seek admission to SEATO, the Manila pact defence setup for Southeast Asia, sometime within the next two or three years.

Dulles was told that Laos would send military men to Thailand for training soon. Though the Geneva armistice prohibits Laos from receiving an American military training mission, the Laotians can be trained in Bangkok by Thai officers who have been instructed by the U.S. military mission there.

Quick Thinking of RCMP Pilot Credited With Saving Seven

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—The resourcefulness of an RCMP pilot and his crew was credited by veteran RCAF fliers today with saving a party of seven marooned beside their downed plane for four days and nights on the windswept Arctic tundra.

"He did a terrific job. In fact, everybody seemed to do the right thing," said one senior member of the RCAF rescue party.

He was speaking of RCMP Sgt. A. N. Beaumont of Winnipeg, who flew his ski-equipped Otter plane back to its Churchill base Sunday after being forced down Tuesday while en route to Ennadai lake, N.W.T., 290 miles northwest of here.

Sgt. Beaumont and his crew—Cpl. R. L. Fletcher of Holmfield, Man., co-pilot, and special constable G. E. Bartlett of Churchill, engineer—were flying four passengers when they were forced to set down 14 miles southeast of their destination.

Also aboard were artist James Houston, director of handicrafts in the northern affairs department; Sydney J. Sillett of Vancouver, department of transport employee; and an Eskimo woman, Attooloak, and her three-year-old son.

The party lived on larded toast and potfuls of tea while huddling in sub-zero weather in snowbound tents. At one time the temperature dropped to 55 below zero.

At Churchill, Sgt. Beaumont said:

"We weren't worried. We were pretty sure where we were and we had plenty to eat."

The veteran Arctic flier said the Otter was only about 20 minutes out of Ennadai when the station cut off its radio signal beam.

Sgt. Beaumont said he assumed "they thought we weren't coming."

As he didn't have sufficient fuel to return to Churchill, he decided to set down on a long level spot on the tundra.

The blowing snow made a take-off impossible for two successive days and the party used up most of their fuel for heating. When the weather did clear, there wasn't sufficient fuel to risk the chance of finding Ennadai.

"We decided we might as well settle down and wait," Cpl. Fletcher said. "We never doubted search planes soon would be out."

Sgt. Beaumont said the Eskimo woman—returning home to Ennadai after a hospital check-up at Churchill—remained in the tent most of the time, partly covered by a sleeping bag, and "there wasn't a whimper out of the boy for four days . . . the kid was a wonder."

Fight Expropriation

TORONTO (CP)—Business men of Toronto's downtown Chinese community agreed Sunday to fight [illegible] attempt by the city to expropriate their property.

[illegible] men of the area, near city hall, met to discuss Mayor Nathan Phillips' recent proposal to take over much of Chinatown for a civic square.

'Y' Leaders Meet

MONTREAL (CP) — About 100 YMCA leaders from Toronto, Ottawa, Cornwall, Belleville, Kingston, Sherbrooke and uebec City gathered here Sunday at a meeting of lay leaders.

The conference was one of five held in Canada this year, designed to permit Y members to discuss their local problems.

POLICE CONDUCT SEARCH FOR TWO MISSING GIRLS

Believe One Lured Away by Sex Fiend

TORONTO (CP)—The mother of eight-year-old Judy Carter, who disappeared after attending school Friday, said today she has lost all hope of finding her daughter alive.

Mrs. William MacLeod said she believed the girl, her daughter by a previous marriage, was lured away by a sex fiend.

Police said they are checking the possibility that the brown-haired girl, who has a front tooth missing, may have been kidnapped. They said she may be either dead or held against her will.

A door-to-door search of the Riverdale area in east Toronto where she disappeared was begun today by 40 policemen.

Mrs. MacLeod, referring to her belief that a sex fiend is involved, said:

"I can't see a man like that attempting to keep Judy alive. He couldn't keep her from making a noise without killing her."

Mrs. MacLeod said it is improbable the girl wandered away and got lost.

"I taught her to give her name, age, address and telephone number if she ever got lost, and Judy would make too much noise for anyone to keep her against her will. She must be dead."

The seadch for the Carter girl s one of two that police in the Toronto district are conducting. Cornelia Rohbeck, 13, disappeared Friday night from her home in suburban York township on the northwest outskirts of Toronto. Police do not believe foul play is involved in this case.

Secrecy Breach May Scuttle Arms Talks

LONDON (AP) — Three leading British newspapers charge that a secrecy breach by the Soviet Union threatened to scuttle current five-power disarmament talks underway here.

They refer to weekend reports by the Communist Daily Worker and Moscow radio making public proposals put forward by the Soviet delegate, Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Grmyko.

The Red organs said Gromyko had suggested destruction of all nuclear weapons, freezing of other military power at present levels and a world disarmament conference before the end of the year.

The British papers say this disclosure ran counter to instructions to the delegates from the UN assembly, under whose auspices they began the talks last Friday.

ORDERS BROKEN

The UN told the delegates, from Canada, the United States, Britain, France and Russia, to hold their discussions in private to avoid turning the conference into a propaganda forum.

The five powers are meeting as the UN disarmament subcommission, whose previous meeting ended in stalemate here last June. They are scheduled to resume discussions Tuesday after a weekend recess.

All Major Powers Have Nerve Gas Doctors Told at Defence College

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP) — For getting rid of your enemies, you can't seem to do much better than a good nerve or blister gas.

Dr. F. C. Pace, medical consultant of the civil defence health services' special weapons section, told doctors from industry taking a week-long course at the Canadian Civil Defence College here all about the gases today.

In calm, workaday language, he said:

"It is believed that the chemical warfare agents on which we must concentrate our studies are the blister and nerve gases, both of which are known to be in the possession of all the major powers.

"The nerve gases are many times as lethal as any other chemical warfare agent and therefore deserve close study.

"These gases are difficult to detect. They are tasteless, colorless, odorless and non-irritating. Their lethal action is rapid and requires only small quantities."

Now there's a killer for you! But just in case an enemy should get the idea first, Dr. Pace added this information:

"Protection against them (the gases) is straightforward. The standard service or similar type respirator will protect the wearer from inhaling the gas. Liquid contamination is dealt with fairly easily. (He didn't go into detail.)

"Treatment of victims of nerve gas depends on two things—injection of atropine, a derivative of belladonna; and artificial respiration.

"Atropine injections may be made on one's self or another person, using simply-learned technique. Artificial respiration is important, as death usually results from damage to the breathing centres and muscles."

His remarks were contained in the summary-text of his speech issued to the press in advance of delivery.

17-Mile Wide Sea Is Sweeping Down On Aussie Town

Town Drowning Last Word, Fate of 1,746 Is Unknown

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—A faint message from a radio amateur — "town drowning with five feet of water in streets"—told today of the lost battle of the people of Warren, 350 miles northwest of here, against surging floods which have devastated 30,000 square miles of New South Wales in a week.

Flood waters from the raging McQuarie river had burst through the levees.

There was no immediate report of the damage or casualties in the town of 1,746 people.

The town of Nyngan, 35 miles away on the rising Bogan river, also sent urgent messages for help as a 17-mile wide "sea" threatened to wipe out the town. The full force of flood waters, already six feet deep, is expected to hit Nyngan tonight.

MANY HOMELESS

Many families are homeless and perching in trees and on rooftops awaiting rescue.

Further to the northeast all towns on the Namoi and Barwon rivers are feverishly strengthening river banks or getting ready for flight.

Evacuation began today in flood-battered Maitland.

In one street alone, 16 houses were washed away and four others wrecked. Men were trying to clear the deep mud from the main street. While it rained there were prayers for sunshine, but now the sun is adding to the difficulties of the cleanup gangs, because of the stench from the putrifying bodies of drowned cattle.

Unofficial estimates have put the death roll at 50, but disrupted communications make it impossible so far to assess the whole disaster.

COW AT SEA

The Queen has asked the governor-general, Field Marshal Sir William Slim, for a full report and has sent her sympathy to the victims.

Fishermen eight miles out at sea off Newcastle today heard a "moo" from the flood debris. They spent the next two hours towing a cow back to dry land.

Windsor Starts To Fluoridate Water Supply

WINDSOR (CP) — A four-year campaign by the city board of health to introduce fluorine into the city's water supply to combat tooth decay was given tentative approval by board of control Saturday.

The plan must still be ratified by city council.

The controllers approved a board of health request for $4,000 to buy equipment needed to start the fluoridation program.

May Put Formosa Once Again On Wartime Basis

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China, waiting to see where the Reds will strike next in the offshore island war, may soon return to a full wartime basis.

A cabinet reshuffle to achieve that end is expected to be decided Tuesday at a meeting of President Chiang Kai-shek's ruling party.

Chiang's cabinet meets tonight to discuss the troubled financial situation. Means to stimulate exports and possible revision of foreign exchange regulations are expected to be discussed. The value of Formosan currency in terms of the U.S. dollar has slumped since abandonment of the Tachen islands, 200 miles north of here.

It is outwardly tranquil in Formosa, but there is no doubt that abandonment of the Tachens and subsequently of Nanchishan has had a damaging effect on morale.

Immigrant, 28, Sees Her Father For First Time

TORONTO (CP) — A 28-year-old Yugoslavian school teacher who had never seen her father stepped off a plane at Malton airport Sunday and walked right over to greet him.

Milica Selebaj, who has come to Canada to live, said she recognized her father immediately.

She said she had her father's features firmly implanted in her mind from snapshots they exchanged.

Her father, John Selebaj, of St. Catharines came to Canada in 1926, just three weeks before Milica was born.

Mr. Selebaj worked at odd jobs in addition to his regular plastering business to earn enough money to help his daughter to become a school teacher.

Two eyars ago Mrs. Selebaj came from Kostel, Yugoslavia, to join her husband.

Attlee Plans Visit

LONDON (AP)—Former prime minister Clement Attlee said today he will tour Canada in April.

Attlee, who heads Britain's Labor party, will fly from London to Montreal April 10 and will speak there and in Toronto, Port Arthur, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton, Saskatoon, Winnipeg, Windsor, Hamilton and Halifax.

Suspect Arson

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Authorities said Sunday night they suspected arson in a fire earlier Sunday which destroyed the huge Alhambra, a Syracuse landmark.

Strychnine Poison Suspected In Deaths of 3 Dogs

The death of three dogs in the West Hill area over the week-end, all of them dying with symptoms of strychnine poisoning, has alarmed dog owners in the district.

Two of the dogs died Saturday, which a third which took suddenly sick after being out for a walk on a leash, died this morning. Dr. Harry Burns, V.S., stated all dogs died with symptoms of strychnine poisoning.

All dogs were owned by residents in the Burton and Wellington Streets district.'

"I definitely suspect that it was strychnine which killed the three dogs," stated Dr. Burns this morning "but to make certain, organs of two of the dogs have been sent away for laboratory tests."

He added that if it were strychnine and dogs could get at it so readily, it would also be dangerous for children.

The last dog to die with symptoms of strychnine poisoning was that owned by Charles Hardwick, Burton St. The dog, a nine-months-old fox terrier, had been taken for a walk on a leash and took sick soon after returning home. The dog was taken to the veterinary and died this morning.

Slightly More Crime But Fewer Cases Police Chief's Report Shows

Despite the fact that fewer cases came before the courts there was slightly more crime in Belleville during 1954 as compared with the year previous.

This was indicated in the annual report of Police Chief Walter Probert which shows 1,633 cases brought before the court — 198 fewer than in 1953. On the other hand however, there were five safe breaking cases reported, 24 breaking and entering and 122 shefts.

Biggest case on the police record books during the year was the murder trial of Mrs. Mary Bell charged with murdering her husband Percy Warner Bell. Mrs. Bell was acquitted by a Supreme Court jury following the trial during which 74 Crown witnesses were called.

Biggest haul of safe crackers was at the A and P marketeria where $14,000. was taken. Other safe jobs were at the Trinidad Leaseholds; Canadian Tire Corporation; Belleville Motor Car Co. and at Belle Cleaners. In the last instance the safe had been left unlocked.

It was noted in the report that safe breaking is prevalent throughout the province, it being the police belief that the jobs are done for the most part by professionals.

The 24 breaking and entering cases, other than the safe breaking jobs, could be termed as minor as the amounts taken were quite small.

564 ACCIDENTS

A total of 564 motor vehicle accidents were investigated, this being a decrease of 80 from the year previous.

Sixty-two persons were injured as result of the accidents, one fatally, and in 141 instances the damage resulting amounted to over $50.

Police had a perfect record in the recovery of stolen autos, with 17 reported stolen and 17 recovered. In addition five vehicles reported stolen in other centres were recovered by Belleville police.

There were 29 breaches of the city dog by-law; 249 breaches of the traffic by-law and 33 cases of disorderly conduct. Nine bicycle riders were prosecuted for riding bicycles on sidewalks, there were seven breaches of the city noise by-law.

Breaches of the highway traffic act were numerous, with 131 careless driving charges being laid. Eleven motorists were brought before the court for failure to register their vehicles; 18 were found to be driving without licence plates; 20 were found driving with defective brakes and seven with defective lights.

One hundred and forty-three speeders were checked; 60 motorists were found driving without an operator's licence; ten were found to be driving while their licence was suspended and 28 failed to produce a licence when asked by police.

Motorists failing to observe stop street signs totalled 113; an even 50 failed to observe traffic lights and 12 left the scene after being involved in an accident.

NOISE BY-LAW ENFORCED

Police clamped down hard on the noise makers with 36 motorists being charged for making unnecessary noise.

The number of ordinary drunks maintained an even level with other years with 362 being charged with intoxication. Eighteen persons were convicted on drunk driving charges.

Night patrols by constables resulted in 182 properties being found insecure. Such patrols lessen the possibility of break-ins and thefts and afford opportunities for detecting fires.

There were 13 sudden deaths reported and investigated by the department. Causes of death were: suffocation 1; drowning 2; natural causes 10. Three inquests were held.

Fines and fees collected in court amounted to $16,940.

Parking meter revenue totalled $20,683.24 with another $3,401 being received through parking tickets, making a total of $24,084.24.

DECREASE IN DOG TAGS

There was a decrease in the number of dog tags issued. The total for the year was 1,247 as compared with 1,317 in 1953 and 1,325 in 1952.

Adult school guards are giving supervision to school children crossing heavily travelled streets in the vicinity of schools. The report indicated that this precaution undoubtedly lessens accidents.

Police supervision is assisted by the use of call boxes and signal lights for officers on foot patrol. Cruisers and motorcycles equipped with three-way radio systems gave good city-wide supervision. The city area is close to 2,000 acres with about 65 miles of streets.

Traffic congestion in the downtown area during the noon and five o'clock peak periods continued to be a problem with many stops and delays arising during the peak periods. The chief assured that the traffic committee would be kept informed of traffic problems with every assistance given to solve them.

Judge Anderson Speaks on Crime Books to Club

The depiction of violence on television, in the movies and in crime and horror books has a coarsening effect on children, His Honor Judge J. C. Anderson, said in an address last week to members of the Men's Club of Bridge Street United Church.

In referring to the increasing incidence of juvenile delinquency Judge Anderson stressed particularly the deleterious effects of widespread depiction of crime and violence on television and in crime comic books

He recommended a list of good books for children and urged parents to cultivate a taste for literature in their children.

Judge Anderson stated that every time a juvenile offender is brought before him he asks if the child reads crime comics and if so he has these books brought into court.

He also spoke briefly of the need for more probation officers in Hastings County saying that probation officers can do much to reduce the incidence of juvenile crime and the repetition of crime. He said that local probation authorities were seriously overlooked.

First Birthday Party of Club Much Enjoyed

The first birthday anniversary of the Belle Haven Club, organized just a year ago for the assistance of physically handicapped adults, was observed Saturday evening when close to 100 club members and supporters gathered for a social evening and birthday party.

Club members enjoyed a varied program of musical selections, readings and comedy skits and following the program saw their birthday cake cut and to conclude the evening were served coffee and refreshments.

Getting the birthday party underway, Club President Howard Ackerman extended an official welcome to the club members, then called on Alderman Effie McCabe who referred to the splendid work which the club was doing in the city for handicapped persons.

A huge basket of birthday flowers donated by a local florist graced a table in front of the stage. A door prize of two dressing table lamps was won by Mrs. Walt Taylor.

Master of ceremonies for the evening's program was Earle Vandervoort, assisted by Bill Salter and "Chuck" Collins of CJBQ. Bill Salter led in a sing-song and sang several Irish numbers, while Mr. Collins demonstrated his versatility by playing several numbers on the piano accordion.

MANY TAKE PART

Ohers taking part in the program were George Gulliver who played a variety of numbers on the accordion, Bruce Sills and Fred Stone, accordion and violin with Mr. Sills later playing several selections on the saw and Mr. Levesque, violin solos.

Readings were given by Miss Mattie Gerow and Linda Reid.

Club members thoroughly enjoyed a quiz program patterned after popular radio and TV shows which saw prizes donated by about two dozen local merchants taken home by the lucky winners. Quiz master was the popular master of ceremonies Earle Vandervoort.

The Belle Haven Club now has over 60 physically handicapped members and also a large number of club "supporters". They meet regularly each month at the Moose Lodge Hall on Victoria Ave.

Frank J. Leach Heads New A.P.A. Chapter

Members of the Institute of Accredited Public Accountants, under the auspices of the Toronto and district chapter, held a dinner meeting at the Belleville Shrine Club on Friday evening, and formed a new chapter in the city of Belleville.

President of this new chapter is Frank J. Leach, Belleville, Ontario. The other members of the executive are: John G. Trumpour, Belleville; Fred Sprague, Belleville; Vic Nolan, Peterborough; Kenneth M Dixon, Belleville; Fred Kaiser, Peterborough; Frank Benton and Terrance Reid.

The members of the new chapter are indebted to Mr. Austin Stanley, president Toronto and District chapter; Mr. Ted Sharpe, vice-president of the Dominion Institute of Accredited Public Accountants, and Mr. Harld J. Neun, Ontario and Toronto treasurer for their valuable assistance in organizing.

The Institute of Accredited Public Accountants have a Dominion organization which is segregated into six zones. The Ontario zone is divided into three, with chapters at Toronto, Hamilton and Ottawa.

Mr. Neun, addressing the many members attending stressed that it was essential to organize new chapters in order to service all the members properly. The new chapter takes in the district from Port Hope on the west, to Gananoque on the east, and as far north as the Arctic Circle.

Health Minister Tells of Hydrogen Bomb Dangers

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP) — Civil defence medical experts must face the possibility of long-term damage to the human race from radioactivity of H-bomb attacks, Health Minister Martin said today.

The fall-out of radioactive particles after a hydrogen-bomb explosion and the hazards of radioactivity "represent in every truth a peril to humanity," he said.

Mr. Martin spoke at the opening of the first course to be held for industrial physicians at the federal Civil Defence College in this eastern Ontario town.

OTHER PROBLEMS

Health and medical services in civil defence involve not only establishment of emergency hospital facilities and mobilization of health workers, he said.

The aftermath of H-bomb attacks had to be faced "not only as a source of immediate injury but in terms of its possible long-term damage to the human race."

"These are questions for which final answers are not yet available . . . they pose much more than a mere threat to civil defence, for they represent, in every truth, a peril to humanity."

The H-bomb had changed civil defence thinking in many ways, "but it has also served to re-emphasize the urgent need for well-organized, flexible and carefully thought out health services."

SUPPLIES STOCKED

The statements were included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Mr. Martin said some $2,700,000 worth of medical supplies had already been delivered under a $9,000,000 program of stockpiling emergency medical supplies.

About 90 Canadian hospitals had begun work on disaster planning and it was hoped that by the end of this year 150 to 200 of the country's largest hospitals—representing about two-thirds of total bed space would have received information necessary to develop individual plans.

The present week-long course is being attended by about 50 industrial physicians, including medical directors from 12 major industries and public utilities.

Police Blotter

The reported theft of three automobiles, one of which turned out to be a false alarm, highlighted the crime front in Belleville and district over the week-end.

One of the autos was stolen at Marmora, and the other, owned by Stanley Regent, 8 Cherry Gardens, was taken from a groceteria parking lot. Mr. Regent left his auto on the lot at 7:30 and when he returned, three hours later it was missing.

The report of the third auto being stolen was merely a case of mistaken locale. The resident had left his car on a hotel parking lot and when later he couldn't find it, reported it stolen. Police found the car on another parking lot in the area.

Drunks were out in force with police rounding up at least a half dozen on L.C.A. charges.

One man had gone to the hospital to give a blood donation but fell asleep in the hallway. When he couldn't be aroused police were called. Yep, the would-be blood giver was drunk.

Obituary

PHILLIP CLAYTON REID
(Picton)

Phillip Clayton Reid, of Picton, died in Prince Edward County Hospital, Picton, Saturday, February 26th, after an illness of two months' duration. He was in his 76th year.

The deceased was born in Ivanhoe, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Reid. He farmed in Sidney and Thurlow townships prior to moving to Prince Edward County in 1918. He retired from farming five years ago and had been living since with his son in Picton.

He is survived by his son, Carl P. Reid, of Picton, and a sister, Mrs. Thomas (Lula) Skeggs, of Belleville. He was predeceased by his wife, the former Lenna Maud Tripp, 25 years ago.

The deceased was an adherent of the United Church and a member of Picton Orange Lodge.

Resting at the Whattam Funeral Home, Main Street, Picton; the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MARGARET ELIZABETH BADGLEY

The funeral of Margaret Elizabeth Badgley was held this morning from the chapel of the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home. Rev. Hope Smith conducted the service.

Interment took place in Belleville cemetery.

WILLIAM FREEMAN RHODENIZER

The funeral of William Freeman Rhodenizer was held from the Grant Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon. The service in the chapel was conducted by Rev. A. L. Ellis, who also said the last rites in Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were Harold Elmy, William Sechrist, Joseph Cox and William Stapley.

Hamilton Boy, 9, Saves Family From Gas Fumes

HAMILTON (CP) — A nine-year-old boy saved his mother and two sisters from possible death by asphyxiation when coal gas fumes filled their home early this morning.

Roy Mainprinz was awakened when his seven-year-old sister Patricia collapsed across his bed shortly before 7 a. m. He called to his mother but when she tried to get up she too collapsed.

The boy ran next door to the home of William Reeves and asked for help. An inhalator crew treated Shirley, 3½, for about 20 minutes. All were revived.

Firemen blamed a faulty stovepipe for the trouble.

Girl Is Found

TORONTO (CP)—Donna Baetz, 14, missing since last Wednesday from her home at Elmira, 15 miles north of Kitchener, Sunday was found living in a west-end rooming house.

The girl had rented the room under an assumed name and was planning to search for a job today, police said. She looked "like a woman of 21," they added.

She returned to Elmira with her father, Rev. H. W. Baetz, a Lutheran minister in Elmira.

Conservatives Have Easy Win In Jap Election

By GENE KRAMER

TOKYO (AP) — Conservative Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama's Democrats won Japan's biggest election Sunday and headed toward a new, stronger administration.

Hatoyama, waging an unprecedented campaign for friendship with both sides in the East-West cold war, led the Democrats to victories in urban and rural areas in a nearly 2-to-1 Conservative sweep.

They ended seven years' domination in the House of Representatives by the equally conservative Liberal party of former prime minister Shigeru Yoshida.

The Liberals, hurt by charges of corruption, lost about 70 seats—most of them to the Democrats but a few to the Socialists. This may strengthen the drive by leftist parties to block rearmament of Japan.

The Communists, with 60 candidates, elected two members.

With all seats decided, Hatoyama's party had elected 185 of the 467 members of the House. The Liberals elected 112, left Socialists 89, right Socialists 67, Farmer-Laborites (leftist), 4, Communists 2, minor parties 2, and independents 6, of whom 5 are regarded as conservative.

The government reported a record 37,332,137 votes, 75.8 per cent of registration. The former record 35,288,755 was set in April 1953.

The strong Democratic victory means Hatoyama, 72, and partly paralyzed, will be renominated for prime minister when the Diet (Parliament) reconvenes — within two weeks, party leaders said. He is virtually assured of re-election.

Retailers Meet In Ottawa For Shop Talk

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

OTTAWA (CP)—Representatives of Canada's retailers met here today to talk about the consumer's dollar, how they can attract it and what they can offer for it.

They are delegates to the annual conference of the Canadian Retail Federation, an organization which directly or indirectly represents some 50,000 businesses across the country, big and small.

Their specific problem is to make their counters and show cases sufficiently attractive in both goods and prices to maintain and increase the high volume of spending which last year was credited with averting a major economic slump.

W. M. Murray of Ottawa, association president, illustrating the effect of spending on employment, stated at today's opening session:

"Last year department store sales alone in Canada amounted to $1,065,408,000. A five-per-cent increase in this year's business, would amount to $53,270,400.

"With the reported average sale of $4.60 this dollar increase would mean that an additional 11,550,500 units of goods would be required by department stores alone.

"While we cannot follow this through to a final figure as to the number of additional people who would be employed in producing these additional units of merchandise of all kinds, we would, by securing increases, provide additional jobs and initiate further increases from the extra income paid to the people so employed."

This year's conference is taking the form of "shop-talks" or round-table discussions of such topics as selling, credit, buying and expense.

Patricias Down Van Doos In Military Scheme

By JOE MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP)—The latest experiment in how men can fight in the sub-Arctic was being studied today following exercise Bull Dog III, a joint effort of the army and the RCAF.

The exercise ended suddenly late Sunday when men of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry "blasted" their way to the nearby airport to overpower make-believe invaders.

The final assault meant theoretical defeat for the Royal 22nd Regiment from Quebec, which had taken the role of enemy.

The exercise featured spectacular parachute drops by the battle-trained Patricias, The 22nd—the Van Doos—had their hands full with local militia volunteers even before the regular troops arrived from the advance base at Edmonton.

At the root of the exercise was the theory that Yellowknife—rich in strategic value as well as gold mines—could be the object of an attack from Russia across the Arctic route.

STUDY RESULTS

Military men have been seeking for years information on just what fighting men can do when temperatures drop to 40 degrees below zero or more.

Chris Vokes, general officer commanding Western Command, today was to evaluate the exercise, which began Friday when the Van Doos were landed at the Yellowknife airport, five miles from the town, by the air force.

Capt. Charlie Grenier, commander of the 120 Van Doos who made the attack, had no difficulty taking the airport but tangled with the auxiliary reserve Canadian Rangers and a unit of engineers when trying to reach secondary objectives.

He then fell back to the airport and prepared to fight the counter-attack he knew would come from the south—in this case by the Patricias, comrades of the Van Doos on many a day of actual battle.

The air force dropped approximately 270 Patricias and equipment.

$75,000 Fire Loss

CHESLEY, Ont. (CP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Adolph Henkl flour mill here early Sunday. Loss was estimated at $75,000.

No one was hurt.

The four-storey building, built in 1875, was one of the oldest in this community 20 miles south of Owen Sound.

IN MEMORIAM

RAWSON. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Arthur Rawson, who passed away February 27th, 1953.

There is a link death cannot sever.
Love and remembrance last forever.
—Ever remembered by wife and daughter Marion. F28

RAWSON. — In loving memory of a dear father, Arthur Rawson, who passed away on February 27th, 1953.

His charming ways and smiling face
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
—Bill and Maxine. F28

RAWSON. — In loving memory of a dear father, Arthur Rawson, who passed away February 27th, 1953.

Your presence is ever near us,
Your love remains with us yet;
You were the kind of a father
Your loved ones would never forget.
—Sadly missed by Frank, Peggy and Wendy. F28

RUTTAN. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Ernest Milton Ruttan, who was killed in action in Germany, February 27th, 1945.

No one knows how much we miss you,

MALLORY. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Jessie Mallory, who passed away February 28th, 1953.

She has taken her last journey
In God's beautiful ship called "Rest,"
Away from this world of sorrow
To a home of eternal rest.
Words cannot say how much we loved her,
Deep in our hearts there is a pain,
God alone knows how much we miss her
As we wander along life's way.
But her voice seems gently calling
Dear ones, be good and true,
At the end of life's journey
I'll be watching and waiting for you.
—Lovingly remembered by daughters Lois and Dolly and family. F28

Highland Creek Flood Maroons 22 Families

TORONTO (CP)—A half inch of rain during the weekend raised Highland creek to a crest of seven feet, washing out two foot bridges and marooning 22 families in east-end Scarboro.

The water slowly subsided late Sunday but the 18 families in the Willows Park and four others in Highland creek valley still must climb steep, 250-foot bluffs to leave their homes.

The creek normally trickles through the township at the 12-inch level.

Residents said it will not be possible to replace the foot bridges until late today or Tuesday.

The rain brought the creek to its highest level since the hurricane Hazel floods last October. The land that was nearly flooded has been marked for expropriation.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Strong base metals featured an otherwise mixed stock market today in early afternoon. Lower-priced mines and western oils were active with no over-all trend.

Brazilian Traction was the market standout, turning over 34,000 shares to 1 p. m. and climbing 87½ cents to $9. Brokers said buying was coming principally from New York.

Base metals showed a one-point index advance to 1 p. m. with Noranda ahead $2 to $87, International Nickel up a major fraction and Hudson's Bay and Normetal also strong.

Industrials were mixed with papers, constructions, motors and manufacturers ahead but utilities, steels, foods and financial institutions lower.

Among lower-priced mines Quebec Copper jumped 30 cents to $1.92 in heavy trade, Campbell Chibougamau 70 to $7.90 and Algom 50 to $19.25. Lesser gains went to Pronto, Anacon, Gulch, and Opemiska.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 1 3-16 per cent the Bank of Canada reported at noon EST, today. Friday's noon rate was 98 25-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.75 5-16 against $2.75⅜.

Origin, Work Of Red Cross Told to Rotary

CAMPBELLFORD — Dr. August Kaufmann was the guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon meeting last week. The subject of his interesting talk was the "Workings of the Red Cross."

The gigantic international organization, which is the Red Cross, sprang from humble beginnings. "Its work of mercy is bounded by neither creed, color nor circumstances," he said.

RED CROSS BEGINNING

Dr. Kaufmann stated that the Red Cross was founded by an Austrian, Henri Duant, who was impressed and horrified by the terrible havoc of battle and the lack of care for the wounded. He was a witness of the battle of Salferino when conditions were especially bad. All the doctors were killed or captured and there was no help for the wounded. Appeals to Napoleon III resulted in the release of medical personnel and this in effect was the beginning of the Red Cross.

Actually it was set up at international conferences at Geneva in 1864 and 1866.

The distinctive badge as it is known, is the Greek cross of red on a white background. In Egypt and parts of Russia and in Turkey, it is a red crescent and in Persia, a symbol of neutrality and mercy.

In peacetime, it has been active throughout the world wherever disaster struck. Volunteer workers assist in flood and fire, and they teach preventatives such as swimming and life-saving.

BLOOD BANK ASSET

One of the greatest assets of the society in this preventative field is the "blood bank," an asset which makes the society's work much more effective in the case of injury or disaster.

Dr. C. A. Bright, vice-president of the Rotary Club, introduced Dr. Kauffman and Rotarian Dr. Dave Burgess thanked him for the address.

Sailor Guilty Of Three Charges Is Court Finding

HALIFAX (CP)—A court martial today found a sailor guilty in connection with charges arising from a drinking spree aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent and announced that sentence would be passed later today.

The court, after deliberating more than an hour, decided that AB John MacDonald was guilty of three charges in connection with the drinking of duplicating fluid and not guilty of a fourth charge of stealing the fluid. The court also reduced one charge of improper possession of three cans of the fluid to possession of two cans and reduced another charge of furnishing the fluid to one man, not two.

Earlier the president of the court martial said he was not entirely satisfied with the manner in which many of the witnesses had given evidence.

Capt. P. F. X. Russell of Halifax said many of the witnesses "were clearly reluctant to make a full disclosure of their knowledge" in connection with the charges.

His statement was made as the court wound up hearing in the case of MacDonald, one of the 47 sailors involved in the binge in which the duplicating fluid was used as a liquor.

HOUSES DAMAGED

TORONTO (CP)—Fire damaged three houses Sunday night on a twisting, narrow lane that proved a tough navigating job for fire department trucks.

The fire forced Mrs. Lillian Bradley, her daughter and her three children out of their home. Two adjoining houses were damaged by water and smoke.

FILE TAX LIEN

NEW YORK (AP)—The government Friday filed a $7,328,700 income tax lien against Harry Gross, one - time Brooklyn bookmaking king now serving a prison term. The internal revenue department said the 38-year-old Gross and his wife, Lila, owe the money for the years 1946 through 1950.

Board Chairman Leaving Post

LOS ANGELES (AP) — J. D. Gortatowsky, chairman of the board of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., announced Sunday that he is relinquishing his post as general manager of the Hearst newspapers, effective March 1.

Directors of the Hearst Corp. and of Hearst Consolidated, acting on his recommendation, thereupon elected Harold G. Kern of Boston as general manager. Kern is publisher of the Hearst Boston newspapers, The Record, American and Sunday Advertiser.

Seven Persons Die Violently In East Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A young Ontario couple asphyxiated in their gas-filled apartment were among seven persons who died violently in eastern Canada during the weekend.

Ontario had five deaths, Quebec one and New Brunswick one. No fatalities were reported in Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, a Canadian Press survey shows.

The bodies of Douglas Pegg, 19, and his 20-year-old wife were found in their gas-filled apartment at Dresden.

At Oshawa, Harold Manual, 15, was fatally injured when he stumbled into a mail box while running to church with a friend.

Near Kirkland Lake, Antoine Portelance, 29, was killed when a load of wooden poles shifted, crushing him. Michael Nitefor, 54, of Toronto, was killed in a two-car crash near Collingwood.

In the Montreal area, Loyola Houde was fatally injured when he was hit by a truck while working in a quarry. Earlier the frozen body of Camille Amyot, 54, missing since early last week, was found in a snowbank 100 feet from his home.

POLICE CONDUCT

Mr. and Mrs. Crasmoller, stepfather and mother of the Robbeck girl, said there was an argument over a comic book Friday afternoon. Mrs. Crasmoller said she told her daughter she would send her back to Germany if she didn't stop reading them. The girl has been in Canada since last July and speaks English with a slight German accent.

One police officer in charge of the search for the Carter girl said: "We are checking everywhere and looking in any receptacle big enough to hold a 60-pound body."

Sgt. Charles Bond said Judy was last seen at 4 p. m. Friday playing with the son of a Mrs. Mildred Brown. Mrs. Brown said the girl told her she would call Saturday to take her son to a movie.

Police have questioned more than 40 of her classmates. The dog which was her constant out-of-school companion was taken to the school yard during the weekend in an unsuccessful attempt to pick u the trail of his young owner.

Telecasting of a picture of the girl over Toronto TV station CBLT brought many telephone calls bu no definite information.

Police and volunteer searcher tramped the brush in east-end Do valley and the Rosedale ravine Sunday in pouring rain withou turning up a clue.

The possibility that Judy set of to see her grandmother at Kincardine where she spent her holidays, was checked. Her grandparents said they had not heard from the girl.

GARDINER TURNS PROPHET

And we thought Jimmy Gardiner was a politician, astute politician, the sort of vote-gathering gadget at is extremely careful never to say anything of imrtance!

Now we discover that the Honorable J. G. Gardiner s said something that has needed to be said and that ere was no reasonable hope that anybody would have e courage to say—not after dinner speakers worrying out their popularity, not editors worrying about their rculation and certainly not politicians worrying about eir votes.

Speaking in Manitoba, Mr. Gardiner asked some estions about the objective of immigration:

"Is it to refuse to admit population to develop our sources for fear they may soon be depleted and we rselves unemployed? Or is it to go full steam ahead we did at the beginning of the century, which policy as interrupted by two wars? Or is our plan to hold hat we have until densely populated areas are forced over-run Canada, the greatest potential productive ea not yet occupied or developed?"

The $64 question, of course, is the last in that series.

Do we plan to keep Canada for ourselves until overpulated areas are forced—note the use of that word, rced—to over-run Canada?

The answer, of course, is in the affirmative.

Our immigration policy to date has been nothing ore than an effort to save ourselves from the penalty r our desire to hold Canada for our own. The immiants we have admitted have not been from those areas here the problem of over-population is most pressing. rue, we have allowed a few relatives of Chinese people ready in Canada to enter the country, as a kow-tow the idol of racial equality to which we pay lip service. hat, though, do you think would be the fate of any anadian government which opened Canada's floodates and let the land-hungry peoples of India, Indonia, China and Japan spread forth across the land?

In all of Canada there are probably not more than handful of men and women of the white race who can ncerely say that they would welcome seeing their homend transformed by such a deluge of aliens. This is nderstandable, natural, inevitable.

Yet, unless war and disease thin their numbers or ence in some manner fills their stomachs and empties eir cradles, the peoples of the East will one day be iven by the sheer weight of circumstances, by the imlse of the world's greatest force, self-preservation, to migrate. The oceans will effectively prevent any mass igration to Canada except that preceded by war—and war with hydrogen bombs would solve the whole probm of over-population of the world in a most decisive shion. But these vast masses of people can move estward across Asia, as other peoples moved centuries go, and this movement could drive the present inhabints of Europe to seek homes elsewhere.

As for Canada ever being willing to accept immirants from Asia in the quantities which would be neessary to provide any real relief for over-population in e Orient, that appears unlikely. Only one of the still ndeveloped regions of the world appears to have the ecessary outlook for welcoming Asiatics. That country Brazil, where the blood of white man, red man and lack man has already been mixed and blended until a ew and, by some accounts, a better race has emerged.

FLUORIDATION

Dr. Wesley J. Dunn, Toronto dentist and editor of he Canadian Dental Association Journal, last week outned facts about fluoridation of water at a meeting of istrict dentists.

His summation of the benefits of fluoridation was mpressive. Probably few of his listeners needed to be sold" on fluoridation but many laymen are still opposd. If they wish to be able to form a sound opinion on he subject, they should read the account of Dr. Dunn's ddress which appeared in Thursday's issue of The ntario Intelligencer.

We might add that one of the most impressive nswers to the opponents of fluoridation may have been verlooked. Just recently Hon. Mackinnon Phillips, Onario Minister of Health, voiced the opinion that fluoriation was safe. Although he had said little on the subect in the past, friends of Dr. Phillips know that he had een opposed to any hasty rush by Ontario municipalies to undertake fluoridation of their water supplies unil more facts were known about the effect of fluoriation. He was particularly concerned lest, while preenting dental decay, fluorides in drinking water should dversely affect some other organs. In taking this cauious attitude the minister was, we suggest, fulfilling his esponsibility to the people of the province. The fact hat he has now endorsed fluoridation is, we may rest ssured, the result of additional facts ascertained by cientists who have been studying this process and its ffects.

Last evening a very enjoyable dance was held in the Lecture Room at the armouries under the auspices of a group of young people of St. Thomas' Parish.

A successful euchre party was held last evening at the Moose Auditorium. The prize winners were as follows: Ladies' first, Mrs. Charlton; second, Mrs. Batchelor; third, Mrs. J. Bush; fourth, Mrs. M. Donavon; fifth, Mrs. W. Hammett; sixth, Mrs. Elliott; special, Miss Maud Edison; men's first, C. Bowler, second, W. Osler; third, William Easton; fourth, H. J. Mitchell; fifth, G. Frechette; sixth, G. Miller. The Commodores orchestra played for dancing after the serving of refreshments.

Mr. R. E. Kennett, a member of the staff of the Bank of Montreal here, will sail on March 2 from New York for England where he will spend six weeks at his former home.

The members of Christ Church choir were entertained at a sumptuous banquet in the Parish Hall on Friday evening and the event was highly enjoyable.

The first fireside hour since Christmas was held after the Sunday evening service at the Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. Mr. Lorne Andrews presided and many old favorite hymns were sung. Vocal solos were given by Miss Anna Hogle and Miss Helen Smith.

The Opening of Hotel Quinte.

Following is an interesting account of the first day this city's fine hotel, the Quinte, opened to receive the public. It is taken from our file copy of February 28th., 1895: "A long looked for event took place at noon today when the doors of the Hotel Quinte were thrown open to the public and those who inspected the hotel were delighted with the plan of the building and the exquisite furnishings. The following Belleville people took dinner at the hotel today: Dr. and Mrs. Farley, Mr. and Mrs. L. Benmore, Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Waters, Mrs. J. Parker Thomas, Sheriff Geo. Hope and Mrs. Hope, Mr. Thomas Wills, Mr. J. C. Jamieson, Mr. L. R. Terwilligar, Mr. C. E. Davies, Mr. E. D. Gough, Mr. A. Brignall, Mr. J. Wilson, Mr. J. P. Thompson, Mr. W. H. Ketcheson, Mr. W. N. Ponton, Mr. Thomas C. Lazier, Col. M. J. Hendrick (U. S. Consul), Mr. M. M. Thompson and Mr. James H. Starling. Mr. Thomas Wills, the county treasurer, who dined at the hotel today, was present at the first dinner served at the old Dafoe House, which was a fine hotel in its day, and stood upon the site of the present Hotel Quinte. The hotel contains sixty-two rooms and can accommodate one hundred guests comfortably. Mr. Charles P. Hunter of this city, who was clerk at the Dafoe House at the time it was destroyed by fire, will be the manager, and Mr. John P. Baird, formerly with the Queen's Hotel, Toronto, will be the day clerk. The hotel is owned by a local company composed of the following public spirited citizens: Mr. H. Corby, M. P.; Mr. W. H. Biggar, M. P. P.; Mr. U. E. Thompson, Mr. Thomas Ritchie, Mr. D. M. Waters, Lieut. Col. S. S. Lazier and Mr. John Bell, Q.C.

(Note 1955 — The Hotel Quinte was destroyed by fire on January 4, 1907 and when rebuilt it was made four stories and basement; the first hotel was three stories and a basement.)

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

After a recent train trip and a sojourn in hotels for three days, I have the impression that the ladies who have the least right to courtesy are those who expect it the most. Despite the tremendous changes in feminine character during the past generation, there still remains a fair number of the sex that has preserved a domineering and haughty bearing as the hallmark, they suppose, of the lady of quality. Back in the days f the dramas of Oscar Wilde and Arthur Wing Pinero, it was known as the grand manner, and whole sections of our Canadian community, known as Society, practised it. Young ladies' finishing schools were devoted to teaching the art of the brush-off for all lesser breeds without the law. You could be sweet, but it had to be a lofty sort of sweetness. The milkman, the store clerk, the man who shovelled the snow, were expected to quail before it.

By now, of course, the lofty manners should be deader than ostrich fans. But it isn't. And if you keep opened a Pullman car door on my way to the dining car. Three ladies of mature years, but still nimble, were just rounding the corridor. They swept through, as I held the door, with the lofty air and never a word, much less a glance of thanks, as they warbled past, employing the throaty voice, of what on TV shows of 1939 vintage movies, is represented as the cultured tone of the better class. In the hotel elevator, one of these antique dames, though only about forty, swept in and instructed the operator to take her up at once, as she did not like to be in a crowded elevator. The poor kid, flabbergasted, did.

At the hotel counter, I had just bought a packet of cigarettes, which way lying on the counter while I groped for the money. A lofty lady in the clothes of, say, an executive's wife, picked up my packet, dropped her 35 cents and said:

I'm rather in a hurry."

Courtesy still survies for the ladies, though; but only for those

Seize Command Hard Decision

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

The board, investigating the crash of a TCA Super-Constellation near Brampton last December, has found the captain of the aircraft to have been negligent and to have demonstrated a "lack of alertness." There is no reason to question the validity of this finding, the board in question undoubtedly has good rea. son for its decision. Further, however, to its finding the board suggested that the plane's first officer (the man in the plane second in command to the captain) should have considered "seizing" control of the plane when the situation became "critical." It being assumed, apparently, that the captain at that time was not competent to maintain command of his ship. Here, the investigating board is on very treacherous ground.

The question of whether the second officer in a plane or ship has the proper authority to decide upon the competency of his senior officer is a highly debatable question. It is true that under certain circumstances (in the case of the commanding officer becoming mentally unbalanced temporarily) the lives and safety of the passengers might well depend upon the second officer taking over command, by force if necessary. On the other hand, wherever there is a chain of command, as in a plane or ship, the authority of the commanding officer is held to be absolute.

The board in suggesting that it might have been wise to violate this absolute authority could well endanger the whole principle of chain of command. Such a precedent could lead to attempts by second officers to seize command simply because of disagreements of opinion with senior officers, excusing themselves on the ground that in their opinion the commanding officer in question was not competent. The danger in such a precedent is obvious. It would leave the absolute authority of a commanding officer open to challenge at all times.

The complexity of this problem has been highlighted in the recent past by two books, "The Caine Mutiny", and "The High and The Mighty." The first book deals with the problem at sea, the second with the problem in the air. It is significant that both books emphasize the very great and real difficulties confronting two officers in a situation in which the second officer has reason to doubt the competency of the first.

It is easy enough for an investigating board to suggest that the second officer should have "seized " command, but in the event that the second officer had "seized" command and that his decision had proved wrong and that of the captain right, then the same board would probably consider the second officer to have performed an art of mutiny.

The second officer's situation, in such cases, is an extremely difficult one. No one and no board knows just how difficult such a situation is until confronted with it personally.

This Artist Interrupted

(New York Herald Tribune)

Probably no one would be particularly surprised if Sir Winston Churchill were to announce tomorrow that he had been secretly writing an encyclopedia of the universe. For such are the facts of this remarkable man that no achievement seems beyond him, certainly not any connected with literature and letters.

Sir Winston, as it turns out, has not been working on a general compendium of knowledge; his project is a comparatively modest "History of the English-Speaking Peoples." Nor is it an especially new undertaking, for he has been working on it for many years. Unfortunately there have been interuptions, something which every writer has to face. World War II had to be fought an its history written; Great Britain had to be put on a war footing and later on a peace footing; various parts of the Empire required attention; a few new inter-national crises had to be overcome.

But a genuine artist surmounts such obstacles with patience and perseverance. "A History of the English-Speaking Peoples" by Sir Winston Churchill is now completed, and the first of its three or four volumes will be out next year. The publishers haven't quite finished reading the manuscript, so they decline any comment on its contents. But they are confident it will be quite fine, and so are we. Nothing now remains left for Sir Winston to do for his fellow humans except possibly to write for their guidance a little pamphlet entitled "How to Occupy

Keep Wrecks As Warnings

(Fort William Times-Journal)

A suburban home owner who lives just a few miles outside of the lakehead on the Nipigon highway, offers an idea for safety promotion. When an automobile has been almost totally wrecked in an accident, he would have the wreckage left close to the highway where the accident occurred.

His recommendation is based on observations he made recently when a wrecked car lay close to his home for several hours before it was picked up by a wrecking car.

"You should have seen the effect of that car on drivers who were passing by," he said. "Invariably, cars which were travelling at 60 or 70 miles an hour were slowed down considerably after they passed the wreck. You could almost see the wheels going around in the heads of the drivers as they reacted to the sight of the result of poor driving."

Place for Ice Is in Glasses!

(Ottawa Journal)

This may be hard to believe, but as we advance into the second half of February rumors reach us that there are cranky fellows, not many perhaps but still a respectable minority, who can survey the landscape without exclaiming on the serene charm of the winter scene.

These chaps, if what we hear about them is true, argue that this white stuff plastered thick over the ground as far as the eye can reach has outworn its welcome and ought to go—vanish dissolve, drop dead, melt, but at any rate disappear.

They say they have had enough. They could go poetic over the first snow in December, and they agree that Christmas should look like the Christmas cards. They agree that snow in January is more or less to be expected, and that anyhow their memories then can recall bare earth and green grass. But, they go on, by this time, and March just over the hill, enough is too too much. It seems that the earth has never been anything except white, and only a fading memory remains of a scene that had roses in it, and hollyhocks, and leafy trees waving in the sunlight which now glitters and glistens from billions of bits of frozen moisture.

There are excellent uses for ice, our iconoclastic friends contend, but putting it on the streets in dobs, gollops and sheets is not one of them. They declare with some emphasis that they would restore ice to the tall glasses. They say they could give up ice carnivals and dog races without a qualm. They are fed up with goloshes and sweaters and pictures of skiers and heavy coats and fuel bills and frozen ears, with long waits on windy platforms for a belated bus, with the wind howling down the chimney —and above all with the endless expanse of clean snow in the suburban areas and, even worse, the dirty remnants of snow that once was clean but endlessly has been trampled upon, swept and plowed, and holds now a winter's accumulation of dust, chewing gum, cigarette boxes and butts, candy wrappers, and all the junk of a not-so-tidy community.

So they come to us, this little dissident group of chaps, to see if there is anything to be done, if any relief is in sight. They read hopefully that a few well-placed hydrogen bombs might give us a tropical climate, but there are certain risks attached to so drastic a treatment. They play with the idea of a mass migration southwards, and contemplate the hibernation of the bears (wise in their way) with some envy. But all of these solutions have obvious weaknesses.

There is one that is practical, however, and almost always it works. An evening with the latest garden catalogue is the answer. Here in the pictures are flowers of the perfection memory brings to mind, here is grass to rest and gladden the eye, trees of adorable dignity, and even such commonplace objects as the hoe and rake and lawn-mower take on the beauty that is in the eye of the beholder.

And there you are, and before you can exhaust the possibilities of this little book of delights spring will be working its charm again and all will be well—until next February. And all free!

Highway Names

(Vancouver Sun)

Canadian highway names should be retained. They are far more colorful than mere numbers. We are continually told by tourist promoters that we should stress our historic places in order to offer color to our visitors. We can't think of anything less colorful than "Highway 98" or more colorful than "Cariboo road," or "Alaska highway." They have the thrill of adventurous association that appeals to every tourist.

THE DAMP BASEMENT OBSESSION

In the spring the daily mail seldom fails to bring a few queries from the people who are worried about the damp basement or about harmful effects of living, working or playing on concrete, tile or asphalt floors.

Dr. Brady

Lest incorrigible fuss budgets complain of my constant harping I had better say nothing about the belief of physicians and laymen a hundred years ago that malaria was due to noxious effluvia or miasma in the air, especially in night air near a swamp, and pneumonia was due to change of weather, drafts, wet feet, insufficient clothing and the like—you see, the plasmodium (parasite) of malaria was not discovered until 1880 and the pneumococcus (pneumonia germ) not until 1880.

It was after physicians had learned about these specific causes of disease and particularly pneumonia that the resourceful practitioners conjured up the "lowered resistance" theory, which has kept everybody so confused that a smart doctor can hedge on the diagnosis in any circumstance.

Not that I enjoy discomfort from cold or dampness. I merely contend that such discomfort has nothing to do with susceptibility to or immunity to any known disease or ailment. I contend that no one has educed scientific evidence that cold drafts, wet feet, insufficient clothing, change of weather, sudden chilling after being overheated or any other everyday discomfort "lowers resistance" to respiratory infections, rheumatic fever (streptococcic-septicemia, inflammatory rheumatism), or infantile paralysis.

For that matter, no one has proved and, I can safely say, no medical authority will attempt to prove that "lowered resistance" or "maintaining resistance" is anything more than sheer hokum. Mind you, now, sophomores, we're talking about hypothetical or imaginary "resistance." Please do not babble about immunity, which is specific and sometimes measurable (Shick test for immunity to diphtheria) and conferable (immunity to typhoid fever, diphtheria, smallpox, tetanus and in the near future, let us hope, to infantile paralysis with Salk's vaccine). The childish fancy of "resistance" applies to nothing in particular and everything if you are not particular.

As long as the medical profession clings to nineteenth century theories about the cri (common respiratory infections), malaria and the rheumatiz, probably basement apartments will be unpopular. As a matter of fact basement rooms are usually more comfortable in cold and damp weather than upper floor rooms and if occupants get a reasonable amount of sunshine or daylight elsewhere, basement apartments are as desirable as upper floor apartments for children and adults.

If any physician desires to refute what I say here about "resistance" or about the effects of exposure to everyday cold and dampness I'll print his or her statement without alteration, provided it is not too long to fit in here and provided he or she consents to my revealing his or her identity if my honesty is challenged. Otherwise of course I'll respect the physician's preference about that.

Now I'm off to the bowling green, so we'll deal with hard floors later.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LIFE'S UPS AND DOWNS

There is a town in the western part of the United States which bears the pleasant name of Paradise. In frontier days it was known as "Pair o' dice." Thus we observe that evolution, that sprucing up, that process of making respectable, which often takes place. It reveals the irrespressible determination and power of people and places to be better, if given half a chance.

There is a power in us which keeps working all the time for our degradation. This is known in theology as moral depravity. But along with this power is another, and this works incessantly to make us better. I know of a child born of parents who kept a dive, yet the child by sheer force of character grew into a man of unusual distinction and position. I know a splendid musician today whose father and mother came out of homes far from desirable. Sometimes paradise degenerates into "pair o' dice." but quite as often "pair o' dice" grows into "paradise."

A terrific conflict goes on in the heart of every individual and—psychologists tell us—in his mind. Doctors tell us that this conflict is constantly going on between germs and the bodies in our blood stream which kill off the germs, or at least keep them in control.

Something within us and in the world constantly trying to build us up and something to tear us down! Paradise and "pair o' dice" constantly striving against each other for supremacy.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE HAPPY FAMILY

I shall always be glad I was born in a small town and lived in one, up to my voting age. those towns were nests of familes and there was happiness in them. Divorced people were rare. There was something sacredly secure about a town filled with happy people. Family worship was not the exception but the rule, and on the Sabbath the churches were filled with people trying to live "the good life."

Nothing is so tragic as the broken family. It's like cutting love up in pieces like when you cut a pie! It isn't an honest pie if all the possible participants are not there, each to be given his share!

One of the most inspiring things ever written by Robert Louis Stevenson is to be found in his "A Christmas Sermon." Here it is: "To be honest, to be kind—to earn a little and to spend a little less, to make upon the whole family happier for his presence, to renounce when that shall be necessary and not to be embittered, to keep a few friends but these without capitulation—above all, on the same grim condition to keep friends with himself—here is a task for all that a man has of fortitude and delicacy."

That beautiful quotation would be a wonderful one to have printed in good type and hung in every happy home. It would have its influence on every member of the family, as well as those who would be attracted to it among friendly callers.

The cornerstone of a great nation lies in its happy families. nothing is too expensive on the part of a town, city, or government that adds to the health and happiness of such families.

Cure Is Worse than Disease When Trying to End Abuses By Legal Controls of Press

In any discussion of press-freedom there arises the question of abuses of this freedom within the press itself. Can such abuses be stopped by law? Not without endangering freedom itself, in the view of an American commission which studied the press critically a few years ago. The position is reviewed in the following story, one of a Canadian Press series.

Written for The Canadian Press
By FRANK FLAHERTY

A cure worse than the disease is the way a group of eminent American scholars describe proposals to correct abuses of the press by legal controls.

These men, including professors of law, economics, philosophy, political science and ethics comprises the "Commission on Freedom of the Press" under the chairmanship of Robert M. Hutchins, former president of the University of Chicago. Their study was financed from private funds and had no official status.

Their report "A Free and Responsible Press" has been criticized as long on professional moralizing and short on the common sense of practical businessmen, newspaper men and politicians. Yet it stands as the only attempt by a group of minds to make an objective judgment on the role of the modern newspaper in modern society. If the commission does not find the newspaper perfect, it finds it indispensable. It asserts the newspaper's freedom to transmit ideas from person to person is indispensable to society.

FREEDOM BIG FACTOR

The commission describes civilized society as a "working system of ideas." Society needs as many ideas as possible and cannot have them unless there is freedom of expression and freedom of transit for ideas from one man to another. As the agency through which ideas pass from one to another the press should be free of controls.

One of the questions to which the commission addressed itself was whether the freedom of the press is in danger. Its answer was "yes" but it went on to say freedom of the press is always in danger. The danger was not peculiar to the present age.

"The freedom of the press illustrates the commonplace that if we are to live progressively we must live dangerously," it says.

Another question it sought to answer was whether the bigness of the modern newspaper plant, which precludes all but a few from a share in the control of the machinery of the press, warrants controls in the interests of the many.

BIGNESS ESSENTIAL

The answer was "no." Controls would be a cure worse than the disease. It pointed out that bigness was essential to the delivery of the kind of news services modern society requires.

It moralized on what if anything should be done about lying in the press, decided the right to be free included the right to be wrong, that there was no way to stop lying without jeopardizing freedom.

It conceded that the moral right to be wrong ceased when the lying became deliberate but asserted the legal right should not be withdrawn.

"Many a lying, venal and scoundrelly public expression must continue to find shelter under a freedom of the press built for widely different purposes," the commission says. "For to impair the legal right when the moral right is gone may easily be a cure worse than the disease. Each definition of the abuse invites abuse of the definition."

COMMISSION CRITICIZED

The commission has been accused of generalizing too much on a few instances of abuse in the United States newspaper scene and ignoring the responsibility of the press generally.

The validity of the commission's findings for Canada, however, cannot be weakened by any bias it showed in judging the press of the United States.

When it looked for legal remedies of abuses it came up against the fact that they should inevitably impair the citizen's right to know the facts. Legal controls on the press could only proceed on the assumption that government is a better judge of what the citizen ought to know than the citizen himself. That assumption in itself is a denial of the very basis of democratic government.

One of the strongest proofs of this is to be found in the stories of the fall of democracy in other countries. They show that when a government moves toward autocracy it begins by curbing the freedom of the press. Invariably the first curbs are put forward as a means of correcting abuses. They end by the enforcement of the totalitarian rule that the press exists to tell the citizen what the government wants him to know and no more.

Skunk Making Like a Thief Driven Away

"One crow sorrow; two crows joy," they used to say in the old school days.

Mr. R. Easton, who lives at 95 Frank Street, where he keeps a chicken house on the side, yesterday saw two crows winging over his district. However, the portents of the omen were short-lived, for shortly afterwards he saw a skunk—making like a thief toward the chicken house.

What to do in the way of chasing the critter and remaining pleasant company over the dinner table is the problem that faces everybody in such a situation.

Fortunately for Mr. Easton his dog also observed the manoeuvres of the skunk and smelled a rat. Not giving two cents for the consequences it took out after the marauder and managed to scare it off without any ill effects.

Young Couple Found Dead In Apartment

DRESDEN, Ont. (CP)—A young couple was found asphyxiated Saturday in the bedroom of their gas-filled apartment here, shortly before they were to move to another apartment.

Dead are Douglas Pegg, 19, and his 20-year-old wife, Ruth. The bodies were discovered by Pegg's brother, Gerald, who had come to help them move furniture.

Police said the space heater in the living room, the gas stove in the kitchen and the gas water-heater in the bathroom were fully turned on and lit. The damper of the living room heater was closed and all the interior doors were open.

The young couple's nine-months-old son had been left overnight at the home of Mrs. Pegg's mother.

Dresden is 15 miles north of Chatham.

'Hasty Pees' Will Take Part In Exercise

One of the more interesting Army Exercises to be carried out this year by the Militia units of 12 and 13 Militia Groups in Eastern Ontario area will be Exercise "Old Fox II" which is carried out completely by telephone and wireless together with the use of maps and large scale sand tables.

Exercise "Old Fox II" has been designed to train the headquarters staff of an infantry brigade and infantry battalions in infantry tactics, in this case "the deliberate counter attack." This exercise will take place at the Royal Canadian School of Signals, Kingston, on March 12 and 13.

Prior to taking part in this exercise, the units will conduct preliminary study and training under the supervision of their respective Militia Group Headquarters.

Director of the exercise will be Brigadier M. S. Dunn, OBE, ED, Officer Commanding Eastern Ontario Area. Control director will be Major R. Cummings, CD, GSO II at Headquarters Eastern Ontario Area. Assistant Control Director is Major R. E. M. Cross, and assistant Control Director (administration) is Maj. D. A. McInnis.

The two-day exercise will involve two infantry battalions, one artillery regiment, one heavy AA regiment, along with other divisional troops, from 13 Militia groups. Representatives from many units in 12 Militia Groups will act as control and umpires.

Units will include the Prince of Wales Own Regiment, Kingston, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, Belleville, the 50th HAA Regiment, Peterborough, the 33rd Med. Regt. RCA, Cobourg, all of the 13 Militia Group.

Importance of Guided Missile, Rocket Increases by Hour

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON (AP)—In today's deadly race for military power, the importance of the guided missile and the rocket increases almost by the hour.

For the next major war, if it comes, will be in part a pushbutton war. Missiles carrying conventional, or even atomic, warheads will be electronically guided to distant targets. Intercontinental ballistic rockets — missiles without guidance after they go aloft—will soar into space, gradually lose momentum and plunge toward a target carrying with it the means to wipe out a city or an entire industrial area.

The tremendous impact of such weapons is underlined by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission's announcement this month that H-bombs now available could imperil life in an area up to 7,000 square miles around the blast site. If an H-bomb of this type were exploded on a city, for example, populations as far away as 190 miles in a downwind belt which might be as much as 20 miles wide would be seriously threatened by radioactive particles thrown off into the atmosphere.

BIG DEFENCE POTENTIAL

While guided missiles have dramatic possibilities as offensive weapons, they also have great potential for defence. The U. S. Army's Nike (prnounced nye-kee), for example, already is set up in areas surrounding major industrial and population centres. It can travel 1,000 miles an hour and lock onto and destroy enemy aircraft. And there are other missles effective against ships and personnel.

The United States is keeping what it knows about Russian missile developments under wraps. Certainly there is no disposition to underrate a nation which proved itself capable of swift development in the field of atomic energy.

In recent months there has been some relaxation of security surrounding some of the older U. S. missile projects—a sure sign considerable progress is being made on newer types.

30-MINUTE TRIP

The U. S. armed forces have formally announced these missile projects:

Army — The Nike; Corporal guided missiles; the Honest John unguided rocket and the longer-range redstone, all of which are designed for launching from surface batteries against airborne targets.

Navy—The Regulus and Terrier, both ship-launched missiles, and the Sparrow, fired from aircraft at other targets in the air.

Air Force—The Matador, a surface-to-surface pilotless bomber; the air-to-air Falcon and the surface-to-air Bomarc.

Published reports unofficially discuss more than a dozen other types of missiles, the most sensational of which is the surface-to-surface intercontinental Atlas, said to be production at the Convair division of General Dynamics Corp. in San Diego. It is reported to attain a speed of 10,000 miles an hour and could streak from the United States to Moscow in 30 minutes.

LADY ATTACKS WOLF

OKEMAH, Okla. (AP) — Mrs. Rose Fisher, a slip of a lady of 60, has found a new way to keep the wolf from her door. She came face to face with one just outside of her farm home Friday. The animal snarled viciously at her but didn't get a chance to attack. She waylaid him with one blow of a garden hoe.

NAUTILUS TESTED

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The atomic submarine Nautilus ventured to sea Friday for the first time since Jan. 25 and tested her torpedo armament. The daylight cruise in Long island and Block island sounds lasted 10 hours. The 3,000-ton cigar-shaped giant, had previously logged more than 1,000 hours under nuclear propulsion.

Major Homer Thomas, B.A., of Ottawa, spent the week-end with his mother, Mrs. Woodman Thomas, Albert Street.

Weddings

DESBARBIEUX—SHORTEN

CAMPBELLFORD. — A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Paul's Roman Catholic church, when the Rev. Father Carrol united Geraldine Alfreda, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shorten, to Francis Xavier Thomas, fourth son of Mrs. Desbarbieux, of Campbellford and the late Henry Desbarbieux, in a double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Alencon lace over white bridal satin, trimmed with rhinestones and pearls. Her fingertip veil with figured border was held in place by a halo crown of rhinestones and pearls. She wore a pearl necklace and carried a bouquet of red roses tied with white ribbon.

Miss Mary Desbarbieux, as maid of honor, wore a floor-length gown of net over pale blue satin with a headpiece of lily of the valley, and carried yellow daffodils and pink carnations. Miss Monica Desbarbieux as bridesmaid, wore a floor-length gown of net and mauve satin with a headdress of roses and carried yellow daffodils and pink carnations. Little Sylvia Shorten, sister of the bride, wore a floor-length gown of net over pink satin, with matching bonnet and carried a nosegay of yellow and pink carnations and daffodils, tied with rainbow ribbon.

Mr. Joseph Desbarbieux was groomsman and Ambrose Desbarbieux was ring bearer. Ushers were Lorne Shorten and Anthony Desbarbieux.

The groom's gift to his bride was a rosary of white pearl, to the groomsman and ushers, gold tie clips and rosary to ring bearer.

The maid of honor and the bridesmaid were presented with pearl earrings and the flower girl received a heart shaped locket.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where her mother received, wearing a gown of navy blue with matching accessories and wearing a corsage of red carnations. The groom's mother also received in a navy gown with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

About 30 relatives of the bridal party were seated at a banquet prepared by the bride's mother and served by Mrs. Web, Miss Culkeen, Mrs. Phillips and her daughter, Reta; Mrs. Jean Culkeen and Mrs. Thomas Chadwick. Toasts were given by the bridegroom, the bride's father and the groomsman.

Later, the couple left for a wedding trip to Toronto, London, Kitchener and points west. For travelling the bride chose a rust colored wool suit with mid-blue accessories and a corsage of white carnations. On their return they will take up residence in Peterborough.

Out-of-town guests were from Orillia, Havelock, Peterborough, and Toronto.

L.A.P.M. Assoc. President Pays Official Visit

On Friday evening, an enjoyable meeting was held by the members of Belleville Auxiliary No. 8, Ladies' Auxiliary Patriarchs Militant, I.O.O.F., when the Department Association president Miss Marion Hildon, Toronto, made her official visit.

Major Gordon Miller introduced Miss Hildon, who was welcomed by the Auxiliary president, Mrs. Alice Storms.

Mrs. Irene Aman, vice-president of the Department Association; Miss Helen Miller, Mrs. Verna Summers and Mrs. Florence Pollitt, other officers of the department, were also introduced and welcomed.

A pleasing event of the evening was the marching in of a large number of Canton members in full dress uniform from Belleville, Picton, Trenton and Stirling. Auxiliary members were also present from these towns.

During the evening a gift was presented to Miss Hildon by Miss Gena Spry and Mrs. Marjorie Large.

Miss Hildon expressed her appreciation for the gift and gave a very interesting and instructive address.

At the close of the evening, a banquet was served at which the ladies were joined by the members of the Canton.

Cubs, Scouts Sponsor Father, Son Banquet

The 8th Belleville Cubs and Scouts entertained their fathers on Tuesday night at their annual "Father and Son" banquet at the Masonic Temple, which was gay with the purple and yellow colors of the group and resounded with the happy laughter of almost 200 fathers, guests, Cubs and Scouts and their leaders, who had gathered there to celebrate the birthday of Lord Baden-Powell.

Mr. F. Lang, group committee chairman, welcomed the guests and grace was said by the Rev. E. Smith, padre of the 8th Belleville troup. A delicious roast beef dinner was served by the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

A toast to the fathers was proposed by Scout Steven Wilson, and was responded to by Mr. Bob Munroe, on behalf of the fathers.

LEADERS INTRODUCED

Akela L. Ashley introduced her leaders and they led a sing-song, which was much enjoyed. At the request of Mr. Lang, each father present introduced himself. Mr. Lang then introduced those seated at the head table, as follows: to his left, Mrs. R. Wardle, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary; Mr. A. S. Lewis, Regional District Commissioner; Mr. Phil Allcorn, assistant District Commissioner of Cubs; Mrs. E. Pugh, president of Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Association; Mrs. L. Ashley, Cub Akela; to his right, Rev. E. Smith, padre; Mr. Don Allan, assistant District Commissioner of Scouts; Mr. Oliver Owen, president of the local association; Mr. Stan Kerr, Scoutmaster.

The speakers all complimented the group on its progress and emphasized the importance of the coming World Jamboree at Niagara Falls, and its effect on world peace.

The Cubs presented a fine puppet show, outlining the activities of a Cub pack.

BADGES PRESENTED

The following badges were then presented to Cubs by Mr. Allcorn:

A half hour of films brought the evening to a close. The memory of a happy evening will long be cherished by those present.

STARLET ILL

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Movie starlet Elaine Stewart underwent an operation here Friday night for a ruptured appendix. Miss Stewart who came to Brazil for carnival week was taken to Stranger's Hospital after complaining of sudden pains. Hospital authorities said she was resting comfortably and should be able to leave in a week.

Carmel W.I. Enjoys Talk On Ottawa's Mayor

The February meeting of the Carmel Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Seldon Homan.

The president, Mrs. Lattone, opened the meeting.

Fourteen members answered the roll call, "A Famous Woman in Public Life." There were two visitors and three children present.

The reports of the standing committees were then heard. Current Events were given by Miss Marguerite Hicks. Letters and communications were read.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. A. Whitmore, "Publicity Convener," with Mrs. Horton as pianist. A reading "Valentines", was read by Mrs. Whitmore; another reading "Valentines with a Heart", was read by Mrs. A. Gowthorpe.

THE MAYOR

Mrs. Whitmore chose as her topic "Her Honor, the Mayor". Charlotte Whitton, M.A., D.C.L., LL.D., C.B.E., graduated from Kingston in 1917. She won the Governor General's medal in education and distinguished herself as first woman editor of the Queen's journal.

During university, she became interested in social service work. She was one of fifteen members of the provisional executive committee charged with creating a National Council of Child Welfare of Canada.

In 1922, she accepted a post as parliamentary secretary to Thomas Low, in the federal government. She was on the staff of the League of Nations in South and North America. The Manitoba government was so impressed with her welfare work it asked her to make an investigation. This was in 1941.

The Progressive Conservative party asked her to make a survey of the Marsh Social Security plan in 1943 which she found unsuitable. She wrote a book "The Dawn of Ample Living." Her idea was improved welfare and health services rather than fixed pensions.

In 1947 she was asked to make an investigation in the welfare department in Alberta and discovered babies were being bartered before birth and illegally exported to the United States. This stirred up a hornet's nest as she was served with a summons to appear in an Edmonton court. The suit was later dropped but not before Charlotte Whitton had shown that when she made a report she stuck by it. The Welfare Department in Alberta was re-organized after the publicity.

Then in 1950 she ran in the civic election for the Board of Control. With the Local Council of Women, Charlotte started a campaign and polled the highest vote of four controllers 38,405, making her deputy-mayor and for a salary of $3,500 per year she started off on a two-year term.

In 1951 she demanded an invitation to the annual dinner for council and got it. She had been controller for eight months when the mayor died. Then came many stormy scenes, the men did not want a lady mayor, a title which automatically fell to her.

To add to this Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh were about to arrive in Canada and Charlotte said it was bad for the capital to be without a mayor. She insisted a vote be taken and on October 1, she was made mayor, her term to expire December 1952. She says the job is no round of social teas and bazaars. One moment you are conferring with the Prime Minister about staggered hours for civil servants and the next you are trying to transfer dog-catching from the police commission to the Humane Society.

VISITING MAYORS

When the mayors from across the Dominion came to Ottawa to see the Prime Minister, they chose Miss Whitton to speak for them.

Fiery by nature, she enjoys a good argument, and for a five foot one woman wearing a cinderella shoe, she has kept the men on the run. Besides her busy political life she cooks some, has an apartment, a home on the shores of the Gatineau Lakes; does some carpentry work; whirls through everything from transportation problems to taxation rates but still she is entirely feminine.

At the end of the day, when she is still knee-deep in storm-sewers, she can calmly say to her secretary, "remind me to pick up a loaf of bread on the way home."

A Valentine contest was won by Miss Hicks and Mrs. Fox.

The meeting was turned back to the president, and after closing, refreshments were served by the hostess and assistants.

Women of the Moose

The last meeting of the month of the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 435, was held last Thursday, in the Moose Hall with Senior Regent Michaeline Calbury presiding.

Guide Connie Pringle and Assistant Guide, Gladys Ritch opened the Bible upon the altar for the opening ceremony.

Recorder Nellie Scrymgeour called the roll call of officers, escorts and chairman.

One candidate was balloted on with the ballot being favorable. Initiation was held with one candidate, Elsie Bailey, being initiated into the defending circle. She was sponsored by Pearl Styles.

Cards of thanks were received from Ethel Knott, and Nellie Scrymgeour.

Congratulations were sent to Jean Lucas on arrival of a new baby girl.

A pot-luck dinner will be held on March 5, by the Academy of Friendship members, in the Moose Hall, between 11 a.m., to 2 p.m.

A euchre is to be held at Audrey Donnelly's in March to raise money to be given to the H.M.C.S. Quinte at their annual inspection to be used for their canteen. A series of euchres will be held for this purpose.

A cup will be presented to the first baby born in the Belleville General Hospital, on Sunday, March 20, 1955, on which date the Women of the Moose will be celebrating Mooseheart Baby Village Day. This meeting will be held in the Knights of Columbus hall which will be open to members and friends. The meeting will start at 1.30 o'clock.

Members are asked to have their replicas of the Baby Village at the first meeting in March to be judged.

The chairman's meeting will be held at Ida Lake's, 100 Cedar Street, on next Thursday.

The draw was held which was donated by Pearl Styles and won by Gladys Ritch.

The closing was conducted by Chaplain Marg. Mallette.

A euchre was held following the meeting with prizes won by Nora Potts, Annie Young, Irene Gamble.

Refreshments were also served following the meeting by Ritual chairman Pearl Styles and her committee.

All co-workers with tickets on the quilt to be drawn on Tuesday next, please turn in tickets to the Senior Regent or to Nora Kaiser by five o'clock, Tuesday.

St. Michael's H.S. P-T Assoc. Holds Fine Debate

St. Michael's High School Parent-Teacher Association held its monthly meeting in the school assembly room last Monday. The meeting was in charge of the president, Mr. H. Brown, and was opened with prayer for Catholic education by Very Rev. L. B. Garvin.

Reports were given by the conveners of various committees as follows: secretary's, Mrs. J. Gallagher; treasurer's, Mr. Harry O'Neill; social welfare, Mrs. E. B. Lally.

Regarding the membership drive now on, a committee was formed to assist, Mrs. H. Ryan Mrs. A. MacDonnell, Mrs. J. Anton, Mrs. J. Kelly and Mrs. E. Greenfield.

A letter was read from Mr. E. B. Lally, director of the National Society of the Hard of Hearing, Toronto, and former teacher at the O.S.D., accepting an invitation to address the March meeting. The president asked each member to bring a guest to this meeting as the address will be exceptionally interesting to both parents and teachers.

It was announced that the unit would be represented at the Parent-Teachers convention held annually at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, during Easter week, by the president, Mr. H. Brown and Sr. Mary Immaculate.

SUPPER DANCE

The members voted in favor of sponsoring a supper dance for the graduates of Grades XII and XIII before the end of the school term.

A new feature was introduced in the form of a debate: "Resolved that Canada should adopt compulsory military training for boys 18 to 20 years of age." The affirmative was taken by Donna Belanger, Joan Duggan and Martin Halloran of Grade XI, while Jacqueline Murphy, Edmund Jolly and Wayne Johnson of Grade XII, took the negative.

This interform debate was well presented with both sides having many excellent points, making it difficult for the judges to pick the winners. However, the decision was given in favor of the negative with all being congratulated for their efforts.

After the closing of the meeting refreshments were served by the social committee.

Announcing the Annual RED CROSS Appeal for Funds

DISASTER! Death-dealing hurricanes, fires, floods, give no warning. But wherever disaster strikes in Canada your Red Cross is ready, organized and equipped to help in every way possible.

BLOOD! In countless emergencies where immediate blood or blood products are vital, your Red Cross free Blood Transfusion Service has saved countless lives.

EMERGENCY! Throughout Canada's thinly populated areas the Red Cross maintains Outpost Hospitals and Nursing Stations. These are often the only medical aid within reach in emergency.

VETERANS! Your Red Cross contribution also brings comfort and entertainment to thousands of Canadian Veterans in hospital. Through the Red Cross Lodges, you help facilitate visits from Veterans' far-away families.

March is the month ALL CANADA GIVES to the RED CROSS

All over Canada, legions of volunteer canvassers will rally under the Red Cross banner. These men and women, recruited from all walks of life, will give freely of their time, their talents and their ability to help raise the money needed. Canada's newspapers and magazines, radio and television networks and other public-spirited services will add their shoulders to the wheel of this once-a-year, nation-wide drive. And every good Canadian, recognizing the priceless value of Red Cross work, will give generously and gratefully; that the work of mercy may be carried on without stint, without pause.

HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU GIVE?

That is a question only you can answer. With a widened scope of services, and with Canada's greatly increased population, the calls on Red Cross assistance multiply. The amount you give depends upon your earnings and upon your compassion. Look deep into your heart as you reach into your purse, then give till that inner voice says — "Well Done!"

GIVE to the RED CROSS Cheerfully... Gratefully... Generously!

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

TELEVISION ETIQUETTE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Of course we used to have somewhat the same problem in listening to radio as now arises when looking at television, but television etiquette seems more difficult. For example, when guests arrive at our house, should they be asked what programs they would like to look at, or should my husband and I choose the programs we prefer? — John and Joan

That depends on the "Why" of the arrival of the guests. That is: if they are friends, perhaps neighbors, who have dropped in to see you while you are watching television, they should take it for granted (and so should you and your husband) that the "droppers-in" are to look at the program at which you are looking. But if they are guests whom you have definitely invited to come to see you at a certain (or approximate) hour, naturally you would consult with them as to their preference of television-program.

EXPRESSING YOUR SYMPATHY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last week I went for the first time to a funeral home, to pay my respects to the family of a dear friend of mine who had passed on. When I was leaving, and particularly when a member of the family came over to me and thanked me for coming, I was tonguetied as to what to reply. For my future help, please suggest something I might say in this circumstance. — H.W.

First, remember that you can convey a warm-hearted message of sympathy and understanding by the warmth of your handclasp. And remember too that the way you say your words is as important as the words you say. As you shake hands, you may say, "My deepest sympathy is with you, Mrs. Carrington." Or, to a particularly close friend, "My dearest love to you, Lillian dear, and my deep understanding and sympathy. Please remember that I am at your service at any time, if you will just let me know if I can help."

TAKING THE WEEK-END GUESTS TO CHURCH

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Over the week-ends of the last two weeks in March and the first two weeks in April, my husband and I are having several guests. We are uncertain as to what is expected of us as to taking them to church on Sunday morning. Should we just expect them to go with us to our church? — L.S.

No. Courtesy requires that you talk over with them their preference . . . as to whether they would like to go to church with you, or to a church of their own denomination. Then you and your husband must arrange your driving schedule accordingly.

GIVING PRESENT TO HOSTESS OF SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

A very dear friend of mine is giving a Baby Shower for me soon. I would like to know if it would be permissible for me to give this friend a gift after the shower. — C.A.G.

You shouldn't, I think, give your friend, the hostess, a gift at the party, since this might seem pointless to the guests. Or even more confusing, it might seem to the guests as if they too were expected to bring a gift to the hostess as well as to you, the guest of honor. When you write your note of appreciation to your kind and thoughtful friend, the day after the party, send your gesture-gift with this.

BRIDE'S MOTHER ASKS GROOM'S MOTHER FOR WEDDING-INVITATION LISTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My son is to be married very soon, and his bride-to-be is planning a large wedding and reception. I would like to know if it is not my privilege to make out a list of the relatives and friends of our family, whom we would like to have receive invitations to the wedding? — H.

Yes, indeed this is your privilege and your responsibility. It is the accepted custom that the bride-to-be and or her mother asks the groom's mother to make a list of the relatives and friends of the groom's family who are to be sent wedding invitations. (The groom gives his mother the list of his friends, and this list is combined with her list.) And naturally it is often necessary, because of circumstances, for the bride's mother to give the groom's mother a general idea of the number of guests that can be assigned to each family.

Beauty

NERVOUS TENSION A BEAUTY MENACE

Women are more beauty-conscious today than ever before. Over-weights realize that excess tonnage is a health menace and seek means of slenderizing their figures. Hairdos have never been lovelier. Complexions receive fastidious care. Make-up is becoming more and more natural.

There are many facets to the over-all beauty picture as it appears today. The balanced diet has done its part. Interest in outdoor sports increases with the years. Women swim, trail over golf courses, play tennis, air their lungs and generally keep their muscular systems well toned.

But there is a new menace, a product of our times—and that is tension. Physicians report that nervous ills are common, as is insomnia. Old-timers moan about the "good old days," when there was leisure and a feeling of security, when family life was closer, more normal.

It behooves the beauty-seeker to cultivate a sense of tranquility, not to let these hectic days get her down, and to attend to her beauty chores without let-up.

Her face may register a nervous condition and, before she knows it, there will be furrows between her eyes, tiny creases around them, lines on her forehead. At the first sign of such blemishes, she should devote more time to tissue toning.

When she applies a cream after the bed-time face washing, she should lift the flesh between her eyes by placing the thumb below the lines, the first finger above, ironing them upward.

The flesh around the eyes should be pressed lightly with creamed fingers and the entire facial surfaces should have a brisk patting

Beautiful Soup

By Mary Moore

The supply of cream soup bowls in the Moore household sorely needed replenishing when one slushy night I was window-shopping downtown and stopped stockstill in front of a windowful of cream soup bowls marked down to $1.00 each.

They were from broken lines, or open stock patterns, the popularly of which had subsided—Coalport, Minton, Royal Worcesershire etc., and I stood there drolling and wondering how I could get in on the bargain.

The following morning I telephoned at 10 minutes to 9. The manager answered the phone. I told him I was too busy to go downtown and asked if he would pick out a dozen of the pattern I wanted—Coalport of course —but it was no go—I had to go down. On the way I picked up my sister and between us we bought 33 cream soup bowls; a dozen each for ouselves and some for gifts. Mine are Coalport "Fragrance" pattern and so delicate and altogether lovely I could live on soup just for the sheer pleasure of eating (drinking?) from them.

Consequently all this soup making and slurping brings you in on the act. Furthermore "Wilhelmina", an occasional contributor to the readers' column, writes me that she has had her teeth out and would like "a new kind of soup". She asked the right gal this time.

ITALIAN MINESTRONE

George Rector, famous chef, says this soup should be so thick you scoop it into your mouth instead of sipping it. It could well be a main course dish, especially if plenty of grated cheese is provided.

Soak 1 cup dried white beans overnight. Measure the water still on them in the morning and make it up to 6 cups. Pour this over the soaked beans and simmer until just tender. In 1-4 cup of fresh olive oil (or butter) saute until delicately gold 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 1 stalk celery chopped finely, 1 clove garlic chopped as finely as possible and 3 tablespoons chopped parsley. To them add 1 cup each thick canned or fresh tomato pulp and finely shredded green cabbage. Add these to the beans and season to taste with salt and pepper. Add 1 cup cooked macaroni, or fine or coarse noodles or spaghetti (or rice) and simmer 30 minutes. Serve in large bowls with generous amount of Parmesan cheese provided for sprinkling over as soup is eaten. This amount will serve 6. Italian bread sticks or French bread are good with it.

EPICURE'S POTATO PUREE

This is one for your permanent file.

Cook one medium large potato in 1 cup boiling water and 1-3 cup tomato pulp. Potato may be sliced to speed this up. It must be tender. Force through sieve. Heat in top of double boiler 2 1-2 cups whole milk or 2 cups whole milk and 1-2 cup cream, adding 2 slices of onion to it. When it is hot add the sieved potato mixture and 1 tablespoon butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-16 teaspoon pepper, 1-8 teaspoon monosodium glutamate. Mix together until smooth 1 egg yolk and 2 teaspoon flour and when soup in double boiler is very hot stir the egg-flour mixture into it, stirring constantly to prevent lumping—or beating with rotary beater to break up lumps. However the finished soup should be flecked with the egg yolk. Serve in hot soup bowls and garnish with finely chopped parsley. By rights you should love me for this.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SOME GOOD TIMES MIGHT HOLD THIS MARRIAGE TOGETHER

"I' have been married 11 years, and, until recently, things have gone along well," writes a wife and mother of two children.

"My husband is a good provider," she continues, "and, up to now, always a man to stay at home. Lately, however, he makes a habit of going out every other week, and I got the impression that he was going out with another woman. I asked him if this was true, and at first he said it wasn't. Then I asked him again, and he admitted he had been going out with another woman, but innocently, he said.

Now, he says he just goes out to relax by sitting in bars and watching television, but I don't see how anyone could stay in a bar for six hours, which is the time he is usually away. He never comes home drunk.

"I have told him that if he keeps this up, I will pack his clothes and give them to him, but he just laughs and says I'm being silly.

"Please give' me some advice as I don't know what to do, and I would hate to see our children's lives upset."

I wonder if it could be possible that this woman and her husband have too little recreation in their lives. She says that her husband has "always been a man to stay at home." But if they have just been sitting at home every night of the week, it wouldn't be at all surprising if he had become bored with the monotony.

Wouldn't it be possible for them to have a baby-sitter at least one night a week, and then plan something interesting to do outside the home? Even going to a movie together would be a pleasant break in the routine, but it would be even better if they could get together with friends and have a really jolly time.

Before bringing about a crisis in her marriage, I suggest that this wife experiment a little with the above idea. And the best way to approach it, I would think, would be for her to tell her husband that she is a little tired of staying home every night and she'd like his help in making a plan for both of them to have a little fun and get some new interests. Then she might suggest that each of them look around their town to see what community activities are going on, and what clubs and other organizations there may be in which they could take part together. These days, most communities of any size have a variety of activities for adults through which new friends can be made and new interests opened up.

Since this couple lives not too far away from a very large city, they might explore even further than their immediate community and see what they can find.

For example, both YMCAs and YWCAs have all sorts of programs for both men and women, and if the wife made inquiries at the YW, and the husband did the same at the YM, and they then discussed the activities each found and picked something that appealed to both, they would undoubtedly find the door to some really worthwhile recreation and entertainment. Once the husband became really interested, as he almost certainly would, if they found just the right kind of activity, it would answer his need for some sort of fun outside the home, and he wouldn't go looking for it by himself.

Doesn't this woman think she could work out such a plan, and that it would be a good idea to try? If she needs any further help in doing so, I hope she will not hesitate to write me again, for I might be able to make more specific suggestions. But first I would like her to give careful consideration to all I have said, and then see what she can do on her own. It will be a fine test of her imaginative qualities, her initiative and her self-reliance.

Peace of World Depends on Speed In Weapons' Study

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's top defence scientist said today the peace and possibly the survival of the world depend on the speed with which the free world's scientists and engineers can devise and perfect successive offensive and defensive weapons.

Dr. O. M. Solandt, chairman of the defence research board, told the Canadian Club:

"We now are at last faced with the desperate alternative of one world or none . . .

"We must recognize that the existence of thermonuclear weapons and the possibility of intercontinental ballistic missiles have given the offensive in war tremendous superiority over the defensive.

"In this scientific race we must strive to keep our offensive and defensive developments in step, but if this cannot be done we must be sure that our offensive capabilities are at all times adequate to deter an aggressor from attacking.

WOULD TEMPT ENEMY

"Should we ever lag significantly behind him in either offensive or defensive capabilities, we run the risk of tempting him to embark on world war III.

"Therefore the place and possibly the survival of the world depend upon the speed with which the scientists and engineers of the free world can devise and perfect successive offensive and defensive weapons systems."

A text of Dr. Solandt's address was issued to the press in advance of delivery.

"It is a matter of simple arithmetic to calculate very approximately the number of such weapons that would be required to wipe out most of mankind.

"Most scientists and engineers are convinced that there are no theoretical reasons why this weapon (the German Second World War V-2 guided missile) cannot be scaled up to produce the so-called intercontinental ballistic missile capable of carrying a thermonuclear warhead to any part of the world with quite acceptable accuracy . . .

"The very advent of the thermonuclear warhead has brought the possibility of intercontinental missiles perceptibly closer by tremendously reducing the requirement for accuracy."

END IN SIGHT

Dr. Solandt then dealt with peaceful uses of nuclear energy:

"The end of our readily available resources is already in sight and some time during this century the cost of recovering these fuels will begin to rise so seriously as to limit their use . . .

"Some time within the foreseeable future the rate at which our economic machine requires energy to keep it going will exceed the rate at which we can expand the recovery of fossil fuels (coal, oil and gas).

"Then it is obvious that we must begin now to think about other possible sources of energy capable of supplying our steadily increasing needs . . .

"There are certainly enough fossil fuels available in the world to go on expanding our energy-dependent economy for, say, another 25 years or even more and it is perfectly certain that within that time nuclear energy will be economically available.

LARGE SUPPLY

"Even if nuclear energy should in the future be entirely dependent on uranium as a fuel there is already enough uranium known to be available in the world to supply many times the energy that has been derived from fossil fuels.

"However, it seems very likey that science will find ways of using a wide variety of other fuels for nuclear furnaces and so it is unlikely that the development of our civilization along present lines will be limited by the availability of cheap energy for industrial and domestic purposes."

With these two alternatives—nuclear energy for war or nuclear energy for peace—man is facing his greatest dilemma in history, Dr. Solandt said.

REEVE DIES

MERRICKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Arthur Leslie Telford, elected to his fifth term as reeve of this village 40 miles south of Oattwa last December, died Sunday after a lengthy illness. He was 45.

CAMPBELLFORD.—At the recent mid-winter examinations of the Royal Conservatory of Music, Earl Oliver was successful in passing Grade 1 Theory with 1st class honors. Earl is a pupil of Mrs. Ward Archer.

Flying Officer Ellenor Allan, of St. John's, Quebec, has been posted to No. 2 Fighter Wing in France, and sails from Halifax on Saturday. Prior to taking up her duties, she is spending her leave with her parents on Doxsee Avenue, Campbellford.

Miss Willamene Allan of Lady Minto, Hospital, Cochrane, spent the week-end at home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leiper and family, Miss Beverly Little, Ottawa, and Miss Joan Little of Kemptville, were week-end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Little of Seymour West.

Mr. Alex Johnston, who has been a patient in Humber Memorial Hospital in Weston, has been transferred to Campbellford Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Edwin Haig, of Hamilton, spent the week-end at his parents' home, and visited his father Mr. Earl Haig, who is critically ill in Peterborough Civic Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Haig, of Toronto, and Mr. Donald Haig, of Hamilton and Mrs. Ruby Dixon, of Toronto, visited Mr. Earl Haig in Peterborough Hospital on Sunday.

Messrs. James and Gordon Jacobs spent a few days in Toronto this week visiting their mother, who is ill and has been confined to bed for the past five months. They also attended the "Million Dollar" display of National Heating Air Conditioning and Oil Furnace equipments at the colliseum on the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bennett were in Brockville on Tuesday, attending the funeral of the former's aged aunt, the late Mrs. Empey.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Maybee spent a couple of days in Toronto this week, attending the Good Roads convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Hay have announced the engagement of their youngest daughter, Olive Anne to Peter Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Battman of Campbellford. The wedding is to be some time in March.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Moir, of Campbellford, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mabel Marie, to Mr. John Morton, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Morton of Rylstone. Their wedding is to take place on March 12.

Mr. H. J. (Bert) Taylor has chosen Mr. Joe Smith to succeed him as president of the Century Club.

CBC STAFF CUT

MONTREAL (CP) — Curtailments in the staff and programming of CBC's international service, resulting from a budgetary cut, will take effect Sunday. About 70 staff positions will be abolished by the cut, but of these, about 50 had been vacant. The 20 remaining staff members will be absorbed into other CBC departments.

2 Photographers Manhandled And Clubbed by Police

NASSAU, The Bahamas (AP— Two foreign photographers were clubbed and manhandled by Bahama police in full view of Princess Margaret Saturday when they tried to take a picture of her landing at a Nassau pier.

David Johnson of the London Daily Sketch and Jean Pierre Pedrazzini of a Paris magazine both suffered injuries in the scuffle which lasted about 10 minutes.

Two members of the royal party, Capt. Dawney and Sir Norman Gwatkin, stepped in and ended the scrap, telling police to release the two photographers and let them take pictures of the Princess.

Colonial Secretary A. G. H. Gardner-Brown apologized to both men for the incident and offered to pay for a new suit for Pedrazzini whose plants were ripped down the right leg.

The Bahamas government said today the scuffle has been investigated and "suitable directions" have been given to ensure co-operation between police and press.

The statement said the governor, the Earl of Ranfurly, has personally expressed regret to the cameramen concerned and added that the police had taken "overzealous action" in clearing the pier.

ACTRESS EJECTED

Actress Yvonne De Carlo, a native of Vancouver, who is making a film here, was also ejected from the closed-off royal landing pier as the princess arrived.

Miss De Carlo had tried to get accreditation as a news photographer but was refused. She turned up anyway and had to be escorted from the press enclosure.

Teachers So Hard to Obtain Scouts Used to Find Them

By JOSEPH J. LIPPER

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California believes you've got to go out and get 'em when you need 15,000 new teachers a year.

Each spring more than 100 scouts, many of them school administrators, fan out in search of classroom reinforcements with all the enthusiasm of a football coach looking for a swivel-hipped halfback.

Usually their briefcases bulge with dignified ballyhoo keyed to the advantages of living in the state.

Long Beach, for example, equips recruiters with a brochure similar to a luxury cruise folder, showing swimmers under the palms, yachting in a lagoon and action on a movie set.

Apparently, the excursions pay off. Between 25,000 and 30,000 of the 60,000 new teachers hired by California schools in the last five years came from out of state.

Trouble is, the school enrolment keeps going up. This year, 2,400,000 pupils cram the schools. By 1965, the state figures, there will be 4,000,000.

The scouts approach seniors in teachers colleges, talk with on-the-job instructors, place advertisements in local newspapers and work with local employment agencies.

Dr. James C. Stone, teacher specialist in the state education department, rejects the idea, voiced by some middle west states, that the recruiting amounts to "pirating."

"We are getting our kids from those same states," he said, "so why shouldn't we get our teachers there?" In recent years there has been heavy migration of families to California from the U. S. midwest.

Some Drivers Getting 100,000 Miles Out of Set of Tires

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Automobile tires good for 100,000 miles are within your reach.

In fact, some drivers are getting that mileage with present tires, even without recapping. It requires good care and driving that doesn't put excessive demands upon tires.

But tire makers can't promise 100,000-mile tires for everyone. A main reason, they say, is that motoring conditions keep changing, making increasing demands on tires.

An example is the growth of high-speed turnpikes and throughways. On these you can travel 60 to 70 miles an hour and even faster for many hours. High speed means a bigger build-up of heat within tires, and heat works to shorten the life of the rubber and fabric.

The tire which might take you 100,000 miles at 40 to 50 miles an hour won't last that long at higher, hotter speeds. A high-speed nearly continuous trip from New York to Chicago takes much more out of a tire than covering the same mileage in a number of slower, small hops.

Tire pressures also influence longevity, explained Dr. H. J. Osterhof, director of research, and R. D. Evans, consulting engineer of the tire design division, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

Air pressures in auto, truck and airplane tires started out high. They were reduced to give smoother rides. Lower pressures mean more bending and flexing of the rubber and fabric, but rubbers and fabrics were improved to take that punishment and still last a good long time, Evans said.

Lately, pressures in airplane and truck tires have been increasing, and Evans foresees the possibility of a return to higher pressures in auto tires. It can be done without sacrificing comfort as highways become better and smoother. Tires designed specifically for higher air pressures can last longer, deliver more mileage.

But don't rush out to put more air in your present tires. Tires are carefully designed for the recommended pressures, and you'll only cause yourself grief by over-inflating.

ROTATION AN AID

The kind of road you drive, smooth or rocky or potholed, obviously can make a difference in the life of your tire. So too can proper care to maintain the recommended air pressure and frequent rotation among wheels.

In one study, said Dr. Osterhof, a trucking firm which had been getting an average of 50,000 miles a tire increased the mileage to 70,000 by proper maintenance methods.

Tubeless tires have one advantage for longer life, Evans said, in that their design permits faster diffusion of heat to the metal rim of the wheel.

Canada Defeats Czechs, Poland To Remain Undefeated In World Hockey

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

FINE SPIRIT

Some hockey-minded citizens appreciative of the efforts of the Memos are anxious to show their appreciation, and have donated special prizes for the players during the Cornwall series. Orliff "Boiler" Lloyd, who instigated the movement has secured eight prizes for the first two games—four to each game. One goes to the most valuable player, and the remaining three to the three selected stars of the game. Prizes have a minimum value of five dollars and a maximum of ten dollars. Those who have donated the gifts thus far are Bush's Ambulance, The New Queen's Hotel, Ceo Holway's Service Station, Newt Wilbur's Men's Wear, Ben Yanover, City Hotel; Cleo Colling, the Crystal Hotel and "Boiler" Lloyd. Those desirous of donating prizes for future games are requested to contact this department or Mr. Lloyd.

ALL OVER

It was a bit ironical that a couple of former Belleville players occupied star roles in the Memos' defeat at the hands of the Clinton Comets on Saturday. Bob Taylor and Angy Defelice, both who formerly wore Belleville junior sweaters, paced the Clinton offensive with Bob scoring the overtime goal in his club's 5-4 victory and sending the Memos' hopes of finishing in third place aglimmering. Taylor racked up two goals and an assist with Angy reversing the procedure.

The loss in this final scheduled game of the season, saw the Memos finish with 54 points, two behind the Whitby Dunlops, who scored what appeared to be an easy 4-1 victory over the group-leading Cornwall Colts to snare the show position. Cornwall finished with 62 points and Kingston 57. The Peterborough Petes - Brockville Magedomas game Saturday night was cancelled. Sunday the Colts won a 10-3 decision over the Petes.

So it is the Colts and Memos in one section of the semi-finals with Kingston and Goodyears clashing in the other bracket. The Memos-Colts series opens at Cornwall Wednesday night with the second game scheduled for Memorial Arena on Friday night. Both series are four-of-seven affairs, with the finals the same. Cornwall and Kingston get the advantage of an extra home game if the series go to the seven-heat limit, by virtue of finishing first and second.

DON'T MISS THIS!

Eddie Schamerhorn, Belleville's hope in the "grudge" battle against Trenton's Doy Deshane in the topflight boxing card at tSation Trenton RCAF tonight, rounded out training over the week-end and reports from both camps say that the boys are in tip-top condition and are ready for the battle of their lives. Interest in the fight has reached high proportions in both Trenton and Belleville and no doubt a gala crowd will be on hand to see what should be a rousing battle.

But the Deshane-Schamerhorn battle is but part of a card that fairly screams with ring talent. Don Wallace, well known Barrie welter, who is rapidly carving a fine name for himself in fistic circles of the country, is matched with Gunner Ernie Durelle, of Picton, in the main bout, and if this scrap doesn't leave the customers breathless nothing will. Durelle has been making a fine reputation for himself, too, and this scrap should just about put the crowd in the aisles.

Round these topflight bouts out with six other [illegible]ing clashes and you have a card that should leave nothing to be desired. Then, of course, there is the much-talked about "Battle of the B's", with Mayor John Both, Belleville, taking on Mayor Ross Burtt of Trenton. This bout has caused much interest and while both contestants are said to be able to walk into the ring, things might change before too many blows are struck. The Trenton contingent is backing its chief magistrate heavily while the city chief magistrate will not lack for support. The card is being staged by the Trenton Community Centre Campaign committee. The first bout gets under way at 8.30.

BOYS IN BLUE

Meanwhile two other opposing camps wound up their pre-battle training as the city police and fire departments' hockey warriors rested easy awaiting their big seasonal clash tomorrow night in Memorial Arena. It is going to be a great night and both managers, "Kid" Kowal of the gendarmes and "Warpy" O'Brien of the smoke-eaters, are going around with chests out-thrust and predicting victory with every breath. It is the fourth game of the fire-police laddies and all concerned with the affair are giving their services gratis, so that the Shrine Club's Crippled Children's Fund will receive some needed funds.

The tickets cost but a measly twenty-five cents, an amount you scarcely will miss. True 25 cents won't buy very much for a crippled kiddie, but if there is enough of them—imagine the good those quarters will do. That gleaming coin of yours will be reflected in happy childish eyes. How about helping pack the arena tomorrow night. You won't be sorry.

Pentictons Drop 'Kid Gloves' To Win in Fighting Fashion; Russ Keep Pace With 3 Wins

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DUESSELDORF, Germany (CP) Canada and Russia, unbeaten leaders in the world hockey tournament today heaved a sigh of relief after hard - earned weekend victories over a rebellious Czech national team which showed it just wouldn't stand for rough treatment no matter what side of the Iron Curtain it came from.

The Canadians had to drop their kid gloves to win in never-say-die fashion.

The Russians had their game sewed up when one of their forwards kicked a Czech defenceman. The Czech kicked right back and the two began flailing at each other with their fists, proving that international politics mean just as little as international hockey rules to a player whose blood is up.

THIRD-PERIOD DRIVE

Canada's colorful Penticton Vs put on a tremendous third-period drive to defeat Czechoslovakia 5-3 Saturday night. They shut out Poland 8-0 Sunday night to stretch their string to three straight victories. The Russians kept pace by eking out a 2-1 victory over a surprisingly strong Swedish team Saturday night and blanking the Czechs 4-0 Sunday night.

The United States bounced back from its 12-1 loss to the Canadians Friday night, by winning their weekend games against Finland 8-1 and Germany 6-3. Sweden overwhelmed Switzerland 10-0 Sunday night. Poland won its first game of the tournament Saturday night by edging Germany 5-4.

The Swiss drew a bye Saturday and Finland did not play Sunday night.

The Canadians came from behind twice to defeat the Czechs in one of the wildest games the Germans have seen in some time. Some 12,000 spectators, cheering themselves hoarse for the Czechs, saw Grant Warwick score the winning goal with less than five minutes to go.

CZECHS RETALIATED

Throwing caution to the winds, the Canadians roughed up the fast-skating Czechs almost from the start in the hope of slowing them down and the Czechs late in the game began to hand it out as well as take it.

Although the Canadians had a much easier time of it against the Poles, who lacked an effective scoring punch, the game also developed into a slugging match.

Even playing coach Grant Warwick, who had bawled out his players for getting too many penalties against the Czechs, ended up in a fight with Polish defenceman Kazimier Chodakowski late in the game. Both were banished, but Warwick got a major penalty.

Of the 38 minutes the Canadians have drawn in penalties in their three games so far, 36 minutes has been against the Czechs and Poles.

BUMPS AND BRUISES

Against the Czechs, the Canadian defencemen found that they could do almost anything to the attacking forwards as long as they did not knock them into the boards. As a result both teams suffered their share of bumps and bruises.

Bill Warwick, who almost single-handed whipped the Americans with six goals, was also the star against the Czechs. He drew two penalties and the ire of the fans, but fought back to win their cheers when he twice tied the score in the hectic third period and then set up the winning goal for brother Grant.

Canadian observers were somewhat surprised at the brand of hockey. Expecting a clean game with the accent on puck handling, they saw instead unlimited interference and a good deal of spearing and cross-checking.

Before leaving Canada, the Vs were told that the rules would be interpreted to the letter, but the Czech match was only a few minutes old when they found that while boarding in any form was not allowed, many other infractions were.

THE MAJOR SHARE

The Canadians, however, still got the major share of the 13 penalties, drawing 10 of them. Kevin Conway, the bonecrushing Vs defenceman, ended up with a minor and a major for bodychecking Czechoslovakia's Vaclav Pantucek and slugging Vlastimil Hajsman late in the second period.

The 200-pound Conway flattened Bajsman after the Czech skated over in an attempt to tell him he had acted badly.

After the game coach Warwick said "the whole team disapproves of Conway's bad behavior."

The Canadians took a 1-0 lead in the first period on Jack Macdonald's goal, a shoulder-high 30-foot drive.

Vlastimil Bubnik produced the tying goal early in the second period when his shot deflected off Doug Kilburn's skate. This set the stage for the thrilling final 20 minutes.

Vladimir Zabrodsky, one of the stars of the Czech victory over Canada in 1948, put the Czechs ahead early in the third period. Bill Warwick evened the count but Zabrodsky scored for the second time in less than five minutes to make it 3-2.

But the Canadians struck back as Bill Warwick converted Kilburn's pass at the 10-minute mark and the Vs then put on the characteristic drive that won them the 1954 Allan Cup championship in Canada.

Teepees Defeat Irish to Take Two-Game Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto St. Michael's College Majors are proving no pushovers in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A semi-finals but they're not winning games.

St. Catharines TeePees brushed by the Majors again Sunday, defeating them 3-2 in Toronto to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series. Teeps had squeezed out a 2-1 victory in the opener Friday.

Saturday, Toronto Marlboros edged Galt Black Hawks 3-2 in Toronto in the first game of the best-of-five quarter-finals.

St. Catharines was never behind in the tight game, watched by 7,803 fans. Hank Ciesla, the league's scoring winner this year, fired the Teeps' opener at 15:48 of the first period.

TRADED GOALS

The teams traded goals in the second and third frames with Cec Hoekstra getting both St. Catharines markers. Mike Elik scored the Majors' first goal and Viger Gendron notched the second at 19:03 of the third period.

TeePee netminder Marve Edwards was the man-of-the-hour in the final period. He had to block 15 drives in that session as the Irish put on the pressure.

St. Michael's played without four regulars, including goaltender McNamara. Defenceman John Pascht and forwards Ken Gribbons and Frank Mahovlich were also out with injuries.

Marlboros' win came after spotting Hawks a 1-0 second-period lead. Billy Harris, Bobby Pulford and Gary Collins then connected for three Toronto goals. Harris' goal came with Galt shorthanded.

Hec Lalande and Don Cherry took advantage of Marlboro penalties to score the only Galt markers.

Of 11 penalties, Marlboros were tagged for six, including the only five-minute major.

Several of 18 Women Entering Horses in Grand National Have Fine Chances of Winning

By STERLING SLAPPEY

LONDON (AP)—Next March 26 may be Ladies Day at Aintree when the Grand National is raced again.

This doesn't mean that ladies will be admitted free but several of the 18 ladies who have entered horses in the 109th steeplechase have fine chances of winning.

The top four favorites all belong to women—the first time any such thing as that ever happened at the Grand National.

Quare Times and Tudor Line, at present joint favorites, belong to Mrs. Cecily Welman and Mrs. E. Truelove. The next two horses among the short-odd entries are M'As-Tu-Vu, entered by the Queen Mother, and Goosander, entered by Mrs. Bache Hay.

The only horse among the top five not owned by a woman is the jumping veteran Irish Lizard, owned by Lord Sefton who also owns the land on which the race is run.

Irish Lizard is fifth favorite and Gigolo, owned by Mrs. Milne Greene, is bracketed with two others for sixth favorite.

Odds at the last count were 100 to 8 against Quare Times and Tudor Line; 100 to 6 against M'As-Tu-Vu and Goosander; 18 to 1 against Irish Lizard and 20 to 1 against Gigolo.

The ranks of lady owners seldom provide the winner of this four-mile, 856-yard, 30-jump steeplechase which ranks by far as the toughest "over the sticks" race in the world.

Five ladies have won but each has been a notable victory.

The greatest job of jumping the foggy course just north of Liverpool was by Golden Miller in 1934. His time was 9:20.4 and that is still the national record.

Golden Miller's owner was Miss Dorothy Paget, England's first lady of steeplechasing.

Miss Paget, whose father was Lord Queenborough, has two horses entered in the 1955 race—Mont Tremblant and Mr. Chippendale. Mont Tremblant doubtessly is the best steeplechaser in Britain but he is overweighted with 171 pounds and therefore given practically no chance of winning. Mr. Chippendale will carry only 144 pounds and with two jump victories already to his record this season, he is considered a good long-odds bet.

In 1938, Battleship—son of Man o'War—won the Grand National in the colors of another lady, Mrs. Marion Scott. Mrs. Ambrose Clark of New York saw her famed chaser Kellsboro Jack win the 1933 race.

The other two lady owners were Lady Nelson in 1915 with Ally Sloper and Mrs. Hugh Peel in 1919 with Poethlyn. Mrs. Peel's horse also won a race in 1918—a war year which was considered a substitute for the Grand National.

BLACKWELL REINSTATED

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—New York Yankees announced Sunday that pitcher Ewell Blackwell has asked for reinstatement and the request has been promptly granted. He will report to the Yankee spring training camp.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal's big three of Jean Beliveau, Maurice Richard and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion have turned the individual scoring race into a three-man affair as the National Hockey League's 1954-55 season draws to a close.

The Rocket was the most successful of the Canadiens' marksmen during the weekend, picking up three goals and an equal number of assists. The Boomer scored twice and got two assists while Beliveau managed only one assist.

Memos Drop 5-4 Overtime Game To Clinton; Finish Schedule In 4th Place

Bob Taylor Scores Winner In Dying Seconds of Tussle; Meet Cornwall in Playoffs

CLINTON (Special) — Clinton Comets wound up the regular senior "B" season here Saturday night, defeating the Belleville Memos 5-4 in a sizzling overtime battle and compelling the visitors to be satisfied with fourth place in the final standing. Whitby defeated the Cornwall Colts 4-1 to clinch third place.

Cornwall meets the Memos in a best-of-seven semi-final series with Whitby and Kingston hooking up in a similar affair.

Bob Taylor scored for Clinton with only 37 seconds of overtime play left to give the Comets its victory.

Belleville pulled its goalie, Tony Parisi, in the final 15 seconds but was unable to deadlock the hectic but interesting encounter.

The league final encounter in Clinton this season proved to be a humdinger which at times threatened to get out of the hands of the two Canadian officials Ed Emerton and Walt Garron.

Clinton went out in front when defenceman Gordie Jamieson went on the attack and relayed to Doug Houston whose pass to Alf Menchini allowed the rangy forward to hit from up close for the initial tally. The Memos got the tally back in a minute and 15 seconds when Pete Jones fired after Clinton's goalie Doug Coxon kicked out Red Doran's bid for a goal. The save put Coxon flat on his back and allowed Jones plenty of room to push in the rubber.

Jones was on the end of a fast scoring play with Arnie Dugan and Hub Macey to put the visitors into the lead. Clinton evened it when Bob Taylor and Angie Defelice teamed to take the puck in close. Taylor counted on an up close hard shot. Taylor tallied again a minute later but the officials ruled that the disc had been kicked out and refused to allow the point although the Comets protested furiously.

In the second period Defelice, Taylor and George Steele threw a rush at the Memo defence which had Taylor carrying down the left side as they approached scoring range he flicked to Steele whose relay to Defelice put the teams high scorer in for a marker from the right.

Belleville continued to fight back and after Coxon had saved three times in a row Dugan rapped the rubber behind him for the games third tie score,

The teams—

Clinton: goal, Coxon; defence, Wiebe, Jamieson, Holliday, Johnson; forwards, Menchini, Houston, Breen, Timmins, Porteous, Thomson, Taylor, Defelice, Steele.

Belleville: goal, Parisi; defence, Muckler, Wade, Wilson, Macey; forwards, Ed Duncan, Er. Duncan, DeGray, D. Jones, MacDonald, Day, Dugan, P. Jones, Doran, Bettiol.

Referees: Ed Emerton, Walt Garron.

John J. McGraw, one of baseball's most dynamic personalities, was buried at New York 21 years ago today. Americans Nearly Sweep Ski Meet Art. Tommy, Lone Canadian Winner

By PETER BUCKLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONT TREMBLANT, Que. (CP) Twelve determined and skillful young men crossed the border from the United States this weekend for the Canadian ski championships. They returned home with just about every piece of prize silver in sight.

Were it not for Ottawa - based Art Tommy's victory in the slalom, the Canadians wouldn't have a skiing title at the end of the two-day meet.

The die was cast from the time Ralph Miller carried U.S. Army colors to a whistling one minute, 50.9 second time as the first racer in the men's downhill division.

Miller himself went on to match his first-run time on his second descent for the Canadian downhill title and did well enough in the slalom—a tie for second place—to win the combined championship.

His 11 U.S. mates helped complete the domination of the events. Of the first 15 places in both downhill and slalom, 10 went to U.S. skiers. There was some consolation for Canada in the fact that two of the "American" racers—Tom Corcoran, now with the navy, and Peter Kirby of Dartmouth College, Hanover, N.H.—were born in nearby St. Jovite.

Half of the U.S. entry do their skiing for the armed forces. Besides Miller—a tall, solidly-built youth considered one of the best skiers on the continent—and Corcoran, the armed services sent John Thorpe, Jake Stewart, Dick Mitchell and Bob Skinner. In a field of more than 50, all placed within the first 20 in the downhill and the first 15 in the slalom.

Happy - go - lucky Art Tommy saved the day for Canada when he manoeuvred a tight, 53-gate course in runs of 1:07.7 and 1:09.9 to pace the field in Sunday's slalom. The Americans took the next five places.

The Canadian ladies fared much better than their male counterparts. Carlyn Kruger of Montreal won the downhill title with a run of 2:06.5 and Quebec's Monique Langlais captured the slalom with a two-run total of 2:42.0.

Pentictons Call For More Player Help

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—The Penticton Vs, riding a three-game winning streak in the world hockey championships in Europe, have again sent out a call for help.

Dr. Mel Butler, president of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association, said Sunday he received word that the Vs, Canada's representatives in the world tournament, have renewed their request for two Okanagan Senior League players.

In a telephone call from W. B. (Baldy) George, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, Dr. Butler was advised that playing-coach Grant Warwick of the Vs had again asked for defenceman Jim Middleton of Kelowna Packers and Bobby Dawes, formerly of Kelowna and now with New Westminster Royals of the professional Western Hockey League.

The request, presumably made after Penticton defeated Poland for their third straight victory, named defenceman Jack Taggart of Kamloops Elks as alternate choice for Dawes if the New Westminster player could not be reinstated as an amateur.

At New Westminster, Ken MacKenzie, owner of the Royals, said it was up to the CAHA to clear Dawes of his newly-acquired professional status and reinstate him as an amateur.

DECLINES TO SAY

MacKenzie declined to say whether he would release Davis. However, he said, "I offered them (the Vs) Dawes once and they turned him down. Now they want him to stand by . . . anyhow, we need him. . . ."

Dr. Butler said he felt MacKenzie would not release Dawes, and added Taggart was making arrangements to leave for Germany in a "few days."

Dr. Butler said Middleton will leave Vancouver by plane tonight and arrive in Duesseldorf Wednesday morning.

Penticton's first call for help came Friday after two of Warwick's players were sidelined with injuries. Later, evidently after the Vs had crushed the U.S. 12-1 in the opening game of the tourney, Warwick cancelled the order.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Tuesday is the long-awaited day when eight managers of as many second-division big league clubs will plant their spikes on their dugout steps, squint into the hot southern sun and deliver themselves as follows (with only slight variations):

"Now, don't ask me where we're going to finish, because I don't know. I never do any predicting—I wait and read what you fellows write." (polite laughter)

"I'll say this much, we're not as bad as we looked last year. This isn't a bad ball club. Give us a few breaks and we could surprise a lot of people."

"We lost a lot of close ones last year where a hit at the right time would have made all the difference.

"Nobody's got a job cinched on this club. I've told these rookies that every position is open if they've got the stuff.

"There's one thing you can be sure of—I'll have a hustling team. They'll either give me all they've got or they won't be around long.

"No, we haven't got any trades on the fire right now, but I'll trade any man on my roster if I think it'll help us. Those fellows (in the first division) won't give you anything unless they can get your ball club."

"Don't ask me who's going to win in our league. I've got enough to worry about right here without tending to other people's business. See you boys later."

WILL RETURN TO WINDSOR

OTTAWA (CP) — Bob Simpson, Ottawa Rough Rider football star, is planning to return to Windsor, Ont., to set up business there, his wife said Saturday.

If Bob decides to play for Ottawa this year, she said, he will return to Ottawa for the football season only. He said Friday that he has received offers to play for American teams.

Dutchies, 'Dogs' Lead Senior Series With Wins Over Indians, Mercs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The semi-final playoffs in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League appear to be turning into win-at-home series. All of the six games played so far have been won by the home clubs.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen trimmed Owen Sound Mercurys 4-2 Saturday to take a 2-1 lead in the best - of - seven A series. In Windsor Sunday the Bulldogs went one game up on Stratford Indians, defeating them 5-1 in the third game of the best-of-seven B series.

Windsor's victory came after only 48 minutes and 53 seconds of playing time. The game, cut short by a 6 p.m. Sunday curfew, was watched by a crowd of 5,200 fans—largest there in two seasons.

Jim Peters, the hero in Windsor's 6-5 win in the opening playoff game, led the attack again with two goals. Linemate George Gee also notched a pair, two minutes and 34 seconds apart in the second period. Bob Brown tallied the other marker.

Art Hurst scored Stratford's goal, his first in the playoffs and the only one of 2 shots that netminder Bill Harrington missed. Indians' Bruce Dale was called on to turn away 41 shots.

Twenty penalties were split evenly but Stratford was tagged for the game's only two majors and one misconduct.

Kitchener waited until 6:10 of the second period before getting its first goal. Jim Logan outguessed Bob Gillson then and repeated the trick again in the third period.

George Scholes and Gerry Theberge added the other Dutchie markers. Leo Reise and Roy Leckie counted the Mercury goals.

Gillson, who handled 44 shots in the first Kitchener game had to kick out 33 more Saturday night. Kitchener's Dennis Brodeur stopped 18.

Souchak Wins Houston Open

HOUSTON (AP)—Mike Souchak, after winning $8,500 in 11 days, headed for Baton Rouge, La., today to try to run his winter golf tour victory string to three tournaments.

The muscular Souchak used a seven-under-par 65 fourth round Sunday to pocket the tour's richest prize, $6,000 in top money in the $30,000 Houston Open. Just a week earlier he won $2,500 that went with the Texas Open title in San Antonio.

Sunday's performance enabled the 210-pound Souchak to win with a 72-hole 723—15 under par for the 7,200-yard, par 72 Memorial Park course. His 65 and early rounds of 70, 71 and 67 left him two strokes ahead of Jerry Barber, Los Angeles.

Barber, with 70-71-63-71—275, won $3,500.

Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., starting the day with a three-round total of 212, finished with a 69 and a 281 total to win $635 prize money.

Gaels Edge Blues 69-61

KINGSTON (CP)—Queen's University Golden Gaels broke a half-time 35-35 tie to down University of Toronto Blues 69-61 Saturday night in a senior intercollegiate basketball game.

The Queen's win left the Gaels in first place with 14 points, two ahead of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs who beat McMaster Saturday. The Blues are tied for third with Assumption College, two points behind Western.

Forward Paul Fedor of Queen's was high scorer for the night with 25 points. Don Fawcett of Toronto got 20.

Teams Penalized 181 Minutes

OTTAWA (CP) — Want more time for your time?

The Ottawa and District Hockey Association might have the answer to that riddle. In a Junior B League playoff game Saturday, Ottawa and Prescott managed to cram 181 minutes of penalties into 60 minutes' playing time. Took just 36 penalties to do it, including seven majors and 11 misconducts.

Score (goals): Ottawa 7, Prescott 1.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP)—Bill Disney of Pasadena, Calif., and young Jay Hasbrouck of Newburgh, N.Y., Sunday shared the senior men's title of the United States national indoor speed skating championship.

Barbara De Schepper of Detroit swept aside all opposition to repeat as senior women's champion.

Russ, Czechs Throw Punches In Ice Brawl

KREFELD, Germany (CP)—Russian and Czech players pummelled each other before 5,800 pop-eyed fans Sunday as hockey rhubarbs vanished from international politics in a scene reminiscent of any Canadian rink on a Saturday night.

Communist sports writers, only a week after they had accused Canada's Penticton Vs of "thuggery on ice" during exhibition games in Prague, watched one of Moscow Dynamos' forwards exchange kicks with a Czech defenceman, who then squared off with Vsevolod Bobrov, the Russian captain, and swapped punches vigorously.

The incident in Russia's 4-0 conquest of the Czechs in the world hockey tournament took much of the heat off the Canadian entry, a frequent target of charges of unnecessary roughness this year as in other years of world hockey competition. Russia and Canada are tied for the lead with 3-0 records.

IN FINAL PERIOD

The hostilities broke out in the final period after Ivan Tregubov, Yurii Krylov, Bobrov and Eugeny Babitch had scored all the Russian goals.

During a Dynamo attack, Russia's Viktor Shuvolov aimed a kick at Czech defenceman Jan Lidral, who kicked back. Bobrov moved in and took a swing at the Czech. When the German referees finally restored order, they sent Bobrov off for five minutes and Lidral for two.

Just a week earlier, a Prague radio commentator describing an exhibition game between the Czechs and Canadians, accused Penticton of "playing more like boxers than hockey players."

"Canadians—you may play like that in Canada but here we are in Europe."

Canadiens' Goal-Happy Trio Sets Sights on New Target; Habs Vault Wings for Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The three stars of Montreal's goal-happy Canadiens toppled one of coach Dick Irvin's scoring targets during the weekend and started blazing their way toward a new objective.

At the start of the season, Irvin said he would be happy if Jean Beliveau, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Maurice (Rocket) Richard scored 100 goals among them. Later, when the trio started to make the task look ridiculously easy, Irvin upped the target to 120 goals.

The Montreal siege guns reached the 100 mark last Thursday against Toronto and during the weekend hopped off to a fast start toward 120 with five more markers—three by Richard and two by Geoffrion.

If they keep up their present production rate, they will score 17 more before the season is out, running their total to 122.

In their weekend wake the Canadiens left Boston Bruins, humbled 4-1 in Montreal Saturday, and New York Rangers, walloped 7-1 in New York Sunday.

The weekend sweep moved Montreal two points ahead of Detroit in the battle for the National Hockey League championship. The Red Wings were held to a 1-1 tie in Toronto Saturday and edged the Black Hawks 3-2 in Chicago Sunday.

The Red Wings have only eight games left to play, however, to Montreal's 10.

Geoffrion and Richard were the whole story Saturday in Montreal's win, each scoring twice. Geoffrion's pair pushed his total for the season to 36, while Richard added another to his count Sunday to tie his teammate for the league goal-getting lead. Beliveau, held scoreless during the weekend, has 33.

One of the highlights of Saturday's mediocre game was an assist Doug Harvey drew on one of the goals, his 41st of the season, to break the old mark of 40 for a defenceman set by Babe Pratt of Toronto in 1943-44. Harvey picked up another assist Sunday to push the total to 42.

Ed Sandford scored the lone Boston goal.

The Canadiens pumped five goals third-period past a beleaguered Gump Worsley in the New York nets Sunday for their 7-1 victory. Jackie Leclair notched a pair and Floyd Curry, Butch Bouchard, Dickie Moore, Doug Harvey and Richard each got one. Aldo Guidolin scored for the Rangers.

Ted Kennedy's flip shot with less than two minutes left to play held Detroit to its 1-1 tie in Toronto Saturday. Just when the Red Wings appeared to have the game won, the Toronto captain picked up a pass from Tim Horton and flipped the puck past Terry Sawchuk for the equalizer.

Marcel Bonin was credited with the Detroit goal early in the period when his shot caromed off the stick of Toronto rightwinger Ron Stewart past Harry Lumley.

The tie moved the Maple Leafs six points ahead of fourth-place Boston.

Ted Lindsay, captain of the Wings, scored twice Sunday to give Detroit its 3-2 decision over Chicago. Lindsay opened the scoring for the Wings late in the first period but Nick Mickoski tied it for the Hawks in the second. Bonin again put Detroit ahead and Lindsay got his second midway in the final frame. Harry Watson counted Chicago's last goal.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Take seriously the warnings from a sound bridge partner. His efforts to shut you out of further information is not a stubborn act. Its purpose is recognized by the type of bid he uses.

Your opening bid with this south hand is one diamond:

♠A 9
♥A Q 6
♦A Q 8 6
♣J 7 6 5

Suppose the immediate response from your north partner is a bid of five diamonds. What does this whopper jump show you about his hand? What are you expected to do about it?

If partner had two sure tricks among tricks enough for a game in diamonds his jump would be to a bid of three diamonds; one-jump. If he had slam material without two sures he could have said four.

But he did not one-jump to three or double-jump to four. His jump was right to a game in diamonds to shut out further information. This means he is warning you to let it lay right there at five diamonds.

If he had a biddable suit of his own he could have made a bid in it. Such a simple take-out to a new suit would have forced you to bid again. He would have ample time to show his diamond support.

But he did not do this. Nor did he give you any other chance to start looking for other information, slam or otherwise. Therefore, it stands to reason that he is definitely warning you against a slam.

Thus, you may picture him with a flock of diamonds in support of your suit. Other than this and the short suits it reveals, he is telling you his hand is practically valueless.

In expert play a partner may even do this with a trick short of enough to make game in diamonds. This is to shut out opponents as well as a willingness to take a defeat, if necessary, in doing so.

Therefore, the wise thing to do after such a response is to pass. And if opponents double the five diamonds, refrain from redoubling. Partner has warned you. Don't ignore it.

Joan Fontaine Forced Out Of Broadway Play by Bursitis

By BO BTHOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For years acting veterans had been telling Joan Fontaine: "Well, my dear, even though you've won an Oscar and some Academy nominations, you really can't consider yourself an actress because you haven't done a play."

When she protested that she had done some plays here in her early days, they replied: "But that isn't the real thing. You've got to do a long run on Broadway."

Joan has just returned from playing 8½ months in "Tea and Sympathy" on Broadway. She reports, that those same people called on her backstage during the run. Being a lady, she refrained from asking them to eat their words.

SYMPATHY MINUS TEA

The actress is back in her Brentwood home and I paid her a late afternoon call. It was for something a bit stronger than tea, but I provided the sympathy for her painful ailment. She is suffering from bursitis and can't move her left arm.

The pain forced her out of the play 10 days before she was to finish.

"I was playing in the snow on Long Island with my daughters, Martita and Debbie," she explained. "I have seldom seen snow, and we had a great time. Perhaps the trouble started when I sledded with Debbie on my back. Or maybe it was the backward somersaults into the snow.

"At any rate, nothing happened until two nights later when I woke up in terrible pain. I went to the theatre for a 7:30 rehearsal before a doctor and Robert Anderson, the playwright. I thought I could get through using my right arm only. But the doctor stopped me after I had done a few minutes of rehearsing. He said that any small accident might cause permanent injury. Anderson agreed with him that I shouldn't go on."

RUGGED TREATMENT

The fact that she is grabbed vigorously twice in the play might have helped bring on the ailment. Such rugged treatment 16 times a week would be tough on anyone.

Although she came home a casualty, Joan said she thoroughly enjoyed the experience.

"You people live so leisurely out here," she said mockingly "I had forgotten what the swimming pool life was like.

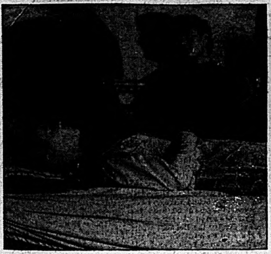
"The best thing about doing a New York play is the discipline. Not only the work onstage, but the weekly routing. Scarcely a minute is unaccounted for."

Poona Takes Santa Anita

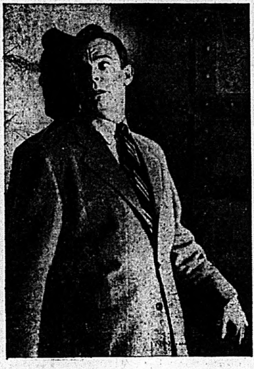
ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Poona II, the betting favorite, carried the white silks of the Helbush Farm of California to a 2½-length victory in the $140,300 Santa Anita Handicap Saturday.

The Irish four-year-old son of Tudor Minstrel came up fast in the stretch and was an easy winner over Mrs. Ethel Jacobs' Joe Jones. Llangollen Farm's Porterhouse was a close third.

Poona II, carrying only 113 pounds compared with the crushing 129 for Kentucky Derby winner Determine, collected $103,200.



AT THE McCARTHY — Romeo (Laurence Harvey) stares heartbrokenly at the prostrate form of Juliet (Susan Shentall), in this tense scene from the dramatic new Technicolor film version of the world-famous romance classic. This thrilling and moving screenplay comes to the McCarthy theatre, Monday, for daily performances at 2-6.30-8.55.



AT THE CAPITOL — Sensational man-hunt nearink end! — "Does the secret of 'The Diamond Wizard' lay behind this steel door?" asks Dennis O'Keefe, Secret Agent who has followed the trail over two continents. "The Diamond Wizard" opens tonight at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program "Twist of Fate" a story of love and crime starring Ginger Rogers. Both hits are first Belleville showings.

AT THE BELLE — Jerry Lewis makes with the clown's antics as Dean Martin and Joanne Dru supply the love interest in this scene from their new production in VistaVision, "Three Ring Circus" now playing at the Belle Theatre. It is truly a picture the whole family will enjoy.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

For Tuesday, March 1, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)— unfriendly influences for who are not ready to take roper hold of things. Follow as ell as lead, take the initiative ly when sure you are right. Ar- seldom falls into lethargy, so n't worry about temporary in- tivity.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)— day's tendencies toward persis- nce could be good for the ener- tic, smartly careful ones, not so od for the innately stubborn. tter possibilities in the later urs can help you make up lost ne.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — fficult tasks may cause irrita- n but maintain hope, cheer, d look for that silver lining — s only veiled. New understand- s possible. Care needed in ro- ance, family matters.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — eryday routine can run smooth- if you view all matters with d sense and hope. Important ities should be well planned well executed.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — rtistic pursuits, matters requir- special care, finesse and ex- rt handling highly sponsored. hat you personally accomplish ll register strongly with the ght persons.

August 23 to September 23 — Virgo) — Put your own experi- ce and know-how and that of hers to work, and don't be de- rred by non-essentials, minor stacles. Benefic aspects for ad- ncement through individual ef- t, keen judgment.

September 24 to October 23 — ibra) — If you are prepared u will find less contention, more operation than expected. Fine fluences for private gains in nd investments, well manag- business efforts.

October 24 to November 22 — orpio) — You clever, keen ing Scorpio natives may be fied with the happiness you n through loved ones and fam- , but don't bury the talents hich your community could use. ek, cooperate.

November 23 to December 22 agittarius) — Your best talents, well used, can counteract pos- le obstacles in the early hours. u can bring about desired gains holding to the golden rule, by reful research, sincere thought.

December 23 to January 21 — apricorn) — During free time ke it where honestly earned) joy art, music, good reading. ese refresh you mentally, help better your efforts. Some pleas- surprises for those of good ll.

(Aequarius) — Some gain indicated through an unexpected contact with a friend or business associate. Show interest in the good ideas of others. Go after worthwhile goals and be happy.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Exploit only your top qualities; bring out those hidden ideas; put good systems into action. Those of you engaged in painting, designing, wearing apparel or real estate are highly favored.

YOU BORN TODAY are a friend in need, a solace in sorrow. Innately loyal, true, of kindly spirit, the Piscean's fine attributes should be constantly cultivated and encouraged by good associates. Self-effacing, you sometimes do not display your fine qualities or use them efficiently. Trust in God. You can accomplish in a big way but must believe in your ability and not fear ridicule. 1955 will be splendid for originality, talent and skilled workmanship. Shun worry, melancholy. Little Benny's Notebook

I was washing myself for dinner on account of a special request from ma, and I had a suddin idea, thinking, Oh boy, I'll brush my hair so perfect they'll think I must be somebody elts.

And I wet my head exter wet and parted my hair perfect and brushed it about 5 times till I was almost exhawsted and there wasn't a single hair sticking up, and I went down and walked in the living room looking innocent and pop and ma were talking about whether it was a good idea to call up Mr. and Mrs. Hews and ask them to come over and play bridge after dinner, ma thinking it was and pop thinking it wasn't and I started to walk up and down in frunt of them wagging my head and saying, Hello pop, hello ma.

Your father and I are having a discussion, ma said.

Which they kept on doing, and I sat on the floor and started to bump along the rug in a setting position to make myself more conspikuous, and pop said, Yee gods, Benny, is that some new kind of a Sent Vitus dance or something?

No sir, but my head feels kind of diffrent, I said, and ma said, No wonder, the way you're jarring it. For land sakes settle yourself somewhere and be still, she said, and I said. Aw heck, jimminy roozalem, good night.

Are you trying to start some kind of an argewment for Peet sake? pop said, and I said, No sir, pop, but heck, gosh.

Now just for that you can leave the room and stay out till you're called for dinner, ma said.

Which I did, making myself feel partly better by mussing my hair all up while I was waiting, thinking, I bet they'll notice it now all right.

Which they did.

Kingston Ousts Belleville Minors In First Round OMHA Playdowns

The Belleville bantams, midgets and juveniles were knocked out of action in a very decisive manner in Kingston on Saturday afternoon when the Kingston teams rolled over them in the second games of a two-game, goals-to-count O.H.A. playdown series.

The bantams lost the game 18-2 and the round 24-4, the midgets bowed 12-1 on the afternoon's play and 22-5 in the series, while the juveniles dropped their game 11-2 and lost out on the round 19-2. The Limestone City lads outplayed Belleville in every phase of the game to prove the value of more coaching and considerably more ice time. They will meet the winners of the Peterborough-Oshawa series in the second round of play.

Don Dolan, of Belleville, and "Whitey" Walton of Kingston, handled all three games in the referees' role and turned in excellent jobs despite flares of temper on both sides.

BANTAMS

The winners took a 4-1 lead in the first period and after being held to a 2-0 edge in the middle session really poured the goals in during the third period, blinking the light 12 times to Belleville's once.

The Senior-Mulholland-Aylesworth line spearheaded the victor's attack, Senior getting three goals and four assists, Mulholland four and two and Aylesworth two and three. Grasse claimed a trio of goals and one assist, Shea two goals, while single markers went to Gibson, Bristlin, Myles and O'Donnell. Bernie Boulter sank Belleville's first [illegible] passes from Brenn[illegible] Donald and dent[illegible] a breakaway. [illegible] the other goal [illegible] net and flip[illegible] hander.

and Pollard and blasting the disc home at 2.15.

Thurlby, Dunlap and Stephenson each tallied a trio of goals for Kingston while Decker had two and Murphy one. All five of the Kingston goals in the third period came with Belleville one or two men short as they ran into a rash of penalties, five minors and a major within six minutes.

The line-ups:

Belleville — Langlois, Foster, MacLaurin, Mann, Coe, Pollard, Musgrove, Wright, O'Neill, Campbell, Latchford, Elliott, Wannamaker, Spafford, St. Louis.

Kingston — Nichols, Appleton, Strong, Aylesworth, Decker, Kish, Faulkner, Thurlby, Pettitt, Chamberland, Pappa, Dunlap, Murphy, Seabrook, Stephenson.

JUVENILES

Kingston went in front 5-0 in the initial period and led 7-1 at the end of the second when play became rough. Two majors and four minor penalties were handed out in the third, while plenty of rugged bodychecks were tossed around. Bill Keegan notched the initial Belleville goal when Leo St. Denis took a long drive and Keegan banged home the rebound. St. Denis' goal in the third period was a beauty, taking Garrison's pass at the blueline, breaking away from his check and pulling the Kingston goalie before flipping the disc home. Charles Kingston played well in goal for Belleville, and had little chance on the ones that beat him.

Gibson sparked the Kingston attack with four goals, while Lynch and Haggerty had two [illegible] singles went to Ro[illegible] Mackintosh [illegible]

BCI Juniors Defeat Quintes In Exhibition

By ERIC MOODY

Quinte Secondary School juniors were defeated by B.C.I. juniors in an exhibition game Friday by a score of 54-41.

Both teams showed great form offensively but Quinte showed a little more skill on the defence.

In the first quarter B.C.I. juniors seemed to have trouble with the overhanging backboards in Quinte's gym, which may have impaired their shooting. Coupled with this advantage was the effective shooting of Dickey and Walmsley, which enabled Quinte to lead at the end of the first quarter 13-11.

The second quarter started with both teams playing with renewed vigor and style. Deceptive passing and unerring shooting were displayed by both teams, who went on a scoring spree to leave the score at 26-23 with Quinte still in the lead.

Everything was fine in the second half and it looked as if Quinte had the game in the bag until Bill Dickey, the star of the game, was removed from play with an injured collarbone. BCI juniors took advantage of Quinte's setback to pick up a total of 15 points. The Quinte juniors were [illegible] discouraged and fou[illegible] At the end [illegible] they were [illegible]

Mustangs Swamp Marauders 102-42

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—University of Western Ontario Mustangs walked all over McMaster Marauders 102-42 in a senior intercollegiate basketball game Saturday night and piled up a new scoring mark in the process.

Western's score capped its previous high mark of 97, made against McGill a few years ago, and is believed to be a senior intercollegiate record.

Lanky Ray Monnot, Western's star centre who got both the 100th and 102nd points, topped the scoring parade along with Mustang forward Chris Ellis. Each hit for 25.

Minor Hockey

Three squirt and two pee wee playoff games were played at the Arena on Sat rday morning as well as one exhibition game in the pee wee division.

The pee wee fixtures saw the Canadiens down the Red Wings 3-1 and win their series two games to one with one tied while the Black Hawks blanked the Rangers 3-0 in the first game of their best-of-three semi-finals. The Maple Leafs edged the Bruins 4-3 in an exhibition tilt.

The Maple Leafs tied their series with the Canadiens at one game each by edging them 1-0 in the squirt games while the Bruins downed the Red Wings 1-0 to capture their series in two straight games. The Rangers and Black Hawks battled to their second tie in as many games, this time by a 2-2 score.

Trent Valley Hockey League

MARMORA — Marmora returned to winning form in the T.V.L. playoffs on Friday night as they defeated Stirling here by the score of 5-3. Good play by the two goalies kept the score down.

Brown opened the scoring for Marmora at 4.39 in the first period assisted by Mantle and Darrah and three minutes later again beat Carr getting assists this time from Mantle and Sweet.

Stirling then became effective, Whelan finding the net on Hurst's assist and toward the end of the period again tallying through Wannamaker assisted by Foster.

Only one goal was scored in the second as Smith assisted by Moloney and Leonard placed the puck past Carr.

The third period had just begun as Maynes, the home centre, scored on Darrah's and Leonard's assists. Paranuik scored five minutes later with Doyle assisting. With a mere second to go Mason beat Killian on Mason's pass. The game was clean and was viewed by about two hundred spectators.

Teams—

Stirling — goal, Carr; defence, Mason, Tanner; centre, D. Bastedo; wings, Foster, Wannamaker; alternates: Hurst, Palmer, B. Bastedo, Wright, Stapley, McCrory, Whelan, McMurray.

Marmora — goal, Killian; defence, Leonard, Nayler; centre, Maynes; wings, Lavender, K. Trumble; alternates — Doyle, Darrah, Paranuik, Brown, Mantle, Smith, C. Trumble, Moloney, Sweet.

Referees — P. M. McIntosh, W. Mulholland.

Upwards of 250,000 Persons Will Vanish in U.S. This Year

By ROGER D. GREENE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Eben Aldrich, a wealthy and distinguished physician, nodded absently to friends as he walked slowly along a street in Cambridge, Mass.

Then he vanished without a trace, that grey October day in 1934.

Investigation disclosed no motive. There was no evidence of foul play. The doctor, a bachelor, was widely respected. He had committed no wrong.

But there were indications he knew where he was going—and that he went voluntarily. He never returned.

Why do people disappear?

Authorities estimate that upwards of 250,000 persons will vanish in the U. S. this year. Some will be gone only a few days, then sheepishly return to the fold. Others will disappear as completely as if they had been snatched up by a flying saucer from Mars.

CASE HAD SEQUEL

Here, as told by detective John Aievoli of the New York missing persons bureau, is the sequel to the disappearance of Dr. Aldrich:

On Aug. 12, 1935, an emaciated bum was found dying in a Bowery flophouse in New York. Nobody knew who he was, except that he had registered as James Harrigan, no fixed abode.

At the morgue, Aelvoli made a routine check and took photographs of the body. There were no papers, no laundry marks, no fingerprint records to match the dead man's prints. The unclaimed body was buried in potter's field.

But there was something that puzzled Aievoli, something that nagged at his mind. Two years later, Aievoli got out the pictures of Harrigan and studied them again. Suddenly he knew what it was that had rung a faint bell . . . something about a Boston physician who had vanished in 1934 . . . an alarm describing the missing man . . . an item that the doctor had lost his right ear as a result of x-ray experiments. . . .

As he gazed at the photos of James Harrigan, skid road bum, Aievoli knew he had found the long-lost Dr. Aldrich.

"Later, in the basement of the Bowery flophouse, we found an old trunk belonging to Harrigan," Aievoli said in an interview. 'It was crammed with fine clothes—and stocks, bonds and bank books showing he was worth more than $250,000. They were all in the name of Dr. Eben Aldrich.

"Why he disappeared from his Cambridge home, changed his name and went to live in the Bowery, nobody knows."

Why do people disappear?

"Most of us, at one time or another, at least toy with the idea of breaking away," says Dr. Winfred Overholser, Washington psychiatrist. "It's a form of escapism.

"Many are not satisfied with our lives or our personalities as we have developed them. We'd like to try it all over again."

Authorities quickly drop a case when they find it is a voluntary disappearance with no crime involved. It is not a crime in itself to vanish.

But insurance company investigators are certain to make a long, hard search if insurance is involved in a disappearance case.

TOSCANINI TO VISIT SON

MILAN, Italy (Reuters)—Arturo Toscanini Sunday night boarded a plane for New York, to be at the bedside of his sick son, Walter. The famed conductor, who will be 88 next month, came back to Milan in retirement last June, two months after he conducted his last public concert at Carnegie Hall.

Chou Is Willing To Talk With U.S. About Flyers

RANGOON (AP) — Burmese Premier U Nu announced today that Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai is willing to receive an unofficial U. S. mission to discuss the case of imprisoned American airmen and tension between the United States and Peiping.

Nu told reporters he had conveyed Chou's approval of such a conference to U. S. State Secretary Dulles. The Burmese premier declined to discuss Dulles' reaction.

U Nu declined to say more about the proposal today, explaining: "I do not think I should discuss this."

Following Peiping's announcement that the 13 Americans had been sentenced to jail terms on spy charges, the UN General Assembly at U. S. request directed Secretary-Genera, Dag Hammarskjold to try to get them released. Hammarskjold has been working on the case through diplomatic channels.
